Three Small Boys Perish As Flames Destroy Flimsy Frame Ottawa House

Mother Injured In Second-Storey Leap
After Futile Rescue Effort,
Flames Bar Two Men Trying To Help

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—(CP)—Three small boys lost their lives today in an early-morning fire in a flimsy frame house in Ottawa's south-end Glebe district. Mrs. Rita Lavigne, their mother leaped from a second-storey window of the house after a futile attempt to save them. The dead, all brothers, are: Leonard Lavigne, aged seven months; Philip Lavigne, two, and Richard Lavigne, three.

Will Exhume Mrs. Guay's Body Police Announce

QUEBEC, Sept. 29.—(CP)—Capt. J. Alphonse Matte, of the Provincial Police, announced today that the body of Mrs. Albert Guay, one of the 23 victims in the Quebec air disaster Sept. 9, will be exhumed for post-mortem examination.

Capt. Matte said he received the exhumation orders from Noel Dorion, Crown Prosecutor in the Crown's case against Mrs. Guay's husband. The young jeweller is charged with murdering his 28-year-old wife by arranging for a time-bomb to be placed aboard the aircraft, sending her and 22 other victims to destruction.

The latest announcement came as Provincial Police were working on the theory that two "dupes" were used in making the home-made bomb which caused the air disaster.

Police theorized that the "dupes" were Mrs. Arthur Pitre, 41-year-old friend of Guay, and her 47-year-old paralyzed brother, Genereux Pitre.

Pitre, whose name means "generous" in English, was said by a high police official to have "unknowingly" made "a tiny technical part" for the bomb.

Both Rust and his 41-year-old sister are acquaintances of J. Albert Guay, 32, accused of murdering his wife by having a bomb placed aboard the Canadian Pacific Airlines plane that crashed into the side of a small mountain at Sault au Cochon.

Tuesday Mrs. Pitre was arraigned on a charge of attempted suicide. However, no other charges have been laid against her.

Blast Wrecks Coal Tiptple

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Sept. 29.—(AP)—A coal company tiptple was blown up today in a fresh outbreak of violence in Pennsylvania's soft coal fields.

Robert W. Smith, president of the Juncatale Coal Company at Grass Field, Pa., said the dynamite blast damaged generators and motors in the building, ripped off the roof tore off part of one side. Smith said the tiptple was valued at $10,000 and that it'll take a week before he can resume operations.

He ordered his trip mining operations to shut down yesterday after, Smith said, United Mine Workers pickets attacked his non-union trucks.

Mackenzie House To Become Museum

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP)—The home of William Lyon Mackenzie, leader of the short-lived 1837 rebellion in Upper Canada, is being turned into a historical museum.

Former Prime Minister Mackenzie King, grandson of Mackenzie, has sent word that he hopes to attend the formal opening of the museum in November. Mackenzie, first Mayor of Toronto, lived from 1838 until 1861 in the three-storey house on Bond Street in central Toronto. The street was named for Sir Francis Bond Head, Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada, who offered a reward of $1,000 for Mackenzie's capture following the rebellion.

Meteorite Hits Hotel

BEDDGELERT, Caernarvonshire, Wales, Sept. 29.—(CP)—A five-pound, six-inch sphere of fused metal and stone, believed to be a meteorite, wrecked the lounge of the Prince Llewellyn Hotel here. Guests were uninjured but the sphere tore a hole through the room's ceiling and splintered its heavy wooden floor.

Passenger Says Holocaust A Flash Fire

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—(CP)—Earl Roettger, a survivor of the cruise-ship Noronic disaster, today described to a Federal inquiry the holocaust as a flash type of fire during which he heard no alarms.

Roettger, who fled in his pyjamas and a bed-sheet down a jacob's ladder from the burning ship, said he was conscious all the while of flashes of fire from lacquer, varnish or paint.

Earlier, two employees of the Marine Inspection Service of the Federal Transport Department gave evidence on the ship's fire protection facilities.

One witness said the Noronic had an exemption from a regulation calling for fire-resistant bulkheads.

A marine inspector who said all fire equipment was on the ship's main deck during the Noronic's last inspection was told by the Court for all he knew, the appliances might never have been returned to their proper places.

John James Moffat of Toronto, supervisor of Marine Inspection, said the Noronic possibly obtained exemption from fire-resistant bulkheads required under regulations because the change would have affected her stability.

The exemption applied to inland passenger ships whose keel was laid before Aug. 1936. The Noronic was built 36 years ago. The witness said he last saw the Noronic in 1948, and had no knowledge of life saving apparatus actually on the ship in 1949.

Mr. Justice Kellock observed the court then had better obtain that information from the inspector who last inspected the ship—April 23 last—rather than from the witness who could answer questions only from documents.

2-Day Inspection

W. P. Craig, marine inspector for the transport department since 1927, said his inspection of the Noronic last April took two days.

He said there were no requirements as to water pumps of which there were three main fire pumps. Tests had shown that all pumps, operating together could maintain the pressure required by regulations.

The inspector said the Noronic did not qualify under a regulation requiring that when more than two pumps are installed, they may not be fitted in the same place. He had reported this to the marine inspection supervisor, the witness said.

Craig said he saw all fire extinguishers on the main deck where they had been gathered to be recharged and labelled.

Buying Saves Dominion From Crisis

Declares Canada-U.S. Recognizing Britain's Difficulties

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(CP)—Health Minister Aneurin Bevan said today that if Britain stopped buying Canadian products the United Kingdom's dollar crisis "would become a Canadian financial crisis."

First government speaker on the final day of the three-day devaluation debate in the House of Commons, Bevan said:

"If it be a crime in the British government to fail to balance its dollar purchases by its dollar sales, then what about Canada? 'Canada has never done it, either under a Liberal or a Conservative administration.'"

Bevan recalled that at one time Canada had a deficit toward the United States of $488,000,000 and a surplus due the United Kingdom of $401,000,000. He continued:

"If we did—and I am not suggesting we should, and if we could—but we cannot—if we were able to refrain from buying those exports from Canada, what is a British financial crisis would become a Canadian financial crisis."

"But nobody suggests we should do so..."

Effects Of War

Bevan claimed Canada and the United States recognize that Britain's economic difficulties are not due to defects in the Labor Government's administration but, on the contrary, they see they are the effects of two world wars and that British recovery so far has been magnificent.

The Health Minister said efforts to cut down Britain's dependence on the western hemisphere have been in progress since 1945.

Bevan launched a fierce attack on Winston Churchill, leader of the Conservative opposition. He described statements by Churchill as "a bloated bladder of lies" and called on the opposition leader to retire from public life "if he cannot help misrepresenting the situation in Britain."

"It would be better for him not to tarnish his reputation any further," Bevan declared.

Churchill sat impassively, his arms folded, during the denunciation.

Doing Damage

Saying that Britain has advanced farther on the road to recovery than any other country in Europe, Bevan asked if Churchill did not realize the damage he was doing to the country.

"How does it come about that a man who has enjoyed such a high place in the affections of the British people should, for party purpose, distort the facts of British recovery?" he demanded.

"I welcome this opportunity of pricking the bloated bladder of lies with the point of truth," Bevan continued.

Amid loud government cheers, Bevan made these points:

Put Ex-Convict Back In Jail

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 29 (AP)—A Canadian ex-convict is in jail and another criminal is wanted by southern United States authorities delving into counterfeiting, a killing and a thwarted bank stick-up.

A dapperly-dressed, 52-year-old man booked as Taylor Little, of Toronto, is held here on a charge of possessing counterfeit money. He was seized outside a Nashville bank Monday with three loaded pistols and $640 in bogus $10 bills.

Police Inspector Willard Jett said Little served 12 years in a Canadian prison for assault with a pistol with intent to kill a Toronto detective.

A second Canadian, Donald (Mickey) McDonald, an escapee from Kingston penitentiary, was reported seen here simultaneously with Little's appearance.

McDonald and another man, also sought, were said to have been "casing" the bank where Little was arrested. Police said Little's arrest foiled a planned stickup.

Say $62,000,000 Objective In Savings Drive

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—Ontario will shoot for $62,000,000 in payroll savings in the fourth series of Canada Savings Bonds which go on sale Oct. 17.

That objective was set Wednesday by J. H. Baskerville, Ontario regional director of payroll savings, in response to a challenge by Donald Gordon, deputy governor of the Bank of Canada, in Toronto to set the 1949 campaign in motion.

Last year, Ontario's payroll savings organizers sold more than half the $118,000,000 of savings bonds which were purchased by payroll deductions. More than 10 of these organizers and supervisors heard Mr. Gordon describe their task as one of the greatest national importance.

In the past three years, 3,000,000 individual purchasers have taken up $1,080,000,000 of Canada Savings Bonds, or the equivalent of all issues of the Government of Canada sold to the public in the eight years preceding the war.

Individual Canadians, Mr. Gordon said, now hold 35 per cent of Canada's funded debt.

The growing success of bond sales he said, is proof positive that the majority of workers on payrolls want to save. Savings of such magnitude were important to the Canadian economy, he said, but he felt the intangible value of such savings to the individual was as important.

May Affect Millions

The pact may well affect millions of workers in the country's other heavy industry—particularly the steel workers.

Ford vice-president John S. Bugas said his firm's pension agreement was based on the expenditure of the 10-cent-an-hour limit recommended by a presidential fact-finding board in the steel industry.

Bugas estimated his company eventually would be paying $20,000,000 a year for pensions. He based "his estimate on a figure of 84 cents an hour" worker—the top the company "pays it can spend for pensions since it already contributes 1 1/2 cents for an insurance plan."

60 MPH Dash Helps
Save Baby's Life

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 29.—(CP)—A 60-mile-an-hour dash from Woodstock to London Wednesday night appeared to have ended in success when a three-day-old, seriously ill Woodstock baby was reported today to be "resting comfortably" after a blood transfusion in War Memorial Children's Hospital.

The baby boy, Michael, was rushed to London by his father, Charles Anderson, of R.R. 7, Woodstock.

At the intersection of Dundas and Adelaide Streets, Mr. Anderson met Police Constable James Lindsay and, since he did not know the location of the hospital, appealed to the constable for help.

Constable Lindsay bundled the father and baby into his cruiser and rushed them to the hospital.

Bogart In Court

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Humphrey Bogart's two-fisted defence of a toy panda from the attack of two pretty girls at El Morocco night club will get a court airing tomorrow. The movie he-man early today at his hotel was served with a summons charging assault — "too damned early" in his opinion.

Summons, calling for Bogart's appearance in court tomorrow, was obtained by Miss Robin Roberts, 23-year-old model.

Cabinet Gives Hospital Bylaw Hoist

Revision Hospital Act Given As Reason For Refusing Bylaw

Peterborough's controversial By-Law 59 of the Civic Hospital has been given an indefinite hoist, the Examiner was informed today. The bylaw made it necessary for a qualified surgeon to be in attendance when all major operations were performed.

According to the information relayed through the Hon. Harold R. Scott to Dr. Raymond Scott, the deputy minister of health stated the Hospital Act for Ontario is being revised; and until this revision is completed there will be no other hospital by-laws approved.

It was approved by the Medical and Surgical Committee of the Board of Governors and received the approval also of a group which signed its correspondence as the General Practitioners' Section of the Ontario Medical Association.

With the confirmation of these two groups the special fact-finding committee set up by the Board recommended last week that the Board enforce the by-law as of Oct. 1.

And the Board passed the recommendation at a special meeting last Thursday by a vote of six to three.

Takes Exception

Dr. Scott today took exception to the OMA body calling itself a GP section.

"Apparently the city council and the Board of Governors were misled by the fact a small group of doctors meeting in Toronto at themselves GPs—but in fact some of them were certified surgeons—had approved of these new by-laws of the Civic Hospital."

Continued Dr. Scott: "The president of the OMA, Dr. Johnston, of Lucknow, has since admitted that he had not realized, nor had his executive, that there was such strong opposition to these by-laws as presently constituted."

Completely Disregarded

"In this regard all the amendments which the medical staff had approved of in March of this year were completely disregarded by the Board of Governors," Dr. Scott said. "These had also been approved by the Medical and Surgical Advisory Committee to whom the Board of Governors looks for advice on medical matters."

By-Law 59, in brief, would require a certified surgeon to be CABINET GIVES

Release Walters
As Red Manager

CINCINNATI, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Bucky Walters was released today as manager of the Cincinnati Reds. Warren Giles, general manager, said no successor has been chosen to succeed him.

Walters, for many years a star pitcher for the Cincinnati Club, became manager Aug. 6, 1948. He replaced Johnny Neun while the club was in Brooklyn and in a bad slump.

Giles said Walters will be retained in the Cincinnati organization, but did not disclose what kind of work he will do.

The Reds are in seventh place in National League standings.

Western Commanders
Cut Off Berlin Talks

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The West's commanders Wednesday broke off the talks with Russia ordered last June by the four-power foreign ministers in an effort to restore divided Berlin to normal life.

The British, United States and French commandants charged that Russia is failing to carry out the settlement that ended the 38-day strike of non-Communist railway workers June 28.

The three Western commandants called a meeting on the situation Wednesday. Maj.-Gen. Alexander Kotikov, the Soviet commandant, failed to attend.

100 Deputy Sheriffs Hurl Gas Bombs At Strikers

BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 29.—(AP)—On hundred deputy sheriffs today hurled tear gas bombs to break up a rock-throwing crowd of striking United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) after non-strikers tried to pass an all-woman picket line before the Bell Aircraft plant near here.

The strikers dispersed into the fields across from the plant's main gate and down the highway just before 10 a.m. EDT.

It was the first instance of the use of tear gas in the strike-torn area, now in its 18th week.

The deputies had ranged themselves across the highway to stop the crowd of nearly 200 demonstrators from reaching a cavalcade of company buses and workers' automobiles turning in at the gate.

The incident followed by about 10 minutes a renewed outbreak of violence when three non-strikers climbed off a bus at the same gate and attempted to cross the all-woman picket line.

The non-strikers were set upon by the women pickets, wielding cardboard placards fastened to light sticks. Club-wielding deputies, who numbered better than 100 around the gate, rushed to break up the melee.

Many of the strikers and union supporters standing across the road from the plant entered the battle. As the fight subsided, several persons were led away by deputies.

The new outbreak followed a company announcement that it has turned thumbs down on a scheduled new mediation meeting.

Finance Minister Abbott, who Wednesday tabled further supplementary estimates totalling $70,521,100, will ask the members to vote the government enough money to meet bills until the budget and the estimates of expenditure for the 1949-50 fiscal year are passed.

The last favorable balance of payment enjoyed by Britain was in 1935: "We inherited a bankrupt nation."

Semi-Starvation

"Semi-starvation" of the British people with 2,000,000 unemployed has masked the real financial condition of the country under Conservative governments. The devaluation debate is scheduled to wind up tonight with Prime Minister Attlee asking for a vote of confidence in the Labor government.

That vote was denied Wednesday night by the predominantly Conservative House of Lords where the government was defeated, 93 to 24. But Labor whips in the Lower House foresaw no possibility of an upset by the Commons despite the fighting speech yesterday by Winston Churchill, who roundly attacked the government's economic policies.

The Conservative party leader left no doubt that he is convinced the time is "due and overdue" for a new government to take over and try to repair the damage caused by the "last four lavish years" of labor mismanagement.

Churchill First

The Commons was to vote first on Churchill's "no confidence" motion against the government for failing to curb Britain's economic crisis. Then the Commons will vote on the government motion asking approval of its devaluation action as one short-term answer to the financial crisis.

A "no-confidence" vote against the government would mean that it would be forced to call a general election immediately instead of during the next nine months when its five-year term expires.

Such a possibility seemed unlikely. Labor members, even the government's left-wing critics, seemed to be solidly behind the prime minister. Labor has 393 of the 640 seats in the Commons. Before the voting, expected about 5 p.m. EDT, there will be a day of long debate.

Halt Steel Imports From U.S. October 1

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—(CP)—Canada's latest dollar-saving move—restriction of some United States steel imports—probably will go almost unnoticed by the average Canadian.

That was the opinion expressed by trade department spokesmen following announcement Wednesday night that import controls on certain categories of iron and steel will be tightened effective Oct. 1.

The trade department announced that such items as plates, bars, rods, forgings and pig iron, all now in plentiful supply in Canada, will be placed on a quota basis. Items still in short supply such as enamel sheeting still will be allowed in freely. Under a quota basis, importers must obtain permits before the items will be allowed across the border.

This means the spokesman said, that Canadian industries using iron and steel in their manufacturing products now will buy their supplies from Canadian steel mills, rather than U.S. mills.

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM C. ELLIOTT

The sudden death occurred today in a Peterborough hospital of William Charles Elliott, 756 Duffus St. Mr. Elliott was 75 years old and had spent his entire life in Peterborough. His wife, the former Mary Howson, died in 1936. He was the son of the late Thomas and Margaret Elliott. Mr. Elliott leaves one daughter, Mrs. E. W. Northey (Dorothy) of Peterborough; three sisters and one brother, Mrs. Mary Holman and Mrs. William Howden, both of Toronto and Mrs. Louise Besser of Detroit, and Albert of Peterborough.

Major Cyril Everitt of the Salvation Army will conduct a service at the Comstock Funeral Home Saturday at 2 p.m.

JOHN MONK

John Monks, 75, of 30 Orpington Rd. died in hospital on Wednesday following a lengthy illness. He was born in Manchester, England, son of the late John Monks and Mary Ann Small, and came from there to Peterborough 39 years ago.

He leaves his wife, the former Alice Lee, and one son, E. N. Monks, and six grandchildren, all of Peterborough. Mr. Monks was employed as a clerk at the CGE and retired from this work 16 years ago.

A veteran of World War I, he went overseas with the 93rd Battalion, and served two years. He was a member of St. James' United Church.

Funeral service will be held on Saturday at 3 p.m. at the Nisbett Funeral Home. The Rev. F. W. Craik, assisted by the Rev. E. W. Rowland, of Grace United Church, will officiate. Burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

UNDERGOING OPERATION

Friends of Tom Brown, 375 Downie St., were concerned today about the report that he was undergoing an operation in Toronto.

Murray Goes Ahead With Steel Strike

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Determined Philip Murray today went ahead with his plans to flash the strike signal to 500,000 of his CIO United Steelworkers.

He gave no sign of giving up his fight to force the United States steel industry to pay the entire cost of a pension-insurance program.

Government mediators stood by in Pittsburgh and 44 other key negotiating points—to help avert the strike set for tomorrow night. Murray had nothing but scorn for a steel offer of 10-cent-an-hour an employee to help finance pensions and insurance for the men who make steel.

"You actually did not see them in the boiler or engine room?" he was asked.

The witness told the commissioner he actually had not seen the extinguishers in their mapped out places although he had seen the brackets to hold them.

Had 43 Hydrants

Mr. Craig said he counted 43 hydrants on the ship with hose lengths for each and "many spares."

The witnesses said extinguishers were turned upside down to test whether they were full. From a bracket, there was no way to tell whether an extinguisher had been used.

The 69-year-old inspector said there were a lot more fire buckets than were required. "What did the board require?" asked the commissioner. "I don't know."

"Then why make a statement like that?"

To the commissioners question whether Craig on his inspection had seen, the buckets filled with water as required, the witness replied no.

"I don't want you to feel I am criticizing," said Mr. Justice Kellock. "I just want to get the facts."

Never Tested Alarm

The witness said he never tested the Claxon Alarm System, and had never heard of it on the ship. He saw no instructions anywhere directing people where to go in the event of fire, Mr. Craig said.

Craig said he was not prepared to say whether water hose from a hydrant on "D" deck could reach the linen closet on that deck.

He said the Noronic had 2,150 feet of two inch hose and 850 feet of one inch hose. On his inspection he found pinholes in three lengths and ordered them out.

Roettger was the next witness, accepting an offer from commission counsel J. W. Pickup, Toronto, to testify.

Roettger said his wife was still in hospital, that two members of his party were lost, two others escaped.

He said his party returned to the ship about 11:45 p.m., Sept. 16 after window shopping uptown. "We danced the last dance... then went for a stroll... and he-tired about 12:30 a.m., ship's time," the witness said.

Smell Smoke

Roettger said he was awakened by his wife who smelled smoke. She told him there was a fire and she was leaving.

He said he heard no alarm before his wife opened the door. She fled in night attire down the main stairway.

Roettger said that as he reached for clothing, a sheet of flame swept into the room and he dropped to the floor. He fell over a settee, in getting out intending to follow the promenade deck to the main stairway.

Flash Fire

He described the fire as a flash fire, sweeping through lacquer varnish or paint on the woodwork.

"I was conscious of flashes of fire," he said.

The flames filled the corridor, and seemed to catch up to his wife who was ahead of him.

The witness said on reaching deck he turned toward the ship's bow, and came upon a Jacob's ladder he had noticed earlier on the cruise.

He said he still had not heard an alarm; he saw nor heard no people.

As he struggled with the Jacob's ladder, another couple came up to him from the bow—a Mr. and Mrs. C. Williams and their daughter.

By the time Williams dropped the ladder more people gathered. Mrs. Williams went down first, followed by "the other people and then Williams and myself."

Blocked By Truck

He said his way from the dock to the street was blocked by the arrival of the first fire truck. He said he saw one hose being played on the fire from the dock.

Roettger said he saw no hose in operation anywhere on the ship although he looked for them. At that time the fire was confined to "C" deck.

He said about 1:45 a.m., he heard a ship's whistle "tagged down"—blowing continuously but he could not say whether it was the Noronic or SS Kingston.

Roettger was still testifying when the court adjourned until 2:15 p.m. EDT.

present at every major surgical operation. Those not certified might perform major operations if the doctor with full operating room privileges is attending.

Passed nine months ago, the by-law had not yet been enforced, but the Board of Governors on Thursday voted to do so as of Oct. 1.

The Examiner was told today that 80 per cent of the medical staff is opposed to the by-law as it now stands.

Unable to have their view accepted by the Medical and Surgical Advisory Committee or the Board of Governors the dissenting medical staff sent a telegram to the Hon. Harold Scott stating their case.

Just how far this lobby was successful is not known. The revising of the Hospital Act was stated by the Deputy Minister Dr. John Phair as the reason for the hoist.

Caught In The Act Says Amazed Officer

Backing into another car is bad enough, but to do it while a police officer is watching...

Constable H. R. Mesley reported he was driving his car north on Water St. Wednesday when he saw a car driven by Mike Minicola, 438 Driscoll Terrace, back across the street just south of Charlotte St. and strike a parked car owned by Erwin Payne, Norwood.

He said Minicola then drove away, but he caught up to him and advised him to report the accident to police. Minicola told police there was no damage to the car, but investigation showed the left front door and window were damaged.

Russians Scrap Yugoslav Treaty

LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Soviet Russia scrapped her friendship treaty with Yugoslavia today, declaring that Premier Marshal Tito's regime has lined up with "foreign imperialist circles."

The decision ending the alliance signed in 1945, was disclosed in a Soviet note to Yugoslavia. It was broadcast by Moscow radio.

The note declared the Budapest treason trial of former Hungarian Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk, sentenced to death Saturday, disclosed Yugoslavia had been carrying on hostile activity against the Soviet Union.

Rajk was accused specifically of plotting with Yugoslav and American agents to overthrow the Moscow-backed Communist government in Hungary. Marshal Tito denounced the trial as a Russian propaganda move aimed at weakening his Yugoslav regime. The Russian action was the sharpest diplomatic slap at Yugoslavia since the Moscow-led Cominform (Communist International Information Bureau) expelled the Yugoslavs in June, 1948.

Since that time Russia and her eastern European satellites have clamped an economic boycott on Yugoslavia. Marshal Tito Tuesday accused Russia of rattling the sabre and digging trenches in the satellite countries along the Yugoslav border in an attempt to intimidate his country.

Big Dog Badly Hurt Collides With Truck

A St. Bernard dog owned by Wallace Brailey of Otonabee, was badly injured early today when it collided with a truck on Highway 7, four miles west of Indian River.

The impact caused about $45 damage to the truck driven by Jack Stephens of Trent River. It includes slight damage to the grill, the front fender and bumper.

Later the St. Bernard was taken to a veterinarian for treatment. Provincial Constable D. W. Coffey investigated.

Budget In October

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—(CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, Wednesday asked Finance Minister Abbott in the Commons when the Budget will be reintroduced. Mr. Abbott said he hoped it would be not later than the middle of October.

Jury Acquits Circus Man Accused Of Rape

COBourg, Sept. 29 (ENS)—The jury in the assize court rape case Wednesday afternoon found Robert Bröome, South Carolina circus man, not guilty of rape. On the second count, that of carnally knowing a girl between the ages of 14 and 16, the jury also found him not guilty. The jury went out at 4:40 p.m. and returned at 6:05 p.m. The case was tried before Judge J. K. MacKay with Harry Deyman acting for the Crown and Harvey Brent for the accused.

The Crown alleged that the offense took place in a circus sleeping van on August 21, around two in the morning. The circus had been in Cobourg that day and the girl in question had attended it with her sister, staying for the evening show where she met some of the circus employers. She went in the van with one of the employees because it was cold and while there her companion went out and another employee assaulted her, she said.

Mr. Justice MacKay said he was in accord with the jury's verdict when he discharged the 22-year-old accused.

"You have heard the verdict finding you not guilty on both counts. You come from another country and you must, if you think at all, be deeply impressed by the impartiality and thoroughness of these courts of justice. I cannot find in my heart or soul any justification for any disagreement with the verdict but enough has fallen from your own lips to convince them and me that you have allowed yourself a degree of latitude in your life without justification or excuse."

"The jury has seen fit to give you the saving benefit of a reasonable doubt and you are now free. I hope that for you, coming from that great and mighty country of which you are a native, this case will be a lesson to the good and that your future will be strengthened and buttressed, rather than smeared by this experience. The Crown counsel has been very fair and impartial in order that the very pith and substance of justice should be done." His Lordship said.

Bradley vs. Bruin, an automobile accident damage action, was moved to a later court due to the fact that one of the witnesses was involved in an accident this week. The jury was chosen late Wednesday afternoon in the Lever vs. George slander action, and adjourned until today.

Butter-and-Egg Man Works For Emperor

MONTREAL, Sept. 29 (CP)—A one-time butter-and-egg man from Cornwall, R. H. Fawcett, arrived here Tuesday on three months leave.

Fawcett, an RCAF veteran sold his dairy produce business two years ago to go to work for Emperor Haile Selassie.

"The Emperor wanted a 'neutral' to run his airports, so I was offered the job," Fawcett said. "I also piloted the Emperor's personal plane on many occasions."

Now he has the title of adviser to the director of civil aviation, Imperial Ethiopian Civil Aviation Department.

Fawcett brought his wife, his two-year-old daughter, and his nine-year-old son back on the holiday with him.

Seek Replacement Of Justice In Inquiry

REGINA, Sept. 29 (CP)—The Regina executive of the CCF will seek the replacement of Chief Justice J. T. Brown of the Saskatchewan Court of King's Bench as commissioner investigating the conduct of the federal election in Regina city.

Howard Mitchell, president of the executive made the announcement Tuesday and said he also will ask that H. E. Sampson of Regina, counsel for the commissioner, be replaced.

A letter will be sent to chief electoral officer Jules Castonguay in Ottawa requesting the changes, Mr. Mitchell said.

Mr. Castonguay, on Sept. 15 announced Chief Justice Brown's appointment as commissioner to inquire into the counting of ballots in the constituency. Dr. E. A. McCusker, Liberal, was declared elected with a plurality of 162 votes after a recount conducted by Judge B. D. Hogarth.

Pioneer Bush Pilot Matt Berry Safe

EDMONTON, Sept. 29 (CP)—Canada's vast northern wilderness yielded information Tuesday on two week-end plane flights — one of which resulted in the death of two men and another that aroused anxiety for a pioneer bush pilot before he was found safe.

Killed Saturday in a crash near Great Slave Lake, 600 miles north of Edmonton, were pilot A. O. Finsen of Edmonton and John Edward Johnson of Calgary, a passenger in his single-engine Fairchild which sank in a small lake after losing its pontoons on take-off.

Matt Berry, 61-year-old pioneer northern aviator and 1937 McKee trophy winner, was found safe at Yellowknife, N.W.T., Tuesday after not being heard from since Sunday.

Claims Britain's Economic System Not Improved Under Labor Gov't

The Marquess of Salisbury, Conservative leader in the British House of Lords, is a tall and rangy individual, and has a ready sense of humor and a sporting attitude to political opponents.

Yesterday, Lord Salisbury chatted with reporters in the home of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, near Port Hope. While in London Winston Churchill was raging against Sir Stafford Cripps and the British Labor Government, Lord Salisbury, whose disagreement with the Labor Government's policies is just as great, confined himself to remarks of restrained criticism.

Lord Salisbury is here to deliver this year's Falconer lecture at the University of Toronto. The lecture, entitled Liberty and Authority, will be delivered at Convocation Hall on Oct. 4 and Oct. 5 at 8:30 p.m.

In his references to the British Labor Government, Lord Salisbury said he did not think that the government's policies had done anything to improve Britain's position. He felt a Conservative government would have acted much quicker and with greater efficiency to improve the country's economic situation. As for Sir Stafford, Lord Salisbury said that while he did not agree with Chancellor of the Exchequer, he felt that Sir Stafford had shown courage in putting forward his point of view.

Not Solve Crisis
Lord Salisbury hardly fits the popular concept of a British lord. Instead of the commonly accepted picture of austere dignity, Lord Salisbury is the embodiment of friendliness that begins with the first warm handshake.

His dress was as informal as his approach to the interview. He wore a baggy tweed suit with cuffless trousers.

Lord Salisbury said that devaluation of the British pound itself would not solve Britain's economic crisis. What was needed was greater production, lowered costs and an aggressive policy of salesmanship to open up the markets to British goods in Canada and the United States.

In the field of international politics, Lord Salisbury felt that disclosure that Russia has the atomic bomb, did not call for any reconsideration of policy by the Western democracies. In fact, it should only lead to a policy of greater co-operation by the Western countries.

As an exponent of the superiority of air arm, Lord Salisbury said air force was the most important of the three services all of which must be strengthened to bolster security.

On the question of relations with Russia, Lord Salisbury said it was not impossible for different systems of government to live together, but both sides must be willing to make that possible. This could not be achieved if one side sought to extend its line of thought over the world, he said.

A LIFETIME OF SEEING Your Vision After Forty

Conservation of one's eyesight after 40

assumes new significance, for on this faculty depends to a large degree successful and accurate work and continued earning power, as well as the pleasures of leisure hours.

Between the ages of 40 and 45, the lenses in the eyes of the average person normally become so inelastic that it is no longer possible for the eyes to accommodate for the near point. This change in vision known by the Latin word "presbyopia," meaning "old sight," marks the decline of the ability of the eyes readily to adjust themselves to near and far seeing.

Most persons with normal eyes after the age of 45 require visual correction for reading and other similar close work. The point of near vision recedes from the eyes, and a book must be held farther away for clear vision. The stiffening of the lenses of the eyes is a normal, natural process. With the aid of professional ophthalmic service to correct the changes in refractive power, the eyes are as good as ever for carrying on their work.

Victoria Park Fountain

We heartily approve the semi-official plan to do something about the fountain in Victoria Park. It has not been in operating order for years. It is to be taken down this autumn, some of its parts preserved, and used in another fountain which will replace it and will spout water. This will be done at very small cost—$500, it is estimated. Let us hope that the new fountain will be "slightly", as the meeting discussing the matter under Alderman Herbert Young's chairmanship said it would be. A fountain can be graceful and pleasant without being elaborate and costly; however, we hope that the ornamental figure surrounding it will not be something in gift picked up at a five-and-ten.

We thoroughly disapprove of the suggestion that the new fountain have at its base a pool which may be used as a wading-pool for children. Have people gone mad about utility? Why in the name of all that is beautiful should a park become a playground, a fountain a wading-pool? Cannot we have a park and a fountain to enjoy for their own sakes? Why must they always be "useful"? If a park is made into a playground it is no longer a park. If a fountain is cunningly devised so that it can form a wading-pool, it is not a fountain.

If another wading-pool is needed for children in that area, put it in Central School yard, in the middle of George Street, or in the basement of the old City Hall. If the design for the new fountain is such that there is a pool at its base, which could be used as a wading pool, then fill it with fish, snakes or scorpions, to ensure that it will not be used as a wading pool. A fountain is not for use. It is for the eye's and ear's delight, which is, after all, a higher "use" than a wading pool is for the tootsies of toddlers.

Quite a few playgrounds and recreation facilities are provided children by the city. Few in recent years have been provided for the relaxation and quiet pleasure of adults; in fact, some have been taken away, as parks have been turned into playgrounds. Victoria Park, Confederation Square, and the grounds around the new City Hall will form a continuous green belt. None of it should be allowed to become playground. It should be a sanctuary for mothers with children on leashes or in prams, for strollers with dogs on leashes, for young couples under the moon, for older folk taking a half-hour's rest. It should be for these adult purposes, and for the sake of appearance.

Squeeze The Consumer, It's Fun To Hear Him Squeak

Prices are not going up; they have gone up. It took the oil companies only five days from the time the devaluation of the Canadian dollar was announced to proclaim and put in force a price increase of 1½ cents a gallon on gasoline. The retailers jumped their prices within five minutes of hearing the announcement. For the sake of appearances, of course, all the oil companies did not announce the increase in the same breath; that would have sounded like monopoly and price-fixing. And of course, everybody knows that the oil companies do not form a tight cartel, and that they never get together on prices.

The oil companies were not the only ones to make the early announcement, in hushed, regretful voices, that owing to the devaluation of the Canadian dollar, their prices must rise, since their goods were American, or had American components. Well, we expected price increases, and, being familiar with callous trading ways, we expected them within a few days, after the corpse of the dollar dollar was buried.

The consumer is nearly always squeezed on these changes in prices due to taxes being imposed or taken off, or fluctuations in money values. He gets it at both ends. If a tax is taken off, the producer, wholesaler and retailer say to the consumer: "You will not of course benefit for a while from the tax reduction, for our large stocks on hand have all been taxed. When the new stocks reach the market, the price will go down." But when a new tax is imposed, or costs must rise, as with the recent devaluation, these same honest citizens forget about their large stocks on hand, which they have laid in at the cheap rate, and whang! the price goes up immediately. Did every oil company in Canada, every retail gasoline dealer, have empty tanks by last Saturday? We are willing to bet a wooden nickel that most of the gasoline being sold even today at the new rate came across the border long before the American dollar became expensive.

It is said, in the hope that the consumers have short memories, that, "Well, we are justified in taking a bit of gravy at this time, for when taxes are taken off, or the dollar equalized with the American, we lose a lot." Do they? The Toronto Globe and Mail points out that, three years ago when the Canadian dollar was raised to parity with the American and consumers expected that goods from across the border would be cheaper, the Canadian Importers' and Traders' Association gave this explanation:

Some of the people we deal with have sent us letters saying they expect an immediate reduction of 10 per cent. in prices, but we can't do that, as we're still selling them goods that were bought some time ago with under-par dollars.

It is perhaps unfair to single out the oil companies, but now seems to be the time to ask if Albertan oil is ever going to benefit Canadians' pockets? Is the American control of the Alberta oil fields, both through ownership and through refineries, so tight that the price of Canadian oil to Canadians will always remain at the price they are charged for American (imported) oil? It must be remarked that Alberta oil prices were boosted last Saturday. There may be good reasons, but we should like to see them stated. Here is as pretty a piece of sophistry as we have seen in the last week, an official statement from an oil company: Crude oil price increases of 20 to 25 cents a barrel "have been made to permit Alberta fields to come back into balance with world prices following devaluation of the Canadian dollar". Bah!

U.E. Right Wing Alert

The left-wing, pro-Communist factions in American and Canadian labour unions have so incensed the right-wing and centre groups, usually the majority, that they are taking militant action against the Reds in their midst. Last week for instance, the Trades and Labour Congress in annual conference at Calgary called on its member unions to oust Communists from their ranks. It threw out permanently the Red-influenced Canadian Seamen's Union by a vote of 702-77. It is anticipated that at the C.C.L. annual convention which begins October 3rd, strong action will be taken against its leftist elements.

The same hardening of labour opinion against Communists is more pronounced in the United States. Even in the United Electrical Workers Union (C.I.O.) whose leadership is left-wing despite a very large membership of centre and right-wing, the anti-Communist right-wingers are standing up to the Left. The Peterborough delegates to Cleveland were among the chief supporters of the right-wing. It is interesting that U.E. President, Albert J. Fitzgerald, leader of the left-wing faction, came under fire from members of his own union at Lynn, Massachusetts Monday on his return from the convention, and they may attempt to expel or suspend him.

One wonders what will happen in Canada to U.E. leadership? One of the numerically strongest Canadian units is in Peterborough, Local 524. Its local leadership is on the right and has a large majority support from the members, yet the District Five leadership is strongly left-wing. As the delegates from Local 524 to Cleveland voted against the left-wing leadership, so did Local 524's delegates to the Hamilton District convention vote against the left-wing, by a consistent 7-3 vote. It is interesting that the split between right and left, in Canadian and American unions affairs, has expression in the Peterborough local 524 of U.E., and indeed, in Cleveland and Hamilton, Local 524's delegates took an active part in focussing opposition to left-wing policies.

U.S.A. In Fidgets

The Americans are at liberty to keep anybody they please out of their country. If they want to exclude Professor Glen Shortliffe of Queen's University, that is their right. Dr. Shortliffe is, politically, a C.C.F.-er. But, when they do make such an exclusion, outsiders cannot help being astonished, perplexed, and even amused. Has the U.S.A. the fidgets? Has Uncle Sam bees in his topper, or ants in his striped trousers?

At the Edge Of the Curtain

By
EDWARD CRANKSHAW

(Report from Vienna to the London Observer and Peterborough Examiner)

It is Heuriger time in Vienna, and under the chestnuts of the garden restaurants the Viennese celebrate the new wine with old songs. Almost all spend more than they can properly afford. But at the cost of a tightened belt for a day or two they can recklessly and happily change themselves into princes of an hour. That is one keynote of Vienna today, expressing in a single gesture the difference not only between Vienna and London but also between every Continental city outside the iron curtain and London, where the joy of life is coldly sacrificed to compulsory nourishment dispensed by statisticians who think of food and drink in terms of fuel.

THE other keynote is that Vienna is an occupied city. In the heart of the city, which is in an international zone (unlike any part of Berlin) there are few reminders of this fact. In the sectors themselves it is possible to ignore it for hours on end, except perhaps in the American sector, which suffers from the American need for self-assertion, curious for a nation so large and strong, that nobody could possibly miss it.

But over a period the alien military force behind the civil order keeps breaking through; and with the consciousness of this goes that special, faint, but always unpleasant disquiet and uncertainty associated with the exercise of Soviet power, which is never, even with the Russians on their best behaviour (as in Vienna they very much are), comfortably predictable and is liable to manifest itself from time to time in sudden, clumsy facts of arbitrary violence. These do not happen often now, and although there is no demand for flats in the Soviet district, the tens of thousands who live there look the same as their relatives outside.

At first sight, the visitor returning after two years would say that Vienna has made a magnificent recovery; and so, in a sense, it has. Except by the quayside the inner city is hardly scarred. The great cathedral spire still soars against the background of wooded hills, and the restoration of the roof goes fast. Already the shape of the gutted opera house is outlined in vermilion painted girders, and people queue to adopt individual stones in the new building. At night the Karntner Strasse is a tracery of blue and scarlet neon-lighting, and although the lighting of the Ring Strasse is dimmer than it was, so that the multiple avenue of limes no longer shimmers with its old theatrical panache, it is still a lovely sight. The Prater, right at the heart of the Soviet sector, has also come alive again. The great wheel is on the move. And twice a week the people flock to watch the racing, and the shabby strolling crowd seeming unrepentant of the stream of shining motor cars which point with heedless crudity the gulf between the many and the few.

Nor do they resent the luxury which flashes like a gold and scarlet lining to the still shabby streets. The shops intoxicate; the cafes entice; the food delights and satisfies. At first sight prices are not high—or they were not high until a day or two ago when a wasting disease, not fully understood by those who regard money as something to spend, suddenly upset the pound. But even these prices are too high for the Viennese, quite simply because their incomes are too low, for all, that is to say, but the more successful black marketeers who may purchase a brand-new American car straight out of the shop window across the road from Soviet headquarters.

THERE are political theorists who would say that a display of luxuries should depress the poor with its incessant reminder of their personal bankruptcy. But this simply is not so. Austrian faces do not glower as they contemplate the treasure cave behind plate glass; they smile, and far more freely than those British faces which should be gay with the knowledge that nobody has anything that everybody else has not got. And surely the reason is plain, for comfort is an andyone and luxury is spur. Tomorrow may always be a lucky day. The Viennese are not as well nourished as the English; some faces indeed are still grey from the starvation years. But they have the dream of extravagance come forthrightly before them, and thus the incentive to make the dream come true.

How they achieve this is another matter. For here is a city sustained by American dollars, conscious of this, resenting its dependence and the American manner, and yet at the same time careless of the moral strictures of the donor. Thus accepting, they proceed to justify the gift by transmuting bullion into fantasies undreamt of by their grimy quarrying protectors—into a culture sustained by a deadly and self-absorbed struggle working through graft by the line of least resistance and emerging to express itself in elegance and charm. Just as the lilies of the field, though they may toil not, neither spin, engage in deadly subterranean warfare for the nourishment of their roots, so it is with the Viennese. Not all the horrors of rapine and starvation sufficed to change their instinct. Not even the proximity of Moscow. It is 40 miles to the Hungarian border. In the Schwarzenberg Platz, now called the Stalin Platz, there is a signpost pointing to Budapest, Prague and Bratislava, as to places only a little way down the road. All three mean Moscow. On the election posters, astonishingly permitted by the Russians, shirt-sleeved Austrian heroes, usually belonging to the People's Party, perform prodigies of single-handed valour in stemming the flood of Red chaos.

THE stranger, advancing thus to the spiky fringe of that by now somewhat ramshackle curtain, would expect an atmosphere of chastened apprehension. He finds instead something magnificent in a heedless contempt for everything held holy by the Russians. And, indeed, there is a fascination in wondering what the Russians make of it all. What do these stocky figures in well-pressed civilian clothes, officers of the Red Army in mufti, really think of this vision of dashing,

Bliss and Priestley

(By CHARLES REID)
(Special Report from the London Observer to the Examiner)

(Editor's Note: What promises to be one of the most important English musical premieres of the century takes place at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, today; that of the Olympians, an opera by Arthur Bliss and J. B. Priestley. The production is on an elaborate scale and has been in preparation since August 1945, when author and composer made the first scenario draft.)

MR. PRIESTLEY'S part in The Olympians has the air of a musty dream come true. First as to the story. The gods of pagan antiquity find themselves back on earth as strolling players. Something over thirty years ago, as an infantryman in Flanders, young Priestley scribbled skits and fantasies in odd moments out of the line. One of the fantasies is about Bacchus who, reincarnated, looks in at the Red Lion, Ramble Street, and is thrown out by a landlord who does not approve of his manner. There, clearly, you have The Olympians in embryo.

In 1919, between coming out of the army often corrupt, and almost always irresponsible private enterprise in full and glittering blast? And as for the rank and file, so conspicuous even against this battered, shabby, central European background in their shapeless uniforms which look quite smart in Moscow—is Vienna to them an abomination and chief among the Cities of the Plain. Or has it, perhaps, a touch of the celestial? It is impossible to tell—and the Viennese couldn't care less.

and going up to Cambridge on an ex-service men's course, Priestley cooled his heels and wrote guinea newspaper essays in his native Bradford. One night, for the fun of the thing, he went on the local Alhambra stage as an extra in Gounod's Romeo et Juliette during a Beecham season. He wore tights, one leg black, the other yellow, and carried an eight-foot pike. The play was half a crown.

He enjoyed himself greatly. Years later, in some essay or autobiographical chapter, Priestley wrote impatiently of grand opera. I seem to remember. Like many another literary man, he was annoyed by its conventions, its "absurdities." Since then he has evidently had a change of heart, always a good thing for a writer. His four-year collaboration with Arthur Bliss on The Olympians has been painstaking and wholehearted. Between them, I understand, they turned out words and music enough for two operas. Before the piece was stageworthy they hacked and hewed devotedly.

This is Arthur Bliss's first opera but by no means his first music for the theatre. His ballet scores (Checkmate, Miracle in the Gorbals, Adam Zero) show that he is entirely at home when fitting music to a scenario. One can go back further than the ballets, indeed. His music for the H. G. Wells film The Shape of Things to Come (1935) was an early and serious venture in a field which many other distinguished composers have since exploited.

At 57 Bliss has a prophet's mane of white hair, a jubilant eye and the springy step of a fencing master. Most of his music is written in a wooden hut in woodland near Pen Pits, his Somerset house. He has a workroom also

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thus saith the Lord, Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his might, let not the rich man glory in his riches: but let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me, that I am the Lord which exercise lovingkindness, judgement, and righteousness, in the earth: for in these things I delight, saith the Lord. (Jer. 9: 23, 24.)

Therefore with joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation. And in that day shall ye say, Praise the Lord, call upon his name, declare his doings among the people, make mention that his name is exalted.

Sing unto the Lord; for he hath done excellent things: this is known in all the earth. Cry out and shout, thou inhabitant of Zion: for great is the Holy One of Israel in the midst of thee. (Isa. 12: 3-6.)

Letters To The Editor

BRITAIN HAS NO BOMBS

Sir: In your Tuesday night editorial (Freedom to blow up the World) you state that U.S., Britain and Canada would agree (under certain terms) to the destruction of A-bombs (being built up by Britain and U.S.). Now this statement not only disagrees with your own and Toronto paper's but with all the news from A.P. and C.P. that I have read. They all distinctly state that Britain has no Atom Bombs and have just lately asked U.S. for knowledge as to know-how to make them or for U.S. to stockpile some in Britain. As far as I have read that has not been granted yet. Could you enlighten me as to who is right? Your editorial or your paper?

Thanking you,

JAMES BUCHAN.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Buchan is right in pointing out that the U.S.A. alone of the western powers is known to have A-bombs. As far as is publicly known, there is no store of A-bombs in Britain, despite the mass of buildings and hundreds of atomic physicists now engaged in atomic energy work near Didcot in England.)

In Kensington. On the mantelsheaf are miniature scores of the Wagner and Verdi operas—among others. His current enthusiasm is for Verdi's Otello. A quarter of a century ago Bliss was regarded as one of the wildest innovators of music, as far removed in sympathy from Verdi as Puccini is from Alfred Munnings. Theoreticians of the cruder sort were shocked when he called one of his pieces a Colour Symphony and labelled its movements Purple, Red, Blue, Green. When the dust settled and the shouting died down, it was perceived that, far from being a revolutionary, Bliss was (as he still is) one of the most fertile yet solid craftsmen English music has known. Every bar he writes is addressed to the Plain Man as well as to the cultivated musician.

Deny Coal Men Take Advantage

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—(CP)—The National Solid Fuel Institute Tuesday issued a statement denying that Toronto coal dealers have taken advantage of the devaluation of the Canadian dollar to increase prices of stocks on hand.

The denial followed criticism to this effect at Monday night's meeting of the Toronto Labor Council (CCL).

The Institute, whose members are Ontario coal dealers, said in regard to the price criticism: "The exact opposite is true. Hundreds of coal dealers in Ontario have had to pay the extra 10 per cent due to dollar devaluation for anthracite which they had sold at the old price of $20.95. The price, $22.65, which includes devaluation and last week's rise in Canadian freight rates, barely covers the increased cost to solid fuel merchants."

Health League Nets $366 On Boat Sale

Peterborough Health League raised $366.11 on the sale of a boat and outboard motor, B. H. Myers, treasurer, told the executive committee Tuesday. Total funds of the branch are now $394.54, he said.

After George Brines, chairman, suggested buying a film on immunisation for inclusion in the city film library, it was decided to make a budget of the year's probable expenditure before incurring the expense.

Panthers Claw Mustangs In Greasy Grid Struggle

The Panthers smeared Trenton Mustangs on a greasy gridiron at Morrow Park last night, winning the exhibition football fray by a 28-3 score before less than 200 fans. After a 1-0 first quarter, Spike Matthews' squad rolled for 22 points in the second to hold a 23-0 lead at the half. They added five in the third, and Mustangs got a field goal in the fourth.

Freddy Garvey and Doug Plunkett were outstanding on the attack for the winners, each tallying two touchdowns. Bill Thompson got the other, while Scrivner had two points and Burns one. Turland kicked the three-pointer for Trenton. All the Panthers looked good in this muddy melee, the line being strong, the backfield mixing a variety of fast-breaking plays and the tacklers generally sharp. Scrivner kicked consistently well.

First Point
Scrivner intercepted a pass in the first and later Conlin and Garvey gained seven each around end. Scrivner kicked the first point from the Trenton 35. In the second, Scrivner's runback and Conlin's two dashes set up Garvey who went over for an unconverted try. Garvey intercepted a pass and ran 40, Thompson getting six and Garvey then plunging across for another try, not converted. Hodson had two long bucks of nearly 20 each and Plunkett took a lateral from Conlin to get a touchdown, Scrivner booting the point. Hodson got away for another dash, and then Conlin forwarded a long one to Davidson, who in turn lateraled to Plunkett who raced 12 for a lovely try. A Conlin-Burns forward converted.

Next Runback
Twice Garvey had good run-backs in the third on return hoofs. VanAllen bucked eight and Plunkett got 10 more. Two bucks and a quarter sneak kept the march up, and then Plunkett faked a pass and slid around end to move the sticks. Thompson took it over from 15 out, not converted. Trenton made a determined drive then on bucks by Turland and Westfall mainly and several passes that elicited. But Hodson intercepted another pass and bucked 15 more as Panthers drove again. A long gain on a Conlin-Plunkett extension went for naught as a fumble followed. Garvey bucked 15 to his own 45-yard chalk at the quarter. A local fumble put the visitors in a nice in-close spot early in the fourth, but the local line held and Turland had to settle for a field goal. Russell's long run was called back, but Thompson then got a

City Boxers Stage Exhibition

Three three-round boxing bouts will be held Friday commencing at 7:30 p.m. in the old Ashburnham Hall. Sponsored by the recently formed Peterborough Administrative Boxing Council, all the bouts will feature boys who have boxed in the Peterborough district. Admission is free to attract as many as possible.

The first bout will feature Louie Carveth and Bob Lagano. It will be followed by Gerry Tyler and Ken McArthur in the second bout, and Bob Fontaine and Norm Gilmore in the third. Referees will be members of the ABC.

Jack Dane, recreation director, will open the evening activities, giving an account of the ABC's program for the night. Ron Menzies, secretary of the Council, will announce the participants in the exhibition bouts.

After the bouts there will be a 15-minute demonstration in instruction.

A film of the first Louis-Schmelling fight, which Mr. Dane considers one of the best world champion fights of recent times, will be shown. Before the film is screened the audience will be told certain things to look for throughout the film.

A meeting of the Administrative Boxing Council will be held directly after the film. The possible use of Ashburnham Hall as the boxing headquarters will be discussed. Mr. Dane said that if the hall is used showers, a ring, and other boxing equipment such as fast bags, heavy bags, etc., will be placed there.

In the spring representatives of 14 organizations in the city who do boys' work met to form the Council, which is to build up the sport once again in Peterborough.

Sarnia Whips Beaches In 15-6 Triumph

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP)—Sarnia Imperials made it unanimous in the Ontario Rugby Football Union Wednesday night.

They whipped the lowly Toronto Balm Beach club 15-6 and thereby became the third team in the four-team league to overpower the last-place Beaches. The victory also hoisted the Imperials into top spot in the league by breaking a first-place tie with Windsor Rockets.

Both Sarnia and Windsor had won three games and the victory Wednesday night gave eight points to Sarnia compared with Windsor's six. Beaches are still winless in five starts.

Only about 500 fans braved the damp weather to watch the Imperials climb into an early lead on a rain-soaked field under the floodlights at Toronto's new East York stadium.

Sarnia unleashed a powerful attack and scored their first major minutes after the opening kickoff. On two plunges and three completed forwards they romped to a converted touchdown.

Tie Count

Beaches, however, tied the count before the quarter ended when speedy little Dave West shook loose around the left end and scampered 40 yards for the score. Bill Douglas converted to complete Beaches' scoring.

Imperial roared back into the lead in the second quarter on a converted touchdown and then added a single in the third and two more singles in the fourth frame.

The nearest score of the game came in the second quarter when Imperials racked up a touchdown after a 100-yard run. Bruce Manning pulled down an intended beach pass on his own 10 and ran to the 40 where he lateraled to Don Miller. The fast-stepping Miller danced around tacklers for about 20 yards and then lateraled to Eric McKeever, who raced for the touchdown.

Outside Johnny Crinich, with his first-quarter major, Len Davey with a convert, Red McKelvie with a convert and a single, and Bill Weiss with two fourth-quarter singles, rounded out the rest of the Sarnia scoring.

Don (Sleepy) Knowles, although unable to score, continually broke open the Toronto defence with his slashing drives.

Central-KG Teams Win Soccer Frays

Central now hold second position in the Public School Soccer League as they defeated Queen Alexandra 6-0 in a senior game at King Edward Park, Wednesday afternoon. Right from the kick off, Central gained a goal when Woods kicked the ball through his own goal. Just before the interval, Patterson refereed the second tally. On resuming, Central went on a scoring spurge when Delahay, Monagraw (2), Rowley and Gardiner made the score read 6-0.

Queen Alexandra—S. Gordon, goal; R. Woods and J. Harrison, full backs; D. Ham, B. McKinney, D. Stewart, half backs; B. Kemp, B. Nicholls and M. Weir, forwards. Subs: R. Macklin, D. Lang, S. Kingdon, B. Whitton, R. Turnbull.

Central—D. Bye, goal; R. Rowe and C. Bertrand, full backs; D. Noble, S. Brooks and N. Bannion, half backs; B. Delahay, D. Patterson, B. Gardiner, L. Monagraw, and J. Rowley, forwards. Subs: R. Grey and J. Heffernan.

Referee—H. Wilson.
Kind Edward Lost

King George senior boys annexed two more league points at King Edward aggregation's expense Wednesday afternoon, on King George school grounds when they won 3-0. King Edward boys opened up with a smart combination to outplay the King George boys but couldn't match the weight of their opponents. Barker opened the scoring along with Withers. On resuming, King Edward broke through repeatedly but lacked finish in front of the goal, while King George consolidated their lead with another counter by Withers.

King Edward—J. Haggart, goal; C. Chalmers and R. Tarkington, full backs; J. Sutherland, J. Hobart, and N. Johnston, half backs; R. Hobart, G. Frizelle, L. Ball, P. Hunt and L. Smyth, forwards. Macleaned TEETH ARE CLEANER

MACLEAN'S TOOTH PASTE

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

Met Walter Smillie yesterday. He's the new manager of the Civic Arena here, his duties commencing the end of this week. Wait says a lot of work is being done at the rink now and 'tis hoped to have an ice surface this week-end. Likely ready for use next week. Public skating will start shortly as well as hockey practices and the odd exhibition tilt. Shortly Barrett is looking after the ice-making again this season and is a competent chap. The committee has lined up arena staff members. Leagues and clubs are asked to write in their requests (giving alternate times) shortly to Walter Smillie, 238 Braidwood Ave., or at Civic Arena.

It will be quite a thing for Peterborough when artificial ice for skating and hockey is ready within the next week or so. The first time in the city's history, all our hockey in the past—and some of it was mighty fine hockey—being played here on natural ice. Civic Arena isn't a large or imposing hockey palace for a city this size, but it will do fine until the Memorial Centre is built—and it will then serve its purpose as a secondary rink. It will accommodate some 2,500 fans (standing included) for hockey from early October till around the first of May, with good ice assured all through, regardless of weather. To hockey-hungry folks here, that's like money from home.

Benefit Softball Fray

A benefit girls' softball game this evening at 7:30 in the Bowl, weather permitting. The joust will see Outboard Marines play the city champion Westclox Lassies, proceeds going to Pat Williams. This classy twirler for Marines had her arm broken during the round-robin playoffs in a collision at the plate. We hope the fray draws well. Seems to us there have been quite a few ball accidents the past season in a game that is not considered rugged. Group insurance in sports isn't common, but many athletes wisely carry accident insurance themselves at all times. No, we don't sell it!

PCVS Junior gridders play St. Peter's High School squad at 2:30 Saturday aft in the Oval. Not in Morrow Park this time. It is the first game of their COSSA Lakeshore district schedule, and ought to be a real battle. The two local junior teams will fight it out hard in an effort to start the short schedule off on the right foot. Coach Alex Londry has a good PCVS team again, while Coach Fred Allore is pleased with the St. Peter's pack so far. Some real heavy lads on the line and speed in the backfield. Built around four or five experienced players of last year. Senior PCI-ers have an exhibition in Toronto tomorrow night, and the ORFU Panthers are off to Orillia on Saturday.

Are Mud Baths Good?

Mud, sweat and smears were the lot of the local Panthers and Trenton Mustangs as they fought it out in a grid exhibition before a slim crowd last eve in Morrow Park. The Matthews men turned in a nifty showing to trounce Trenton 28-3 with Garvey and Plunkett each having two touchdowns, Thompson one, Scrivner two singles and Burns one. These, along with Hodson and Conlin, looked especially good as the whole team went well, especially the front wall. 'Twas typical "panther weather" but the gang went to it, above and below water, in an open tussle. Scrivner booted some long ones and Panthers earned their win handily.

Word has just come through from the OBA that Chatham will play the Potes here at three Saturday aft to open their best-of-three OBA senior "B" semi-finals. Ottawa Valley hasn't declared a winner yet and, if the Falls decide to continue in senior "B", they'll have to meet Ottawa in the other semi-final bracket. The Potes have decided to continue along the path toward a provincial baseball title, so the opener is at Riverside on Saturday. Return game or games maybe Thanksgiving Day week-end in the Western Ontario city. Bill Edger will throw for the Potes in the opener and the club should be at full strength but for Pat Wilson—away playing hockey—and Howie Dalton. We're very sorry to learn of the death of Howie's mother early this morning.

B.C.-Ontario Tie In Lacrosse Tilt

OWEN SOUND, Sept. 29 (CP)—British Columbia All-Stars and Ontario All-Stars Wednesday night battled to a 9-9 overtime draw to leave the Westerners still leading the best-of-five Canadian junior lacrosse finals, 2-1 in games. The next game will be played tomorrow night.

The Ontario squad fought an up-hill battle most of the way but the Vancouver crew also had to come from behind in the last quarter. British Columbia led 4-1 at the end of the first quarter, 5-4 at half time and 7-6 after three periods.

In the last quarter Ontario fired two goals in the first three and a half minutes to take an 8-7 lead. Then British Columbia put on a spurt with Eddie Bell notching a pair to make 9-8 for the Westerners. Max Woolley, a standout all night for Ontario, tied the count with four minutes left in the quarter. The 10-minute overtime was scoreless. Bell was top scorer for B.C. with four tallies. Gord McKie counted twice and Gord Sinclair, Cliff Johnson and Gord Stewart once each.

For Ontario, Woolley scored three goals. The others went to Steve Oneschuk, Don Moore, Ted Howe, Jack Kapasky, Bud Stock and Bob Dyke.

St. Peter's Boys To Meet PCVS In Junior Game

The garnet and grey of PCVS will clash with the garnet and gold of St. Peter's High School Saturday afternoon at 2:30 as the junior footballers open the Division C of the Lakeshore District League.

Coach Fred Allore, last year assistant coach at De LaSalle College of London, third-year winner of the WOSSA championship, has a light, fast crew of young, not too well experienced boys to face last year's COSSA champions. This year the St. Peter's players are working from the T formation, using deceptive plays.

Andre Picard, Jack Richardson, Don LaPlante, Gerald O'Reilly, Joe Hickson, Mike Fitzgerald, Carl Brioux, Bob Fitzgerald, Jim McTeague, Craig Crowley, John Armstrong and Tom Cavanagh are all back from last year's squad which just had a six-go year.

Two lines are being used by Coach Allore with many of the players young enough for two more years junior. Most of the players on the second line are 13 and 14, while some of the boys on the first line are 14. The average weight of the St. Peter's plugging line is 170.

During practices, Andre Picard, right half, has been showing lots of promise with his hefty booting and driving plunges. Coach Allore is counting on John Armstrong, first string quarterback, for the broken field running with Bob Fitzgerald snaring the passes from the right end position.

Coach Alex Londry was hesitant about his starting lineup for Saturday due to some minor injuries occurring to his first line boys during practices. He said on Wednesday that he might start his second line, but that would be decided only when he saw the St. Peter's team prior to game time Saturday afternoon.

Runners Train Hard For 10-Mile Race

The entry for the 10-mile Lakeside-Peterborough road race on Saturday is small, all but one of the entries being from the local Harries' Club. The race starts at 2:30 in Lakeside, the athletes assembling at the "Y" here at two for signatures and numbers. The course is from the Hyde office down the river road to Parkhill Road, then down Water St. and finishing at St. Paul's Church.

The course record is 75 minutes, made in 1947 by Jack Martin. It should be broken as the Harries' top distance men have been training hard for several weeks. Thistlewaite, last year's winner, is a favorite, having been working on six to eight miles roadwork and a mile of speed going, McNeil, second a year ago, is a dark horse and has been doing one to six regularly and one 10-mile run. Coach Morwood predicts it will be close, as Martin has been on six miles and up to three miles of pace work.

Basciano and Dougherty, two mid-distance runners, are working out an dsould make a good showing. Unattached runners who wish to enter may do so, their being accepted till the start of the race Saturday.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Venue for the 1949 edition of the Grey Cup classic: the 20,000-capacity Varsity Stadium or a potential 35,000 crowd accommodation at Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition sports field?

That was the subject before Canadian football fans—and clubs—today and, after a couple of contradictions, the issue still is much in the air. It is solely up to officials of the Canadian Rugby Union.

"All arrangements for staging of the Grey Cup final for 1949 have been completed," said Percy Robinson of Toronto, secretary of the CRU which alone has responsibility to say where and when Canada's greatest annual sports spectacle will be staged. "It will be played at Varsity Stadium as usual."

But early Wednesday night, Dr. W. A. Campbell of Kingston, president of the CRU, told The Canadian Press at Toronto in a telephone interview: "I wouldn't say the matter is absolutely closed now. If one of the CRU executives cares to bring the matter up again, it will be considered."

Will Harridge, American League president, said at Chicago Wednesday he has received an "acceptable" telegram of apology from Cliff Mages, New York Yankees outfielder, for alleged mistreatment of an umpire.

Harridge Tuesday ordered a $200 fine on Mages and $150 fines on catcher Ralph Houk and manager Casey Stengel for the violent manner in which they protested the winning-run decision in the Boston Red Sox game.

He further told Mages to apologize to Grieve or face suspension for "directly inferring that Grieve had a bet on the ball game."

At Cincinnati, promoter Sam Becker Wednesday offered Freddie Mills of England 45 per cent of the net gate to meet Joey Maxim of Cleveland at Cincinnati in a 15-round bout for the world's light heavyweight boxing championship. Mills is the champion and Maxim is recognized as American champion by the National Boxing Association. The Cincinnati promoter said the fight could be staged anytime from November through February.

A fourth-quarter aerial onslaught good for two touchdowns gave University of Toronto Blues an 18-7 victory over the scrappy Ontario Agricultural College Aggies in an exhibition football game at Guelph Wednesday on a rain-swept gridiron.

Pittsburgh Hornets and Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League slam-banged to a 3-3 tie before 1,800 fans in an exhibition game Wednesday night at Fort Erie, Ont. Ray Garsky scored two goals for the Bisons who had a 3-2 margin going into the final period.

Gordie Drillon, former National Hockey League scoring champion and Lady Byng Trophy winner, revealed at Moncton Wednesday night he will play this season with Saint John Beavers of the Maritime Senior Hockey League.

The former star right winger of the Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens will be returning to hockey as a player after two years of coaching.

The Federal government plans to contribute $20,000 towards the cost of sending a Canadian team to the British Empire games in New Zealand next year, it was disclosed Wednesday at Ottawa in supplementary estimates tabled in the Commons.

The amount was described as a "grant" to the British Empire Games Association of Canada.

McGill Redmen bowed 10-1 to the heavier more experienced Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union in an exhibition game at Montreal Wednesday night.

A small crowd of 2,000 huddled under umbrellas and coats as a steady drizzle fell, watched the collegians hold the Als in check on the muddy gridiron during the first half of the game. Alouettes broke loose with a last half offensive that netted them 10 points.

McGill led 1-0 at half time, the result of a single point kicked by Rocky Robillard.

Washington's 2-1 Victory Puts Crimp In Red Sox

By RALPH RODEN,

Associated Press Sports Writer.

"If you can't beat 'em, buy 'em."

That's the advice Boston fans are offering the Red Sox management today following the Sox' 2-1 triumph over the Yankees Wednesday night that dumped them into a first-place American League tie with New York Yankees.

The Boston management attempted to buy Scarborough from Washington Senators last winter, but no soap.

Scarborough, a tall 31-year-old North Carolinian, hurt the Red Sox pennant drive last year and his victory Wednesday night may ruin their current hopes.

Boston entered Wednesday night's game aware that a defeat would knock them into a tie with the Yankees for the Stengeleers had downed Philadelphia Athletics 7-5 in the afternoon.

While tension mounted in the American League pennant race, the picture in the National remained unchanged due to rain in Pittsburgh and Boston.

Rained Out

The league-leading St. Louis Cardinals' game in Pittsburgh was rained out as was the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers' contest in Boston. The Cards are one game in front of Brooklyn.

Scarborough's 13th victory was not achieved until the last half of the ninth inning. He had allowed only four hits and fanned seven but a fluke double by his opposing pitcher, young Chuck Stobbs, and Dom DiMaggio's single resulted in a run in the sixth inning.

Stobbs, who had yielded only four blows, blew up in the ninth, the Senators put runners on first, and third with only one out. Al Kozar then singled to score Gil Coan with the tying run.

Ellis Kinder, 23-game winner, came in to relieve. Sam Dente greeted Kinder with a single but Ed Robinson, on second base, was forced to stop at third.

Lefly Mel Parnell was rushed in to face pinch-hitter Buddy Lewis, a lefthanded hitter. Parnell detected a squeeze play and pitched so wide to Lewis that he couldn't reach the ball and Robinson was an easy out at the plate Kozar moving to third.

Wild Pitch

Parnell followed up the "break" with a wild pitch and Kozar romped home with the winning run on the errant heave.

The Yankees blew a 4-0 lead, the A's scoring five runs in the seventh inning to go out in front but the Yankees came right back with three in their half to win.

In the only other games Wednesday Philadelphia Phillies shut out New York Giants 2-0 and Cleveland Indians turned back Chicago White Sox 4-2.

Home runs by Del Ennis and Ed Sanicki and the six-hit pitching of Russ Meyer beat the Giants. Bob Lemon turned in his 22nd victory for Cleveland.

Hamilton Laces Vancouver 16-10

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.,

Sept. 29 (CP)—The Mann Cup series for the Dominion's Senior Lacrosse championship was all tied up today at one game each following the Hamilton Tigers' 16-10 lacing Wednesday night of the Vancouver Burrards.

The game was more indicative of playoff boxla than the first tilt Monday in the best-of-five series, when Hamilton lost 12-10.

The bigger and more experienced Hamilton crew outplayed the fleet Vancouverites who found that the smaller New Westminster arena held the same nemises for them that it did in league play earlier.

After taking a 5-2 lead in the first quarter, Hamilton, defending champions went ahead 10-6 at the half and led 15-9 at the end of the third quarter.

Blaine McDonald fired four goals and collected two assists for Hamilton. Masters scored three goals and Tommy Love, Dorney and Jack Gair each tallied twice with Bill Isaacs, Doug Davidson and Eddie Powers each fired a goal.

Rod McLeod and Don Masterson scored twice each for the out-gunned westerners, while singles went to Roy Cavallin, Bus Byford, Smith, Whittaker, E. McDonald and Makay.

Want Mad Night Try Figuring Currency Moves

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor
If you wish a completely mad evening some time sit down and try to figure out the situation wherein no country is on the gold standard, and yet most of them price their currencies in terms of gold.

It was relatively simple in the old days when a country said there was so much gold in its dollar, pound, or franc, and would give you that much gold for it. (Remember the $5 gold piece?)

Nowadays countries won't give you gold, but they still say it is in their currency whether it is or not, it is a help as a yardstick.

A confusing element just now is that people get gold mixed up with the United States dollar; probably because the United States has most of the world's gold and because her strong economic position has made her currency, for the time being, virtually the same thing.

But the yardstick used is still gold. When Britain, for instance, said she was devaluing her currency it meant, in effect, she was taking gold out of it; call it theoretical gold if you will.

When she made the devaluation announcement in terms of dollars, all you needed by your side was an international monetary fund table and you could have worked out what she would have to pay for gold in the future.

It might strain one's mathe-

matics, however, with calculations in terms of gold content, and here's an example somewhat in reverse:

Before devaluation Gold, by international agreement, was worth $35 an ounce, American money; and $35, with the pound equivalent to $1.03, equalled about 173 shillings; so 173 shillings equalled one ounce of gold.

Now, after devaluation Gold still is worth $35 an ounce American; but $35, with the new pound equivalent to $2.80 American, equals about 250 shillings; and so now it takes 250 shillings to equal one ounce of gold.

But remember that the reason so many dollars equals so many shillings, is because of the respective amounts of assumed gold in each.

And after you remember it you may as well forget it. Because it is only a pattern which doesn't shape the event, but is adjusted, in due time, to look like the event. It is like an architect making his drawing just behind the builders instead of before them.

For the real reason why $35 American is equal to 250 shillings today instead of the 173 shillings of 10 days ago, is because trade between Britain and North America is out of balance.

Charges Dismissed Against Union Officers

BRANTFORD, Sept. 29 (CP)—Charges of unlawful assembly against four textile union officers were dismissed Tuesday by Judge D. J. Cowan.

The four, Val Bjarnason, Wm. E. Stewart, Mrs. Helen Muller and Helen Murphy, were charged following a disturbance outside the Penman's plant at nearby Paris last Feb. 17.

In making the dismissal, Judge Cowan said: "I have grave doubt as to the guilt of the accused and I must give them the benefit of the doubt."

Judge Cowan told the union defendants that their conduct during the demonstration was reprehensible and went beyond peaceful picketing. But, he added, there was not sufficient evidence of an unlawful assembly to convict. The Crown had not proved, he said, that the four accused "did something that would instill fear in the mind of a reasonable person."

New Liberal Members Monopolize Speech Debate

OTTAWA, Sept. 29 (CP) — New Liberal members are beginning to monopolize the Commons throne-speech debate—traditional arena for aiming gripes requests and praise of all kinds at the government.

Six of the eight members who took part in the debate at Wednesday's short session were Liberals delivering their maiden addresses.

The ratio isn't surprising in view of the fact that more than 90 new Liberals were sent to fill the 262 seats in Parliament at the June 27 election.

However, the preponderance of speeches by members friendly to government policies has noticeably taken the edge off the normally lively debate.

There are obviously fewer gripes and more praise. There is, however, no reduction in the number of requests directed to the government.

Opposition members who took part in the debate Wednesday were Hazen Argue (CCF, Assiniboia) and Ray Thomas (SC, Weta-skiwin).

Fights Rail Rate
Mr. Argue, a farmer from Kayville, Sask., who at 28 is one of the younger members of the Commons, asked Transport Minister Chevrier to delay the order of the Board of Transport Commissioners putting into effect an eight-per-cent increase in freight rates for Canadian railways.

Mr. Argue argued that the financial report of the Canadian Pacific Railway—yardstick line in deciding on increases—shows there is no need for increased rates at this time.

Mr. Thomas, a merchant from Mirror, Alta., had two requests. He wanted the government to consider increases for superannuated civil servants as a result of higher cost of living.

Mr. Thomas also asked that veterans' legislation be modified to allow ex-servicemen to gain government loans for paying down payments on businesses.

The request most general in scope came from Gladstone M. Ferrie (L., Mackenzie), an Invermay, Sask., livestock dealer.

Minister Of Roads
He would like to see the government appoint a Minister of Federal Roads. The minister would head a commission in selecting sites for a comprehensive network of highways across Canada which would be of extreme strategic importance in the event of attack from the north.

At present, said Mr. Ferrie, many parts of the country—particularly the prairie provinces—had roads which would not permit free movement of troops in case of emergency.

W. R. Kent (L., Humber-St. George), a Newfoundland lawyer, asked that the new province be included in plans for construction of the Trans-Canada highway. It would be a boon to Newfoundland's tourist trade and would open up many valuable areas in the centre of the island.

L. T. Sluck (L., Trinity-Conception) said that since coming to Ottawa he has been encouraged by the consideration given to Newfoundland and her problems.

He would return to his people and tell them that they have a sympathetic ear in the capital and that they will benefit from union.

Start National Library

OTTAWA, Sept. 29 (CP)—The government Wednesday took the first step towards establishment of a national library. It asked the Commons to vote $13,350 for initial expenses of the project, long requested by librarians and universities throughout the country. The money was requested in the supplementary estimates, tabled by Finance Minister Abbott.

Keep Payments In Trust Judge's Plan

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP) — Judge Ian Macdonnell, presiding at a judicial inquiry into the failure of the big suburban Pelmo Park housing project, suggested Wednesday legislation providing that down payments by home purchasers be kept in trust may be a means of preventing similar losses.

Judge Macdonnell said that although there are many cases of builders failing to complete homes after receiving money for them "it is not illegal... it may have to be cured by some trustee provisions."

An auditor's report Tuesday disclosed that the Kershaw Construction Company, whose Pelmo Park housing project failed last May had a deficit of $135,051 during the previous eight months. Fifty-four would-be home owners lost a total of $93,553 on the project.

The auditor's report said the total assets of the company—$86,700—did not represent anything any of the 54 depositors could realize.

Frost Issues Writs For Leeds By-Election

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP) — Premier Frost announced Wednesday the issuance of writs for the holding of a provincial by-election in the constituency of Leeds next Oct. 31. Nominations to fill the only vacant seat in the Ontario Legislature will be called Oct. 24, he said.

The seat was made vacant by the death of W. B. Reynolds, Progressive Conservative member, who died during the last session of the Legislature.

Present party standings in the 90-member house is: Progressive Conservatives 52; CCF 21; Liberal 13; Liberal-Labor 1; Labor-Progressive 2; vacant 1.

Convict Waiter In Shooting

HAMILTON, Sept. 29 (CP)—Convicted of manslaughter and wounding, Edward (Dempsey) Richards, 33-year-old ex-wrestler, will be sentenced Friday.

The charges arose from an Aug. 8 drinking party free-for-all climax by the gunshot death of Richard Silfka, formerly of Regina, and the wounding of Charles Bulmer.

David (Irish Davey) Ambersley, in whose suburban Saltfleet Township establishment the early morning fracas took place, was jointly charged with Richards. But Ambersley, now serving a two-month jail term for a liquor law breach, was acquitted when Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder, presiding, told a jury that he felt there was insufficient evidence to link Ambersley with either the shooting of Silfka or the wounding of Bulmer.

Evidence was that the fight started when Richards, working for Ambersley as a waiter, cut off the drinks from Silfka and a group of Silfka's friends on grounds that it was late. Ambersley said he brought a rifle downstairs and ordered the group to leave. Richards said he picked up the rifle after Ambersley put it down, and fired one shot at the kitchen stove to frighten the visitors after they appeared about to attack him with a broken bottle and a chair rung.

TEAMWORK WINS—Roy Beaumont and RCMP Constable C. E. Boone teamed up to win the three-legged race at the annual junior police games held under the sponsorship of the RCMP, Ontario Provincial Police and municipal police at the Bowmanville Training School. Object of the games is to bring about a closer relationship between the boys and the police. Similar games are scheduled for other Ontario training schools.

Say Scandinavia May Get Order

LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Devaluation of sterling and curtailment of the dollar-import program are believed to have put the final seal on the decision to switch Britain's huge newsprint imports from the dollar markets of Canada to soft-currency countries in Scandinavia.

It was learned reliably Wednesday that Britain has asked Scandinavian mills provisionally to reserve more than 100,000 tons of newsprint for delivery in 1950. This is more than twice what she now is getting from Finland and Sweden, and equals the current Canadian contract.

The matter of the Scandinavian price, which up to now has been more than that asked by Canada, is still to be negotiated. But one source said that with devaluation and "a good contract price" Scandinavian newsprint could work out cheaper than Canadian.

A Board of Trade spokesman said he would not confirm or deny this order. But he said it is not yet known what will be done about future newsprint supplies from Canada. It has been announced officially that the dollar import program is to be pared, but there is no official indication whether newsprint is to be included in the scale-down. It all depends on the amount of dollars the treasury is willing to make available.

Urge Disarmament

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29—(CP)—A call for international disarmament and atomic energy control, through United Nations action, was made Wednesday at the annual convention here of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA). The 100,000-strong IWA, in a seven-point resolution on international affairs, condemned the Soviet Union's abuse of the veto in the U.N. assembly and reaffirmed its support of the European recovery plan.

Say Atomic City Host

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 29—(AP)—The Amsterdam newspaper De Tijd reported Wednesday that all of Russia's atomic scientists and all her atomic knowledge were wiped out when a Soviet "atomic city" blew up last spring. The newspaper gave no source for its information. It did not name the city.

Higher Food Prices

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—(AP)—Higher food prices in the United States showed the cost of living up a little between July 15 and Aug. 15. The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that in mid-August its consumers' price index stood at 169.8 per cent of the 1935-39 average, up 0.2 per cent from a month earlier.

Told Publicize Presbyterian To Win Members

NORWOOD, Sept. 29 (ENS)—There were more than 70 delegates at the sectional rally of the Women's Missionary Society in Norwood United Church Tuesday. Mrs. Rork Ferguson presided.

Starting at 10 a.m., the Hastings Auxiliary was in charge with Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe and Mrs. Collins as leaders. The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Ferguson.

A report of the branch meeting held in Smith's Falls was given by Mrs. Edward Downes of Fairmount. Mrs. Harold Rehill, Presbyterian president, introduced Miss Sparling of London, guest speaker. Miss Sparling is secretary for younger groups in the Dominion Board. Her theme was "Advance in Our Auxiliaries."

"It is now 25 years since union; time to look back and time to look forward," Miss Sparling said. At the time of union one-quarter of the women belonged to the society. Now the figure was one-fifth, though there was an increase in baby bands and junior groups.

Westwood branch conducted a devotional period, when Mrs. Clayton Breckenridge said the scripture and prayer was led by Mrs. Clydale.

Mrs. Charles Elliott, literature secretary of the Presbyterian explained literature of the various department. She described how to organize a membership committee, how to publicize the Women's Missionary Society, and mentioned W.M.S. Sunday, distribution of literature, press notices and reports, which lead women to say "I wish I'd been there."

Some visitors to regular meetings might be asked to take part in the program. Aspects of the W.M.S. to be publicized were: the friendliness and social life of the auxiliary; its program and activities, the work through community friendship and supply departments. People were interested in immigration, displaced persons and overseas relief.

Miss Jean Hanbridge presented the report of the School for Leaders held at Whitby. Those taking part in the devotional led by Cottesloe Society were Mrs. C. McMillan and Mrs. J. Golloher.

The offering was taken by Mrs. A. E. Hogg and Mrs. Bert Scott of Norwood Auxiliary and dedicated by Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe of Hastings.

It was decided by vote to send a delegate to the School for Leaders from each section rather than one from the whole Presbyterian.

Demonstrates Study

Mrs. R. H. Gardner sang. Miss Sparling introduced the Mission Study for this year, "Growing with the Years," and demonstrated parts of it, assisted by Mrs. W. Breckenridge, Westwood; Mrs. Burnham, Hastings; Mrs. McNab, and Mrs. A. E. Hogg, Norwood; Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe, Hastings; Mrs. A. A. McRoberts, Norwood; Mrs. Vanderburgh, Havelock; Mrs. C. Breckenridge, Westwood.

Posters were presented as an aid to CGIT and youth groups.

Miss Sparling continued with suggestions for advancement. In having a church party including representatives of all church groups, admission could be an important factor of the United Church of Canada. She suggested characters to dramatize work of the church to represent visitation, evangelism, radio evangelism, music, healing. She also wanted a birthday cake for United Church. Miss Sparling closed her remarks by singing "Our Church."

Mrs. Breckenridge, on behalf of Westwood Auxiliary, invited the next year's rally to be held in St. Andrew's United Church.

Westwood. The invitation was accepted.

Dinner preceded Miss Sparling's address. Mrs. Edward Scott, president of Norwood W.M.S., welcomed the guests and Mrs. Child of Havelock responded.

Send Investigator

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29 (AP)—The State of Ohio Tuesday officially entered the Noron investigation. Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy announced he is sending an observer to the Canadian investigation opening at Toronto today. Duffy said the observer will report to him after the Canadian investigation.

NEW ENVOY WELCOMED—On hand to welcome Hubert Guerin, France's newly-appointed ambassador to Canada, on his arrival to Ottawa, was Howard Measures, chief of protocol of the external affairs department. Here Mr. Measures greets the new ambassador while Madame Guerin looks on.

Sarnia Taxpayers Protest Paving Program

Residents of Romaine and Burnham Streets who protested last spring the street paving program would be interested in a similar protest in Sarnia. Action of their council in passing a by-law for a $500,000 paving program was described by ratepayers as "one of the most outrageous bits of tyranny ever witnessed in this city".

Those extremely extravagant words indicated some of the feeling against paving undertaken on the basis of local improvement. That was exactly the cause of the objections from Burnham and Romaine Streets in Peterborough.

Ontario Municipal Board approved the Sarnia project in its entirety, but erased the two Peterborough streets from the local job.

The local improvement act plan signifies that a considerable part of the cost of the work would be directly chargeable to the property on the paved streets. The other side of this argument is that street paving should be paid for by all ratepayers, that it is a general community improvement and as such should be financed by the entire community, and not largely by property owners on the streets to be paved.

A report from Sarnia says: "Under the terms of the proposal, part of the cost of paving is to be borne by ratepayers under the Local Improvement Act, part by the city, and one-third of the city's share by the provincial government. The government, however, will pay only for streets ruled traffic arteries."

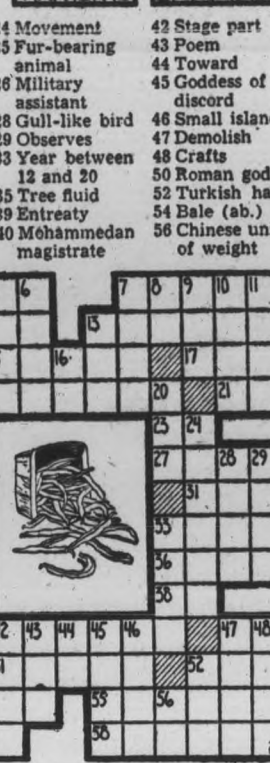

The Sarnia opposition was chiefly from people on several streets designated as "arteries", and it was contended that the cost should be borne by the city as a whole.

Sarnia's paving project of $500,000 may be spread over four or five years. Peterborough has a similar scheme of extending for four years the work that was begun here this season and is now nearing completion on King St. at George St.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Will Never Find Noah's Ark Reporter Sure

By EDWIN B. GREENWALD
DOGUBAYAZIT, Turkey, Sept. 29 (AP)—The ark of Noah, if ever it landed on Mount Ararat, is lost eternally to the ages. It never will be found.

Some of the Americans who have just completed a gruelling search of the great Ararat chain still hope confidently that it will be uncovered some day.

But use of cold logic makes it certain that it will not. Either it rests forever beneath deep and perpetual ice and snow at the peak of the 17,000-foot mountain or else it has been destroyed and its fragments buried in this volcanic wilderness.

The four-man expedition explored every crevice and every clue. It scouted through the villages for 100 miles around seeking anyone who might know anything.

The old men and the young had heard the legend that a great boat once rested in the snow way up there.

But no one ever had seen it, and they knew of no one who had.

Distances Travelled For Morrissey Funeral

DOWNEYVILLE, Sept. 29 — (ENS)—The funeral of the late Bridget Anna Morrissey was held from the residence of her cousin, Charles Meehan, Ridout St., Lindsay, to St. Mary's Church, where Solemn Requiem High Mass was offered by Rev. Dean McAuley, of Lindsay, Rev. V. G. McFadden, of Downeyville, as deacon, and Rev. Father Kay as sub-deacon of the Mass.

After the Mass the cortege proceeded to St. Luke's Cemetery, Downeyville, where burial took place in the family plot.

The prayers at the grave were said by the Rev. Father V. J. McFadden. Pall bearers were Martin Herlihey, Charles S. Lucas, William Powers, John R. O'Neill, Albert Clancy and Walter Herlihey, all neighbors of Mrs. Morrissey.

Miss Morrissey was born at Downeyville 85 years ago, daughter of the late Edward Morrissey and Alice Cooney. She lived on the family homestead until a few years ago, when she moved to Lindsay. She was the last of a family of 13 and was highly esteemed by all her friends and neighbors, as was seen by the large funeral. She had been ailing for some time and died in hospital in Peterborough. She leaves a number of nieces and nephews.

The funeral was attended by a large number from Toronto, Lindsay and Downeyville.

Donald McDonald Dies

TORONTO, Sept. 29—(CP)—Donald McDonald, 82, former Ontario deputy minister of game and fisheries, died Tuesday. Prior to joining the department he was manager for the Hudson Bay Company and the Revillon Freres stores at Nipigon, Ont. He retired in 1933.

Catches 31-Pounder In Belmont Lake

HAVELOCK, Sept. 29 (ENS)—Leonard Diegelman of Buffalo, N. Y., has extended his vacation at Belmont Lake after his luck with fishing. Monday at 7:15 a.m. he caught a muskie weighing 31 pounds, 49½ inches in length and 23 inches in girth. The fish gave battle for ten minutes. When Mr. Diegelman managed to draw it close to the side of the boat, he struck it a blow with an oar which ended the struggle. He was using a 3½ inch minnow as bait and was accompanied by Walter Flipco, of Buffalo. Both men are guests at John King's summer resort.

On Thursday, Robert McCutcheon of Belmont Lake caught a muskie weighing 16½ pounds in the same waters. He was guiding Dr. Dean of Hamilton, at the time.

Two Youngsters Appear Set For Long Career

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 29 (AP)—Youngsters Joan Evans and Farley Granger appear set for a long-range career opposite each other.

Now appearing in "With All My Love," the pair go right into "Edge of Doom," which will be followed by "Folly and Farewell." There is talk of putting them into "Billion Dollar Baby." The latter was a hit Broadway musical, but Samuel Goldwyn may demusicalize it for his young dramatic duo.

Miss Evans gives a sidelight of "Folly and Farewell." Richard Sherman, best man at her parents' wedding, was the author. He wrote it when Joan was two years old, little realizing she would one day play the heroine.

Writers Julius and Philip Epstein are slated to direct "Folly and Farewell," and I hope that doesn't result in utter confusion.

They are twins. Johnny Weissmuller is back from swim shows in Britain to resume his "Jungle Jim" film series. He explained why he has never joined the parade of English Channel swimmers: "That's like asking Glen Davis to run the marathon. I've always been a sprinter."

Richard Quinn, ex-husband of Susan Peters, is dialogue director on "The Pretty Girl." He'll be branching out as a full-fledged director soon.

John Wayne is in daily huddles with "Jet Pilot" writers. He wants to get the picture done by February so he can go to the Republic of Ireland with John Ford's "The Quiet Man." But wily Wayne never starts a picture until he is sure the script fits his talent, that's why he's fretting with "Jet."

It seems there always has to be a reason for a cocktail party in Hollywood. Charlie McCarthy gave one to organize dummies against the harsh terms of ventriloquists. There were more dummies than at a chorus girl convention. The event could have some connection with the fact that Edgar Bergen goes back on the air Sunday.

Edward Dmytryk, a native of Grand Forks, B.C., is back in town after directing a film in Russia. He is one of the "friendly 10" witnesses who appeared before the House of Representatives Un-American Affairs Committee.

Mounties Turn School Teachers Lectures Popular Class Item

By LORNE FRAME

OTTAWA, Sept. 29 (CP)—The Mountie has turned school teacher.

When the Mountie isn't chasing "bad men" over the frozen wastelands of the north, he's lecturing to youngsters, telling them how to become good citizens. The teaching role is voluntary and comparatively new.

Started four years ago on the prairies, lectures have become a popular item in most classrooms across Canada. Mounties already have delivered about 17,000 talks to more than 1,500,000 children. They're still at it, too.

No wonder the kids like the lectures. The talks range around such exciting topics as the story of the RCMP dog patrols in the Arctic and how discipline, courtesy and abiding by the law make fine citizens.

The Mountie stresses the role of the policeman in the community and the need for his kind of public service. He tries to show how a policeman protects the young, that he is not always trying to spoil someone's fun—unless that person is making it tough for others.

Fill A Gap

School marmas agree that the talks fill a gap in school training. Teachers welcome discussion on the history of the RCMP. They like to link the talks with lectures on Western Canada where the Mounties played a big role in opening the country.

The pupils usually ask plenty of questions after the lectures. The most popular query is How do you get into the force?

It's not just boys who do the asking. One girl popped the question and a boy classmate answered disgustingly that only boys could be Mounties.

Obviously disappointed, she quickly retorted:

"But I could be a Mountie's wife, couldn't I?"

When summer holidays roll around, the Mountie takes his lectures and his dogs and equipment to camps. There he gets into the fun, swimming with the gang, hiking and other camp

sports. So well has the program progressed that now a "youth and the police" department is an integral part of the Mounted Police organization.

Men To Blame For Much Of Home Trouble

Selfishness is the principal reason for the breaking up of homes, and men are the chief offenders in this regard, the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan Wednesday night told a meeting of the Kinsmen Club.

His theme was the place of a service club man in the life of a community. And he particularly stressed the relationship of that man to his own home, the schools and the churches.

Men should give more attention to the development of their homes and families, he stated. More often the fault of disrupting home life lay with the husband rather than the wife. And this was due principally to selfishness.

Co-operate With Schools

The service club man should co-operate with the schools and the teachers, Mr. Morgan said. In one respect this was enlightened self interest, not merely public spiritedness, because his own children were attending. And the additional interest shown by him would result in a better-educated child.

Join the local Home and School Club, Mr. Morgan urged the large gathering of Kinsmen. Many men think these organizations are for wives only, but it is not so, and the help of the fathers of the community is both desired and needed, he affirmed.

A service club man ought to feel a sense of responsibility toward his church, contended Mr. Morgan, because the spiritual contribution is necessary in any civilized community. Too often this aspect of community life is neglected.

If a man finds something he disagrees with or objects to in his church he should not leave it but enter actively into its affairs and try to remedy that defect, said Mr. Morgan. Remaining away was no solution either for the man or the church.

He commended the service clubs, particularly those in Peterborough and among them the Kinsmen, for their community work.

President Harley Weir was in the chair.

Thomas Lister and Dr. Harvey Ball, bulletin editors for 1948-49, were presented with the Senior Ritchie Trophy for putting out the best bulletin in the 230 Kinsmen clubs in Canada. The trophy is put up for annual competition. Both men received replicas which will remain in their permanent possession.

Vern Selkirk presided at the ceremony of presenting the trophy.

A past president's pin was presented to the immediate past president Stan Gilmore.

Reports on the recent National Convention held in Quebec City were given by Messrs. Gilmore and Selkirk, and Jack Lewis.

Public Shows Hostility Toward Police

A certain amount of hostility toward policemen by the public was a problem the police would have to face and overcome, Superintendent M. F. E. Anthony, commanding officer of O division of the RCMP, told delegates at the 17th annual convention of the Police Association of Ontario Wednesday afternoon.

The three chief reasons for this hostility are thought to be policemen's incivility, their incorrect deportment and their alleged use of sharp practices in investigations.

Polite Manner

Policemen are sometimes brusque and impolite without meaning to be, Superintendent Anthony said. He declared a polite manner and a smile from the policeman makes a lasting impression on people.

It is not always easy to be polite, with nasty drivers for instance, he said, but the policeman should at all times at least stick closely to proper procedure in dealing with people.

The public also resents that "languid slouch" some police adopt, the superintendent said. "I don't know why they should, but they do," he continued. However, the policeman should carry himself as if he were proud of his profession. If a police officer is not proud of the department he works for, then he won't be a good policeman, Superintendent Anthony observed.

Bad Effect On Public

The alleged sharp practices are 99 per cent. unfounded, the mountie said. The headlines stories of such charges carried in newspapers have a terrible effect on the public, he said.

When these charges are not true it should be the duty of court judges, when they are taken to court, or the crown attorneys, to refute the charges.

He said if the charges never got to court, it was the duty of the head of the police department or division to make sure the public was aware the charges were false by telling the newspapers. He said he thought no newspaper in Ontario would not print both sides of such a situation.

The superintendent declared the absolute necessity of police forces was best demonstrated by the strike of the police force of Boston some years ago. Within two hours after the strike began, homes and shops were being looted and people were being assaulted on the street.

Some have said one of the reasons why people seemed to have a feeling of animosity toward policemen was because people of North America were not amenable to discipline.

With this, there was a theory that children subject to authority in homes and in schools from their birth have a sense of frustration which they take out on the handiest symbol of authority in the adult world—the policeman.

He said perhaps if the children had a little more discipline in the homes there would not be this trouble. Police, the superintendent pointed out, were not a disciplinary body. They were merely the agents who saw to it lawless people were taken to courts for disciplining.

Superintendent Anthony also briefly outlined the history of the RCMP mentioning the various recent developments of which such as police colleges through which its efficiency as an investigating body in its threefold job of prevention of crime, apprehension of criminals and service to the public.

Do Not Defeat Purpose Of Devaluation Police Told

A warning against police associations seeking higher wages because of a higher cost of living expected as a result of the recent devaluation of the Canadian dollar before giving the matter careful consideration, was given to delegates at the 17th annual convention of the Police Association of Ontario, by its president, Arthur Webster, in his president's address.

If everyone got full compensation for the dollar devaluation through salary increases, "it would appear to me that the purpose of the devaluation would be defeated," President Webster said.

Fair Living Standard

This did not mean, the Lindsay chief constable said, policemen should ignore the fact "that their families were entitled to a fair standard of living."

He said the five and a half and five-day week have been won in some departments and continued, "No doubt continued efforts by a strong Police Association of Ontario will result in the acceptance of the five-day week for policemen throughout the province."

"Our endeavours to have our members from the Ontario Provincial Police Force enjoy full rights and protection of this association and to receive collective bargaining rights have met with little or no success," Chief Webster said. He told the delegates the government classed provincial police as civil servants.

"Yet they are included in the Police Act, 1949, as policemen," he pointed out.

"Closer association through an organization such as ours can only be of benefit to both the police and the citizens of the province," he declared.

Since 1944 the organization has been growing, he said.

"We have an organization that is a power for the good and welfare of policemen throughout the province and I feel it is the duty of us all to see that the organization does not weaken but continues to grow so that the rights of policemen individually and collectively will not be jeopardized," he said.

New Property Boosts 1949 Assessment

An increase of more than 600 in Peterborough's population is shown in the assessment roll for 1950 which Assessment Commissioner Norman W. Wilks will return to City Clerk Outram Friday, the last day of September. The new total is 35,682.

This is a statutory timing of the transfer of the roll from the assessing department at the conclusion of its work in preparing the assessments of property and business taxable next year.

"There is an increase of 622 in Clarendon ward (south of Lansdowne St.)," Mr. Wilks informed the Examiner today, "and there are also 200 more persons living in Ashburnham. The bulk of the increase is in those two sections of the city, south and east, but there is also some sectional decrease.

For instance, the population of the Centre ward is down 144 from last year. That appears to be explained by movement of some families from central dwellings where there may have been some doubling-up of accommodation until other houses were available."

Mr. Wilks said the assessment roll's inclusion of population was not a census of the city. The total of 35,682 as compared with 35,065 a year ago is the number of persons reported to the assessors in their preparation of the taxable values for 1950.

"The increase in assessment this year is more than $1,500,000, including business," Mr. Wilks said. "That increase comprises mostly new property values becoming taxable for the first time."

The Assessment Commissioner said some months ago that there would be a general increase in assessments this year. A substantial part of the work of the department has been the incorporation of new properties into the assessment roll.

The last day of September terminates the assessment department's concern with the listing of properties for taxation in the following year. In practice, the phrasing is to the effect that the assessor "returns" his roll to the municipal clerk. As a matter of fact, Assessment Commissioner (Continued on Page 26)

'Best Fair In Years' Verdict At Campbellford After 6,000 Attend Show

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 29.—(ENS)—Mild weather and a large display of exhibits attracted more than 6,000 people to Campbellford Fair on Wednesday. "The best fair in years" was the unanimous opinion of the officials. Hundreds visited the Dutch section in the Women's Building, where Dutch furniture, dresses, oil paintings, rugs and antiques were on display. Lovers of fine furniture cast longing eyes on the solid oak dining-room suite brought from Holland by Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Van Klaveren. Practically every available square inch of space in the domestic science section was used this year. Mrs. Gordon McCulloch captured a large share of the prizes in this class. The midway was better than ever, providing plenty of amusement for both old and young. The talking horse and the merry-go-round were the centres of attraction for the youngsters. The Garden Brothers Shows of Toronto, played before the grandstand.

The new addition of handicrafts gave the hobbyist a chance to display the fruits of his creative mind. There were many amazing creations in ceramics, water and oil paintings, shell carving and leather work.

Despite the muddy condition of the track, the harness races were better than last year. Every heat was keenly contested.

Rivalry was keen among the local Holstein breeders. In Jerseys L. Jarrell of Canifon and Garnet Kerr of Campbellford, with their fine herds shared almost equally in capturing the coveted red ribbon.

Union Decides Drop Inquiry

PORT COLBORNE, Sept. 29.—(CP)—Mike Kopinak, president of Local 637, International Union of Mine Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO), said Wednesday the union has dropped its plans for an independent investigation of a gas-induced illness among workers at the International Nickel Company's refinery here.

Mr. Kopinak said the union executive decided on this course after conferring with company officials. "The company assures us 'they have taken every known precaution and hope that the end of these people being affected has been reached,' he said.

His union is not taking any further action because the company is not forcing men to work in the leaching department, where the illnesses are said to have occurred, he said.

To date one man has died and ten others are being detained in hospital.

Some of those in hospital are remaining there only under observation, Dr. William Moffat, in charge of their cases, said. The doctor said the men are suffering a bronchial ailment believed contracted at the plant.

Mother And Son Fined $20 For Overcharging

Edward Hiland and Mrs. Josephine Hiland, landlords of an apartment at 144 1/2 Hunter St., were fined a total of $20 and ordered to pay $11 costs Wednesday in city police court for charging a rent in excess of the maximum fixed under the Leasehold Regulations. Explaining that he acted as agent for his mother, Mr. Hiland pleaded guilty and entered a plea of not guilty on behalf of his mother.

Mr. Hiland agreed with Mr. W. F. Hukke, K.C., that under the rental control regulations the maximum rent of the apartment should have been $22 a month. He admitted having received $30 and $35 a month for rent during the past year.

J. P. McKeown, the present tenant, said he had given Mr. Hiland a cheque for $35 in payment of one month's rent, but Mr. Hiland had returned the cheque, asking for cash. He said he paid $30 a month for two months and then $35 a month up to August this year. He went to live in apartment in Aug. 1940.

William R. Payne, of Peterborough branch of the Rental Control Board, said that when he asked Mr. Hiland what rent he had been receiving for the apartment he had first of all said $20 but later admitted it was $35.

Mr. Hiland complained that the basic rental fixed by the Rental Control Board was inadequate. The apartment was worth $40 or $45, he claimed. His father, who had left the property to his mother on his death in 1945, had rented it to Mrs. B. Stewart for $20 a month in 1940 because she was starting up house and he was kind enough to allow her to live there at a low rental.

When only one or two rooms were used that was the rent charged, but it was right that the entire five roomed apartment, complete with bathroom, should now be rented at $20 plus the 10 per cent increase allowed since 1947?

The magistrate explained that he was not the authority to fix the rent and was concerned only with deciding whether Mr. Hiland had charged more than the sum fixed by the Control Board.

Mr. Hiland did not deny that he had received $30 and $35 a month for the apartment. By the regulations he was guilty of the offence but by common sense he was innocent, he said.

Head and Shoulders Above the Crowd

hats and accessories

By Epsie Kinard

NEW YORK (NEA)—The pulling power of a hat is helped considerably this fall by a matching cape, stole, umbrella, muff or handbag.

This most spectacular accessory, however, is a white mink neck-piece that unwinds from a hat. Example is the John-Fredericks' turban (ABOVE, SECOND FROM

THE RIGHT), shown as a turban of white mutation mink with be-jewelled nose and paws. When the fur is removed for neckwear, the girl's head is still nicely hat-ted with a black jersey cap.

For proof that the pulling power of a pale beaver hat is increased by an accessorized plaid wool stole, see the Mr. John-designed match-mates (SECOND FROM THE LEFT). The maribou hatband of African violet is repeated by the plaid of the handsome woolen stole.

The hat-and-umbrella match-mates of John-Fredericks' design (FAR RIGHT), introduce teddy-bear fabric, which makes news this fall. The four-streamered cloche of gold-colored teddy-bear fabric is matched to an umbrella sheathe of matching "fur".

The pale beige helmet (FAR LEFT), is ensembled with a wool cape of matching color. When the cape reverses to its bold plaid side of beige and brown, it is still color-keyed to its companion hat.

CALUMET

DOUBLE-ACTING BAKING POWDER

FOR EVEN, fine-textured baking, without holes and without tunnels, depend on Calumet Baking Powder. Quick loaves, cakes, biscuits—all baking—is feather-light, moist and even-crumbed when you use Calumet. For Calumet's double action protects baking from start to finish.

Myriads of tiny, even-sized bubbles are formed in the mixing bowl when liquid is added. The second action takes place in the oven, where thousands of new little bubbles continue raising the mixture to feathery, tender perfection. Follow directions on the tin for any recipe.

Russia Advises Woman's Place Not in Home

BERLIN, Sept. 29 — (AP) — Russia bluntly has advised the German woman that her place is not in the home.

Instead, said the Red Army's official newspaper Taegliche Rundschau, the German housewife should free herself from suppression by her husband "who confines you to household and childbearing."

"Your place is certainly by your husband but not only in privacy, but also in factories, offices and in public life," the paper said.

The newspaper claims Russian women are happier than any other women in the world "because they enjoy equal privileges, not only in marriage but also in public life."

The newspaper said: "Many German men still appear to want their wives all for themselves. This is egoistic and betrays a capitalist-feudalistic tradition. There is no room for such a theory in a progressive socialist state. Women shall be happy if they can contribute their share to the well-being of the state."

The article conceded that "even in capitalistic countries many married women have jobs of their own. But they are not independent and they are forced to work, as their husbands do not earn enough to support the family."

The author explained why Russian women can devote all their energy to public welfare and why they need not spend much time on household duties.

"Russia is so highly industrialized that practically all food is offered in a prepared form. This reduces cooking to a mere mechanical affair of half an hour—and mind you, the dish is tasty."

by the Cheerful Workers' group of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid. It was a new idea to have the setting outside the city but happy results prove it appealed to town and country dwellers alike.

Vibrant fall coloring of bitter-sweet, asters and marigolds made charming decorations for the occasion. The lace-covered tea table was centered with a handsome silver bowl filled with asters and the flanking tapers were gold. A similar arrangement on the sideboard was most effective.

Mrs. E. Fraser, leader of the Group, received with Mrs. Mann and they were assisted by Mrs. C. G. Boyd. Hostesses in the sitting room were Mrs. G. Lockington and Mrs. W. Steinkraus, and guests were ushered to the tea room by Mrs. V. Campbell.

A pleasing program presented by children, was arranged by Mrs. E. Barrie. Barbara Bulmer contributed a vocal solo and was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. J. Telford. A reading was given by Nola Wilson and Barbara and Aileen Mann played a piano duet.

The tea room arrangements were made by Mrs. D. Dixon and Mrs. R. McIlmoyle. To pour tea they chose Mrs. Edwin Bulmer, Sr., Mrs. W. D. Wilson, Mrs. M. Comstock and Mrs. O. Campbell. The assistants were Mrs. R. McAdams, Mrs. N. McConnell, Mrs. G. Middleton, Mrs. E. Campbell, Mrs. C. Crumme, Mrs. B. Ellis, Mrs. T. Weatherstone, Mrs. R. Pammett, Mrs. M. Morgan, Mrs.

C. Curtis and Mrs. R. Sanderson. Home cooking went very well and was sold by Mrs. W. G. Morrow, Mrs. R. Pearce, Mrs. A. Bulmer, Mrs. C. Fairbairn, Mrs. N. Stockdale, Mrs. P. Latimer, Mrs. J. Masters and Mrs. C. Bolton. There was also a table of home-made candy attended by Mrs. W. Brown, Mrs. K. Campbell and Mrs. H. Archer.

Treasurers for the tea were Mrs. C. Lee and Mrs. G. Jackson. Transportation arrangements were made by Mrs. R. Reid and Mrs. E. Taylor.

Barbara McAdams and Aileen Mann opened the door for the guests.

$25 Donation Made To Children's Aid By Police Women

Speaking on the work of the Children's Aid Society, Miss Rachael Young, superintendent in this district, addressed the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ontario Police Association at their morning session today. At the close she was handed a cheque for $25 by Mrs. Miles, provincial president, on behalf of the association. Miss Young told the out-of-town delegates of the splendid assistance given by the local organization, especially at Christmas, and also of the co-operation that is given by the police force at all times. She then explained why Children's Aids are necessary throughout the province and outlined some of the problems which they solve.

"Everyone starts on the way to being a mature person but some stopped on the road and it is these who present the problems we face," she said. These immature people are likely to create an unhappy atmosphere for children in their home, one that will probably lead to separation or divorce. In some cases the children are taken to the Shelter where they are given the care they need. Meanwhile Children's Aid officers work with the parents and endeavour to make them know themselves and work out their own problems. Many other services are rendered also, such as sending grocery orders to homes where there is need.

CAC Blamed For "Lack of Action" On Price Boosts

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—(CP).—A blunt warning to "get cracking" against high living costs today faced delegates to the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Consumers.

The warning was issued by Mrs. Pierre Casgrain of Montreal at Wednesday's opening sessions of the two-day gathering. She said the C.A.C. had done "nothing to capture the imagination of the mass of the women of Canada." Blaming a 73 per cent membership drop in the two-year-old organization on lack of imaginative effort, she urged the C.A.C. to become a militant voice in the battle against the "skyrocketing" cost of living. Only in this way could the C.A.C. enlist the support of the country's hard-pressed housewives.

Mrs. Casgrain said that when the Canadian dollar was devalued last week, the price of coal, oil and gasoline had been boosted almost immediately.

"The C.A.C. should have sent up a howl from coast to coast... surely the dealers had at least two months' supply on hand," she said. "There was no reason for an immediate increase." The Montreal woman said work of the association in studying standards and labelling various goods was important but failed to capture the interest of the average housewife.

"It's the housewife who is terrified at the latest increase in the price of coffee; who can't buy enough meat for her family at present prices—that's the woman you've got to reach."

Mrs. C. H. Newcombe of Winnipeg, president of the Manitoba section, also blamed lack of "definite" action for the drop in membership from a peak of 29,500 in its first year to 8,000 now.

DOROTHY DIX

Divorcee Wants Remarriage Husband Should Refuse Her

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband is getting along well, but has not yet reached the goal he has set for himself. I have a pleasant position, doing just the sort of work I love and we are both wonderfully happy, but my relatives feel that I am disgracing myself and reflecting on my husband's ability to support me because I go to business. They claim that I am keeping some girl out of a position who needs it more than I. I claim that my husband comes first and that it is my duty to help him all I can. Also, that the more money we earn, the more we can save and the sooner we can afford a family. Am I right?

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER—I consider that you are perfectly right and that the way a wife helps her husband is her own affair. If she can help him more by earning money than by doing his cooking and washing and ironing, she should keep on with her job.

It used to be that men had false pride about their wives working outside the home. But husbands have come to take the modern viewpoint and realize that there is no more shame in a woman's making money to buy the bread for her family than there is in her making the bread itself. Also, husbands have come to see that there are many women born with talent for some line of work, and that it is not fair to ask such women to give up the careers in which they are successful to do labor for which they have no turn.

Many Reasons

There are many reasons why a woman should keep on with her work after marriage if she desires and her husband is willing. The main one is, of course, that it enables young couples to marry who would otherwise have to wait until the bloom and freshness had worn off their romance. For the average young man can no more afford the luxury of a wife than he can a yacht, but with both working together, they can marry and not only live comfortably but save toward buying a home, or starting in business for themselves.

As for the contention that a woman should give up her job when she marries because some other girl would like to have it, that is as silly as saying that every man should stop work as soon as he is assured of an income that would provide him with bread and butter. Business isn't run along these altruistic lines.

Tell your relatives, Mrs. S. T. G., that they had better come up to date, for they may rest assured that in another generation women will no more think of retiring from business when they get married than men will.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Some years ago I married and had two children. I lost my job and had to take my family to live with my grandparents while I looked for work elsewhere. During my absence, my wife went to live with relatives. I had forbidden her to speak to me and I was so angry that I didn't communicate with her for some years. Finally, I forgave her and asked her to come back to me and we would start all over again, but she filed suit for divorce and it was granted. Later on I married a young girl whom I loved dearly and with whom I have been very happy. Lately my wife has asked to be given another chance for the children's sake so that they can have a father. The children are very dear, but I haven't seen them since they were babies until now. I don't care for my first wife and I love my second dearly. I know I can never be happy with my first wife, but it is the children I am thinking of. I have talked this over with my present wife and we are both miserable. What should we do?

A TROUBLED MAN.

ANSWER—You can't unscramble eggs, brother. What has been done is done, and that's all there is to it. Your first wife divorced you of her own accord when you were anxious to make up and establish a home for her and the children. She has to abide by that decision, and it is preposterous to ask you to divorce your present wife and remarry her just because she has changed her mind.

Your duty now is to your wife whom you can make happy. The others would only make you miserable. Don't let any foolish idea of a theoretical duty cause you to mess things up any worse. If you can establish a friendship with the children, have them come to visit you. Do what you can for them financially, but don't divorce your present wife and remarry the other one.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My sweetheart's father has not worked for the last year and her small salary has been the only support for her parents and a minor. We are planning to be married very soon, but I wonder if I would be obliged to have her family live with us, and if the law would force me to support them. She lives a very unhappy life at home and the more she does for her family, the more they expect.

PERPLEXED.

ANSWER—The law would not compel you to support your wife's family, but a moral law would. You could not see them starve, and that is apparently what would happen if all they have to live on is taken away from them. It is a common thing for men and women to say that when they marry they do not marry their husband's or their wife's people. But they do. You had best accept that before you go on with the wedding.

Social Situations

SITUATION: Your child says some very uncomplimentary things about his teacher because of the way she has handled a certain problem at school.

WRONG WAY: Without looking into the matter further, side in with your child.

RIGHT WAY: Don't, without making sure of the facts, side in with a child against a teacher, if you want the child to have respect for the teacher.

BABY'S

QUICKLY CORRECTED

BABY'S Little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It is easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs. M. G. Alway of London, Ont., tell you "Baby's Own Tablets" are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote natural comfort. And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and her stomach became quite upset. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying—and quieted down."

Equally effective for teething troubles, constipation, simple fever, Sore-throats, easily crushed to a powder, if desired—prompt in action. No "laughy" stuff—no dulling effect. Buy a box today for sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents.

Plant IMPORTED HOLLAND BULBS!

TULIP TALK

By SORENSON

Tulip planting time is here again . . . once again it is time to think of your springtime garden . . . and how to plant this fall for the best results with your tulips. Tulips should be planted before frost hardens the ground . . . planting time usually extends to the middle of November, but in warmer climates planting should be delayed until Thanksgiving or even later. Tulips like a place in the sun in a rich, loamy, well-drained soil . . . some prepared compost should be dug in deeply . . . manure should never be in contact with the bulbs . . . Best method of planting is to take out the top five inches of soil and set it aside . . . dig compost into the area below to a depth of six to eight inches . . . level surface with a rake after sprinkling bone meal or superphosphate . . . set bulbs on this surface from five to six inches apart and cover with top soil that was originally removed . . . In many regions tulips need no further protection during winter . . . but if a mulch is considered necessary it should be withheld until the surface soil is frozen solid . . . for more complete planting information . . . or special assistance on planting problems . . . come in to Sorenson . . . we are always glad to help out.

MacQuarrie of Halifax, assistant Commissioner Counsel, engaged in a sharp exchange today, third day of a Federal inquiry into the Noronic disaster. Frank Wilkinson, K.C., of Toronto, counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, was told by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock he should not have spoken about the case to a Commission witness after the hearing adjourned Thursday.

Steelworkers Set To Strike At Midnight

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30 (AP)—CIO steelworkers in the United States are set to strike at midnight tonight for company-paid pensions and insurance. They say they'll settle for nothing less.

Eleventh-hour negotiations are deadlocked—but continuing. U. S. mediators summoned union and management in a last-minute, all-out effort to avert the crippling walkout.

Already thousands of Philip Murray's steelworkers have jumped the gun in wildcat strikes. Thousands more were forced into idleness as steel mills banked furnaces, cutting production to a trickle.

Picketing has started. Police guarded mills against possible violence. Meantime, union and management stuck stubbornly to demands. No one hints at compromise. Both sides decline to comment on anything.

Has Little Hope Murray, United Steelworker president, said gloomily after another fruitless talk with U. S. Steel: "I wouldn't even comment about hope at this time."

That's how bleak the picture is. The issue is a pension-insurance program. The union wants steel firms to adopt the formula set down by President Truman's fact-finding board. This is a 10 cent an hour contribution paid entirely by industry. The union says it's the minimum they'll take.

Big steel rejected the proposal. Instead it offered a pension-insurance plan toward which employees would contribute.

Youngster Dies During Operation

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—(CP)—A two-year-old Japanese-Canadian boy died in a doctor's office in a building on downtown Bloor Street today while undergoing a tonsilectomy.

Firemen worked with inhalators in an attempt to restore the child's breathing, but the lad was pronounced dead.

Coroner Dr. J. P. F. Williams has opened an investigation. There are 10 doctors' offices in the building.

When the doctor who performed the operation realized he could not bring the boy out of the anesthetic, he called for other doctors in the house, which has been converted into a medical office building.

Hungary Renounces Yugoslav Treaty

BUDAPEST, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Hungarian government renounced today its pact of friendship and mutual aid with Yugoslavia.

(The Communist press in Romania indicated that other Soviet satellites soon will follow suit. It seemed likely that all the satellite countries will take the cue from Moscow, which yesterday scrapped the Soviet treaty of friendship with Yugoslavia.) Like Moscow, Hungary said Tito's government had violated and "defamed" the pact and made it worthless.

Mao To Lead China

HONG KONG, Sept. 30.—(Reuters)—Mao Tse-tung, leader of China's Communist party, today was unanimously elected chairman of the "Central People's Government of the Republic of China," the Peiping Communist radio announced. Mme. Sun Yat-sen, widow of the founder of the Chinese Republic, and Gen. Chu Teh, commander-in-chief of the Communist army, were among six vice-chairmen elected, the radio said.

Mine Explosion Rocks Two Northern Towns

TIMMINS, Sept. 30.—(CP)—E. B. Weir, Ontario Mines Inspector, went underground at the McIntyre Porcupine Gold Mine today to investigate a rock burst some 3,500 feet underground which shook the mining communities of Timmins and Schumacher Thursday.

Weir's colleagues said they did not know how long his investigation would take. He will make an immediate report to the Chief Inspector of Mines in Toronto. It is understood he will make no public statements here without permission from the mine.

The 15-second tremor shook homes and buildings, brought residents to the streets, and even started an oil burner in a Timmins home. No serious damage and no injuries were reported.

Inspector Weir explained that a rock burst takes place when a section of rock becomes isolated after rock around it is mined out. Side pressure on the isolated part causes it to fly apart and sometimes bring rock above crashing down.

McIntyre officials told of the blast in a statement: "At 1:15 p.m. today a minor rock burst took place between the 3,500 and the 3,600-foot levels of the McIntyre mine. Only minor damage is reported and no persons injured."

Mines department officials said that geological formations could make even a minor rock burst shake the ground surface.

Many Felt It Evidence that the ground was shaken came from many residents. In Timmins' north side, on Main reported: "I rushed into the street it felt as though the house had fallen about three feet into the ground."

A woman at nearby Schumacher: "I stood in the basement and watched jars of preserves popping off the shelves and on to the cellar floor."

Another Timmins man: "What was it, an earthquake; it started my oil burner up."

Three distinct muffled explosions were heard by residents, followed by three shudders of the ground. At Gold Centre, part of Schumacher, cellar windows were reported cracked and cups, saucers and china were shaken from shelves.

Settle Rubber Strike DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 30 (AP)—Negotiators announced today they have agreed to settle the 34-day old Goodrich Rubber strike of 16,000 workers.

East-West Atom Deadlock Haunts UN After 3 Years

LAKE SUCCESS, Sept. 30.—(CP)—The east-west deadlock over control of atomic weapons today continued to taunt the United Nations after more than three years of detailed efforts to find a solution.

The five big powers and Canada Thursday held the eighth in the latest series of meetings where Russia always has been aligned against the overwhelming majority.

The two-hour secret meeting was the first such session of the six countries since President Truman's announcement last week of evidence an atomic explosion had occurred in the Soviet Union.

Summers circulated in U.N. corridors before the meeting that a compromise plan was under discussion to end the long deadlock. But Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, of Canada, told reporters as he waited for the session to start that Canada has no new plan and he knows of no other new proposals.

Following the six-power meeting these facts were made known: 1. That the group discussed a request by news correspondents at the U.N. for briefing after each session, and turned it down. 2. That it will meet here again next Thursday.

Thursday night, however, Warren R. Austin, United States delegate to the U.N., commented in a speech that the Big Five powers and Canada held a "good meeting" with "complete frankness."

The six powers—Britain, United States, France, China, Russia and Canada—said in a statement following the meeting that a report of their work will be made to the current session of the General Assembly.

Captures Two Then Thug Turns Tables

One Man Fires Shot At Dazed Policeman; Three Men Arrested

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—(CP)—Constable William Hunt, 24-year-old rookie working on his first big case, was slugged over the head, disarmed and shot at point-blank with his own revolver Thursday night after attempting to arrest two shopbreakers.

He staggered to downtown police station and reported that a "draped trousered thug was loose in the city with a loaded gun." A general police alarm was sounded and within 10 minutes three men were picked up and held in custody.

Police charge two of them, Thomas Harber, 26, of Midland, and Ernest Davidson, no fixed address, were shopbreaking accomplices of the 200-lb. thug who fired at the young officer. The third man, Alfred Harris, 54, of Toronto, was charged as a material witness.

Know Man's Name Police said they knew the name of the wanted shopbreaker and threw a guard around his midtown rooming house.

Hunt was treated for head injuries but did not require hospital attention. Police said a gang of shopbreakers, organized within the last few days, were removing adding machines and other office equipment from the William Bronson Co., 419 St. John St., when Hunt discovered them.

He ordered two men to surrender with drawn gun. The suspects bolted but he grabbed one. He fired a warning shot in the air.

Hunt then noticed legs protruding from beneath a parked car and seized the second suspect. The third man, still missing, struck him from behind, took his gun and fired point-blank at the officer lying on the ground.

He missed the officer, then fled.

Betty Ritchie To Be Deported

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Betty Ritchie, of Fenelon Falls, and ex-girl friend of Gerard Dennis, international society burglar, has been deported, U.S. immigration authorities said Thursday.

Frank Ellis, of the immigration service, said the deportation order was issued by the United States Attorney-General on charges that she entered the United States without an immigration visa. He said a departure date will be set sometime this week.

Last April 11 a jury acquitted the 24-year-old woman of accepting stolen property from Dennis, a native of St. Catharines. The prosecution charged that she accepted a $3,500 mink coat from Dennis. She denied the charge.

She was arrested in Dennis' Beverly Hills apartment shortly after he was apprehended in Cleveland on charges of stealing thousands of dollars worth of valuables in Hollywood, Beverly Hills and White Plains, N.Y.

Miss Ritchie, after her acquittal, said she would return voluntarily.

Fliers' Message Hoax, Drop Search

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A renewed plane-and-ship search in the Atlantic for two missing Italian fliers was called off late Thursday after the mysterious message which inspired it was exposed as a hoax.

The mysterious message had given hope that the two airmen—John M. Brondello and Camillo Baroglio—might be drifting 300 miles east of the Bahamas. They have been missing 12 days.

However, reports from Rome late in the day indicated that the whole thing was based on a fake message received by "telepathic currents" not by radio.

At the same time the United States coast guard announced here that the Italian Embassy in Washington, after a series of urgent inquiries in Rome, had reported "all authorities regard case as hoax."

SEASON'S END MUSKIE TROPHY, 35 pounds, and second of similar weight taken from Rice Lake this year was boated by D. A. Bowers, Geneva-on-the-Lake, Ohio, on Wednesday evening. After a long struggle with the help of his wife and four boatloads of kibitzers it gave up the fight. Mr. Bowers caught it on a six-season old plug in a bay about three miles east of Keene on the north shore.

Sweeping Vote Backs Attlee

LONDON, Sept. 30.—(CP)—The Labor government's big majority in the House of Commons has carried the Attlee administration triumphantly through a three-day emergency debate on devaluation, but today there was talk of an early general election in the air.

Even as the special Commons session, by a vote of 342 to 5, Thursday night gave smashing approval to the government's action in cutting the value of the pound sterling by 30 per cent, a leading Labor organ urged the government to call an election late in October or early in November, instead of rounding out its five-year term of office and go to the country in midsummer, 1950.

It was the first open demand from an important segment of the Labor party for a quick election and set members of parliament wondering whether their seats may be at stake within a matter of weeks.

The publication is the Tribune, weekly Labor review edited by Michael Foot, a member of the Labor party executive and Jennie Lee, wife of fiery Health Minister Aneurin Bevan.

The Tribune, in an unsigned article titled "Let's Have An Election Now," said the choice lay between voting in the spring or at the end of October or the beginning of November and "of the two periods we prefer the latter."

Attlee Opposed Political sources said Prime Minister Attlee, however, opposed an election before next spring.

Left-wing members within the Labor Party appeared to be pressing for an election now on the grounds that delay might cost them votes if a rise in living costs develops as a result of devaluation.

Shortly before the Commons vote in support of devaluation, a motion of no confidence—which would have forced Britain into an immediate general election—was proposed by Conservative Leader Winston Churchill. It was defeated 350 to 212.

Conservative Party sources said today their machine is ready for an election any time. The opposition press has been demanding a fall election.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express today pleaded: "Speed the general election and give the nation a chance in this desperate situation to reject the crazy economists who have brought it to its present plight."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The House of Representatives committee on Un-American Activities today named Joseph W. Weinberg, University of Minnesota professor, as the "scientist X" accused of slipping wartime United States atomic secrets to a Communist spy.

The committee recommended in a report that the U.S. Justice Department prosecute Weinberg on charges he lied under oath in: 1. Denying Communist party membership and attending Young Communist League meetings.

2. Knowing Communist leader Steve Nelson. 3. Knowing Nelson's secretary, Bernadette Doyle.

Nelson, the committee said, "was engaged in securing information regarding the development of the atomic bomb from scientist X."

That was back in 1943, the committee adds, when Weinberg was employed at the radiation laboratory at the University of California. The laboratory helped perfect the atomic bomb.

Truck Upsets Driver Jumps

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—(CP)—A split-second decision to jump saved the life of Al Mason, 25-year-old truck driver to-day when his 17-ton mixer truck, loaded with concrete went over a 180-foot embankment on the edge of the Humber River in suburban Swansea.

Mason said he jumped from the left side of the truck when the steering gear locked and it headed for the steep bank, after narrowly missing a guard-rail. He struck the guard rail but escaped injury.

The truck plunged down the steep slope, tearing out three 10-foot trees on its way. It was stopped from entering the water by a fourth tree.

Oct. 6 was set for sentencing. The minimum sentence would be five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine; the maximum—death. But the government did not ask the death penalty.

High Officials Pay Tribute To Canadians

Commonwealth Gives Gift Of Gates For War Achievement

TRENTON, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP)—A favorite wartime tune—the Air Force March—set the theme of operations today as top men from the Commonwealth gathered to pay tribute to the RCAF and Canada at this historic RCAF station.

One of the most impressive collections of senior air force and former air force officials converged on this key station of the RCAF training program to dedicate a set of gates to the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

And the jaunty "March-Past" air had a special significance. It was a salute to a major Commonwealth achievement, a mass production program of aircrew training which turned out 131,553 Commonwealth airmen and provided a decisive factor of the Second World War.

In many respects, it was one of Canada's biggest contributions to the war and Canada today was honored by the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand—the other main partners in the scheme—for running the huge air factory so well.

High Brass Present The gates themselves—a token of limestone and wrought iron—were overshadowed by the host of "high brass" which converged on Trenton.

There was Lord Tedder, now retired with the rank of Marshal of the RAF. He was chief of air operations in Europe when Germany capitulated and Gen. Eisenhower's second-in-command throughout the continental campaign.

In addition, there were Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, UK Undersecretary of State for Air, Rt. Hon. Francis Forde, High Commissioner for Australia, and Hon. James A. Thorn, High Commissioner for New Zealand. They gathered to present Prime Minister St. Laurent with the gates.

There were others, too—Air Marshals and Air Chief Marshals from Canada and Great Britain who had some hand in the gigantic BCATP. But it was Canada's day.

New Freight Rates Effective October 11 OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—(CP)—General increases in railway freight rates authorized by the Board of Transport Commissioners last week will become effective October 11.

The Board ordered that the railways must give 10 days' notice before putting in the permitted 8 per cent general increase. The new rates now are being filed with the Board, and officials said today it was expected all would be on file tomorrow, to go into effect on October 11.

Hundreds of new tariffs are in the schedules being filed with the Commissioners and, while officials said it was difficult to determine immediately if the full increase was being called for in all cases, it was expected that the railways would take full advantage of the award.

Lewis Orders Coal Miners To Return To Their Jobs

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va., Sept. 30.—(AP)—John L. Lewis today ordered Pennsylvania's 80,000 hard coal miners and 22,000 soft coal diggers west of the Mississippi to go back to work today.

As far as these men are concerned it ends a walkout started Sept. 19.

The move was announced in a telegram from Lewis to presidents of the affected United Mine Workers' districts.

The telegram said: "The suspension of mining in the western and anthracite areas is not now vital to the pending wage negotiations."

It said the action was taken "to minimize loss to all parties."

The order affects the three U.M.W. anthracite districts in eastern Pennsylvania and seven bituminous districts covering Washington, Iowa, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Missouri, Wyoming, Utah, and Montana.

Soft-coal production in these states is estimated at less than 10 per cent of the United States total. The hard coal districts produce some 57,000,000 tons each year.

More than 400,000 soft-coal miners in the north, west and south still will be idle. Contract negotiations at White Sulphur Springs and at Bluefield, 90 miles away, have been thoroughly bogged down.

Supreme Court Act Change Assailed By Senator Fallis

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—(CP).—One of Canada's two women parliamentarians, Senator Iva Fallis (P.C., Ontario), Thursday reminded Parliament that women are people.

Speaking in the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, Senator Fallis, now entering her 15th session, recalled that this wasn't always accepted as so.

She referred especially to the Government's proposal to abolish appeals to the judicial committee of the Privy Council.

"If it had not been for this right of appeal," she said, "I would not be here today."

She recalled an editorial in a newspaper, after women had been granted the franchise, after the First World War. It said that it was inevitable that women must be admitted to the Commons, but expressed gratitude they would never reach the senior chamber.

When the question arose of appointing women to the Senate a few years later, Senator Fallis said, the Supreme Court of Canada—"in all seriousness"—ruled against it on the ground that a woman was "not a person under the meaning of the act."

Later the Privy Council reversed the ruling and "declared that a woman is a person."

Taking an independent stand throughout her address, Senator Fallis said she disagreed with speeches by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader in the Commons, and John T. Haig, Opposition leader in the Senate.

They had promised "co-operation" with the Government.

She was willing to "co-operate," she said, but was "puzzled" in determining just where the Conservative leaders asked for co-operation.

She asked, too, whether she was called on to co-operate with the Government's pre-election policy of "no subsidized housing," or co-operate with the present plan of the Government, which in effect was subsidized housing.

That point established, she launched into her defense of women as people, a lone female figure among male parliamentarians in the absence of Senator Cairine Wilson (L., Ontario), a member of Canada's delegation to the United Nations General Assembly.

She recalled that after the Supreme Court had ruled that women were not people, "five able and courageous women from the prairies" carried the case to the Privy Council.

She was surprised that Justice Minister Garson, in urging passage of the bill to abolish Privy Council appeals, should have used as his main point that it would "bolster our national pride."

Three Different Versions

The commissioner then recalled to the witness that O'Neill had given three different stories, and that possibly right now he wasn't sure which was true.

O'Neill agreed. He also agreed with the commissioner that he wasn't quite sure now what happened on the night of the fire, what he did or the sequence of his actions.

Capt. Howard Russell Baxter, of Montreal, CSL marine superintendent, said the Noronic's hull was constructed of steel and wooden superstructure. The flooring was steel, some covered with wood, some congoium, some no covering.

Baxter said on "C" deck the paneling, stairway railings and doors were of wood and the steel deck was covered with carpet. Paneling was valished "from one end to the other."

Not Exact Measurements

Capt. Baxter said he was unable to give exact measurements of the "C" deck linen closets. He estimated they were six feet by six feet.

There were two, one on the starboard, one on the port side, both of wooden construction and unconnected. To his knowledge there were no transoms over the doors, Capt. Baxter said.

Capt. Baxter said no instructions were issued by the owners to the ship's master with regard to what should be done when his ship is in port; what he is to do.

"No, the master is responsible for that ship," Capt. Baxter said. There were no instructions issued by the company to the master as to the crew that should be kept on duty in port."

Many of the CSL records—including those governing installation of the Noronic's fire alarm system—were lost in a fire in Montreal, he said.

Heard Alarm

Capt. Baxter corroborated earlier evidence that the alarm bell rang in the engine room, mate's quarters and steward's office.

"There was a system of 'annunciators' which indicated... the location of the fire."

"How accurately?" asked the commissioner.

"I don't know."

Capt. Baxter said it was up to the master to give instructions to officers and crew on muster stations in the event of fire.

Prior to adjournment until 2:15 p.m. EDT, the witness identified a circular of instructions sent by CSL to ship's master while in command, also outlining the procedure to follow in event of fire.

O'Neill told the inquiry, under Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, that at no time did he hear fire signals after breaking the glass on a fire alarm box aboard the vessel.

He said a passenger reported the fire to him. O'Neill, possibly the second person aboard to learn of the blaze, admitted under questioning he did not rouse sleeping passengers because he "didn't think of it." He did awaken five bellboys when first attempts to extinguish the fire failed.

O'Neill's evidence on the lack of alarms followed that of an earlier witness, passenger Earl Roettger of Cleveland, O., who also said he heard no alarms ringing while he was making his escape.

Told By Passenger
O'Neill told the Commissioner that a passenger whom he did not know halted him in front of the linen closet and told him of a fire inside it. There was a slight haze of smoke in the corridor and it seemed to be coming from the closet.

"I rushed downstairs to the steward's office and got a passkey," said O'Neill. "I went back to the linen closet and there was more smoke than before. Then I remembered there was a fire extinguisher in the bar and I got it. I opened the closet door and pumped the extinguisher into it. There did not seem to be much effect."

O'Neill said he remembered pulling a hose off the wall "and a gentleman helped me." He did not know whether it was the same passenger who previously told him of the fire. This passenger held the nozzle and O'Neill stood behind him, holding part

Norman Hatton Dies At Home

Two weeks after the death of his wife, Norman Campbell Hatton died this morning at his residence, 377 Park Street.

Mr. Hatton was a son of the late George W. Hatton, K.C., former Crown Attorney and barrister in Peterborough, and his wife, Ella Campbell. He was educated in Peterborough, and was a veteran of the First World War, suffering a disability that permanently impaired his health. Prior to his enlistment as a young man he had been with the CNR in Toronto, and in the insurance business.

Some years ago he suffered a heart attack which brought about his retirement from active affairs.

Mr. Hatton leaves his daughter Anne Marie Hatton at home, his sisters Miss Marjorie Hatton and Mrs. D. J. Lawrence, and brother David Hatton of Peterborough, and his brother, Walford of Montreal.

The body is resting at his late home until 11 a.m. Monday. The funeral service at 2 p.m. Monday will be at the funeral home of A. Comstock & Sons, 305 Water Street. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

Whopper!

Hotel owner D. A. Bowers, Geneva-on-the-Lake, Ohio, boasted a 35-pound muskie in a bay three miles east of Keene on Rice Lake just before a thunderstorm on Wednesday evening.

The monster fish broke water once and tangled in the weeds for half an hour before being landed; his wife assisted in the final knock-out count. Mr. Bowers, who has been coming to the same resort area for 12 years, has used the same rod and reel and a scarred plaid for the past six. Four boatloads of kibitzing fishermen watched him play the fish and offered running advice. Another 35-pounder was taken about three miles away from the same spot by Mrs. Elmer Zingery of Beach City, O., in mid-July.

of the hose. The nozzle was pointing into the closet.

"Was it operating?" asked Mr. Justice Kellock.

O'Neill hesitated. "I think it was."

"Did you turn in an alarm before using the fire extinguisher?"

"No, sir."

"Was there water coming out of the hose?"

Again O'Neill hesitated. Then he replied: "I don't know."

"At this time, were you and this passenger the only ones near the fire," asked J. T. McQuarrie, assistant inquiry counsel.

"I believe there were others," said O'Neill.

Farmer Alleges Reeve Called Him Jew and Bastard

COBOURG, Sept. 30 (ENS)—Details of a school trustee election meeting that ended in name calling, were related in assize court Thursday during the hearing of a slander damage action for $10,000 brought by Arnold Lever, Smithfield farmer against the reeve of Brighton Township, Frank George of Smithfield. The case started with a jury but by consent of the litigants, Mr. Justice J. K. MacKay dismissed the jury and it became a non-jury hearing with prospects of finishing on Friday. Plaintiff is represented by J. C. M. German of Cobourg and defence counsel is Arthur W. Greer of Oshawa.

Mr. Lever alleges that he was called a Jew and a bastard by the reeve, who he claims said that he had had a "convenient fire," these remarks having been made, it is stated, at the ratepayers' meeting of March 30 this year when a school trustee was elected.

From the evidence brought out it appeared that a Mr. Hendricks had been elected a member of the union school section board of Murray and Brighton townships but that the question was raised as to his being able to qualify under the residence rule. The election took place at a meeting prior to the one at which the ructions were raised.

Reeve George is said to have quoted at the first meeting from a set of regulations to show that Mr. Hendricks was qualified to take office. Later Mr. Hendricks resigned. The ratepayers' meeting of March 30 was called and Howard Ireland was elected by a small majority over another candidate.

Mr. Lever told the court that he was not a Jew but was a Scotch Canadian. He was a carpenter by trade and came to Smithfield about a year and a half ago. At the meeting in question there were 160 persons present—"everyone who could walk" witness described it. The meeting ended in somewhat of a squabble. Mr. Ireland observed to Mr. George that the latter knew that Mr. Hendricks was not eligible to hold the office because of his residence. The complainant continued:

Calls Him White Jew

"Mr. George said in reply, 'I was smart enough to put it over and you were dumb enough to take it.' 'I told George that he was not so smart this time. He was two votes short of being so smart. I also said to George that I would like him to understand I was not a Jew. He replied 'I still say you are a Jew' and I replied that I could trace my ancestors back just as far as he could. 'There are two kinds of Jews, white Jews and black ones and I say you are a white one,' Mr. George said to me. Then I asked him for the definition of a Jew and he said a white Jew is a cheap bastard."

"I felt like hitting him but there were women at the meeting. Then Mr. George said, 'Arnold, we'll be just as good friends as ever tomorrow.' Mr. George came to me later and said 'you don't need to think you can come down here and start running the country. You moved in here and had a very convenient fire.'"

"I expected he would come back and apologize but he didn't. I bought an old grist mill and moved in some machinery and figured on remodelling it and making a bunghole. It was a regular carpenter's paradise of white pine which you can't get now. I paid $700 and drew $1,200 insurance when it burned down while I was away working at 6 RD (Trenton). 'I had $400 worth of machinery in there and it cost a lot to clean up the mess. I paid $250 for an old barn to get more material. It was the most inconvenient thing that ever happened to me. I took Mr. George as meaning that I had set my own fire,' testified Mr. Lever.

Were Good Neighbors
Cross-examined by Mr. Greer, the plaintiff said that it was correct that he and Mr. George were good neighbors and that one time after the meeting, Mr. George pulled his truck out of the ditch on the driveway used by Mr. Lever to get to a timber area. His own son and Mr. George's boy were chums and visited back and forth. Prior to the meeting he had never heard Mr. George call him a Jew to his face. It was after he had told him that he wasn't so smart this time that Mr. George called him a Jew, witness said.

"When he called you a cheap bastard did you infer he meant you were an illegitimate child?" Mr. Greer asked. Mr. Lever replied in the affirmative.

"Do you really mean that? Is it not just a vulgar expression that is used at times? Did you ever use it?" Mr. Greer asked. Mr. Lever admitted that he had used the term "son of a bitch" but that he used it in a general sense, more as a figure of speech. Ernest Ireland, secretary of the school section board, said that there was no bad blood between him and Mr. George. He recalled hearing Mr. George say to Mr. Lever something about him being a Jew. Mr. Lever asked what kind of a Jew and Mr. George said "you are a cheap bastard. You come down here and try to run the village. You had a convenient fire."

Mr. Ireland said that he was not unduly perturbed about the Jew reference but he thought that calling him a "cheap bastard" was going too far. He inferred that Mr. George was ascusing Mr. Lever of burning his buildings. Cross-examined by Mr. George, Mr. Ireland said that he was not bad friends with Mr. George. However he did tell Mr. George that the trouble was his own fault. It was true that he had had a dispute with Mr. George about Wood that had been sold to the school board by his (Mr. Ireland's) son-in-law but that he was not bad friends with Mr. George over the matter.

Dean Clarke of Smithfield, another one at the meeting, told of what he heard.

"I heard Mr. George say to Mr. Lever 'I still say you are a Jew but don't get me wrong. There are two kinds of Jew, white Jews and black Jews. You are a white Jew.' Then Mr. Lever asked the definition of a white Jew. Mr. George replied 'a poor cheap bastard.' I heard Mr. George say to Mr. Lever, 'you had a very convenient fire in the village' and I gathered that was accusing Mr. Lever of setting fire to his buildings," testified Clarke.

Kenneth Young, son-in-law of Ernest Ireland, related that he heard Mr. George say to Mr. Lever "you are a cheap bastard Jew." "You had a convenient fire." He also recalled Mr. George say that they would still be friends next day and of Mr. Lever replying "not until you have taken it back."

Choice Of Gigantic Evils

Let us face it. Now that Russia has the atomic bomb, and the U.N. Atomic Energy Commission has failed, mankind has a choice of two portentous evils. One is to give Russia an ultimatum to accept an effective international control agency or, failing its acceptance, to enforce it by war. The other is to permit an unrestricted atomic armaments race between Russia and the West—it has already begun—and ultimately, in ten or fifty years, to undergo an annihilating war, far more disastrous to all civilization than a war would be now when Russia has presumably no or a few bombs. It is a cruel alternative.

It can be argued that a war delayed may be a war avoided. It is impossible for history either to prove or disprove this. History cannot show that a proposed war has been avoided, nor that a war which has not been delayed could have been avoided. War is not war until it comes. However, the Kaiser War of 1914-18 was postponed, but not avoided. The second World War was postponed, but not avoided.

If postponement allows for the building up of greater war potential on both sides, especially with such dreadful atomic weapons, is civilization not consigning itself to ultimate catastrophe? If war is barely avoidable now, how can it be avoided later when both sides are armed to the teeth? The western world could then, of course, surrender itself for the sake of life in death; such a surrender is not necessary now.

The easier way is to hope, to delay, and to dig our heads into the sand so that we cannot see Russia. It is true, too, that the western world is not psychologically prepared to wage another war now. The shock and weariness of the last are too near. Nevertheless, granted that war is unavoidable, a war now would be less horrible than one ten or twenty years hence.

Is war avoidable? Our hearts cry out despairingly, pleadingly, Yes. Our minds tell us otherwise. The fact is that Communist Russia's heart does not beat with the same humanity, and her Marxist mind, nourished by blood pumped from a steel heart, comes up with the answer No. It is a clash of ideologies, the least likely kind of clash to be resolved without resort to force. One or other ideology must go down, or at the last, which could be within a generation, both will perish together.

For The Hospital's Good

Queen's Park, long a prater against centralization, has set itself up as a central authority over the Peterborough Civic Hospital, and through devious channels reaching down to the Deputy Minister of Health, has scotched By-Law 59, for the flimsiest of reasons. It has said that because a revision to the Hospital Act is now being contemplated, the By-law which the Peterborough Board of Governors passed nine months ago cannot be approved. Whether or not the by-law should be quashed, suspended or amended, the way it was done will not meet with Peterborough approval. The Peterborough hospital is a civic not a Provincial hospital.

This controversial by-law restricted the use of the operating room to certified surgeons and others on conditions of the Board of Governor's Medical Advisory Committee. It was to have been enforced tomorrow. Whatever the limitations or strength of the by-law, it was drafted by doctors, who are heads of services at the hospital. Copies of the draft were sent out to all the doctors for their approval and suggestions before the by-law was recommended to the Board and passed. Several amendments have now been urged by some doctors. The Governors were guided and still are being guided, by the recommendations of their Medical and Surgical Advisory Committee. This committee has a primary duty to the hospital, and not to the medical fraternity.

In advising the Board, the Committee must first consider the welfare of the hospital, even at the disregard of their medical and surgical brethren. So must the Board, in acting on recommendations of its Committee, give primary consideration to the welfare of the hospital and the citizens whose hospital it is.

Peterborough citizens are in the process of building a fine new hospital, at great expense to themselves. They want, as assuredly the Board of Governors want and all the doctors want, this hospital to have as high standards and as progressive an outlook as any in the Province. They want it to provide medical and surgical treatment and care the equal of the best to be had in Ontario. There, surely, is the fundamental on which all parties can agree, and on that basis, surely, hospital regulations can be drawn and should be drawn.

American Peace

In ancient days Europe had several centuries of comparative peace imposed by the Romans—the Pax Romanorum. For a century until 1914 the world had comparative peace under British arms—a Pax Britannorum. Now that Britain has spent her power, and the United States has become the strongest nation, shall we have a Pax Americanus? The United States is at least being given the responsibility and a vast change has come over western defence plans. We noted in these columns Wednesday the reorientation of Canadian arms, away from Britain, toward the United States. This shift is related to the larger change.

The application of the theory to practice is coming through the North Atlantic Pact. Two weeks ago the foreign ministers of the twelve nations adhering to the Pact met in conference as a council to consider the primary steps in the united arming of the West. The chairmanship of the council will rotate yearly, as will the chairmanship of the defence committee. Significantly Mr. Dean Acheson of the United States was the first council chairman. The member nations seemed desirous of having American leadership, and the American representative was not reluctant to take it. The headquarters of the North Atlantic Alliance will be in Washington.

Five defence regions are being established: northern Europe, western Europe, southern Europe and the western Mediterranean, North America, and the North Atlantic. The United States will have membership on all the regional planning groups, Canada on the Western Europe and the Atlantic area, as well as on the joint North American. The defence committee will have its first meeting, also in Washington, next Wednesday.

Thus is the United States taking active leadership in defending not only continental America and the Atlantic, but also in Europe as far east as the Elbe. America's frontier is now considered to be beyond the Rhine. It is a very important break from Munro Doctrine days, when the United States could turn its back on Europe, confident that it would not be stabbed, because Britain was the breast-plate.

No More Crop Burning

Socialists and Communists allege that capitalism may be successful in dealing with the means of production, but that it fails to deal adequately with the means of distribution. They are fond of pointing out that millions of pounds of coffee have deliberately been burnt in Brazil, that root and grain crops on this continent have been ploughed under, and that from time to time seedling is deliberately restricted, so as to avoid unprofitable surpluses. It is said that capitalistic (orthodox) economists are not gravely concerned about this burning of crops in one part of the world while another part starves, because it is the economic thing to do. Unorthodox economists say capitalism should be done away with, if that is what its economic principles make necessary. Ordinary people, not economists seem to like their capitalism but to be horrified that such waste should be allowed, or encouraged.

Now comes a plan, proposed by the director-general of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization which may permit crop surpluses to be distributed instead of destroyed. The F.A.O. proposes that an international clearing house be set up, capitalized at five billion dollars contributed by member countries in their own currencies, and that this be used to buy surplus foods in one country for use in a country which needs it.

We do not know how the financial experts will react to the proposal, but we do know that it makes horse sense, if not monetary sense. If it is acceptable economically, in capitalistic countries like ours, the Communists will have one fewer criticism to level at Capitalism.

When is a dollar a dollar? When it's ninety cents, in a U.S. sense.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column, particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: How many atomic bomb explosions have there been?

ANSWER: There have been seven known ones:

July 16, 1945—The world's first man-made atomic explosion was set off on the desert sands at Alamogordo, 120 miles south of Albuquerque, N.M.

August 6, 1945—The first atom bomb to be used against man was dropped on Hiroshima, Japan.

August 9, 1945—The Japanese city of Nagasaki was destroyed by the second and last atom bomb dropped in World War II.

July 1, 1946—The first atomic explosion since the war, an above-the-surface explosion, was staged at Bikini.

July 25, 1946—A second test explosion was held at Bikini, this time "somewhere beneath the surface" of the ocean.

April and May, 1948—A new and improved atomic bomb was exploded in a series of three tests at Eniwetok in the Marshall Islands. The results were described as "highly satisfactory."

"Recently"—The Russians carry out an atomic explosion, shattering the United States atomic monopoly.

SIR: Those new street lights on Water Street seem to be pretty good. Why isn't this type used on all the streets? How strong are they, anyway?

ANSWER: They are 300 watts, the same strength as the George Street lamps, but they give more light because (a) they are high up above the street (25 feet) and over the road, so they light the street and not the buildings, as do the old-fashioned George Street lamps. (b) They have refractors in them. (c) Their beams can be directed. There are two kinds; one for the middle of a block have a wide span; those for the ends of a block can be spread three ways.

Mr. Dobbin of the Utilities Commission tells me that the plan is to illuminate all the main arteries with them, and to use the old standards on side and residential streets where so much light is neither needed nor desired. They will be repainted and are still in perfectly good condition. There are several types of old ones, and the various streets on which they are used will be uniformly of one type.

The new Water Street bracket type are the same kind recommended for use in Toronto. Several firms make them, the C.G.E. being one of the larger suppliers.

ALPHA: I've been having an argument, so please settle it. I know the answers, but I want an outside opinion to convince my Toronto university friend and win the bet. (a) Which is older, Queen's or Toronto University? (b) Who holds more degrees, President Smith or Principal Wallace of Queen's?

ANSWER: The University of Toronto (as University College) is older by statute; Queen's is older as a functioning college. Toronto got its charter in 1827 but did not begin teaching until 1843. Queen's had its charter and permission from Queen Victoria to use its royal title in 1841 and opened its modest door to students in March 1842.

Principal Robert C. Wallace of Queen's has more degrees and is widely considered the most distinguished of Canadian university heads. He holds the following degrees: M.A., B.Sc., D.Sc., Ph.D., LL.D., and D.C.L. Four of these were "earned" at Edinburgh and Göttingen (Germany). All told he holds two D.Sc.'s, thirteen LL.D.'s and two D.C.L.'s; twenty degrees. A 21st is coming up from Belfast this week-end. He is a Doctor of Laws of Harvard and Edinburgh (an honorary degree), and a Doctor of Civil Law (also honorary) of Oxford. He is also C.M.G. from the King, F.G.S. and F.R.S.C. from learned societies (Fellow of the Geological Society—England, and Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada). Be it said that Dr. Wallace bears his honours lightly, his learning modestly, and his years youthfully.

P.S. I suspect your question to be a planted one; it falls too pat on the recent issue of the Queen's Journal.

DEAR ALPHA: Is there a house, on the old Norwood Road I believe, that has some connection with the Rogers family of "Rogers Rangers" fame, and does one of Rogers' uniforms still remain in the family's possession?

ANSWER: A blank. Shall try to track down some information for a later report. Meanwhile, I shall be glad to hear from any reader who can shed light on this question.

ALPHA: My next door neighbour's husband always calls his wife his "woman". Don't you think that is pretty vulgar?

ANSWER: My next door neighbour calls his wife his "old woman", so you must have tony neighbours compared with mine. Does your neighbour's wife refer to her husband as her "man"? Mine calls hers her "old man", when she is not in a bad mood. We should get together and gossip about our neighbours. I'll tell you privately what mine call each other when they are in a foul temper; that is really worth hearing.

I don't object to "my man" and "my woman" instead of "my husband" and "my wife". The latter, though more common in polite usage, seems to emphasize the legal rather than the human and physical side of the relationship.

Have you noticed that the marriage service goes: "I pronounce you man and wife", not "husband and wife"? That use of wife, instead of woman (the usual opposite of man is woman) dates from Anglo-Saxon times, before the word woman came into the language. All women were called "wives". You have in Chaucer the "Wife of Bath", meaning "woman of Bath". The word woman comes from Middle English (wimman or wumman) which comes from Old English wifman (wife-man). That derivation may explain why the plural "women" is pronounced wim-men—the "i" sound in "wife" (Wife in Anglo-Saxon and Old English was pronounced with a short "i", not the long one of today.)

SIR: This is a whimsical protest, written in the middle of an evening while my wife is out and I am messing around with diapers.

SO, GENTLEMEN, WHEN DO WE SIGN

OR LATER?

Canada's Homeless P.M.

(R. K. CARNEGIE IN THE OTTAWA CITIZEN)

AN official residence for the Prime Minister has again been proposed in the Commons. Probably the Canadian people would welcome such an expenditure of public funds. But it may be found desirable to build a new house rather than remodel some stately but out-of-date home such as the Edwards' house on Sussex Street, now occupied by the Australian High Commissioner.

The Prime Minister and Mrs. St. Laurent now live in a small apartment in center town. One M.P. terms this a disgraceful situation. Mr. St. Laurent hasn't stated his view, but it may be that for his own personal convenience he does not find the present set-up so intolerable as the debate in the Commons would indicate.

Mr. St. Laurent may like to live close enough to Parliament Hill so that he can walk there in five minutes without hurrying. Being forced to live in a small apartment has its advantages. When people come to visit him they know he cannot provide them with sleeping quarters and so they have to stay at an hotel. They would not consider this any reflection on his hospitality, as he would be glad to accommodate them if he could secure a bigger place. This must provide him with hours of rest and quiet he would not get if he had a big house. A prime minister needs all the rest and quiet he can secure.

A prime minister, however, cannot live indefinitely in a small apartment. The public expect him to have living quarters that will permit him to entertain his and the nation's guests in a manner befitting his station. So Mr. St. Laurent will likely have to move to larger living quarters whether he wants to or not.

The tendency to shift from large mansions to smaller quarters has been going on for years, and before the war many fine old homes around Ottawa were a drug on the real estate market. Several were converted into apartment houses. As Canada became more Commonwealth and foreign countries established diplomatic missions in Canada's capital, a new demand developed for the big houses and these were gradually acquired for diplomatic premises.

CANADA set the example at the time of Confederation by buying the stately home of Hon. Thomas MacKay in Rockcliffe as a residence for the governor-general. It became Government House, and the nation has been spending money in large chunks enlarging and remodeling it ever since. The British Government bought Earscliffe, the historic home of Sir John A. Macdonald, for its high commissioner. The Russians bought the Davis home and the Americans the Soper home, to name only a few such purchases.

France built a completely new residence for its ambassador and it is a splendid example of what can be done when you build now. It is easily the finest building of its kind in Ottawa. Its appointments are thoroughly modern. The government might follow the example of France and instead of making over an old house, which always costs about three times what is expected, build the most modern home possible for the Prime Minister. Much has been learned in house designing since these older mansions were put up. After all, we are a new country and there are no homes left in Ottawa with historical value sufficient to offset the advantage of a new building.

The authorities may decide on a site in centre town within easy walking distance of the Houses of Parliament. A considerable

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgement ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and behold, a beam is in thine own eye?

Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

And it came to pass, when Jesus had ended these sayings, the people were astonished at his doctrine: for he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes. (Matt. 7: 1-5, 28, 29.)

Letter To The Editor

UPHOLDER OF PARLIAMENT

SIR: I am glad to see the Examiner upholding the principle of our parliamentary system for the last ten years. However, I would like to remind you, Sir, that Mr. Smallwood of Newfoundland is to face a Royal Commission for similar views. When a newspaper with your wide influence infers that unless the next M.P. from this riding is not—quote "Sitting on the right side of the House" we will have no Federal Building. In my opinion the editorial staff of your paper is lost in a wilderness.

May I be so bold as to suggest you might use your wits and have this riding enlarged and for luck, Sir, you might find yourself a hockey player to run in the next federal election.

Yours truly,
MARY E. ROGERS

More People At Work Than Ever Before

More women were at work in Great Britain this summer than ever before. Ministry of Labour statistics estimate the total working population last July at 23.2 million, an increase of 11,000 on the preceding month. At the time, there has been a rise of 18,000 in unemployed but more than half of this was accounted for by boys and girls who had left school and not yet found employment. Even with this temporary expansion, the unemployment figure for the country remained at the very low level of a little over one per cent. of all insured.

part of No. 10 Downing Street, the official residence in London of the British Prime Minister, is devoted to offices, and the cabinet meets there regularly. The President of the United States has his offices in his official residence, the White House. He gives his press interviews and issues administration statements from there.

It may be found that the Prime Minister's residence here should be devoted more to living quarters. The cabinet probably would continue to meet in the East Block as it did when Mr. King was Prime Minister and lived at Laurier House.

Holland Seeking Ways To Ease Bad Overcrowding

By WILLIAM BOSS

THE HAGUE, Sept. 30—(CP)—With the highest birthrate in Europe and the most-pronounced increase in population in the last half-century, the Netherlands is looking for new outlets for her products and her people. More than 20,000 Netherlands apply yearly to go to Canada alone, while other thousands bid for new lives in South Africa, the United States and South and Central America.

Every day Canadian immigration officers in The Hague process 80 applicants, all of whom have been "screened" previously by a Netherlands government agency which tests them for reliability, experience and political record.

The government is particular that its emigrants do credit to the name of Holland. It advertises in the press, sponsors broadcasts on emigrant opportunities over the radio, and invites applicants to write to the Netherlands Emigration Foundation in The Hague.

The Foundation reviews the applications, visits the writers' homes and families to check personal and professional credentials and compiles character records. Applicants approved are then recommended to the Canadian authorities.

Take Farm Workers

At present Canada considers only agricultural workers, although some miners and lumber workers have left by special arrangement.

The traffic is not all one-way. Many Canadian ex-servicemen have returned to take jobs in Holland, and a number of Canadians are here as students.

Dr. Fred Hess of Zurich, Ont., a 1946 graduate of the University of Toronto, is one of three Canadians doing specialist studies in famous Netherlands hospitals. With his class mate, Dr. Con Peterson of Toronto, he is at Amsterdam's renowned Wilhelmina Gasthuis, a 2,000-bed training hospital.

Hess, specializing in obstetrics, has had to accustom himself to the Dutch practice of delivering babies without anaesthetic, often in common delivery rooms, occupied by as many as seven women in various stages of labor.

Dutch doctors also differ from North American practice by delivering their own offspring, and Hess received his own son into the world last December—but with anaesthetic.

More than 20,000 Netherlands have sailed to Canada during the last two years and a survey by the foundation indicates that 85 per cent are content in their new existence.

However, 25 males returned in August after failure in the Dominion, and articles in one popular paper were headlined "Canada does not seem to be the promised land." But the flood of applicants continues.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

All four of the local grid squads will see action this week-end, but only one game is listed for this borough. PCVS and St. Peter's High tangle at 2.30 in the Oval tomorrow aft to open their COSSA district schedule. Coach Alex Londry's huskies looked good in the PCVS exhibition a week ago, while Coach Fred Allore's SPS team shows plenty of promise in workouts—and will get the test tomorrow in combat. Weight on the line, speed back of it and solid coaching should make Saints a potent junior pack, and the Saturday struggle will be worth seeing. Senior PCI-ers have a night exhibition up Toronto way with East York this eve, whilst our ORFU Panthers have an important scheduled tilt tomorrow in Orillia.

President Mill Hardill officially closes the season for the Peterborough Golf Club tomorrow. Plenty of golfers will continue to go around for the next month or so, but the official closing is Saturday. Competition during the afternoon, followed in the evening by a big dinner and the presentation of prizes. Jack Hardill won the club championship a few weeks ago. The club enjoyed a most successful season with a large membership, and there was plenty of keen competition and fun since the formal opening away back in the middle of May. Another sign that winter is not afar off.

Chatham Plays Petes

Baseball fans generally will be glad to know the Petes are going on into OBA senior "B" playdowns. They clash with Chatham here tomorrow aft at three in Riverside Park, first of their best-of-three semi-final series. Likely the return game will be the following Saturday in the Western Ontario city and, if a third is necessary, the Petes may stay over and play it there Thanksgiving Day. If they get the pitching, they should rub out the Chatham threat and go right into provincial finals. It's plenty costly on these long play-down hauls at this time of year, so the fans should turn out in force tomorrow to support the men of Murphy.

Yeah, the Petes definitely want a diamond title this year and they're ready to sacrifice plenty. Peterborough has never had a senior Ontario ball championship, though we've had a number of minor baseball titles, and lo's in other sports. The Petes of the 20s and again in the middle 30s came awfully close more than once—with just a run or two difference between a provincial crown and the runner-up position. While this isn't senior "A", it is still good senior ball and we'll gladly settle for senior "B" Ontario laurels this year. Bill Edger is expected to get the slab assignment on the morrow and the Petes will all be hustling early to give him a lead on which to work. Let's hope hard for swell "world series" weather.

Down Home Stretch

Torrid race in the two major leagues continues as they pound down the stretch, with the world series slated to open the middle of next week. Boston Sox and Yanks were idle yesterday in the American League but A's are at New York today and Boston at Washington with Sox and Yanks still tied for first place. St. Louis is at Chicago today in the National League, but trailing the Dodgers by half a game. Brooklyn yesterday took two from the Braves, one being a five-game affair—and they have but two games left to play. Braves tried to stall the second one, waiting for darkness. One player appeared at the plate wearing a raincoat but was promptly ejected, and the ump ignored a paper fire built on the top step of the Braves' dugout.

Coach Vic Obeck and his McGill Redmen have issued a grid bulletin in Montreal. Of interest up this way is mention of Blair Thomson, aged 26, weighing 180 and standing 5.10. Bulletin describes him thusly: "Blair Thomson—Known by some of his teammates as 'Needle', this Peterborough Collegiate grad is a 180-pound halfback who can really cover the ground when underway. He was three seasons on the Central Ontario High School football champs and captained Peterborough before coming here. He is a native of Keene, Ont." We think Blair will help the Redmen a lot.

Princess Gets Horse

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP).—Princess Elizabeth and her mother, the Queen, have acquired ownership of the Steeplechaser Monaveen, a likely candidate for next year's Grand National. Princess Elizabeth has registered her racing colors as scarlet, purple hopped sleeves and black cap.

Les Mountney President Minor Hockey

Les Mountney was elected president last night as the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association was re-organized in the "Y" for the coming puck season. The Rev. J. F. Coughlan conducted the meeting until the new president was installed. Al Watkins was named first vice-president, Bob McCabe second, Walter Bent the secretary and Ed Faux treasurer.

There were 13 teams represented at this initial meeting of the season, with others expected shortly from the Trojan A. C. and the northend. Last year, the PMHA had a successful financial season with its debt reduced considerably as the boys played indoors for the first time at the Civic Arena. It is hoped to have schedules start by Nov. 1 this year. Teams entered may scramble for players as in the past.

May's Lead Loop

May's School still leads the junior school soccer league with another win when they beat Queen Mary 3-0 at May's school Thursday afternoon. The south-end boys led at the interval 2-0 through Greeniss and R. Shaw. In the second half Orillia scored from a penalty shot to make it 3-0.

Queen Mary—L. Staves, goal; T. Welsh and R. Beard, full backs; D. Linton, A. Stewart and R. Brown, half backs; T. Bignell, D. Peritt, P. Milne, C. Clarke and V. Brishor, Subs: C. Cromie, J. Cromie, F. Jobbitt.

Dodgers Lead By Half-Game After Bouncing Braves

By RALPH RODEN,
Associated Press Sport-Writer.

Brooklyn Dodgers today held the upper hand in the National League's pennant scrap while the American League's scramble remained a dead heat between Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees.

Brooklyn, pre-season favorite to win the National League bunt, roared into the lead Thursday by mopping up the 1948 kingpin Boston Braves, 9-2 and 8-0, while St. Louis Cardinals lost again to Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2.

The Dodger killing in Boston boosted the Brooks half a game ahead of the Cardinals. Brooklyn has two games left to play with the third-place Phils in Philadelphia. The Cards have three to go with the last-place Cubs in Chicago.

While the Dodgers ascended to the top of the National League, rain kept the Red Sox and Yankees tied for honors in the American League.

New York's game with Philadelphia Athletics in the stadium was rained out as was the encounter between the Red Sox and the last-place Senators in Washington.

Play Off Today

The two American League contenders are scheduled to play off their rainied games today. If the weather again intervenes, the games will be cancelled, as the Yankees and Red Sox are scheduled to open a two-game series in the Yankee Stadium Saturday.

but has a chunkier build," Bump told a reporter.

"It is jet-black with a lyre-shaped tail, white marks on the wings and tail, a huge beak and a red spot on the eye—quite a striking bird."

Vancouver Burrard's protest over Wednesday night's Mann Cup match was disallowed Thursday by the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

The game, second in the best-of-five series, was won by Hamilton Tigers 16-10. Burrard protested because of what they termed an illegal faceoff procedure used by the eastern club. The Tigers used the centre faceoff system. It involves standing on the same side of the ball as an opponent player.

The Association executive ruled Thursday that the Tigers must faceoff in accordance with the 1949 C.L.A. rule book in all future games. The book stipulates that participants in a faceoff "must be facing each other, their left shoulders toward the goal they are attacking."

Alarmed by a flood of critical telegrams and fan letters, assistant manager Earle Mack of Philadelphia A's shifted from Phil Marchildon to Dick Fowler as his starting pitcher against New York Yankees today, after Thursday's game was postponed by rain.

"They aren't going to point any fingers at us," said Connie Mack's 57-year-old son. "Look at all these letters and telegrams. Why they even accuse us of lying down..."

Much of the criticism stemmed from Mack's plans to start Marchildon, the Penetanguishene, Ont., pitcher who has been troubled by a sore arm all season, in the vital finale with the Yanks. Mack planned to use Marchildon, who he said was "ready," because he had pitched him against Boston Sept. 2. The Red Sox knocked him out in a five-run first inning. Marchildon did not pitch an inning from May 30 to Aug. 26.

Two new game birds from Scandinavia are to be introduced to American hunting areas, a United States Fish and Wildlife Service official said Thursday at Washington.

They thrive in a climate similar to that of the northern states. They are hardy, and good to eat. And, said Dr. Gardiner Bump—the man who rounded them up—they are going to make sporty shooting.

They are the European black grouse and the capercaillie. The grouse is about what a hunter would expect the grouse to be only bigger.

And the capercaillie? "It looks as big as a turkey."

Brooklyn had no trouble in whipping the Braves Thursday. The Braves were in the game for only three innings in the opener and they might as well have "stood in bed" for the nightcap.

Warren Spahn, the National League's only 20-game winner, gave Preacher Roe, crafty Brooklyn lefthander, a run for his money for three innings in the first game.

Tied 0-0, going into the fourth, the Dodgers ripped Spahn for five runs. Duke Snider drove home the first three with his 23rd home run. Carl Furillo provided an anticlimax two innings later when he socked a three-run homer. The 400-foot plus drive was Furillo's 18th out of the field smash of the season.

Settled In One Inning

The nightcap was settled in the first inning. The Dodgers whaled into Johnny Sain in their half of the first, scoring five runs.

The game, played in a drizzle, was called after the fifth inning. Don Newcombe was the winner, chalking up his 17th of the season.

Little Murry Dickson, a once beloved member of the Cardinal pitching staff, spiked his former mates' pennant hopes.

Dickson rammed a brilliant six-hitter down the Cardinals' throats while the Pirates banged Gerry Staley, Howie Pollet and Ted Wilks for nine blows.

Cleveland Indians trounced Chicago White Sox, 8-3, in the only other game played in either league.

Good Goalies Hard To Get Fear Punishment

By The Canadian Press

There's a shortage of good goalkeepers in hockey. The opinion of a coach: "The kids of today don't want to take punishment."

Alfie Moore, coach of Galt Juniors, farm club of Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, adds:

"That's why there's a shortage of goalkeepers... they want to play up front. They see the scoring records, hear about feats of the forwards and they all want to be a 'Max Bentley'."

His assertion started something. From George Hainsworth, former star with the Toronto Maple Leafs, comes word that today's style makes it more hazardous around the nets.

"They'd rather shoot the puck than stop it," said Hainsworth, now an alderman at Kitchener.

Then Dr. Joseph Sullivan, famed goalie of Toronto Varsity Grads, winners of the Olympic and Allan Cup in 1928, chimed in:

"The way they (the players) slam and push in on the goal-keeper today, he doesn't get a chance to develop the art and science as exemplified by the great Vezina."

There's a note of hope in New York Rangers' camp. Manager Frank Boucher says he is counting heavily on Edgar Laprade, of Mine Centre, Ont., to help in New York's fight this season.

Laprade may fill the bill. The 30-year-old centeman stole the show when the Rangers defeated their New Haven farmhands 4-1 Wednesday. He scored one goal and got two assists. Boucher feels Laprade should improve on the 18 goals and 12 assists he collected last season.

Injuries are taking their toll in Toronto Maple Leafs' camp at St. Catharines.

Defenceman Gus Morton suffered a minor leg-fracture in a practice that will keep him on the sidelines for at least three weeks while Pete Langelle of Pittsburgh Hornets, the Leafs' American League farm club, sustained a fractured ankle. He will be out of action for about six weeks, officials said.

Susan Peters
Tries Hand
At Stage Work

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30 (AP) — Susan Peters always swore she'd never drink liquor or go on the stage.

Money matters have forced her to break the latter resolution. She spent the summer touring all over the East in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" in Hershey, Pa., next month, she starts another tour which will last 30 weeks, perhaps a year.

This is pretty rugged for a girl who never faced a footlight before. And for one whose legs are useless.

"I cherish my independence," says Susan, whose promising film career was nipped by a hunting accident that paralyzed the lower part of her body. "I had to find a way to make a living and keep my little family together." (She has a three-year-old son.)

One Picture

There was nothing for her in the movies, the field she knew best. She tried one since the accident—"Sign of the Ram." The psychological thriller hit the market at the tag end of the war boom and didn't fare too well.

There was radio, the easiest work in her situation. But radio has weekly deadlines and Susan doesn't like to be confined.

The stage seemed her only chance. Such plays as "Barretts" and "The Glass Menagerie" could be adapted to her immobility. So, with great trepidation, she set out on the summer tour.

Broadway Bid

The tour was so successful that three new plays have been offered her, with a chance for Broadway. So far, she has turned them down. "I'm not ready to tackle that yet," she said.

Susan's movement is limited to a wheelchair but she is by no means confined. She keeps a pace which would weary anyone with less enthusiasm. She drives her own car, visits veteran hospitals, has taken flying lessons and does some horseback riding.

She has adjusted herself to the blunt fact and appears happy under the circumstances.

ORIENTAL STEWARDESS—First Chinese stewardess to serve on a Canadian airline, Miss Dulcie Hall of Hong Kong is shown on her arrival in Vancouver aboard the Canadian Pacific Airlines Empress of Auckland. William Fell Buried Baillieboro Cemetery

Burial of William Fell, who died suddenly at his home in Baillieboro Sunday, took place Tuesday at Baillieboro Union Cemetery from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Roy Greer.

Born in Manvers township, Mr. Fell spent the greater part of his life in Baillieboro, where he was in business as a store-keeper for 25 years. He was the son of James and Jacobina Dawson, of South Monaghan.

Five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Fell celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. Fell was an elder of Baillieboro United Church. He leaves his wife, formerly Cora Jewison; a son, Lt. Col. Victor R. Fell, Burk's Falls; a daughter, Mrs. Roy Greer (Jacobina), Baillieboro. One daughter, Mrs. Harry Chambers (Verna), died some years ago.

Scots Politicians 'Difficult' Government Discovers

By STUART UNDERHILL.

LONDON, Sept. 30—(CP)—Scots politicians have a reputation in London for being dour, determined and difficult. They have earned it by crustily defending their country's rights through the generations.

Their chief spokesman is the Secretary of State for Scotland, a member of the British Cabinet. He is so hopelessly outnumbered he has to be a fighter if he is to convince his 5,000,000 countrymen that he hasn't been seduced by English guile.

There have been cases when an Englishman held the portfolio. The last one to do so was Devonshire-born Ernest Brown, who represented the Scottish constituency of Leith as a Liberal for nearly 20 years. He was Secretary of State for Scotland in Winston Churchill's coalition government in 1940-41.

From all accounts he did a competent job, but the fact of his English blood riled the Scots.

"There isn't a sheep in Scotland gets the scab but we in London are blamed for it," Churchill is reported to have said during Brown's tenure of office.

In 1941 Churchill persuaded rugged, outspoken Thomas Johnston to come into his government. And Brown became Minister of Health.

There was no question of Johnston not battling for the cause of Scotland. His brusque tongue may have wounded the Sassenachs' feelings, but he brought Scotland's utmost resources into the war effort.

He was succeeded in 1945 by another vigorous Scot, Joseph Westwood, who resigned after two years in office. The portfolio was then assigned to Arthur Woodburn.

Now 59 Woodburn is a husky Scot, more than six feet tall, with craggy eyebrows and twinkling blue eyes. He has many interests, ranging from fruit-growing to the educational aspects of Socialism.

You Save Money with the DODGE L-Head Engine... A PART OF DODGE DEPENDABILITY

YOU SAVE MONEY every mile you drive with the Dodge simple-design L-Head engine. There are fewer moving parts to wear. Oil filter, floating oil intake, and air cleaners keep carbon and dirt from moving parts to reduce wear. Such "extra" features as four rings per piston, full length water jackets, lightweight alloy pistons and alloy exhaust valve seat inserts, result in savings on gas, oil, and repairs.

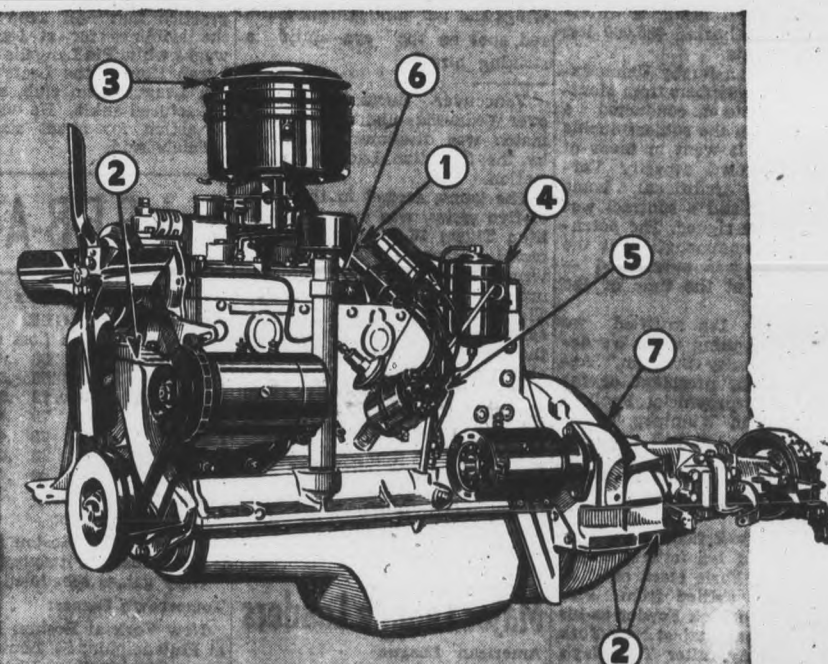

Other leading features of the economical Dodge engine are explained on the right. But in many other ways Dodge gives you more for your money.

You could pay much more, and still not get all of Dodge roominess, beauty and ruggedness. Test for yourself the generous head, leg, and elbow room. Compare the "outlook" through the high, wide windshield. Note how easy it is to get in and out. Try out the new Dodge on the road and discover for yourself its flashing performance, driving ease, safety, and riding smoothness.

No matter which way you look at it, your dollars will go further with Dodge... and so will you.

CHECK THESE "EXTRA" FEATURES WHICH ARE STANDARD EQUIPMENT ON THE NEW DODGE.

Automatic electric choke; Automatic ignition key starting; Aluminum alloy pistons; Four rings per piston; Low pressure tires; Chain camshaft drive; Oil bath air cleaner; Oil filter; Floating oil intake; Hotchkiss drive; Safety-Rim wheels; Floating Power engine mounting; Chair-height seats; Full width defroster vents.

1 L-HEAD OPERATION is quieter, as all moving parts are inside the block. Fewer parts to wear or work loose assure longer life. Simple construction allows easy maintenance.

2 FLOATING POWER is the name given to the scientific Dodge method of mounting the engine on the chassis so that engine vibration is not transmitted to the body. Results in smooth, quiet operation and long car life.

3 OIL BATH AIR CLEANER filters the air before it enters the carburetor. By keeping dust out of the engine, it cuts down repairs and lengthens engine life.

4 OIL FILTER of micronic type, filters even the smallest particles of carbon or dirt out of the oil and so reduces wear on bearings and cylinder walls for long, trouble-free engine life.

5 WEATHERPROOF IGNITION SYSTEM gives maximum protection against water and dirt for dependable all-weather operation. Distributor has a new splash-proof cap. Centre distributor brush has a 10,000 ohm carbon suppressor which allows a wider spark gap setting for better idling and low-speed performance.

6 AUTOMATIC CHOKE. The choke enriches the mixture by automatically reducing the proportion of air drawn through the carburetor during warm-up, to provide easy starting under all weather conditions. Saves fuel by preventing too rich an operating mixture.

7 FLUID DRIVE on Custom Dodge models lets you drive, relaxed, in high gear most of the time. It is particularly effective on wet pavement, ice or mud, allowing smooth transfer of power without stalling. The Custom Dodge is still the lowest-priced car in Canada with Fluid Drive as standard equipment.

He spent four months in hospital and had one arm in a cast and both eyes bound shut for 13 weeks during which time the right leg was amputated.

When the memorial was started it was decided to divide the $150 raised among Mrs. Dingman, Mrs. Charles Woodbeck, Mrs. Forbes, Mrs. Harley Woodbeck and Mrs. Terrill. Instead of following this procedure the money was placed

Quite A Load

TORONTO, Sept. 30 (CP)—Eight teen-aged girls and 35 pints of beer were what police said Joseph Sutton, 21, loaded into the back seat of his automobile when he set out for a corn roast. Charged with a breach of the Traffic Act, Sutton was fined $25 and costs Wednesday and the beer was confiscated.

Went For A Walk With Glass Of Ale

While patrolling his police beat Constable John Conlin saw two men leave the McGillis Hotel by the back door and walk along the street to King St., each carrying a glass of beer. This incident, which he saw around 10 p.m. Friday, had a sequel in police court Thursday when James Moon, 18, of R.R. 5, Peterborough, was fined $10 and ordered to pay $2.50 costs for illegal possession of liquor. Arnold Cross, 19, of 179 Sherbrooke St., who was said to be his companion, failed to appear in court and the case was adjourned.

Rural School Pupils, Teacher Set Up Classes at Normal

The pupils and the teacher, Mrs. Gloria Robertson, of Garbutt's School, School Section 4 of Smith township, moved their schoolroom to the Peterborough Normal School today to demonstrate to the students there the method of teaching.

In the art room of the Normal School the "rural schoolroom" was set up for the 40 pupils of Mrs. Robertson's classes. Here she carried on as though it were a regular day at the little red schoolhouse. Classes from the Normal School made observation visits to the "schoolroom" throughout the day.

All this was part of the Normal School's method of training students how to teach in a rural school. Wednesday and Thursday the students of the Normal attended classes at Queen Alexandra School to see how the urban teachers present subjects to the pupils. Thursday morning the pupils of Kenneth McKee's Grade 7 class at Queen Alexandra School visited the Normal School where the masters of the Normal taught the class before the students.

Commencing next Wednesday and Thursday the students of the Normal will be teaching once a week at the Collegiate, Queen Alexandra and Queen Mary Schools, and at 10 rural schools in Peterborough County. Later in the season the students will teach two weeks at a rural school and two at a rural school. The two weeks' teaching at the urban and rural schools are divided: a week at each, near Christmas and near Easter.

The rural schools at which the students will be teaching are: SS 10, Otonabee, Miss Alberta Anderson; SS 1, North Monaghan, Mrs. Mildred Batten; SS 11, Smith, Mrs. Ruth Crawford; SS 12, Otonabee, Miss Marguerite

Grace Church Erected In 1897 After Fire

MILLBROOK, Sept. 30—(ENS)—Grace Presbyterian Church celebrated the 52nd anniversary of the church building Sunday. There was, however, a congregation here many years before the present church was opened.

After the burning of the old church on Tupper St., the Rev. William Johnston, who served for 22 years, was the first minister at the new building.

The church was colorful on Sunday with baskets of gladioli, asters, zinnias, shasta daisies and autumn tinted leaves.

The Rev. R. Currie Creelman,

M.A., B.D., M.B.C., of Weston, was guest minister for both morning and evening services. Guest soloist was Percy Harrison, of St. Paul's choir, Peterborough.

Mrs. T. Muspratt, of South Monaghan, was organist.

Massacre Refugees

TRIESTE, Sept. 30 (Reuters)—Italian newspapers here today claimed that Yugoslav frontier guards Wednesday night "massacred" about 50 refugees trying to cross the frontier into Italy near Gorizia. The refugees were mowed down by machine-gun fire and grenades, and only two survived to reach Italian territory, the paper stated.

New Parish Priest Praises Predecessor

MARMORA, Sept. 30—(ENS)—Sacred Heart Church was well filled on Sunday as its congregation welcomed Father J. A. O'Neill, the new parish priest. Father O'Neill, in his initial address, paid eloquent tribute to the character and attainments of his predecessor, the Very Rev. H. J. Farrell. He also praised the work of the early parishioners who had made sacrifices to build the beautiful church which was enjoyed today. He asked for the same co-operation from the people as they had given to former pastors.

Farm Woman, Son Guilty Of Murder

DOVER, Del., Sept. 30 (AP)—A plump farm woman and her 16-year-old son were found "guilty as charged" in Delaware's lonely hearts murder trial but a recommendation of mercy may save both from the gallows.

A jury after deliberating five hours, Wednesday night returned a verdict of first-degree murder against Robert Brennan in the shotgun slaying of Wade N. Woodbridge, 67 year old carpenter from Stone Mountain, Va.

The jury also found Mrs. Inez Brennan, 45, guilty as an accomplice. A recommendation of mercy was made in the case of Robert but not for his mother.

Under Delaware law, the maximum penalty for a principal or an accomplice in a capital case is death by hanging. An accomplice, may not receive a more severe sentence than the principal and the mercy plea for Robert may result in life imprisonment for both mother and son.

Cattle Prices Drop On Dull Market

TORONTO, Sept. 30—(CP)—Cattle prices dropped $1 or more on a dull market this week, reported the Dominion Marketing Service to-day. Calves were up $1 a hundredweight while hogs lost 50 cents. Lambs and sheep were unchanged.

The cattle run of 8,950 head included 2,500 Westerns, mostly stockers. Added to the week's receipts, were 750 cattle carried over from the previous week. Holdover this week was expected to total over 2,000 head. Following drops in United States cattle markets, local trade turned dull and the closing market apparently did not represent the bottom of the decline. A few choice weighty steers sold on Monday at $23. No steers worthy of more than $21.50 were shown for the balance of the week. Good light steers closed at $19-$20 and good heifers were $18.50-$19. Plain steers and heifers closed downward to $16 and boners were as low as $12. Good cows were $14-$15.50. Good bulls were $16-$17 and plain sold downward to $12.50. Crotch fed yearlings closed at $23-$24 a hundredweight, with mediums downward to $18.

Picked Hereford stockers and feeders brought $18-$20. Plain to medium stockers were from $14-$17.50.

Calf receipts totalled 2,526 head. Prices were $1 a hundred-weight higher at $25-$27 for choice vealers with plain to medium from $16-$23. Grassers for slaughter closed steady at $12-$15 a hundredweight.

Hog offerings were 2,628 head. Prices dropped 50 cents a hundredweight to $29.50 for Grade-A and $29.10 for Grade-B1. Sows were unchanged at $19 dressed.

Sheep and lambs totalled 4,059 head. Lambs sold steady at $22 a hundredweight for good ewes and wethers with bucks at the usual $1 discount. Culls were mostly $15-$17 a hundredweight. Good light sheep brought $9-$11 with culls from $5-$8.

Police Asked To Be Fair Giving Evidence

A plea for policemen to be impartial and not strive for conviction when they are giving evidence in court was made by W. J. Arthur Fair, K.C., when he addressed the 17th annual convention of the Police Association of Ontario today.

He said policemen were placed in a very difficult position when investigating a complaint because it was almost impossible not to take sides. Being human, he tries to see that justice, as he sees it, is done in courts by making his evidence as strong as possible.

Mr. Fair said a police officer should give the facts as he found them after investigation. He should also supply information for which his training and experience qualify him. But when he goes beyond that and uses hearsay, he is exceeding his duty and is prejudicing his case.

He reminded the police delegates they are usually called for investigation by the one who feels he is the injured party. Most of the time that person is prejudiced. He has thought the situation over and has decided the person he is accusing is going to be punished.

Must Be Objective
Often the injured party, for instance a wife who has been hit by her husband, is in an almost hysterical state of mind. Because of this the policeman must be as objective as possible.

Mr. Fair pointed out the investigating policeman must rely on what he is told. Because of this it is the person who can talk longest and loudest who has the best chance of getting the ear of the officer. He said the policeman has to think the matter over and then make up his own mind.

When the case comes to court, the persons involved have a chance to cool down and often the police officer sees his case "falling apart."

Fatal to Case
But the officer feels he has to justify his laying the charge in the first place. He starts to take sides, Mr. Fair said, and "that is fatal to his case."

When the police officer loses his case, said Mr. Fair, he is apt to become disgruntled and feel justice is not being done.

A defense counsel, who sees the police officer giving evidence he is qualified to give, will, if he is smart, not ask the officer anything. He will "keep his mouth shut" because anything else brought out would quite likely not be in the interest of the man he is defending.

The defense counsel, Mr. Fair declared, has something of an advantage because he can pick his cases and put time on them.

EIGHT AIR TOURISTS FROM CARLISLE, Pa., dropped down to Mac McWilliams private landing strip at Gail Park, Buckhorn Lake, on Monday. The private strip, though short, is serviceable and the first in the district where a plane can roll to the front door of a fishing lodge. Discussing their air route on the tail plane of one of their two ships, Left to Right, are Jake Fisher, pilot William Piper, lodge operator Mac McWilliams and Wally Kitner. The Right photo shows part of the Gail Park camp at the waterfront.

Vines, Flowers Hit By Frost

Thursday night's frost finished many vegetables and flowers local gardeners reported today. Plants which survived last weekend's cold dip were caught in Thursday night as the mercury dropped to 28 degrees, the lowest recorded this autumn. The temperature at 9 a.m. was still only 37 degrees.

Gardeners reported that last night's frost did not do much damage as most of the damage was done over the weekend. All but the root plants were flattened. One gardener however reported that some of his pepper plants had survived the weekend but were finished last night.

Potato growers said that the frost helped them if it did anything. The late potatoes were quite green and the frost will tend to kill the vines. One gardener said that he hopes to dig his late potatoes next week.

With the last of the tomato and pepper plant went the last of the fall flowers. Flower gardeners report that only mums have managed to escape Jack Frost and said that if any flowers such as gladioli are still able to bloom the price will be increased for Saturday morning's market. Some geranium plants survived Thursday's frost as they were in a sheltered place, reported another gardener.

The 35,682 population is resident of the city itself, and does not include the increasing number of people living on its fringes, within a radius of one to five miles.

Award Of Board Favors Employee
An Arbitration Board has awarded two operators in the wire department of the CGE, a boost in wage rates that should net them an extra 15 cents an hour. And the increase is retroactive to last January.

The operators filed a grievance in January when the company cut the standard price of a job they were performing. An Arbitration Board set up later under the chairmanship of Judge Harold E. Fuller of Welland has now announced its finding in favor of the employees. They will be paid at the old rate.

A minority report was filed by company representative H. M. Payette. The union nominee on the Board was Drummond Wren of Toronto.

Bus Lines Plan To Enlarge City Terminal

Peterborough Bus Lines have decided to begin at once the enlargement of their terminal accommodation at Hunter St. and Driscoll Terrace in Ashburnham.

Frank H. Mitchell, head of the bus company, was here several days this week, and it was learned today that the contract for this work has been let to Walter Mortlock, who has completed the new Dominion Stores building on George St.

The estimated cost of the terminal expansion is at least $50,000. Mr. Mortlock is planning to get under way next week.

When the bus company sold the King St. barn to Irwin and Godson and bought the new Edwards building at the east end of the Hunter St. bridge, Mr. Mitchell announced then that the investment would have to be increased by enlargement of the bus barn to house the fleet of 29 buses. The job will be of concrete and steel construction, and it is expected that it will be finished by the end of the year.

Buckhorn Lake Operator Builds Landing Strip

Lodge owner-operator Mac McWilliams, Gail Park, on the south-west shore of Buckhorn Lake has developed the first air tourist landing strip in the district. Although at present the project does not meet Department of Transport regulations for a licensed strip, 2100 by 300 feet, Mac has at least made a beginning. The landing strip now is 1550 feet long by 110 feet wide running north-east south-west on a bench of land about 300 yards from the lakeshore. A power line 30 feet high along the lake end presents a hazard and reduces the landing range by 300 feet. It is planned to bury this portion of the power line in the near future and extend the overall size of the field, Mr. McWilliams said.

It is safe enough in the opinion of tourist pilots to use and on Monday two Stinson-Voyager 150's with private pilots William Piper and Harry Line brought six townsmen from Carlisle, Pa., to Gail Park. A carload of friends came by road and joined them at Buckhorn Lake.

Flying through the airport of entry, Gananogue, the airborne travellers regaled their destination in three and one-half hours. When interviewed by the Examiner, they said that they were very pleased with the whole arrangement and were delighted to be able to taxi up to within a few feet of one of the spacious Gail Park cottages. They hoped that Mr. McWilliams would improve his strip so that other flying friends from Carlisle would be able to make the same trip next year. Pilot Piper said, "I take a very dim view of Peterborough's lack of landing facilities."

Air passenger Jake Fisher said that the air tourist trade to Ontario would amount to considerable new business just as soon as more private landing strips were made available by individual or groups of lodge operators.

The men from Carlisle are having some fair fishing luck and Buckhorn Lake is an old haunt to a few of them. Up to Wednesday they had not been able to boat any muskies but hoped to take a few trophies before leaving again for home today.

The air party consist of William Piper, Millard Landis, Wally Kitner, Jake Fisher, Harry and Jim Line, Richard Decker and Henry Stuart. Their car-travelling friends are George Kutz, D. A. Hein, Frank Hoffer and Doc Phillips.

NO HEAT IN CHURCH
Forced to vacate their church when the contractor failed to complete renovation of the heating system St. Paul's Presbyterian Congregation will be worshipping on Sunday morning in the college auditorium. Arrangements have also been made for the Sunday school.

September Disappointing
Minor Epidemic of Colds Swept City During Month

This is the last day of September, and who cares. It has been the dreariest September in a generation or more, with a mean mixture of drizzly chills and rain. Instead of the misty magnificence of bland autumnal afternoons, September will be remembered for excessive wet weather, mud, dampness in the atmosphere and early resort to the fuel pile.

It's contribution to the well-being of the community is all on the side of the manufacturer of absorbent tissue paper, and his commercial confederate at the corner store. The wishful public, resigning itself to the departure of Summer, has got out of September only a minor epidemic of coryza, a sniffing debility announced by sneezes and headtones to which even close friends give a suspect and wide berth.

March was a disappointment of Spring, relieved by the assurance of May, and September has been a cheerful equivalent with no promise in the immediate future except the rigors of approaching Winter, possibly some October respite as a reminder of the ideal season of the Fall that somehow took off on the wrong track.

One of the elder citizens, boasting of two winters without a cold, is the mistake of looking in on the Lindsay Fair Saturday. This morning his nose was blocked and his eyes watery and life had lost its savor, probably until the weekend.

Parking Meter Proposal For City Market Square Indefinitely Postponed

The placing of parking meters on the market square was indefinitely postponed this morning in a recommendation by a special committee of the board of works with Ald. J. E. Gillespie, chairman. "I think it should be delayed until we have some alternate free parking space for public use," said Ald. Grant Miller, in moving the motion which Mayor Swanson seconded.

The market metering proposal was received some time ago from City Clerk Outram who was apparently actuated by the prospect of obtaining more revenue for the municipality from the market square.

Those attending the meeting were: Ald. Gillespie, Ald. Herbert Young, Ald. G. Miller, Mayor Swanson, City Engineer Chalmers and Chief Constable John Thompson.

"Is there any place we can get for free parking?" Ald. Young asked. Ald. Gillespie said he and Ald. Grant Miller had recently looked around the centre of the city without finding any ground immediately available that might be suitable.

The committee is going to consider the recent proposal of the city planning committee that parking space might be obtainable within the area bounded by George, King, Aylmer and Sherbrooke Streets.

The committee recommended to the council that parking meters be extended on George St. to Dalhousie St.

They also approved the suggestion in the report by Inspector V. Page of Toronto, that parking be discontinued within 50 feet of street intersections in the metered area, and that the meters already placed there be moved.

What About Free Parking?
Mayor Swanson asked the general question whether it was a responsibility of the municipality to provide free parking space.

Opinion of the committee supported the practice as an aid to commerce in the hotels and other business in the central section of the city.

Parking was recognized as an asset to the community and its many business interests, especially as a convenience to people from the district and many other visitors during the year.

One of the comments was that occupied by merchants, professional men and others whose affairs are carried on within the central area.

MANVERS METHODIST CHOIR of fifty years ago is recalled by this picture as the church, now United, celebrates its 50th anniversary. Miss Mattie Thompson, now of Bethany, who was organist, is the only surviving member of the group although many of the families of these people still live in the community. Miss Thompson recalls that choir members drove to Millbrook by horse and buggy to have this

Voluntary Labor And Gifts Built Church 50 Years Ago

BETHANY, Sept. 30 (ENS). — Manvers United Church Sunday celebrated its 50th anniversary, since it was moved to its present location. The Rev. Clare Kellogg of Janetville, the new minister on the circuit, had charge of the service, and Pontypool choir assisted with the music. The church was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers, and many former residents attended the service.

The story of Manvers Church goes back many years, and like so many other old landmarks the exact date on which the first church was opened cannot be traced. Records were not kept in earlier years and the only contact with bygone days are the repeated stories of older residents.

It is probable that the pioneers who settled this part of the township of Manvers were not long here when they felt the need of a place in which to worship. Two of the earlier settlers gave the land free of charge for a church and school to be built to serve the growing community.

Church Beside Cemetery
The early church was built on the corner of the farm owned by Robert Fallis, now owned by Carleton Patton, and this also included land for a cemetery, which is still kept up and known as Fallis' Cemetery. His brother, James Fallis, gave the ground for a school to be built. This school, although repaired through the years, still stands and remains known as Fallis' School. It is on the corner of the farm now owned by Earl Fallis.

Another earlier church in the community was of the New Methodist Connection. It was located just a short distance from the present church, on the farm now owned by Bert Reid. When the different branches of the Methodist Church united in 1879, the members from this church went to Fallis Church to worship; the building was torn down and moved to Janetville. The old shed where people tied their horses during service still stands on Mr. Reid's farm.

Cheese New Site
As the land became cleared and the owners became better established, they began to think in terms of a more modern church. In those days there were no cars and many had to walk to church. Most of the congregation at that time came from the south, and to make it more convenient for these people it was decided to build the new church at its present site on part of the farm owned by James Johnston, who also gave the ground free of charge.

About this time the Canadian Pacific Railway had been constructed about a mile to the south and there were several employees living around the new station which was named Manvers. Almost all the work of tearing down the old Fallis' Church, moving much of the lumber from it, hauling sand, gravel and brick and other materials for erecting the new church was done by the members of the congregation.

Gave Time and Money
Everyone gave willingly of time and money to get the new church built. The minister in charge at the time was the Rev. R. L. Edwards. The name was changed to Manvers at the opening ceremony 50 years ago. It was associated with Pontypool circuit, which also included the churches of McCraes and Lotus. Service had only been held at Manvers every second Sunday, but during Mr. Edwards' pastorate it was changed to a regular weekly service.

the Janetville circuit, along with Pontypool and Mount Horeb. This is a brief history of the church records, gathered by Fenton Fallis, who is the present Sunday School superintendent and member of the Board of Session. Mr. Fallis says "I think we all appreciate the efforts of those pioneers, who by their work and sacrifice built this church and handed it on to us that we might have a suitable place in which to worship. Our part must be to maintain it and keep it strong. None of us would like to contemplate a community without a church, or in which the high standards of conduct set by the church were not honored and adhered to."

Wars Causing Trade Problems Bank Reports

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor
The monthly commercial letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce takes a look at world economic conditions and says:

"If we were to single out a fundamental cause for today's trade problems it could be expressed in one word—wars. The conflicts of 1914-18 and 1939-45 disrupted the entire system of international commerce." It gives tables and adds:

"In the decade between 1938 and 1948 North America's share of world exports increased from about one-fifth to more than one-third. In fact, that area's proportion was nearly 43 per cent in 1947. Europe, including Britain, accounted for only 37 per cent in 1948 as compared with nearly one-half 10 years earlier.

"Asia's proportion last year was less than 10 per cent, against 16 per cent in 1938.

The letter continues:

"Prior to the last great war Europe was in a position to cover recurring deficits with North America by earnings in its world-wide 'invisible' trade, interest, profits and dividends on foreign investments and receipts from services, such as shipping and earnings of dollars by far eastern possessions.

Foreign Capital Cut

"Thus, in 1938 Britain realized about $1,200,000,000 from such sources, but by 1948 her foreign capital and service receipts were reduced to $850,000,000. Those from external investments alone being less than one-quarter of the last pre-war year."

Of Canadian conditions the bank says an almost general decline in industrial production took place in August, the bank's composite index declining to 156 from 160 in July. 1937 equals 100.

"Higher operations were recorded only in the medium and light sections of the iron and steel industry, and only one other man-for unit, chemicals, maintained its output at the level of July.

"The nine remaining groups operated at a slower pace, the decline in the automotive trades being quite marked. Seasonal factors, such as the holiday closures, were partly responsible for the downturn, but these did not have as much influence as in July, and it must be assumed, therefore, that industrial production has recently been affected by some adverse trade conditions, notably in the export field."

Elected Lord Mayor

LONDON, Sept. 30 (Reuters).—Sir Frederick Rowland Thursday was elected Lord Mayor of the City of London, succeeding Sir George Aylwen. Sir Frederick, 74, is a senior partner in a firm of chartered accountants.

Rector Exhorts Don't Lose Faith For Rationalism

"Do not be led away from the Christian faith for any science, ideology or feeling of rationalism which seems to have spread like a wave across the whole world today," Dr. R. C. Blagrove said.

Archdeacon of Peterborough exhorted Thursday evening at St. Luke's Anglican Church.

Dr. Blagrove, who was at one time rector at St. John's, Peterborough, was speaking at St. Luke's harvest festival which took the form of Evensong.

At present rector at St. Thomas' Hamilton and Domestic Chaplain to the Bishop of Niagara, Dr. Blagrove was paying his first visit to St. Luke's since he conducted a service there 13½ years ago. He recalled his last year as rector at St. John's when the Rev. Walter J. Gilling, now rector at St. Luke's had been his assistant.

After the service, for which the church was decorated with fruits, vegetables and foods, Dr. Blagrove met many old Peterborough friends at a social gathering in the Parish Hall.

In his sermon on thanksgiving, Dr. Blagrove emphasized that it was not only for man's daily bread that thanks were given, but also for spiritual blessings.

He labelled as Marxist philosophy the belief that everyone should be given what he wants. Politicians, teachers and welfare workers often misunderstood the nature of man. Man was all too often placed before God.

What was the singular thing about man which made him a child of God? Dr. Blagrove asked. It was because he was made in God's image. He had to have the freedom to choose God's way—to choose righteousness or sin.

Pessimism was inconsistent with Christianity, Dr. Blagrove said. "We have been having such a good time that we expect it to continue."

When man said "Give us this day our daily bread" God knew he wanted it badly enough to work for it. He was urged to want more than just daily bread—there was another kind of bread.

It was totally untrue to say "give the people what they want and they will be religious." That was putting the cart before the horse. How hard it was for a rich person, not because of his riches, but because of the deterioration the riches can accomplish. "You don't find religion with plenty," he said.

Dr. Blagrove referred to the summer drought, saying that as if by some strong miracle there had been a good harvest of crops. It was said that there would be no peaches from the Niagara district because of the drought. Now there were so many it was difficult to dispose of them all.

Harvest festival was a continuation of an ancient feast which used to be known as the Feast of the Tabernacles. God's people met together and lived in tents for seven days after the harvest had been gathered in to give praise to God and to celebrate the harvest.

DOROTHY DIX

Ruling Young Girl Strictly Leads to Suicide Attempts

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 17. My parents are very strict. They don't allow me to have boy friends or go to dances. I am a normal girl just like the rest of the girls who have dates night after night, but when I even take a walk with a boy I have to do it on the sly and lie to my parents about where I have been. I hate to do this, but what else can I do? I am not thinking about running out every night but I would like to go out once a week to a show or to the dance at the parish house or have a friend at my home.

I am so tired of not having any pleasure I have tried several times to kill myself, but at Dorothy Dix the last minute I lacked the courage, and so I live on in my prison. When I am 18 can I leave home and get away from my mother's and father's tyranny?

SALLY

ANSWER: I wonder if this over-strict mother, and many other mothers like her, have ever thought that their daughters regard their homes as a prison against whose bars they have beaten themselves until they are ready to commit suicide? I wonder if they realize that they are erecting a barrier between themselves and their daughters that never can be broken down, that they are driving their girls away from home and losing every chance they might have to protect them and help them?

Of course, these martinet mothers and fathers say that they are trying to protect them and save them from committing the follies of youth. It has been a long time since they were boys and girls and, with that curious amnesia that comes to parents, they have forgotten how they wanted to do things when they were young. So it seems to them a very small thing to keep Sally at home when all the other girls are going to a party, and say No when Sally wants to go to the movies and to say NO, NO, NO when Sally desires to ask a boy to the house.

RESULTS
All the results that the over-strict parents achieve are that they make their children lie to them and force them to do in an underhanded way the things they would be glad to do frankly and openly and honestly. And it breaks the parents' hold on the children and makes them regard their father and mother as tyrants instead of their best friends.

In the case of girls this is particularly disastrous because it not only makes the girls meet the boys secretly, but it causes them to be so boy crazy that they pick up with any sort of a lad. It is the mothers who give their daughters a judicious amount of freedom and who make their boy friends welcome at home, who know where their daughters go and with whom they associate and are able to guide and protect them.

The over-strict mother defeats her own purpose.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What can you say to a girl in her 20s whose mother, married sisters and neighbour women have always impressed upon her that all men have but one idea in taking a wife, and that if she marries her life will be a living torment imposed upon her by an unscrupulous, inconsiderate husband? Her mother tells her that any girl had better be dead than married. So badly has marriage been pictured to this girl that she shudders and covers her face when talking about it, and, although she is in love with a man, she is afraid to venture into matrimony.

MR. X.

ANSWER: I should think the best way to correct the girl's morbid view of marriage would be to bring her in contact with some happily married people. Certainly human happiness reaches its highest peak in the union of a man and woman who love each other truly and faithfully and unselfishly; and who find their greatest pleasure in each other's companionship, and who have the never-ending interest and joy of seeing their children grow up about them.

There are plenty of such loving and contented husbands and wives and for a woman to disbelieve this is as foolish as if she thought all apples rotten because she found a single decayed one in a barrel. Moreover, this girl should be brought to see that marriage, and even husbands, is pretty much what the wives make it, and because these people who tell her that a girl had better be dead than married have failed, simply shows that they have turned out a bad lot. It is no sign that she would fail.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am short, only five feet tall, and it has given me a terrific inferiority complex. I have tried to reason with myself to convince myself that I am fortunate that I am healthy in body and mind when there are sick people and stupid people all about me. Then all I need is to go to a party where, as usual, I am the shrimp, and this awful sense of inferiority comes over me to spoil everything. Is there any way I can overcome this feeling of inferiority?

SHORTY.

ANSWER: The only way is to fight it continually and thank God that you are short in inches instead of brains. Study hard and work hard and make yourself so important that people will only think of your mind instead of your body. Make them look up to your achievements instead of down on your stature. History has a lot of comfort for you. There are thousands of human shrimps, as you call them, who have made whales of success.

Of Interest to Women

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM ROBB, Norwood celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding Tuesday. They held open house in the afternoon and evening when 150 relatives and friends called to offer congratulations. The couple was married at Havelock and moved to their present Norwood home 17 years after they were married.

Marriage Register Signed Second Time 50 Years Later

NORWOOD, Sept. 30.—(ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. William Robb of Belmont Street, Norwood, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Tuesday. They were married in Havelock on Sept. 27, 1899, by the Rev. D. A. Hamilton, and have been life-long members of the Presbyterian Church. Their present pastor, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson, had them sign the marriage register which they had signed 50 years ago.

Mrs. Robb is the youngest daughter of the late John and Sarah Jane McClure and Mr. Robb is the youngest son of the late James and Jane Robb of Dummer Township.

Mr. and Mrs. Robb lived at Stony Lake for the first 17 years of their married life. Since then they have been at their present home in Norwood. They have two children, Cora, Mrs. Stacey Lampkin of Simcoe and Trevor of Peterborough; two grandchildren, William John and Christine Ruth Robb, who were present on the anniversary.

The couple was at home to friends during the afternoon and evening Tuesday, when approximately 125 friends and relatives called to offer their congratulations. The tea table was covered with a lace cloth and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake flanked by tall gold tapers and yellow rose buds in silver bud vases.

Mrs. Fred Rutherford of Campbellford was in charge of the tea room in the afternoon and Mrs. Ray McCulloch in the evening. Tea was poured by Mrs. R. D. Duncanson and Mrs. de C. B. Cutcliffe in the afternoon and by Mrs. Robert Rodgers and Mrs. Stanley Barlow in the evening. Those assisting were Mrs. Johnston McClure of Toronto, Mrs. W. J. Hamilton, Mrs. B. R. McNaught, and Mrs. Trevor Robb of Peterborough; Mrs. R. F. Pakenham, Mrs. A. A. Waddell, Mrs. George Aitchison, Mrs. A. E. Hogg, Mrs. David Nixon and Mrs. J. Gilmour of Norwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Robb received many flowers, gifts and congratulatory messages. Among the telegrams was one from the Governor-General and Viscountess Alexander.

Friends were present from Toronto, Hamilton, Peterborough, Lakefield, Warsaw and Campbellford.

Pass Resolutions Favoring CBC

Oppose High Costs

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—(CP)—The Canadian Association of Consumers was on record today as opposed to the high cost of living and in favor of Canadian Broadcasting Corporation music and educational programs.

More than 15 resolutions were approved by delegates at the final sessions of the two-day annual convention of the association Thursday. The 50-odd delegates, many representing national women's organizations, devoted the major portion of the closing sessions to the cost of living.

The association approved a resolution asking the Federal Government to take immediate steps to control the "excessive" rise in prices on essential commodities. They balked, however, at a suggestion that the government be asked specifically to impose subsidies to control prices.

Delegates also voted to ask the Massey Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences to investigate ways of providing the CBC with sufficient funds to produce "suitable and adequate" radio and television programs. The association, however, made it clear it did not endorse any suggestion to increase radio licence fees for this purpose. Other means should be found, delegates suggested. In its submission to the Massey Commission, the CAC will also suggest the desirability of having the National Film Board prepare a percentage of films in consultation with the association to promote consumer education.

The convention also:

1. Re-elected Mrs. F. E. Wright of Port Credit, Ont., as president.

2. Decided to study sizes of canned goods in view of the growing number of 15-ounce tins on the market in place of the family-size 20-ounce tin.

3. Urged Canadian women to use Canadian vitaminized apple juice as an aid to the country's producers and industry and to help the Dominion's dollar shortage.

4. Endorsed the principal of consumer education in schools.

5. Asked consumer representation on any marketing board set up in connection with the present trade crisis.

6. Urged the government to introduce regulations providing for use of fortified flour in Canada.

7. Asked the government to extend rent controls "in the more congested cities" beyond the present expiry date of March 31, 1950.

8. Voted to make a determined effort to rebuild membership in the two-year-old association, now down to 8,000 from a peak 23,500 a year ago.

Knox Men's Club Holds Supper

A very successful evening was held Wednesday when the members of Knox Church Men's Club and their wives enjoyed a pot luck supper, 56 attending.

Guest speaker was the Rev. B. Morwood of Mark Street United Church, who was introduced by the Rev. H. G. Douglas. Mr. Morwood took as his theme "There's a lad here," taken from the incident in the New Testament of the feeding of the 5,000. He spoke primarily to the men and challenged them rise to their responsibility in helping to guide the youth of today in the right direction. He pointed out that too often the father left the raising of the family to the mother, feeling that if he earned the living his duty was pretty well filled. "Youth now are full of energy due to more scientific methods of diet in the use of proper vitamins and health training and his energy has to find an outlet. So it is up to the men to see that it is being directed into the right channels," he said.

Rev. B. Heywood of Baitelboro brought greetings from his church.

Mr. V. Grainger, president, was in the chair.

"Most Perilous" IODE President Says of Times

KIRKLAND LAKE, Sept. 30.—(CP)—Mrs. Cecil L. Brown of Hamilton, president of the Ontario Chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, said today this is the "most perilous" interval of peace ever recorded in the history of mankind.

Speaking to delegates at the opening of the semi-annual provincial convention here, she said: "It is true there have been many dangerous intervals of peace in history, but they have been geographically localized to well-defined world areas. Now they are not."

Never before, Mrs. Brown told the 200 delegates, has the IODE work been so pertinent to the maintenance of freedom.

"We are stoutly opposed by a sinister ideology which recognizes neither compromise nor chivalry. With the Communists, the day of chivalry is past and democracy must look to its defence."

Fine Set of Gates Graces Key RCAF Training Station

TRENTON, Oct. 1 (CP)—A handsome set of stone and iron gates today graced this key RCAF training station as a challenge to future air forces.

Tendered by Canada's sister partners in the British Commonwealth air training plan, the 21-foot high gates are a memorial to the big mass-production scheme by which more than 131,553 air-men from Britain, Australia, Canada and New Zealand were trained in Canada.

"Their shoulders held the skies suspended," reads the inscription on the stone. "They stood, and earth's foundations stay."

The memorial stands on highway 2, the main thoroughfare along the Lake Ontario-St. Lawrence shore, which was blocked off for the imposing Commonwealth ceremonies.

Half Million Steelworkers Strike In U.S.

Shutdown Deals
Crippling Blow
To American Industry

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 1.—(AP)—A half-million CIO steelworkers struck today for free pensions and free insurance, shutting down United States steel and iron mills from coast to coast.

The first steel walkout since 1946 dealt a crippling blow to U.S. industry. And coupled with the two-week-old coal strike it threatens to disrupt the country's economy.

Right now the country's strike idle is past the 1,000,000 mark. This includes 400,000 soft-coal miners.

Philip Murray, United Steelworkers president, gave the strike signal. And at one minute past midnight the walkout became effective—orderly and without incident. It shut down 53 basic steel plants and 50 iron-ore mining companies. Workers are in 23 states.

President Truman three times has intervened—delaying the strike a total of 76 days. But Friday night he refused to intervene again.

The strike order followed two days of fruitless negotiations with federal mediators, and months of wrangling—marked by bitter and sarcastic name-calling—with management.

Right at the end, big steel reported, the union leader renewed original demands. These included a request for a wage increase of 12½ cents an hour.

President Benjamin F. Fairless, of the giant United Steel Corporation, turned Murray down. His firm had made an offer previously. Murray had rejected this. And so the strike came.

There has been no reported violence. Pickets ringed plants—some men deeded in their Sunday best, treating the walkout as a holiday.

But they permitted men to cross lines into the darkened mills to keep equipment in tip-top shape. The walkout was in marked contrast to steelworker strikes of past decades. These were born and bred in bloodshed when firms tried to operate with strikebreakers.

Only two companies employing a total of 19,000 men, are open today. Both agreed to union terms: company-paid pensions and insurance. They are American Can and Portsmouth (Ohio) Steel.

Murray blames U.S. Steel, largest steelmaker with 150,000 employees, for forcing the strike. And Big Steel tossed the charge right back. It said the union could have averted the strike.

Murray and his lieutenants did most of the negotiating with U.S. Steel. This firm generally sets the pattern for the industry.

British Deficit

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(Reuters)—Britain finished the first half of the 1950 fiscal year Friday night with a deficit of more than £9,500,000 ($29,450,000). During the first half the country spent £1,586,936,378. Revenue in the same period brought in £1,577,427,627.

One Stray Cow Kills 1, Hurts 3, Wrecks 3 Cars

ORILLIA, Oct. 1.—(CP)—One man was killed, three persons injured, two automobiles wrecked and a truck suffered damages in a series of accidents arising out of a stray cow on the highway Friday near Coldwater, about 13 miles west of here.

Dead is Jack Fester, 36, of Toronto. Injured were Mrs. Fester, their son Robert Wayne, 8, and the driver of the automobile, Marvin Woods, 39, of Midland.

The series of accidents started, police said, when an automobile driven by Otto Zinser of Orillia hit a cow which had strayed on No. 12 highway. Zinser was not injured but the car was badly damaged.

The body of the cow was thrown in the path of an oncoming truck, driven by William Evans, of Coldwater. He managed to stop in time.

Hits Parked Truck

Shortly before police arrived the automobile, driven by Woods, crashed into the rear of the parked truck. The impact drove Woods' automobile under the truck platform.

Fester, in the front seat, was killed and Woods suffered concussion and head lacerations. Mrs. Fester, in the back seat with her son, suffered a fractured collarbone and the boy face cuts and concussion.

During the confusion of the fatal accident, a heavily-laden cement truck was forced into the wrecked Woods' automobile.

Police sought the owner of the cow, whose name was not immediately available.

Youth Injured In Gun Practice

LINDSAY, Oct. 1.—(CP)—William Timms, 18, of Crooked Lake, Haliburton County, yesterday was taken to hospital with a wound in his thigh suffered in a shooting accident.

Timms was at target practice with William Henderson, a fellow lumber camp employee. Timms walked forward to check the target and the high-powered 25.20 rifle went off in Henderson's hands as he was inserting a round.

Hard Luck Dogs Wilson In Picton Try

Boat Clocks 120 MPH
On First Spin,
Then Stops Dead

PICTON, Oct. 1.—(CP)—Hard luck, in the form of a broken propeller, balked an early morning attempt by Harold Wilson's Miss Canada IV to break the 10-year water speed record of 141.7 miles an hour.

The sun had just peeked over the horizon when Wilson and chief mechanic Charlie Volker made a trial spin over the one-mile nautical course at Picton Bay. The water, with about a six-inch chop, was to Wilson's liking and he signalled referees and judges he was set to go officially.

Timers clicked him at 120 miles an hour on the first run and he negotiated about 100 yards of the return hop, with a speed estimated by the Ingersoll, Ont., driver at "more than 140 miles an hour," when Miss Canada slowed to a crawl and stopped dead. The four-ton, $100,000 boat was towed into dock and inspection showed the propeller was sliced almost completely off.

May Have Hit Obstacle

It was not known whether Wilson hit an obstacle on the course. Officials said they had seen "something" fly high over the wash on Miss Canada's first run. Almost immediately after Wilson returned to the dock officials went into a secret huddle in an effort to straighten out the question whether Wilson must go again today or fall in his second bid in five weeks to break the record.

Reg Sparks, of Toronto, said in an interview that Wilson "must make his official attempt today."

Otherwise, Sparks added, Wilson may notify the American Power Boat Association that he will go for another bid "and this will be allowed 10 days after notification is received."

Other officials said Wilson would, under APBA rules, have another chance tomorrow. Final decision probably won't be known for hours.

Meanwhile, Wilson and his mechanics worked on the boat, installing another propeller. The 37-year-old driver did not appear to be worried over his hard luck. "I know we can break the record and we can do it here," he said.

Wilson said he did not "hit anything on the course."

If we did, we certainly would not have been able to run."

He added that on his first run he could not hold the speedboat. "It was a trifle rough."

Miss Canada IV, launched last June, stepped into International prominence in the July 30-Aug. 1, Harmsworth Trophy races at Detroit. It was the first time Canada was permitted to enter this race.

Gives Himself Ticket

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Traffic policeman Roland L. Banville wrote out a parking ticket and left it under the windshield wiper of a car. When called on to pay off in police court, he explained: "It was a new car and I didn't recognize my licence number."

Prime Minister Will Have Official Home

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 (CP)—Canada is going to have an official home for her Prime Ministers at 24 Sussex Street, Ottawa.

While Prime Minister St. Laurent was away, Trade Minister Howe told the Commons Friday Parliament will be asked in the 1950 estimates to provide a permanent residence for him and his successors.

The House promptly applauded. The three opposition leaders expressed approval.

So sometime next spring the St. Laurents will move out of the five-room apartment where Mrs. St. Laurent had to store jars preserves under the bed because there was no place else to put them.

They will move into a great, grey stone three-storey mansion with some 30 rooms and a magnificent view overlooking the Ottawa river and the Gatineau Hills of Quebec, where trees stand thickly around the spacious lawns and the people across the street are the Governor-General and his family.

The house was built more than 60 years ago and is known as the Edwards home because it was owned by a lumber pioneer, the late Senator W. C. Edwards. The government expropriated it several years ago at a reported cost of $140,000 and leased it to the Australian government as a headquarters for its High Commissioner, Rt. Hon. Francis Forde. The lease expires Nov. 1.

Just what sort of a house the St. Laurents will move into will largely depend on the decisions of an architect the government is hiring to consider repairs and renovations. One thing that will be done will be to provide a house view looking down on the river. The back of the house now faces that way.

In expressing approval of the move, M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader suggested that the present home possibly should be replaced with a new one. That will probably be considered by the architect although officials say the house now is in good shape.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said the decision would meet with general approval all across Canada as a move in keeping with Canada's international importance. Solon Low, Social Credit chief, said he thought Mr. St. Laurent's $23,000 income should be boosted.

Love Finds Way To Beat Border Barriers, Sweethearts Meet On Ship

Czech Couple Can Only Meet At Boundary
Because of Immigration Law,
Take Cruise For Hour Across Niagara River.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 1.—(CP)—Two youthful lovers, snarled in immigration red tape, will meet again today in the mist of Niagara Falls, traditional honeymoon spot. Another tryst aboard a sightseeing vessel at the foot of the horseshoe falls is planned by the Czechoslovakian couple, compelled by immigration laws to meet on the boundary between Canada and the United States.

Dennis Chrastansky, 24, and his sweetheart, Kitty Kleiner, rode back and forth across the swirling Niagara River for an hour Friday aboard the Maid of the Mist.

Wrapped in the oilskins and sou-westers which passengers are given as protection against the spray of the Falls, the lovers talked together of their long separation and of their uncertain plans for the future.

As a Displaced Person, Chrastansky, in Ontario for the last five months, cannot enter the United States. Miss Kleiner went to the U.S.A. as a student in 1946 but lost that status when she applied for permanent residence papers. She was warned that if she left the United States pending readjustment of her status she might not be re-admitted.

The Maid of the Mist picks up passengers at both the Canadian and American sides of the river for the cruise up to the falls.

Has To Wait

"Dennis can't get a passport until he becomes a citizen," the girl told an interviewer Friday night. "I am told that it will take at least five years for that."

The couple last June met at the middle of the Rainbow Bridge over the Niagara River. Then Miss Kleiner returned to Norfolk, Canada, and Chrastansky to the Toronto area, where he has found a farm job. This week they decided to meet again on the international bridge but, at the last minute, changed their plans.

"We thought it would be a nice change if we could meet somewhere else," the girl said. "We were just a little tired of the bridge."

"Dennis just thought of the boat and it was a wonderful idea. The people on the Maid of the Mist were very nice, but after an hour we felt we couldn't impose on their hospitality any longer. Dennis took me to the American side and he returned to the Canadian side."

Hear Fresh Charge On Hospital Methods

TORONTO, Oct. 1.—(CP)—A fresh charge in connection with alleged brutality to patients at the Ontario Mental Hospital at Whitby was brought up Friday night at a meeting of the Mental Patients' Welfare Association.

Don M. Lebourdais, association president, said Thursday night at a meeting of the group that E. S. Rooney, a Whitby Hospital patient who smuggled out a letter charging cruelty by attendants last July, has been kept in the hospital's punishment pavilion ever since.

Decision to call the meeting was taken after key ministers, headed by Premier Henri Queuille, conferred Friday night on the split over labor's demands for a wage bonus.

The Cabinet was ready to resign today unless the last bid for a compromise succeeded, usually reliable sources reported.

Communist Labor Body In Canada By '50—Baron

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 (CP)—Communists will set up their own labor body in Canada and the United States next year, Sam Baron of Montreal, Canadian director of the Textile Workers' Union of America (CCL), predicted today at the union's annual conference.

His declaration came as the Canadian Congress of Labor prepared to throw out one of its left-wing unions at its convention next week and little more than a week after another—the Canadian Seamen's Union—had been forced out of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

The C.C.L. is to act against the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, which has been under suspension since last March for failing to conform with C.C.L. policies.

Another union that will come under attack at the C.C.L. convention is the Red-influenced United Electrical Workers of America, five of whose officers—including Canadian Director Clarence S. Jackson—now are under suspension from the congress.

A demand for suspension of the big U.E.W. was a possibility for the convention. It already was under a warning from the C.C.L. that a repetition of "slandorous" attacks against the Ontario Federation of Labor—for which its officials were suspended—would bring action against the union as a whole.

National Director Baron in his report to the textile delegates predicted eventual expulsions and other disciplinary action against Communists. He added they would not leave voluntarily, preferring the role of martyrs.

Reds Build Rocket Sites Near Alaska

Diplomat Reports Canadian Coast Open To Mass Bombardment

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK.—(NEA)—Launching fields for trans-ocean rockets capable of crippling the defense of Alaska and paralyzing U.S. communications with Japan have recently been completed by the Soviet MVD on the Kamchatka Peninsula and the adjacent territory of Kolyma, according to reliable information.

This confirms and extends what I first learned of Soviet activity on Kamchatka two years ago from a satellite diplomat, following a reception given in the Russian embassy in Paris. To assure a group of satellite diplomats of Russia's might, the Soviet Ambassador to France, Bogomolov, was reported to have remarked:

"I know for a fact that we are now engaged in the mass production of rockets formerly produced by the German Wehrmacht at the Peenemuende armaments center. This plant, which was taken over by Soviet experts, has been reassembled on a gigantic scale in Siberia."

Mass Bombardment

Bogomolov, according to my informant, who is still in the employ of the satellite country, added with a smile:

"In case of need, we could subject both Alaska and the Canadian Pacific coast to mass bombardment."

Meanwhile feverish construction on Kamchatka continues unabated. In addition to the construction of rocket launching fields, more than a million prisoners are being employed by the MVD secret police to build a vast system of highways which begin at the port city of Magadan and will eventually reach the Bering Straits.

Many Air Fields

All of Kamchatka is also dotted with air fields and repair plants. The population of the area is being constantly increased. Women prisoners of the northeastern harbor camps who give birth to children are forced to remain on the peninsula even upon the completion of their prison term. They are the new Soviet colonizers of Kamchatka.

(These projects could explain the sensitivity to visiting American aircraft which has caused Russian fighter planes to "buzz" or escort American air liners traveling between Japan and Alaska. A Northwest Airlines plane is the latest to report such an incident as it flew over a large air base somewhere in the Kamchatka area.)

The same is true of the adjacent Kolyma, where thousands of prisoners of the MVD, disguised as gold prospectors, work on military installations.

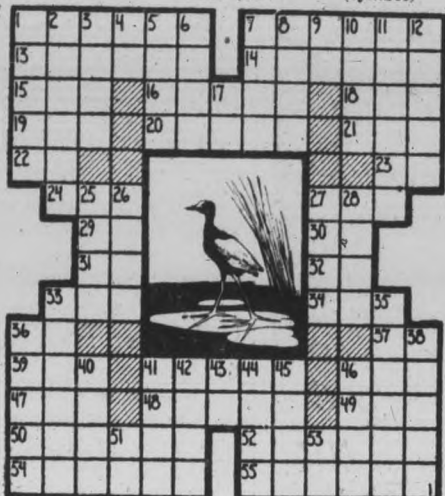

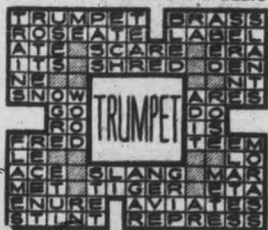

The abundance of fish in the Kamchatka and Kolyma lakes makes it possible for the MVD to feed the prisoners locally without drawing upon the remote central depots from which the regions are cut off six months in the year.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Progress at C.G.E. Result of Public Demand For Company Products

Objectives of C.G.E.'s Present Expansion Programme Are to Increase Production and Employment.

Let the Facts Be Known

Many people in Peterborough, as elsewhere in Canada, will have recognized the pattern of the intensive campaign which is being carried on locally to misinform them, concerning important and far-reaching plans now being implemented by the Canadian General Electric Company—plans which, ultimately, are designed to increase both production and employment, and thus benefit C.G.E. workers and the buying public alike.

In the past, and particularly because new products were continually being brought to Peterborough for manufacture, and because more and more people were finding employment with us, our motives were seldom questioned. Now that progress has caused us to remove a department manufacturing G.E. Refrigerators to Montreal, to make way for a larger power development programme, and to allow space for the manufacture of traction equipment at Peterborough, we are finding a great deal of misinformation being circulated.

Much of the information being passed out is untrue, and without a proper explanation, could cause some concern—not only to our own employees, but also to the residents of Peterborough and the surrounding Districts.

The circumstances have therefore prompted the Company to make a statement of the true facts regarding the rumours presently circulating.

Far from deserting Peterborough, the Canadian General Electric Company is again in the process of increasing its facilities and ultimately its employment. It is natural that the changes required to enable us to manufacture new products will affect many people.

With an annual payroll of over eleven million dollars, our plant has made an all-important contribution to the economy and development of the City and surrounding Districts. Many of you can remember when, ten years ago, our plant population was only 1,700 and our payroll $1,800,000. Since that time we have added 2,300 people to our staff, and today more than 4,000 are gainfully employed—the direct result of many new jobs created through public preference for C.G.E. products built at Peterborough.

PLANT ENLARGED

Employment on this scale was possible only because, in addition to providing the necessary tools and equipment, we were able to increase our manufacturing floor space. Shortly after the war ended, we purchased all the buildings formerly occupied by Geneco, but outgrew this space very quickly. Only recently a new building was completed to ease the pressure on departments building generators and allied lines for hydro and municipal developments, and also for the manufacture of electrical components for Diesel-Electric Railway locomotives and Trolley Coaches.

But again, the need for additional manufacturing floor space confronted the Company. The continuous popularity of C.G.E. products meant that not only were the present facilities at Peterborough for the production of refrigerators totally inadequate, but the same was true at our Ward Street Works, where electric ranges were made, and also at our Royce Works who produced washing machines.

CONSOLIDATION PLANNED

A thorough study of the entire problem was undertaken, and it was recognized that manufacturing economies would result from consolidating under one roof, equipment and processes common to the production of refrigerators, ranges and washing machines. More effective manufacturing methods are to everyone's advantage, making it possible for more people to buy our products through lower prices, thereby increasing employment.

The next step undertaken by C.G.E. was a survey of towns and cities in Ontario, including Peterborough, to ascertain if suitable premises were available—premises having a minimum of 450,000 square feet of manufacturing space were required. The survey proved fruitless and the possibility of building a new plant at London, Ontario, was considered, but construction difficulties forced the Company to change its plans.

MONTREAL OFFERS BUILDING

About this time we received an offer of a suitable building in the City of Montreal, and arrangements were completed to transfer the manufacture of all major household appliances to this new location. It should also be remembered that, as a manufacturer selling on a national basis, our Company has a responsibility to a great many people, including those living in the Province of Quebec who buy so many of our products.

Some untrue statements have recently been made to the effect that in locating in Montreal, the Company was seeking a site where they could pay lower wages. The truth is that any wage differentials that may occur between prevailing wage rates in Peterborough and Montreal were not a consideration in the Company's decision to locate in that city. THE AVAILABILITY OF A BUILDING WAS THE DECIDING FACTOR.

COMMUNITY RATES PAID

It is the policy of the Company to pay wages equal to or better than the community average in which a plant is located. For Montreal, we are following this policy, and are paying full community rates. We have played a major role in establishing present rates in Peterborough, and had we been seeking to pay less wages we would not have chosen to set up a plant in so large an industrial city as Montreal.

Another important fact is that the space which will become available not only at Peterborough but at the Ward Street and Royce plants in Toronto is required for the manufacture of new equipment and expansion of existing operations.

48 AWAIT RECALL

In the meantime layoffs have occurred in our Refrigerator Department, and today, 48 employees were awaiting recall as work becomes available.

Already 79 workers have been transferred or recalled to other jobs. Each week employees are being recalled. No new employees will be engaged on work these people are capable of doing until all present workers have had the opportunity to transfer to such jobs. THE TOTAL NUMBER WHO WILL ACTUALLY BE LAID OFF WILL BE BETWEEN 150 AND 200—not 500 as has erroneously reported.

With some layoffs impending, the protection of long service employees within the Company was our first consideration. The Company is keeping the Union, which represents the employees concerned, fully informed of the adjustments involved by these changes. The layoffs that are being made are strictly in accordance with the mutually agreed upon seniority provisions in the Agreement signed between the Company and the Union. This procedure outlines how an employee may be placed on another job, the way in which any employees laid off for lack of work are placed on a recall list, and how they retain the service credits they have accumulated.

The Company will continue to inform the representatives of the employees of any new developments, and will continue to adhere to the signed agreement between the Company and the Union.

With the exception of one employee who has been offered alternative work, but prefers to await a further opening, NO EMPLOYEE NOW AWAITING RECALL HAS A LONGER SERVICE RECORD THAN TWO YEARS AND SIX MONTHS.

TWO NEW LINES

Prospects for future steady employment at Peterborough are good. There has been an increasing demand for electric power across Canada, and we expect to receive our fair share of orders to satisfy this demand, with favourable results on employment in Peterborough Works.

Having also been successful in promoting the Canadian manufacture of both Trolley Coaches and Diesel-Electric Railway locomotives, we secured orders in 1946 and 1947 for electrical apparatus, required to operate these transportation units. At the same time it was decided that the work should be done at our Peterborough plant, which is not only the largest of our many plants, but is well equipped to handle this type of work.

The policy of the Canadian Railway Systems to use Diesel instead of steam locomotives on their Canadian lines and the power development programme has resulted in the building of a large addition to our plant. With this work ahead of us, as space becomes available, it is estimated as many people will be engaged in the manufacture of Diesel equipment and Trolley Coach motors, as worked in the Refrigerator Department.

INCONVENIENCE HELD TO MINIMUM

At the present stage the Company very much regrets the disruption to certain of our employees. But we have high hopes that in the not too distant future the majority will again be working with the Company. We will do everything in our power to hasten this event.

The ultimate results of this expansion programme will be so beneficial to our employees and to Peterborough, that the Company would indeed have been negligent if it had failed to adjust its manufacturing facilities in the future needs of its customers.

Pagan Wedding Music

September, which the fashion hounds now yelp to be the newly-fashionable marriage month, has gone, and June is long past. We therefore feel that we may make some remarks about the music at church weddings without being accused of slandering this or that particular ceremony. As a matter of fact, our criticisms are dictated by what we have observed at other than Peterborough weddings, though the same musical barbarism is to be heard in Peterborough.

By custom the wedding day is the bride's (sometimes it is the bride's mother's). She is allowed to command what shall be done and how. This custom is understandable and not to be condemned out of hand, for it is a great day for the bride. Nevertheless there are limits to what even the bride may be allowed to command. One of them is set when she chooses to have her wedding in a church. A church wedding is a religious service. Barbarous wedding music should not be allowed. Yet at Protestant church weddings these days the music is either partly or completely pagan, and it is so because the bride, wittingly or unwittingly, chooses the pagan music and insists on it being played by the organist and sung by the soloist.

The two common wedding marches,
Wagner's and Mendelssohn's, are not Christian, but since they are not outrageously pagan, and do have the merit of being musical, they may be permitted. But the other stuff, "Because," "I Love You Truly" and the like, and jazzy interludes or popular favourites of the day which brides call upon organists to play are pagan, abominations musically, and should be forbidden. Some organ-ists would try to subdue the irreverent natures of these pieces, but the bride must have it all sounding like a theatre organ—tremolo stop out all the time, woozing and crazy swells, fleshy diminuendos, bleating and blating crescendos;
the whole gamut of musical bad taste and religious insensitivity. Some organists do object, and refuse to play the goddess music; they are then termed nasty high-brows, spoil-party sour-pusses, or stubborn creatures who have no sense of the fitness of things. Most organists throw up their hands in despair, and bring them down on the junk which the brides demand.

There is some excuse for the organ-ists. If they compromise themselves with bad music, they can compensate for their half-hour lapse from artistic integrity in other ways. They can say to themselves, well, if some people want bad music, let them have it; on this occasion I am only a paid organ-grinder.
But the ministers of religion in whose churches this impious music is demanded should absolutely refuse to allow the service and the sanctuary to be profaned. It is primarily the duty of the clergymen to put a stop to this musical profanity. They can be meek and mild in some things, but they should be firm and stern on this point—that a wedding service must not be desecrated by pagan unmusical music which abuses the God in whose name the marriage vows are taken.

The East Block

Tourists may ogle the impressive main building which houses Parliament, but the knowing person in Ottawa never fails to look over his shoulder at the separate East Block, for there are the sineus of government. It is Canada's Number 10 Downing Street, the Foreign Office, and Privy Council chamber. Further, it has had pride of administrative place for nearly a hundred years. The Houses of Parliament proper—as a building—are a mere youngster of thirty years in comparison with the dignified stone of the East Block. (The original Houses were burnt during the first war.)
The East Block is older than Canada.
In 1858 when Ontario and Quebec were Upper and Lower Canada and Queen Victoria decided that their capital should be Bytown, well away from an offensive American border, plans were made to build the East Block. It was partly finished by 1861, when the $278-

810 provided for its erection ran out.
(The current monthly bulletin of the Department of External Affairs notes that the partial restoration of the East Block, now under way, has cost $365,000 to date.) More money was forthcoming and the building was first occupied in October 1865, two years before Confederation. It had only two wings until shortly before the Great War, but the heavy neo-Gothic style was definite and the Wellington street frontage and Parliament square side had their gargoyles, turrets, solid arches, Nepean sandstone walls and innumerable Arnprior marble fireplaces by Confederation when Ottawa became the capital of all Canada.

In those days the building housed the offices of the Governor-General, the Privy Council, the Minister of Justice, the Secretary of State, the Ministers of Finance, National Revenue and the Interior, and Sir John A. Macdonald. In fact, what the East Block did not house, governmentally speaking, was not worth housing—the Opposition, for instance.
The predecessors to the Minister of External Affairs—now one of the chief East Block occupants—did not cut much ice in those days when Britain managed Canada's outside interests. But by 1914 this department had been established. The Under-Secretary, Sir Joseph Pope, thought it a bit infra dig that his department should be installed in offices over a hair-dressing establishment, and the new department's status was officially recognized when it was allowed to inhabit the East Block. The Minister was given the office now occupied by Mr. Pearson, present Minister of External Affairs. This office was Sir John A's; it is the same room in which he passed weeks on end before his death, for he was too ill to be moved from it. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier became Prime Minister, he shunned any Macdonald ghost by choosing another office, which Prime Minister King and Prime Minister St.
Laurent have successively occupied.

Any ghosts in the East Block are live walking ones, not flitting real phantoms.
It is too formidable a building for creatures of fantasy. But a secret dungeon—or to be prosaically East Blockish—a long-hidden room—was discovered during the present remodelling. This place is in the tower above the entrance to the Privy Council chamber. Alas, there were no scandalous skeletons, crown jewels, or Communists in it; only stacks and stacks of files. Perhaps the flunkies in the East Block will no longer look so busy, now that these files have been found.

Doctor's Dilemma

Peterborough doctors are more anxious than most people that a high quality of medical practice be maintained in the district, and that the Civic Hospital's standards be kept high and even raised. But how is this to be done—through hospital regulations or through professional control exercised in camera by the doctors over doctors? Doctors are jealous of the fine reputation of their profession and will discipline their brothers who impair it. But to leave such a matter as a public hospital regulation entirely to doctors in private, does not seem logical. Doctors have professional ethics but they also are concerned for the welfare of their colleagues and friends and have normal commercial instincts; they also have free use of a public institution and its equipment.

By-law 59 is one aspect of broad and important issues which hospitals are facing everywhere. It is, incidentally, only one by-law of a long series passed at the same time, in order to bring the rules and regulations governing hospital and staff up to date, and out of the confusion of by-laws under which the Civic Hospital now operates. We have been reading an article by Lawrence R.
Payne, director of Baylor University Hospital, Dallas, Texas, which appeared in the August 1949 issue of The Modern Hospital. The thesis is that the difference between "open" and "closed" hospital staffs is one of degree, and it is the duty of the Board of Governors to decide if a line should be drawn, and where. It is the point of view of a hospital administrator. Here are two excerpts which may interest our readers at this time:

How can we raise standards in our hospitals if we fail to recognize men who have prepared themselves for their specialty over those who have not? In our state a man can be graduated from medical college and, after passing his state board examination, can hang out his shingle and go into any number of hospitals and remove a brain tumor. To me this is a legal form of murder. Why can't we do something about it? We can if hospital trustees will realize their responsibilities.

We are not trying to hurt any doctor; we are not trying to hurt any group of doctors; we are only trying to protect the patients who come to us feeling that they can trust us. Patients have a right to expect us to protect them and if we fail to carry out this responsibility to them we are just as guilty of negligence, which may be criminal negligence, as is the one who actually does violence to that patient.

Boards of Governors of hospitals are responsible to the public for the welfare of the patients, and whatever action the Civic Hospital Governors take, we have no doubt that they take it with the sole intention of serving patients and public.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Miss Minerva Hawser

Dear Miss Hawser:

Yes, I quite understand your passion for relics of eminent persons; I am somewhat afflicted in that respect myself. But I assure you, dear lady, that it is not easy for me to procure for you anything which would be, as you phrase it in your letter to me "a link with past greatness, and an inspiration to great achievement". You have asked me for Sir Walter Scott's walking-stick and for Robert Burns' snuffbox; I regret that both of these interesting objects are in museums, and I am too timid to steal them, even in order that you may exhibit them to the Canadian Authors' Association, who doubtless need them.

The only relic I can get you is associated with Haigh, the Vampire; no doubt you read recently that he was hanged for murdering no less than nine ladies of about your age and general character; after each murder he drank a glass of his victim's blood. A friend of mine has a tumbler which he is practically certain was used by Haigh in one of these curious toasts, and he will let me have it for only £10. If you want it please cable this sum immediately. I am sure your branch of the Authors' Association would be thrilled.

Yours amiably,

Samuel Marchbanks.

To Haubergeon Hydra, Esq.

Dear Mr. Hydra:

As I understand that you are permanent secretary of the Government Alcoholic Discouragement Board, I write to ask you why there is no cider for sale in my part of Canada. Since coming to Britain I have renewed my acquaintance with this wonderful drink (or beverage, as I suppose you call it) and I want to know why I cannot get it at home. Canada is a great apple country; then why no cider? Cider rejoiceth the heart of man (and of woman) Hydra, old boy, and the Canadian heart could do with a good rejoining.

A brand of cider which I particularly like is sold here under the brand name of "Woodpecker". I think this must be because the explosion of the bubbles in the throat and stomach of the drinker is exactly as though some jolly woodpecker had crept in there and was pecking happily away, right, left and centre.

Come on, Hydra: why no cider?

Yours merrily,

Samuel Marchbanks.

To Samuel Marblinks, Esq.

Dear Mr. Matbanks:

Your letter re cider to hand and contents noted. In reply would beg to state that (a) the Civil Service cannot entertain suggestions from unofficial sources and (b) cider might present unforeseen difficulties in the matter of taxation.

Yours semi-officially,

Haubergeon Hydra for Government Alcoholic Discouragement Board.

To the Rev. Simon Goaste, B.D.

Dear Mr. Goaste:

Your letter asking for comment on the present moral condition of the people of Britain is rather hard to answer. I am such a poor judge of morality. I can tell you, however, that there are now a million and a half more women than men in Britain, and the keenness of competition makes girls here more considerate toward men than is the case in our own dear land. My recollection is that women have always received courteous but brisk treatment in this country, and that remains the case.

As for rationing, about which you enquire, it has been my observation that it becomes less objectionable as one gets farther away from London. At present, for instance, I am in Wales: the rationing is not permitted to discommode anyone here. Meat is rationed, but many animals die by misadventure.
Farmers who have not lost a sheep in 40 years now back into the stupid creatures with their cars. Cattle break their legs and have to be shot. Distressing as these accidents are, they eke out the rations. On Sunday last I was at a tea-party where there were many delicious cakes, obviously made with cream, butter and eggs. Said a guest to our hostess,
"Black market?" "Call it light-grey market," said she. "Better call it red-white-and-blue market," said another guest, clearly a free-enterprise, with a fierce moustache.

The British Character seems much as it was. The Labour Government has striven to raise wages and give new dignity to the workers. The Catering Act for instance, has raised the pay of waiters and waitresses; further more, many hotels and restaurants add a charge of 5 per cent. for "service". But in spite of these well-meant attempts to ameli-orate the servility of their occupation waiters and waitresses still demand, and get, tips. It has been my observation, my dear Goaste, that a great many people would rather have money than dignity.

Your affectionate parishioner,

Samuel Marchbanks.

To Mrs. Kedjah Scissorbill

Dear Mrs. Scissorbill:

As you wished it, I visited the National Portrait Gallery and verified your suspicion that it contains no portrait of that great Canadian heroine, Laura Secord. I made enquiries about this and was told by a person in authority that only portraits of eminent persons who had lived in the British Isles were sought for the Gallery; obviously this is a mere excuse. The truth is, the British are jealous of Laura Secord, and want to belittle her.

I feel that while I am on this subject I should tell you of an ugly rumour I heard yesterday from a fellow-Canadian; he said that the famous portrait of Laura Secord was really a picture of an early and obscure premier of Ontario, upon whom a bonnet had been painted. You had better take this up with your women's club, and kill the rumour before it runs across Canada like wildfire, destroying the national pride of little children.

Yours agitatedly,

S. Marchbanks.

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.

Dear Pil:

I write this from an inn in the country near Oxford, where I am staying with my Uncle Fortunatus. About an hour ago he discovered a bat in his room, and we had a very

RICHARD STRAUSS, COMPOSER
(June 11, 1864 — September 7, 1949)

'There Were Giants In The Earth'

(An Appreciation of Richard Strauss, by Christopher Giedhill, M.A., B.Mus., Oxon.)

THE death of Richard Strauss last month at the age of 85 has removed from the musical scene a fabulous, almost a mythological
a juvenile prodigy, starting composition at the age of six. At twelve he wrote his famous "Serenade", which is still regarded as one of his best songs. The symphonic poem "Don Juan" written at the age of 24, is still regarded as a show piece for orchestra.

His work falls into three fairly distinct periods. At the outset he was derivative and conservative. In this connection it is interesting to note that his love of Mozart's music never left him throughout his career. His second period is the one by which he is perhaps the best known and includes his Symphonic Poems and also the operas "Salome" and "Electra". Allying himself with the "moderns" he outstripped his predecessors in realism. At the same time he gave the Symphonic poem greater formal coherence. "Till Eulenspiegel" is in free rondo form, and "Don Quixote" consists of a theme with variations. Most of the literary ideas behind these works are connected with some form of morbid psychology, though Strauss himself appears ice-cool and deliberate, like a psycho-analyst explaining an unusual case to a bunch of students. He poses as a lofty heroic figure, by Byron out of Nietzsche, to use the language of the turf. Debussy, Strauss's antipodes, wrote of him as a conductor "Mr. Strauss does not affect a crazy lock of hair, neither has he the gestures of an epileptic. He is tall, with the frank, resolute mien of great explorers who encounter lively bat-hunt. As it swooped about the ceiling Uncle F. tried to knock it down with a sweater, while I encouraged him with wild whoops. He finally cornered it in the wash basin, and thrust it out of doors. All this explains, I hope, why I am too exhausted to write to you at greater length; I must beg you to excuse me for a few days.—Have you ever been dive-bombed by a bat? Warm work.

Yours exhaustedly,

Sam.

savage tribes with a smile on their lips." His orchestration was rich, surging and brilliant, the very embodiment of Kaiser Wilhelm's
Germany, with its worship of the Kolossal.

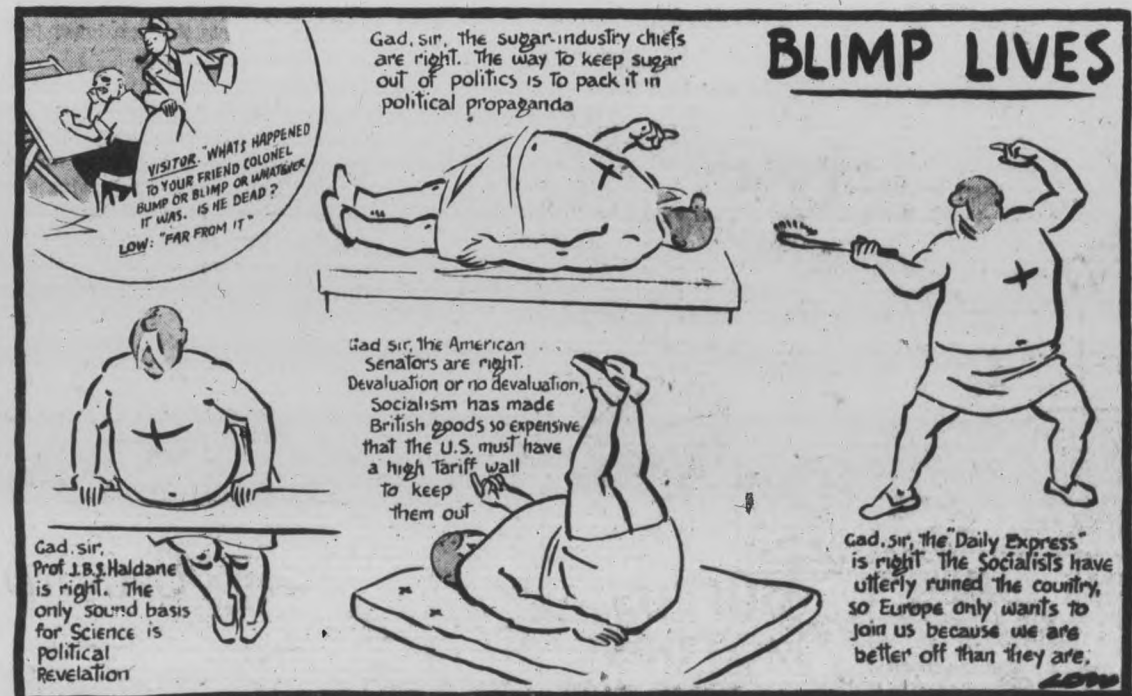

He had an almost uncanny sense of orchestral onomatopoeics, such as the bleating of the sheep in "Don Quixote", or the death of Don Juan, not to speak of the crying baby in the "Sinfonia Domestica", a record of everyday life in the family. Here Strauss comes down to earth and shows the world what he really was, a contented 'bourgeois' at heart. When Strauss showed signs of wasting his time at home, his wife would say to him "Nun, Richard, jetzt gehst Du kompon-ieren" (Now, Richard, go and do some composing), and the craftsmanship that he acquired by constant application to work never left him.

The last phase came when he who once led the modernists found himself left high and dry by new movements in art, politics and philosophy—atonality, cubism, Jazz, communism, neo-classicism. Having no very personal idiom he reverted to a nostalgic style evocative of a former age. Not for him the mystic path of the late Beethoven or Vaughan-Williams—he "hadn't got it in him", so he wrote "Rosenkavalier" instead, with its sensual, bitter-sweet Viennese waltzes that are sophisticated versions of those better-known productions of his namesakes of the Waltz King family. His last two recent works, "Metamorphosen" for 24 strings and the Oboe Concerto, reveal a subtlety, a Letter To The Editor

DOCTOR'S WIFE'S VIEW

Sir: Every intelligent individual is interested in the progress of medicine—be it "a new sulphur drug"—or just "an improved method of removing tonsils!" One never knows when one is going to be the next victim!

However, every change or desire for change, cannot be labelled as "progress". And there is always a proper time for everything, as well as a proper handling of it. Some changes should come through "evolution"— not "revolution". Such a change as the one which the Board of Governors of the Civic Hospital is hoping to pass now, should come gradually, and with the approval of all the doctors. This by-law has been opposed by the majority of the doctors in this community.

Does the Board know why? Is the Board being unduly influenced by the Surgical Advisory Committee? Why would a Board, composed mostly of laymen want to take the responsibility of opposing the majority of the doctors? The doctors serve the people, and are responsible for their patients. The members of the Board are there only to aid in the management of the hospital, and are not responsible to the patients. Why do they want to limit the service of a doctor to a patient?
Surely they don't think our Medical Schools graduate inferior doctors! Surely, if the universities consider their graduates well enough equipped to know their own limitations, the Board should not question their qualifications.

It is almost unbelievable to discover that two of the most ardent workers (for this by-law of the Medicos) are young men who felt
NO great urge to serve the people before!
Other young doctors gave up their dreams of internships, or gave up their practices, to join the Medical Services. These two young doctors stayed home—enlarged their practices, fattened their bank accounts, and procured their certifications! Yet today they have the effrontery, the confounded insultence, to want to tell returning medical veterans just what they can do! Almost unbelievable, isn't it?

No—there is a right and wrong way to do everything. If this move is for the benefit of the people, then it is of great importance to every student of medicine. It should be inaugurated through the university, as part of their training. Certainly it should not be enforced on a few doctors who happened to decide to practice medicine in Peterborough —and who have been unfortunate enough to have had their lives upset by World War II.

with NICK NICKELS

An American family came into the city to shop the other day from Pigeon Lake. They had only recently arrived and were bent on buying some last-minute items. A girl clerk who waited on the lady in an effort to become friendly asked her where she was staying. "Pigeon Lake, why that is where the water is poisoned!" You can imagine the dither this caused the visiting family and the husband did some point-blank inquiring into the state of things. Was it true that cattle were poisoned on its shores in '48? Yes, that was so. Was the green scum that he noticed dangerous to humans? No, it was not. He was very doubtful about it all and was for driving to another district immediately. So, you see how this sales clerk was trying her best to sell the Kawarthas, down the river. If many more business people went on like that, our district would have the Plague of Egypt put upon it, fast.

We should not hide our short-comings, to be sure, but everyone should be on the alert to sell the Kawarthas at all times. High pressure is not required for they have had a fine reputation for many many years.

To have had a good reputation indicates that present conditions are slipping a bit. It could be that resort operators have enjoyed tourist business hammering on their doors so long that they have taken it too much for granted. Perhaps they are content to take their yearly profits without ploughing back a good portion of them in modern plants. They blame the Government for not restocking their waters and they try to fight their problems with small losing one-man stands. If they are going to improve their lots, an all-out combined campaign is the only solution. And it seems that they are gradually seeing the light.

C of C's Jim Fraser is doing what he can to help. By issuing a recent questionnaire to each operator in the district to see if they have any beefs, he has stirred them up. Operators seem to have been of the opinion that Government officials are Unapproachable, that their problems are shelved in Queen's Park. To dispel this, Jim has arranged to bring officials from the Departments of Lands and Forests, and Highways, to a mass meeting of resort operators on Oct. 7th.

Discussions on the following subjects will take place: Provincial highways and county roads conditions, highway advertising, restocking of lakes, opening and closing of fish and game dates and game law enforcement. It is expected that at least 50 operators will be present. This is the first joint effort arranged to present problems, make recommendations and to hear the law makers' sides of them.

If Kawarthas' resort operators are showing signs of unity by token of such a meeting, they should go further. They should send a delegate or two to North-Western Ontario. There they would see that part of the Province's largest industry, tourist-catering, in high gear. They would see some of the 400 magnificent lodges and study their long lists of guests awaiting accommodation. They would learn a lot and come back home to apply some of their observations. That part of the Province has no more to offer than the Kawarthas in scenery and accessible roads, although it is certainly larger. There is a splendid spirit of unity and fair competition up there and it has really paid off.

Those comic fishing postcards of monstrous fish jumping into boats bear no exaggerated messages as far as Bill Clarke of Toronto is concerned. While fooling with a casting rod off the Welch cottage dock on the Burleigh channel recently he enticed a ten-pound 'lunge' to follow his lure to the wharf's edge. This finny character leaped at the plug, too late, on to the dock. Agile Bill kicked it under an upturned canoe, hollered for his wife who came running with a club, and did the brute in. This, you will agree, deserves a niche in the Can-Yo-Tie-This department.

Phone lines are burning and fishermen are beating a path in the pavement to the newsroom these days with tales of muskie catches and any fish over 25 pounds is dragged in by brute force to have its picture taken. Let no man ever tell me the Kawarthas are fished out; it is impossible to list all names and trophy sizes. Five fishermen of Elwood City, Pa., are viddy viddy happy; Mrs. E. Moorehead, Floyd Meisles, Bill Thompson and Dr. Service took 90 pounds of 'lunge' in five fish from Buckhorn Lake, guests at Mac McWilliams' Gail Park Lodge, the largest 'lunge', 30 pounds. Steve Chinch, same place, boated a 25-pounder on Pigeon Lake. Milton Lersch of Pittsburgh took another 30-pounder near the old Cobourg Railway pier at Rice Lake; his pal Willis Lippert's had to be content with a mere 10-pounder; they were guests at Ralph Loucks' Lakeshore House, Hiawatha. A 17-pound 'lunge' was caught by Mrs. E. J. Ferguson of East City at Stony Lake, and Joe Micolucci changed from his usual 'lunge'-luck to land a 7-pound pickerel in Little Lake. To wind up the season in a big way, D. A. Bowers, Geneva-on-the-Lake, O., landed a 35-pounder, three miles east of Keene, Rice Lake's second muskie of similar size.

To Pete McGillen; yes, by all means get a system going whereby the outdoor writers' tribe may keep a log of fish catches with interchangeable forms for filling out and mailing to each scribe, from one to the other. We are all tired of going through old news morgues with the oft chance of coming up with the wrong answers.

The OLD GUIDE & TRAPPER

Gold Medals, Seals, Coins This Peterborough Artist Designs and Engraves Them

By A. J. THOMAS

They told me that it was up above the shop which was the old liquor store. I examined the signs on the walls at the entrance to the stairway, and the door. A dentist, a hairdresser, an insurance agency, a bridge and cribbage club, but no sign of my man or his work. I toured other George Street entrances between Brock and Hunter, then came back to the first one, and mounted. Around the hairdressing bend was a door and the legend: "S. Hayman, Engraver." I had arrived. I knocked. A voice said, "come in." I did.

This was the studio of Mr. Stanley Hayman, engraver, or more particularly, medallist. The only person in the room was a youngish-looking fellow of a man, youngish-looking. This was Stanley Hayman.

The studio looked like many other artists' studios. I have seen, a blend of dusty garret, cluttered tables, and rather dismal workshop. The only concession to human comfort was the cushion on one of the two kitchen chairs, vintage 1910, on which I sat. The cushion was as lumpy as a Presbyterian church pew-cushion. The resemblance to a painter's studio was carried closer by a dozen canvases stuck up on the walls, some Mr. Hayman's work, some by a friend who lives in Keene.

The difference was this. There was no wash-basin for cleaning brushes, and no brushes. Instead there was a small lathe, a couple of vices, and a table across the window side of the narrow room, overlooking the hustle and bustle of George Street. On this table was a large assortment of steel chisels of all shapes and small sizes—perhaps a hundred of them. This was S. Hayman's work bench and he sat on the chair in front of it while I sat on mine at the end of the bench, and we talked about medals, coins, and engraving.

Art, A Hayman Tradition

Do not think that there is anything arty about the room of Mr. Hayman. He looks more like a business man than the insurance agent next door. But his eyes, hands and voice are not a businessman's. He says he has very strong eyes, and seldom has to use the "glass"—a jeweller's glass which goes into the eye and which I put in mine from time to time during the interview to inspect the detail of the engraving on medals which Mr. Hayman has designed. He talks, or rather, illustrates and emphasizes his talk, with his hands—the gestures of a man who is an artist and has been abroad. His voice is Canadian, but mellowed and his intonation betrays his eight years in England, when he was perfecting his art at the Royal Mint and following his calling at the London Assay Office.

He was born and bred in Toronto, studied art at the Ontario College of Art under men like Emmanuel Hahn the sculptor, and served an apprenticeship with his father, also an engraver and medallist. Graphic art is a Hayman family tradition. His grandfather was a teacher of art at the Slade school and the King Edward Grammar School, Gainsborough was a pupil of Hayman, but Stanley Haman does not claim direct kinship with that Hayman, though teacher and pupil Gainsborough came from the same part of Devon to which the Peterborough Hayman belongs.

What does Stanley Hayman do? What is a "medallist?" He showed me samples of his work. The New Zealand Silver Cross—the sterling medal given next-of-kin of New Zealanders killed in the recent war, was designed and engraved in that second-floor

George Street room. The Gold Medals presented CNE winners have been wrought, since the Toronto Exhibition was begun again after the war, by Stanley Hayman.

C.N.E. Medals

He showed me this and last year's medals. Viscount Alexander is most recognizably portrayed on the obverse side; on the reverse is a finely-chiseled design, modelled on CNE poster patterns. One medal is specially struck in solid gold for the patron who opens the Exhibition this year. Viscount Alexander. Last year the medal pictured Earl Mountbatten who, the opener of the Exhibition, received the solid gold medal. Prize winners get a gold filled medal, such as Mr. Hayman showed me. If a person looks closely, as I did, he will see the holograph, S. H.—Stanley Hayman.

The engraving on these medals is very fine work. "A portrait like that takes a little over a week to model," Mr. Hayman remarked. Well it might. The lettering is a marvel to this neophyte; yet it is all done free-hand, by gouging hard steel with small chisels. Such a medal is a craftsman's work, but it is also an artist's. Medallists do not employ professional "artists" to draw their designs. They are their own artists, make their own sketches, and it is these that are submitted to person or organization commissioning the work.

Sometimes, as with the British War Medal, commemorating war service between 1939-45 when the medallist is selected as the result of a competition, the authorities want more than a design. A hundred artists can submit designs, but only a few can carry them out in metal. So the committee for the medal asked for a plaster cast, to prove to them that the contestant can execute the model. Mr. Hayman's submission which he showed me unfortunately arrived in London after the competition closed. His model was delayed by the dockers' strike of that year.

Our 50 Cent Piece

The medallist's work is very old. It goes back to pre-historic Persian coins. Mr. Hayman has worked on coins, too. The Irish penny is his design and craftsmanship, done when he was at the Royal Mint.

The process is this: The engraver chisels the design, his own, in hard steel, on a blob of steel which he sets in his "dish," a small sort of vice. From this, a master punch is made by the mint. It is a "pick-up" in steel which brings the design out in relief, like a medal. With that are produced the dies which the coin-makers need for the year at the mint. This avoids variation in the coins.

Mr. Hayman talked in such terms as "name and style" with a freedom I had not heard of in England. When I remarked on this he said that a medallist must know a great deal about heraldry.

We talked about numismatics, which is the science and art of coins and medals. It was interesting to learn that Kruger Gray, who lived in Sussex village and was personally known to Stanley Hayman, designed the George Cross and George Medal, and also the reverse of the Canadian 50-cent piece. Mr. Hayman considers it to be our finest coin. The obverse was done by Harold Pagé whose initials are to be seen below the King's portrait. Tom Shingles, the chief engraver of the Canadian Mint, designed the reverse of the new Canadian silver dollar commemorating the union of Newfoundland with Can-

STANLEY HAYMAN, ENGRAVER AND MEDALLIST, at work in his George Street studio. Here he is chiselling a design on a steel plate held in the "dish," his swivelled small vice. Note the numerous chiselling tools. Mr. Hayman is one of the few artists of his kind in Canada. He studied coin-designing and medallist's art at the Royal Mint, London, after a considerable craftsman's preparation in Canada. —Examiner Staff Photo

EXAMPLES OF THE WORK of Peterborough's medallist Stanley Hayman are, LEFT, the Canadian National Exhibition Gold Medal for 1949, the obverse side (upper) being a portrait of Viscount Alexander. RIGHT is the C.N.E. medal for 1948. On its obverse side (upper), is Earl Mountbatten who opened the 1948 'Ex' and on the reverse side (lower) an artistic interpretation of the Welsh Guards Band, who were the principal musical attraction that year. CENTRE, top, is the New Zealand Silver Cross, designed and executed by Mr. Hayman in his Peterborough studio, which is given to every next-of-kin of New Zealand service men killed during the last war. The medallion Centre showing Churchill and his famous V sign was engraved by Mr. Hayman for private purposes. —Examiner Staff Photo

ada. He also did the five-cent piece.

Numismatic Interests

Stanley Hayman keeps in his office his personal collection of coins and medals. The most interesting of the medals is a sterling silver piece commemorating the coronation of Charles II in 1681. The engraved Charles is shown to be more natural and older than a young King in his 31st year might be, if the design had been engraved by a flattering courtier.

Hayman's work has a softness unusual in coins and medals, which he deliberately aims at; in contrast with the Greco-Roman classicism and stiffness of line of Victorian medals and coins. He says that probably the greatest medallist of all was William Wyon, a Royal Academician who died in the 1860's. He has examples in bronze of Wyon's work, and of the two Wyon nephews, and of George Desaulles, his successor, and designer of the Edward VII penny.

"Drawing is the main thing in this business. You can't have slipshod draughtsmanship," Mr. Hayman says. I believe him, after seeing the fine type of work a medallist is required to do.

Why did he settle in Peterborough? "It does not much matter where I settle. Commissions and work come from near and far, because I am not unknown among medallists."

But Mr. Hayman frankly recognizes that no artist in Canada can make a living out of his art. He must have side-lines.

So there are side-lines at the Hayman studio. One is the designing of new sterling-silver flatware patterns. At the moment he is working on teaspoons and dessert spoons of a new pattern for a silversmith.

But surely there are ups and downs in your business? I asked him. "Yes," he said, "but like other people in the arts, I have to be varied in my work. And I find commissions of all sorts keep me pretty busy. There are so few of us in Canada, and even fewer who are medallists, that work comes to me. All I need is a post-office address."

But why make the post office address George Street, Peterbor-

Nelson's Great Nile Victory, Fascinating Advertisements In London Times Copy, 1798

GRAND GALA in honour of LORD NELSON'S GLORIOUS VICTORY, over the French Fleet at the Mouth of the Nile. The proceeds to be devoted to the relief of widows and orphans of the brave men who fell on the occasion.

That is the first classified advertisement on the front page of the London Times of Wednesday, October 3, 1798. And a most interesting issue of the paper it is, for in it is the first official news to reach London of Admiral Sir Horatio Nelson's tremendous victory a hundred and fifty-one years ago over the fleet of Napoleon.

This paper was lately presented to Mr. Winder Smith, Headmaster of the Grove School, Lakefield, who is treasuring it for the school's library and archives. The donor was Mr. Alex. Edmondson, K.C., of Toronto, who is General Secretary of the John Howard Society, and a cottager at Stony Lake.

What a glorious day it was for London. The festivities in the street are described in the news columns. In another column on Page 3 is the jubilant statement that "The citizens of London have nicely trimmed the Gallic Cock; they have CUT HIS COMB for him!"

The leading article is headed "ADMIRAL NELSON'S VICTORY," and begins "The official news of the GLORIOUS VICTORY obtained by Admiral NELSON over the French Fleet, near Rosetta arrived at the Admiralty yesterday morning at a quarter past eleven o'clock." The news was brought by the Honourable Captain Capel, one of Lord Essex's sons, from the Admiral's flagship, overland from Naples.

It is a commentary on the change in the methods of communication that today such a victory would be known all over the world within a half-hour of its happening. Admiral Nelson wrote of the victory to Admiral the Earl of St. Vincent (who was off Cadiz, Spain) in a letter dated August 3, and sent Captain Capel with the news to the Admiralty in London, by a letter dated August 7th. The official news therefore took almost two months to reach London.

In the letter to Earl St. Vincent, Nelson's commander-in-chief, Nelson referred to the ships taking part: the French and British losses, and to the fact that "I was wounded in the head, and obliged to be carried off the deck." His eye was injured; he had already lost the sight of his right eye several years earlier in a minor engagement in the Mediterranean.

It is typical of the era that in his report to the Admiralty Nelson mentioned only the officers who were casualties, no petty officers or ordinary seamen.

The paper is full of interest apart from the historic accounts of the Battle of the Nile, and as (Continued on Page 13)

Husky East York Gridders Blank PCVS Seniors 25-0

David did not kill Goliath, at least not Friday night. The East York Collegiate Gridders with a big line and a fast-moving backfield broke loose in the third quarter after PCVS seniors had held the East Yorkers to two points in the first half of their game played at East York Stadium. With end runs and plunges the monsters from northeast Toronto scored three touchdowns, converting two and went on to add another in the fourth to win 25-0.

Underwood led the East Yorkers' attack in the first half with his mighty punting which kept the play in the PCVS zone. Surphill and Kimoff tore up the field throughout the whole game with their plunges and sweeping end-plays. Harrison plunged well and received several short passes to make first downs.

The Johnson twins, middles, Anderson at snap, Brown and Brithelot, insides, were the mainstays of the East York team as they broke through the PCVS line, which averaged about 25 pounds less time and time again.

Hubert Knox, who played an excellent game at middle for PCVS, was taken to the hospital after the game. He was hurt in the second quarter but went out again to finish the game. He later complained of pains in his chest and stomach. Coach Bev.

Goulding assisted by the manager of the East York team, took him to East York General Hospital where he will remain for two or three days for observation. Other injuries sustained during the game: Lowes, cut chin; Killingbeck, knee hurt; Grafslein, finger tips hurt; Coon, shoulder strained; Takeda, possible broken nose.

Neld To Two

East York's first point came after Surphill and Kimoff had plunged and ran the ball to the PCVS 24 where Underwood booted well behind the PCVS touch line. Two minutes later after two plunges by Evans, a Northcott pass was intercepted by Underwood who went to the PCVS 50. Kimoff took the ball to the PCVS 43 where Underwood booted. Coon was again stopped well inside the touch territory to make the score 2-0. Feature play of the quarter was a pass by Northcott to Gary Robinson from the PCVS 15 to the 35 after a bad snap allowed the E. Y. tacklers to stop Northcott booting. In the second quarter play saw-sawed back and forth with Evans and Northcott on the attack for the PCVS, West and Harrison for the East Yorkers.

Underwood scored the first major of the game in the third on an end run with Dyson from the PCVS 29, the convert being blocked, to make the score 7-0. PCVS hemmed in the East York team but Surphill plunged through the PCVS line at the EY 25 and ran the length of the field for a touch, Dyson converting. Seconds later, an end run from the PCVS 35 featured Dyson, Harrison and Kimoff with Kimoff scoring. Dyson again converting to make the score 19-0. The PCVS team settled down in the fourth quarter matching plunge for plunge, kick for kick, with East York. Kimoff intercepted a pass at the EY 43 and went to the PCVS 24. Dyson went around the end for a first down. On the next play Dyson heaved to Harrison for the last touch Dyson kicking the convert. The final score 25-0 for East York Collegiate.

Lineups: PCVS—flying wing, Coon; halves, Grafslein, Evans, Brown; quarter, Northcott; snap, Killingbeck; insides, Jopling, Grant; middles, Knox, Lowes; outsides, Robinson, Ward; alternates, Telford, English, Taylor, Galoska, Jensen, Curtis, Gandy, Sergeant, Armstrong, Burns, Grainger, Wood.

EYC—flying wing, Underwood; halves, Harrison, Kimoff, Surphill; quarter, Dyson; snap, Anderson; insides, Brown, Haines; middles, D. Johnson, B. Johnson; outsides, Montgomery, McCrae; alternates, Boyce, Yule, Brithelot, Boden, O'Donnell, Schatz, Wallis, Edmonds, Mosgrove, White, Benson, Lavery, Scovell, Rutledge, Banks, Kilham, West, Takeda.

Hamilton Tigers will start their Ontario Hockey Association senior season Oct. 12 with practically the same team that took to the ice in 1948. Most of last season's outfit has been out at practices which got under way at the old Barton St. arena last weekend. Coach George Redding says that, all going well, they should have "a pretty fair team this year."

In their 12th season, Johnny Conick, right winger, and Polly Miodonich now playing defence, are the veterans of the organization. Art Childs will probably be back in the net this season although Bruce Dale from Stratford is gunning for the spot. As far as is known for sure now, Tommy Tindall will be the only player from the 1948 squad who will not be played this season. Swat Mason, of Guelph, who has played for several seasons, has not yet shown at practice but is expected soon.

Boston's Red Sox, now a full game ahead of the runner-up New York Yankees in the American League pennant fight, Friday night announced 22,000 tickets for each world series game will be sold at the box office.

Each customer will be limited to two tickets for one game.

Chicago White Sox Friday announced the purchase of Alphonse Carrasquel, shortstop owned by Montreal Royals of the International League. Frank Lane, Sox general manager, said the purchase price included the contracts of shortstop Freddie Hancock and pitcher Charles Eisenmann, in addition to an undisclosed amount of cash.

Irish songbird Rinty Monaghan Friday night at Belfast retained his world flyweight title although held to an unpopular 15-round draw by Terry Allen, of London. As a crowd of 12,000 jeered the decision, Monaghan restored order by crooning from the ring "How Can You Buy Killarney?" Allen then was able to return to his dressing room unaided by a band of police who gathered hurriedly when the demonstration began.

Beau Jack, Augusta, Ga., former world's lightweight champion, Friday night scored a split decision over Livio Minelli, Bergamo, Italy, European welterweight champion, in a rough 10-round battle in Chicago Stadium. Rodney harness horse of the year in 1948, Friday trotted harness racing's fastest mile in eight years at Lexington, Ky., negotiating the distance in 1:57 2-5 in a time trial. Owned by R. H. Johnson of Charlotte, N.C., Rodney clipped three-fifths of a second from his mark set last season but failed by three-twentieths of a second to equal the 1:57 1/4 world's stallion record set by his sire, Spencer Scott, over the same track in 1941.

The participation of German in the Helsinki Olympic games of 1952 will be the major item of discussion at a meeting of the executive commission of the International Olympic Committee opening in Paris Oct. 19. Otto Mayer, chancellor of the International Olympic Committee, said Friday Germany will "almost certainly" be permitted to take part in the Helsinki games.

A seven-stroke margin Friday gave Mrs. T. J. Agar of Toronto York Downs club her fourth consecutive Canadian Senior Golf Association championship.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

While Rowan Chute's pee-wee lacrosse are off today for the final playoff in Toronto, the local banians — skipped by Barney Dundas and Ed Woodcock — are out. They lost in a game here recently with the fourth quarter rained out after Brampton was 20 minutes late arriving. OLA ruled that 20 minutes' delay wasn't so bad where minor clubs are concerned and that three quarters constitute a game under such circumstances. Tough luck for the local boys, who had to sit idle for three weeks when the OLA failed to make other clubs live up to deadlines. But these PMLA winners all made a fine showing this season, including Lou Vitarelli's Juves and Jerry Creighton's midget team.

PCVS Junior play St. Peter's High at 2.30 this aft in the Oval in a group scheduled scrap, which should be worth seeing. The senior PCVS-ers had an exhibition in Toronto gloaming, whilst the Peterborough Panthers are off this afternoon for an ORFU fixture in Orillia. Oshawa plays in Oakville today. Panthers go to Oakville on Thanksgiving Day. Lindsay meets PCVS Juniors here next Friday, and no doubt PCVS seniors will have a game this coming week-end. St. Mike's of Toronto have their annual exhibition match with St. Peter's in the Oval on Thanksgiving. Grid schedules are running right along, this being the big football month for most clubs.

OBA Semi-Finals On

And a reminder to baseball fans, Chatham and the Petes tangle this aft at three in Riverside Park, weather permitting, to open their OBA senior "B" semi-finals. The series is best-of-three with the return game or games tentatively set for next week-end in the Western Ontario centre. Last fall we won an OBA senior "B" title, last spring we took the OBA senior "B" crown, and it would be swell this autumn if the Petes could capture the OBA senior "B" championship, eh? No increase in prices for this important playoff here today, and it rates a big crowd.

Speaking of prices, there are no bargain rates at the World Series, commencing the middle of next week. We've heard of at least half a dozen Peterborough fans who hope to see the big diamond classic. Bleachers are a buck a throw, general standing room admission four slugs, grandstand and reserved seats from six to six and a half in New York, Brooklyn, Boston and St. Louis, while box seats set you back eight skins. A box seat for the possible seven games would dent the wallet for $66 smackere, tax included. All the extras, of course, cost extra, yet they usually sell out all World series games. It's still the main American sport.

Jabbing And Blocking

Jack Dane and Ron Menzies staged an interesting boxing show in the Ashburnham Hall before a goodly gallery last e'en. Three amateur bouts — with Fontaine and Gilmore southpawing it in an exciting tussle for the best bout — as Wilf Jones returned to referee. A couple of kids volunteered for a brief lesson to show how the Administrative Boxing Council here plans to train boys. Not trained to become pugs but to learn the manly art properly. We enjoyed the film on the first Louis-Schmeling fight where Der Maxie kayoed Joe in 12 rounds. The German found the only weakness Joe ever had in the ring — and other fighters later tagged him with it — an overhand right to the jaw.

Some 3,000 took in the exhibition senior high school grid game in Toronto last night and saw East Yorks slam through in the last half to wallop PCVS 25-0. A huge team, they outwitted the PCVS-ers considerably all through the line and backfield, and they made the extra poundage felt after halftime. Lowes, Killingbeck and Knox stood out on the Peterborough line, the latter suffering an injury and being kept in a Toronto hospital a few days for observation. Possibly a kick in the groin. Hubert Knox had tough luck last year, too. Northcott and Evans turned in a good chore the last half, and the whole squad tried hard against a powerful adversary. East Yorks' punting was for distance, also.

Hither And Yawning

CGE and O'Halloran's tangle in soccer at 2.30 sharp this aft in King Edward Park. Road race starts in Lakefield today at 2.30, a 10-mile jaunt to this town. Utilities were high to open the Mercantile Bowling League. Rookies led the Kawartha colleens. Bill McIntosh, Kawartha Club golf greenskeeper, was second in the provincial tourney in Toronto for greenskeepers of Ontario and their assistants, 120 competing; this gives Bill a first and two seconds in three seasons. PCVS field day is next Wednesday at the Ex. Kansas City puckists play the Generals in Oshawa tonight. Mrs. F. J. A. Hall carded 185 as Mrs. T. J. Agar won the Canadian senior women's golf title with 159. Oshawa Pedlars ousted Toronto 11-3 in OASA intermediate "A" play. Napanee rubbed out Cobourg in intermediate baseball. Brantford took Oakville twice so far in OBA senior playoffs. Cubs beat Cards 6-5 and now St. Louis are a full game back of the Brooks with but two games each to go. Sox beat Washington 11-9 as A's took Yanks 4-1, leaving Sox a full game up on Yanks and the season ending Sunday. Second month of the Oyster now, following the drought.

Pipher Headed For Boxing Squad

TORONTO, Oct. 1 (CP)—Buddy Pipher, of Oshawa, an unorthodox fighter who can take it and dish it out with either hand, nominated himself for the lightweight berth of Canada's British Empire Games boxing squad here Friday night.

The hard-hitting 135-pounder tossed everything — but the ring posts at Norm Thompson of Toronto in the final lightweight bout that from start to finish had the measure house in a tizzy.

Seven other champions were named in the central Ontario branch finals and all pack up for Port Arthur, Ont., for the Oct. 6-8 Dominion boxing finals which will decide team spots. Pipher decked Thompson for a nine count in the first round after landing a lucky right cross. Thompson looked ahead at that point but he fell in a heap when the Oshawa boy connected. The Toronto scrapper came right back and managed to hold up his end in the leather-slinging marathon. Again in the third, Pipher seemed to have Thompson on the verge of a knockout only to have the spunky Torontonian come back with a flurry of lefts that appeared to do little more than slow down Pipher for a time. He took plenty but gave out more.

Boxing Show Staged In East City

A free boxing show was held in the Ashburnham Hall before a good-sized crowd of men and boys — with a few ladies on hand — last evening. It was arranged by Ron Menzies, secretary of the Peterborough Administrative Recreation Committee, with Director Jack Dane in charge.

Following an outline of the Boxing Council under the local council aims in amateur boxing, by Jack Dane, three exhibition bouts were run off with Wilf Jones referee. Ron Menzies introduced the boxers. Bob Lagana and Louis Carveth went three rounds, followed by a lively match between Bob Fontaine and Norm Gilmore, a pair of southpaws. Jerry Tyler and Bus Manbeck finished it up.

Gives A Lesson

Ron Menzies took two boys out of the crowd and demonstrated the club method of training, emphasizing that no boxer would appear in public under this tutoring without being in condition and well able to defend himself. The show concluded with a film on the first Schmeling-Louis fight back in the late 30's, when the German knocked out the colored heavy, who was later to become world's champion, in the 12th round. The film and the whole show proved interesting to the gathering.

Burrards Lead Lacrosse Series

VANCOUVER, Oct. 1 — (CP).—Vancouver Burrards were one game ahead today in their bustling series for the Canadian senior lacrosse championship.

The Western champions came back strongly Friday night in the overtime to rap in three goals and defeat Hamilton's battling Tigers 16-14 in the third game of the best-of-five series for the Mann Cup. The deciding counters came after Doug Davidson of the Tigers put his team ahead briefly in the extra period.

Two sensational five-goal performances by George Masters of the Tigers and slender Ernie Smith of Burrards highlighted what proved to be the best game of the series to date.

Play was even at half-time with the two teams tied at 3-3 at the end of the first period and 5-5 at the half. Hamilton jumped into a one-goal lead in the third quarter when they outscored the fast-moving Vancouver squad 3-2 to lead 8-7. But Burrards staged a great last period rally, outscoring the Easterners 6-5 for the deadlock at the end of regular time.

Curling News

By Herb Martin

This article about curling is not meant to create the idea that the curling rink is open and the boys are already enjoying their favorite winter sport. Far from it. What we are going to try today is to bring before members the importance of sending their applications in at once.

Now, here's the set-up. Last evening, about 9.30 o'clock, we had a phone call from W. B. (Pete) Gordon, chairman of the membership committee, and he says "How about doing a little publicity for the curling club? We've just had a meeting and we find that the boys have not responded as well as we had expected. Now, you know what we want, so you lead it from here." So here goes.

About two weeks ago each one of last year's members received a letter containing a circular about curling and also an application form. The circular explained everything. The application form speaks for itself.

If the membership committee is to make progress and have everything in good form for the meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 11, they must have your signed application, with folding money—that's just common sense—so you curlers who are intending to curl this winter please attend to the matter at once.

Remember this, if we have no membership, we have no club, and you will have no curling. A little co-operation is a great thing, so send your applications to: R. F. Downey, 298 Boswell Ave., Phone 3868. Thank you!

B.C. Team Wins Lacrosse Title

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 1—(CP).—British Columbia All-Stars are Canada's new junior lacrosse champions.

The All-Stars took the Minto Cup and the championship Friday night by defeating the Ontario All-Stars here 16-6 in the fifth game of a best-of-five series. The victory gave them the series 3-1, with one game tied.

It was the first time that a B.C. team playing in the east had won the championship. The westerners never left the issue in doubt, edging Ontario 2-1 at the end of the first frame, 8-1 at half time and 12-2 at the end of the third period.

Erratic shooting by the Ontario players cost them numerous chances. When they did get their drives on the net, they found Vic Grover in the way. He blocked 28 shots, against 19 for Bud Smith in the Ontario net.

The western titheholders were speckled to victory by 16-year-old centre Larry Crema who fired four goals and assisted on two others. Other western marksmen were Shadow Hull, three goals and two assists; Eddie Bell and Cliff Johnson, two goals each, and Colin Cruickshank, Jim Kinna, Gord Nickle, Gord Sinclair and Ken Jones, singles.

Max Woolley counted two goals for Ontario. Other scorers were Jack Kapasky, Doug Smith, Steve Oneschuk and Buck Stock.

THE WORLD'S WILDEST SHOW

Athletics Polish Off Yanks While Cubs Throttle Cards

By ED CORRIGAN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

This could be the day of decision in the major league pennant races.

Boston Red Sox can clinch the American League flag by the simple expedient of knocking off their challengers, New York Yankees, today at Yankee Stadium.

If they miss, they still have a chance on the last day tomorrow since a Yankee victory today would only throw the race into another tie.

In the National League, a combination of a Brooklyn victory and a St. Louis Cardinal defeat could win the championship for the Dodgers, who now lead by one plump game.

The Dodgers play the tough Phillies in Philadelphia while the Cards, with three straight defeats haunting them, take on the tail-end Cubs in Chicago.

A loss for the Dodgers in one of the remaining two games and a sudden come-to-life for the Cards could force the National race into a best-of-three playoff.

The world series is scheduled to begin Wednesday in the park of the American League representative.

Had the Yankees or Cards taken advantage of the situation and won yesterday — their last big chance to make any headway — the races still would be up in the air.

But Philadelphia Athletics polished off the New York Yankees 4-1 while the last-place Cubs throttled the Cards 6-5. The Red Sox helped themselves by drubbing Washington Senators 11-9. The Dodgers had an open date.

Bosox manager Joe McCarthy is tossing Mel Parnell, his 25th game winner, against the Yankees today in an effort to nail down the flag.

In Desperate Spot

Casey Stengel, in the most desperate spot of the season, will counter with his top winner, Allie Reynolds, in an effort to stop Ted Williams, Johnny Pesky and company.

Despite his woes, Stengel had one ray of sunshine. Joe DiMaggio, who has been out with virus pneumonia, will rejoin the team and may play.

In the National League race, the Cards realize that no matter what they do, the final outcome will hinge on the performance of the Dodgers. Harry Brecheen, 14-game winner, will take the hill for the Cards.

As for the Dodgers, Barney Shotton has elected Ralph Branca, the big right-hander, recently released from the dog-house. The Phils will be represented on the rubber by Ken Heintzelman, a gentleman who has notched five of his 17 wins for the season against the Brooks.

Friday's doings in Washington amazed everyone, except perhaps McCarthy, who muttered at the end of the game:

"What difference does it make how you win 'em? It doesn't matter if you win 11-9 or 11-0."

McCarthy doubtless was right, but the Sox collected only five hits off the combined offerings of five Washington pitchers.

Of course there were eight walks, plus a couple of errors, a wild pitch, a passed ball and a mental lapse by a Washington player.

Needed More Runs

The Senators combed Boston pitching for 18 hits, including five doubles, but couldn't punch across enough runs.

The turn of events at Yankee Stadium was on the same side. The Yankees simply couldn't hit Toronto-born Dick Fowler.

Only four Yanks managed to get hits off Fowler and he still had to talk his way into being permitted to stay in the game when he loaded the bases in the second on a single and two walks with one out. He got Bobby Brown on a double play grounder.

Aiding the Athletics' cause were Sam Chapman and Ferris

Fain, who clouted home runs, both off starter Ed Lopat and counting for all four runs.

Ralph Kiner hit his 54th home run of the season to help Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati Reds. Kiner needs two more home runs to tie the Hack Wilson's National League record of 56, set in 1930.

In the only other game of the day, Cleveland Indians, behind Bob Feller, moved into a third-place tie with Detroit in the American League by dumping the Tigers 6-4.

Tourists Try
All Dodges
To Enter Studio

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1 (AP).—So far no tourist has used a Trojan Horse to get within film studio walls. But they've tried about everything else.

Take it from Bob Callender. He guards the gate that leads through the publicity department and into MGM studios.

"Everybody wants to get into the plant," he says. "I get well-dressed men who look as though they have the highest Dun and Bradstreet ratings in the country. And men with tattered coats and holes in their soles."

Getting inside a movie studio is almost as hard as peeking into the Kremlin — if you have no friend in the industry. That's why the theme song of Callender's job is "No, No, A Thousand Times No."

"People think I make up the rules," he remarked. "They think they can wheedle or bribe me and gain entrance."

Screen Tests
The question he hears most often is "May we see the studio?" Next comes "How about a screen test?"

"I pass the buck on that one," said Callender. "I send them next door to the Casting Department. They hear the 'No' from there."

Scads of job-seekers drip in. They prefer acting jobs, but nowadays they'll take anything. They seem to think if they can land any studio position, stardom will inevitably result.

Legs Help
"During the war, we had to replace our messenger boys with girls," Callender recalled. "The reception room overflowed with young applicants. When we asked if they were interested in acting, the answer was always 'Yes'."

The word got around the studio didn't want its message-toters to be budding actresses, so the girls — wearing inch-thick makeup — began murmuring "Dear no, we want to be stenographers."

Naturally, healthy gums are important to messengers, so Callender always asked applicants: "How are your legs?" One girl misunderstood. She lifted her skirt and gazed around the room like a Powers model.

Important Substance
Seventy-five gallons of water are used in making one pound of rayon.

Low Countries Entering Provisional Economic Union

THE HAGUE, Oct. 1 — (CP) — Benelux—the Economic Union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—enters its "provisional" stage Oct. 1.

Full union now is scheduled for next July 1, and the stage beginning next month is a sort of trial marriage during which the process of gearing their economies—now almost a year old—will be completed and their taxation measures unified.

The event will be the first of several of such likely to occur during the next few years. France and Italy are working toward a similar arrangement while Sweden, Norway and Denmark are in the exploratory stages.

All three groupings anticipate the remote day when the Council of Europe will be an organ with real if limited, powers, and European countries will comprise one broad free-trade area with some common political, social and cultural organs.

Coming Into Line
During the last year Holland has been bringing her controlled economy into line with the freer and higher-priced Belgian economy. Tomorrow also will see the last of food rationing in the Netherlands as free trading is resumed in meat, cheese, rice and coffee.

Holland's agriculture will have priority in the Benelux scheme, while her secondary industries will have scope for expansion.

To ensure that their economies are substantially complementary, while remaining healthily competitive, the three countries have machinery for "compulsory preliminary consultation" ready when the provisional union is entered.

They agree to consult when any new industry is proposed, or when any important industry plans an extensive increase.

Countries like Canada and Denmark may lose trade in the new setup. Belgium has been a market for their dairy products but now lower-priced Dutch production is expected to fill the demand.

During the provisional stage the three countries will unify their excise and other taxes. Already in certain commodities duties have been dropped, though token import permits are required for statistical purposes.

Pleads Strongly
To Community
For Team Work

MARMORA, Oct. 1 — (ENS)

Members of Marmora District Chamber of Commerce, their wives and a number of visitors attending the second annual ladies' night of the organization in Marmora Town Hall Wednesday, heard an address by William J. Cairns, secretary of the Ottawa Board of Trade. Deputising for the advertised speaker, Mr. Brand, secretary to the High Commissioner of the Union of South Africa, in an address interspersed with humor, the speaker stressed the importance of citizens of each community getting together for that community's welfare.

"Team work done here," as displayed on a sign in one town he had visited, was a characteristic which he felt every community should display. "To you as a citizen of Marmora," he emphatically declared "it is the best town." He felt that in city life the true meaning of neighbors and friends was being lost. He counselled the business men to build up individually a good reputation.

Each business man should be concerned about the fellow doing business besides him and not to treat him too much as a competitor. Organizations such as the Chamber of Commerce called for a real get together of the business men of the community to promote the general welfare of the district. In the war period men said and tried to feel that God was on the side of democracy. The time had come for democracy to be on the side of God.

Ladies Toasted
President A. F. Fraser as toastmaster, welcomed the greatly increased attendance compared with that of the initial year and welcomed the various newcomers to the district. The toast to the ladies was proposed by Bernard Hughes and Mrs. J. M. Brownlie responded. Rev. E. M. Cadigan of Ottawa, former pastor of St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, introduced the speaker and Carl W. Whittemore extended thanks to him and also to Marmora Women's Institute, whose catering left nothing to be desired.

Mirth was infused into the gathering as four prizes were given unexpectedly to individuals who were not aware they had been judged for any distinction.

Following the address two colored films on South Africa were shown by courtesy of the High Commissioner of the Union to Canada. Bridge and euchre concluded the social period of the evening.

Bride-to-Be Given Silver, Kitchenware

MILLBROOK, Oct. 1 (ENS)—

Miss Esther Armstrong, whose marriage to John Finney is to take place in Toronto on Oct. 18, was the guest of honor at a presentation on Monday and at a shower on Tuesday night.

The presentation was held at the home of Miss Jean Smith with 19 friends present.

When the bride-to-be entered the room she had a corsage pinned on her shoulder and was then led to an archway decorated with paper streamers.

Jean Smith made the presentation of one place setting of sterling silver. The evening was spent in doing a trousseau contest and in a backwards spelling match.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Melba Ball, Mary Freemantle and Betty Jewison.

The shower Tuesday night was put on by the Legion Auxiliary No. 402 in the Legion Hall, which had been decorated with gladioli, asters and roses. The bride-to-be was seated in a chair decorated in pink and white and a basket trimmed in the same color scheme by Comrade W. Richards was set down in front of her by Comrades M. Richards and G. Raper. It was a kitchen and pantry shower. Articles too large to go in the basket were set on a lace-covered table beside her.

The evening was spent playing cards. Refreshments were served by Comrade E. Sloan, convener of the social committee, assisted by Comrades G. Sanders, L. Kinsman, K. Raper, H. Reid and N. Sloan.

Butler Motion To Limit Funds Likely Ignored

By GEORGE RONALD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (CP)—The move of Senator Hugh Butler (Rep. Neb.) to halt Britain's use of Marshall-Plan dollars for Canadian wheat may be swallowed up in the frantic drive for adjournment of Congress.

Butler, with the backing of six of his colleagues, has introduced a resolution expressing the "sense of the Senate" that Canadian wheat must not be bought with these funds.

But Nov. 1 now is the target for adjournment. Many questions considered more important than the wheat issue are likely to get Senate precedence.

The arrangement permitting Britain to use $175,000,000 of her Marshall Plan grant to buy Canadian wheat is an outcome of the recent Anglo-Canadian-American financial talks here. Congressional leaders were kept informed of the work of that conference; it therefore is apparent that key Senate Democrats are in favor of the wheat arrangement.

Pledged To Accept
Furthermore, it is common — although unofficial — knowledge here that leaders of the major farm organizations have pledged not to object. They are reported to feel that Britain's promise to buy other surplus American agricultural products balances the whole thing pretty well.

Britain had made clear that, however serious her dollar problem, she intended to go on buying wheat — for dollars — under the Anglo-Canadian contract. The arrangement resulting from the three-power conference meant a saving of $175,000,000 — otherwise she would have had to spend that much out of her earned and reserve dollar supply.

The more recent devaluation of the Canadian dollar worked further to Britain's advantage: the price under the Anglo-Canadian accord is $2 a bushel but devaluation means she will get a bushel for $1.80. That makes the $175,000,000 go that much farther.

Butler, announcing his "sense-of-the-Senate" resolution, noted that the United States Government already has large sums invested in American wheat under the Domestic Price-Support program.

Ottawa's Mr. Protocol Caught In Big Mad Whirl

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 (CP)—It's a big, mad time for Mr. Protocol.

Foreign dignitaries are descending in clusters on William Howard Meares, a thin, bespectacled man of almost terrifying rectitude.

Mr. Meares works for the External Affairs Department as head of its protocol Division and this thrusts him into the very forefront of that thick compound of propriety and unctious that constitutes a formal visit.

Last week it was Italy's Count Sforza. This week it is Belgium's Paul Van Zeeland and France's Robert Schuman and next week it will be Britain's Ernest Bevin. And when all these foreign ministers have gone there will be Prime Minister Nehru of India. And right on the doorstep to meet him will be Mr. Protocol.

The Department's latest monthly bulletin deals at length with the responsibilities of his protocol division. It says protocol "means not only a particular type of document but also the manner, style or behavior appropriate to the conduct of affairs between nations."

The Department's article says this includes arrangements for exchange of diplomatic representatives, for visits, for hospitality to official guests, for provision of credentials to Canadian diplomats and for scrutiny of those of foreigners and for safeguarding the privileges of diplomatic immunity.

Big Siege
It's the heaviest siege in years and to say that Mr. Protocol is taking it in stride would be to ignore the heaping tangles of arrivals, receptions, dinners, press conferences and calls that make his hours long and his worries of great variety.

It would, however, be true to say that Mr. Protocol moves through it all with vast correctness and judgment and with quiet charm, a slight, pleasant, somewhat shy man who can hustle a VIP — the trade's abbreviation for a very important person or big shot — along his way as nicely and as subtly as you please.

At times like this or amid the semi-hysterical pageantry of a Royal visit or a call from an American President, the Government leans heavily upon these slight shoulders. Mr. Protocol reports for work in a black suit, a black Homberg, a great bow tie and thrusts into the problem with solemn vigor.

CANADA PRODUCES WHEAT FOR ALL THE WORLD

Each year, Canada, one of the world's greatest granaries, ships abroad millions of bushels of wheat and other life-sustaining grains. The peoples of many lands depend on Canada's rich harvest for their daily bread.

Why Seagram's sells Canada first

This advertisement is an adaptation of one of a series created by The House of Seagram to tell the peoples of other lands about Canada and her various products. For the past two years this campaign has been appearing in newspapers and magazines printed in many languages and circulated throughout the world.

Our prosperity is based on our ability to sell our products to other countries. Every Canadian has a personal stake in foreign trade, for one out of every three dollars of Canada's national income results from our trade abroad. The more that the peoples of other countries know of the quality, variety and prestige of our products, the more likely they are to buy from us.

We feel that the horizon of industry does not terminate at the boundary line of its plants; it has a broader horizon, a farther view — this view embraces the entire Dominion. That is why The House of Seagram believes that it is in the interest of every Canadian manufacturer to help the sale of all Canadian products in foreign markets. It is in this spirit that these advertisements are being published throughout the world.

Basic Facts To Remember Studying Old Testament

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD

The comment offered here is not directed to any particular lesson, but is designed to help in the reading, understanding, and teaching of any, or all, lessons based on the great Hebrew prophecies.

Emphasis is at present on the prophecies of Isaiah and Jeremiah, and it is a coincidence that these words are written that the daily papers have announced the discovery of a manuscript, or scroll, copy of the prophecy of Isaiah of a much earlier date than any hitherto known. This new scroll is being studied by scholars at Yale University, and while the results of their studies are yet to be announced, it is indicated that this earlier manuscript confirms the authenticity of the text of the prophecy as we have known it.

The discovery of this manuscript in itself, however, emphasizes a fact well known to Biblical scholars, both Jewish and Christian, not always taken into account by general readers. This manuscript, though much earlier than those formerly known, is some centuries later than the time when Isaiah lived.

If the "Book of Isaiah" meant that we have a book by Isaiah, directly from his own hand, like a book from some modern author, some problems in connection with the long prophetic book would be easily solved. But the prophecy by Isaiah represents a compilation at a later date in which other prophecies, and some of a period much later than the time of Isaiah, were included. This is particularly true of the chapters from the 40th on, which have sometimes been called "the Second Isaiah." The evidence for this is too full and technical for summary here, but interested readers might refer to articles in Hastings Bible Dictionary, and to the commentaries on Isaiah by the late Prof. George Adam Smith.

A few basic facts, always present in the mind, attitude and outlook of all the Hebrew prophets must be constantly borne in mind by those who would have even a meager understanding of what they said and wrote.

The first of these facts was their strong and basic belief in God's call to Israel as a chosen people. This choice was not inevitable, or non-forfeitable. It was established in a covenant, and a covenant is a two-party agreement. The prophets of the Exile period, like Jeremiah told in stern and realistic terms of how Israel had broken the covenant, failing to recognize God's call by their ways of idolatry, and their disregard of righteousness in personal life and in social justice. Integrity and purity of worship were constant themes. Worship was not a matter of formal sacrifice, but of right living, and of justice and mercy man with man.

The other basic fact was of Israel's situation in the midst of the great pagan empire of the ancient world Egypt was always to the south and some great pagan power to the north, east and west. The fear of invasion was great, the danger of entangling alliances with one or other of their powerful neighbors always a possibility, and with it all the deepening danger of corrupting forces destroying the moral and religious integrity of Israel.

These basic factors appear constantly in the prophecies. In future comment I shall strive to summarize what the prophets had to say about them.

His factory friends wept openly at his funeral.

"After Father Godin's death, Cardinal Suhard adopted the Mission as his own. He nursed it through its initial difficulties, and sent a representative to report to the Pope on its aims and methods."

"The original members of the Mission de Paris, all parish priests, number 18. Some are now factory workers, others cobblers, truck drivers, cinema studio assistants, or railroad hands. They dress like their fellow workers, use the same slang, earn the same wages, eat the same food, live in the same houses. They are not just 'pretending' to be workers."

They ARE workers, and will remain so to the end of their lives. Several religious orders have adopted the methods of the Mission de Paris, because it is felt they respond to a generally felt need."

"Grain of Salt" "The priests sandwich their spiritual mission in between their worldly chores. In general conversation they add their grain of salt. They put forward, simply and sincerely, because they believe in it, the Christian point of view. They never force religion on their fellow workers, but are often requested to celebrate a Mass, hear a confession, or visit the sick."

"With simple liturgical vestments hurriedly thrown overalls, the worker-priest celebrates his Mass on a factory bench, or on a kitchen table. The worker-priest does not replace the parish priest; he supplements him. The worker-priest, relieved of the routine of parish duties, and living in the midst of his flocks, can give himself entirely to his missionary work. Because of his personal experience, he can explain Christian doctrine in a language his hearers understand. He can associate it with the daily life of his friends and reply effectively to materialistic attacks and propaganda, because he knows what this propaganda is and what its effects can be."

"The Mission priests are often asked if there are any results of their labors which can be verified. They usually reply, smilingly, 'Ask us again in 200 years time.' Their task is to bear witness rather than to accomplish a rapid change in the customs and ways of life of the circles in which they live.

"Nevertheless, there are undoubtedly practical results. One priest, Father Charles, has found confidence growing around him with remarkable rapidity. He is invited to lunch or dinner by local families, including Communists." (Continued on Page 2)

Seven To Take Oaths Of Allegiance

An appeal against a conviction of careless driving involving Murray Hill, Dublin St., will come up at the Peterborough non-jury sittings which begin Monday morning.

On June 17 he was acquitted by His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke on a charge of reckless driving. Later the other charge of careless driving was laid against him and June 27 he was convicted in Police court by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K. C., and fined $50 and costs.

The charges arose out of a car accident last January in which Hill, driving a taxi at the time, knocked down Mrs. Alice Waldron, a pedestrian, at Lock and Braidwood Sts. Mrs. Waldron later died in hospital.

T. J. Carey, K. C., is expected to defend Hill.

Seven men will appear before Judge Smoke on Monday morning to take oaths of allegiance as prescribed under the Canadian Citizenship Act.

Two of them are local Chinese—Gan You Kam and Hum Yee, and there is a United States citizen, at present in the Canadian Army, Theodore Joseph Gobin. The others are George Hamilton Panter, Frank St. Joseph, F. Micollucci, Charlotte St.; Walter Dinesen, Carlisle Ave., and Carmine Paterno, Park St.

Plan Pilgrimage

OTTAWA, Sept. 30 (CP)—Veterans organizations have plans to organize a pilgrimage to the graves of Canada's war dead overseas when shipping accommodation becomes available. Veterans Minister Gregg said Thursday. In a Commons return tabled for E. G. Hansell (SC-MacLeod), Mr. Gregg said the movement would be "along lines somewhat similar to the Vimy pilgrimage organized in 1936 by the Canadian Legion."

Pull Their Weight

OTTAWA, Sept. 30 (CP)—Newfoundlanders are "89 years late arriving at Ottawa but are determined to pull their weight in confederation, Senator A. B. Baird, of St. John's, said Wednesday. In his maiden speech to the Upper House, Senator Baird, one of three Liberal senators from the new province, said Newfoundland's entry meant a solid addition to Canada.

Seek Pension $100 A Month

The Police Association of Ontario, at the annual convention, passed a motion asking the provincial government to subsidize the federal government annuity plan so that police officers would receive a pension of at least $100 a month on retirement.

The request was contained in the recommendations given to the association by its Pensions Committee Friday. The committee recommended the association to choose a delegation to approach the provincial government with its request.

"We enforce both dominion and provincial laws," the recommendation read.

The report said the $100 a month pension should be given to all police officers after 25 years' service at the normal retirement age of 60 or after 30 years' service.

All police officers with over 20 years' experience up to 25 years should be guaranteed, at the 60 years retirement age, a minimum pension of $75 a month, the recommendation said.

Police officers with at least five years' service who have been forced out of their jobs by physical unfitness, should receive a pension directly proportional to the number of years of service in comparison with 30 years' service and $100 a month pension.

Car Believed Stolen Hits Parked Auto

A car was struck while parked on Rogers St. shortly after midnight by a car which failed to stop but was later located and found to be owned by Archie Bannan, 548 Harvey St. Jack Taylor, 610 Walkerfield Ave., told investigating police constables Andy Dalton and Louis Redroque he had parked his car on Rogers St. and did not see the accident.

There was reported to be an eye witness to the accident. Taylor later found the car which was believed to have hit his being backed out of a field behind 134 Hazlett St.

Bannan told the police he had parked his car in front of a downtown garage and put the keys over the sun visor earlier in the evening. He returned to find it stolen. He said he went home, found the car wasn't there and went to 134 Hazlett where he found it.

Gahagan Trial Set For Oct. 11

Patrick Gahagan, of Mark St., committed for trial in a higher court earlier this month on two charges—steal of $8 from a letter and theft of several other letters from the post office—has elected speedy trial by judge alone.

The trial will be held at a special sitting of the County Court on Oct. 11, six days before the Supreme Court sittings with Chief Justice of the High Court, the Hon. Mr. James C. McRuer, presiding.

Gahagan, a post office employee, was committed for trial on both charges at a preliminary hearing before Magistrate E. A. Gee, of Lindsay, on September 8.

Child Lost Tip Of Index Finger

Three-year-old Wallace Montgomery had the tip of his index finger of one hand almost severed when he caught his hand in the wringer of a washing machine on Friday while his mother was washing.

The youngster is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Montgomery, 217 Barnard St. He was taken to the Civic Hospital for treatment.

Morgan J. O'Neill, R.R. 2, Bobcaygeon, came into Peterborough to have a fish hook removed from his finger.

Demand Slackens For Water Mains

Utilities Commission has caught up with its season's program of work. Pressure of demand for water mains and connections to new houses has been lifted, and for the rest of the Fall it is largely a matter of odds and ends, excepting the occasional specialty like the raising of the water tower for Civic Hospital.

Ross Dobbin, manager, reported to the Commission Friday, that the Parkdale jobs in Ashburnham and Highland Heights in the west-end are finished.

The next main to be laid will be on Third Ave. from Clonsilla Ave. to High St. Then, there is the 12-inch main across the park at McDonald's Point. Commission received authority yesterday to lay the city's sewer at the same time, and in the same trench.

Mr. Dobbin told the Commission most of the work would be wound up probably by Dec. 1. Another chore at the hospital is on the list, but the fever of demand from new house owners has spent itself. Various connections have to be made in the final stage of operations. For the first time since early Spring, the Commission can afford the luxury of relaxing a little, and in peering over the New Year's border the indications are pointing to considerably less buying and laying of pipe in 1950.

Policemen Told Join Activities Of Community

It is time the policemen stopped living like hermits and working like the devil and took part in the activities of the communities in which they work, T. J. Carey, K.C., said in an address to the 17th annual convention of the Police Association of Ontario Friday.

He did not intend that policemen go to the extent of running for city council, but they should take part in city functions, belong to social organizations and should get behind every worthwhile campaign for charitable purposes.

In this way, the policemen would get to be known in his community as an individual and thereby win the respect and friendship of his fellow citizens.

Mr. Carey said, in spite of recent rises in wages and better living conditions for policemen, they were still not being rewarded as much as they should considering the job they are called upon to do.

He said the policeman who is killed in his duties was killed while protecting the freedom of his country as much as any soldier who died in a war against an enemy from the outside.

An ideal police officer would be a paragon of virtue, Mr. Carey said. The ideal would have as his first characteristic, honesty; he would be completely impartial; he would have infinite patience; he would be able to control his temper; he would be courteous and, into the bargain, a walking encyclopedia.

Much Expected An amazing ability was expected of the officer. He must be a judge but must refrain from going too far. He must decide who should be prosecuted as the result of an accident by judging who is most to blame. In many cases, Mr. Carey said he thought both parties should be prosecuted although not necessarily on the same charge.

He pointed out civil courts often proportion the blame and order payments of damage caused in that proportion.

The office of crown attorney also came in for some criticism from Mr. Carey. He said he believed crown attorneys should be full time officers with commensurate salaries without maintaining a private practice as well.

He said he thought it practically impossible for any man who is "torn attorney with a private practice not to be swayed unconsciously by the interests of his private practice when the two coincide.

Mr. Carey reminded the police delegates the Canadian Criminal Code was due for some changes. A government committee is at the moment working on bringing the criminal code up to date.

In the future, the criminal code which is now a "patchwork of amendments," will perhaps place personal rights above property rights. If this comes about, it will diminish the evil by which the rich man can pay his fine, but the poor man has not the money and has to take the jail sentence.

It was necessary, he said, for people to shed away the old prejudices and backward habits inherited from their ancestors and learn to develop their best qualities as unselfish human beings ready to give full regard for the rights and feelings of others.

Civic Dinner Given Police At Convention

The 17th convention of the Police Association of Ontario ended its four-day session Friday night with a civic dinner for some 300 delegates and their wives, many of whom were members of the association's Ladies' Auxiliary.

Alderman Adam Sands acted as chairman and Mayor Max J. Swanston expressed the city's pleasure at having the police convention held in Peterborough.

Edmund Coulter, London, newly-elected president of the association, thanked the mayor on behalf of the association for the manner in which the city had played hosts. It was a big week for the Coulters. Mrs. Coulter was elected president of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

One of the highlights of the evening was a presentation by immediate past president, Arthur Webster, Lindsay, of a portrait of Peterborough's Chief Constable John Thompson to the chief.

Guest speaker Oswald A. Trudeau, Montreal, Assistant Traffic Manager of the CNR, was introduced by Chief Webster.

Mr. Trudeau deplored the lag of development of human social living behind advancements of science. He said people had yet to learn to live together. He sounded a warning that if they did not make democracy work, they had no future.

It was necessary, he said, for people to shed away the old prejudices and backward habits inherited from their ancestors and learn to develop their best qualities as unselfish human beings ready to give full regard for the rights and feelings of others.

Mrs. J. Miles, London, was presented with a bouquet of roses by Mrs. H. R. Mesley, president of the Peterborough Ladies' Auxiliary for her service as president of the Ontario Ladies' Auxiliary for the past three years.

Convention city next year will be London. The invitation was accepted in the afternoon business session.

James J. Fleming, J.P. installed the newly-elected officers of the Police Association of Ontario, headed by Edmund Coulter of London, in a brief ceremony Friday afternoon. Colonel R. I. Moore, Mayor of Lindsay, and members of the Lindsay council visited the police convention as did W. C. Grant, reeve of Lakefield.

Two Copping Brothers Unite To Manufacture Amazing Machine

Two Peterborough brothers, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gray Copping of Brock St., have pooled their engineering abilities to form what promises to be a highly-profitable firm in the United States. The younger brother, Brian, aged 35, has invented a machine that automatically conveys cases of empty bottles from a truck, sorts them and puts them into a washer. The whole complex operation is performed without the necessity of human intervention.

Far from being a "pipe dream" or the Goldberg machine, the first one of its kind is already in operation at the head office of the Coca Cola Co., Atlanta, Ga. And orders are said to be coming in from all over the United States.

Company Formed Bruce Copping, 45, formerly chief engineer of the Coca Cola Co., resigned his job at Atlanta to become executive vice-president and general manager of Atkron Inc., Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.

Although manufactured by Atkron, the machine is distributed and sold by the Copping brothers. According to the inventor the labor cost saved in the course of 15 months is sufficient to pay for machine. It does the work of three men.

Brian first conceived of the machine while working as chief engineer at Raymond Lowery Associates in New York, and he left to devote all his time to the developing of his brain child.

After a year's hard work the first one was built and was accepted and installed by the Coca Cola Co. about a year ago. Orders then began to come in, making financial backing not too difficult to obtain.

RCA secured the selling right and the Atkron Co. was formed to produce the machines. At this stage it was felt a person with exceptional executive ability was needed to manage the company, and the position was offered to Bruce, who promptly accepted.

Miraculous Machine Briefly this is the function of the new invention: A driver unloads the cases of empty bottles on to a conveyor belt which carries them to the machine. The bottles are pulled from the cases and put into the washer. Adjustable to any particular size or shape of bottle, the machine selects only the proper ones and rejects the others.

When a foreign bottle is detected a red light flashes on and the machine stops; and it will not restart until that bottle is removed.

Bruce is a graduate of McGill University in mechanical engineering. At one time he was plant engineer with Canadian Industries at Copper Cliff. He left the north country to become assistant engineer of the Coca Cola Co., Montreal, and his next promotion was to Toronto as chief engineer of Canada. Eventually he went to Atlanta as chief engineer for the company.

Both Inventors An inventor in his own right, Bruce made the Dole Automatic Register for keeping rooms in a building at a uniform temperature. Four patents now being used by the Coca Cola Co. were invented by him also.

PRACTICAL PLANS FOR THE HOME YOU WANT AND HOW TO PLAN IT

Blending Design and Color Liven Wallpaper Schemes

When choosing wallpapers, remember that the interior of your home is made up of a series of rooms related directly or indirectly to one another... and that color schemes and designs in the various rooms must be pleasantly related and offer an interesting diversity of effect.

In most homes, the relationship of first floor rooms or general living quarters must be far more carefully studied than that of bedrooms. Most general living quarters open directly into one another, while most bedrooms are separate units opening from a common hallway.

Neutral Patterns, Dull, Unimaginative

If you stand in your living-room and look through the hall into your dining-room, you must give careful consideration to the colors and designs of the wallpapers to be used in these three areas. Too many home owners choose the easiest, but totally uninspired method of papering all three with the same neutral, unobtrusive paper. The results are dull and unimaginative.

However, there are certain occasions when first floor rooms and the hall may be papered alike. Where the living and dining rooms are abnormally small, with the opening between them large, it is certainly advisable to treat them as one room in order to achieve the illusion of spaciousness.

Choosing Living Room Papers

Papers chosen for the living-room are best chosen in quiet colors and rather unobtrusive designs. It is here that you will have your best pictures, your best books with their colorful bindings, furniture coverings diversified in tone and design and like summer slip covers.

But "quiet" colors are not limited to ivory, cream, sand or grey. Green, pink, blue, yellow, red and brown are all available in subdued tones, and should be used with as much freedom as the more commonly accepted neutral tones. Stripes, damasks, tapestries, medallions, scenes and fabric effects... all make admirable backgrounds for the living-room.

Make Your Hall "Cheery"

Visitors get their first impressions of the interior of your home from the hall... It should say "hello" in the friendliest manner. Choose papers much gay and more decorative than for the living-room. Scenes, toiles, foliage effects, gay checks, bold stripes, and florals are all appropriate.

Chief requisite for the dining-room is that it be cheerful. With only a limited amount of colorful upholstery, usually only chair seats and occasionally chair backs the dining-room can benefit from strong colors, good design and bold characters. Medallions, florals, bold leafy patterns, scenes and stripes are all good choices.

Don't use the same type of design for both dining-room and hall; that would be unimaginative and would impair the effectiveness of both. A bold stripe in the dining-room and a good foliage in the hall, or a scene in one and a gay floral in the other would be much more pleasing.

You Might Choose...

Let's suppose that the living-room, hall and dining-room open into one another... and that a small diagonal design is used in one of the dusty pinks in the living-room. For the hall you could then use a floral in pink, blue and yellow on a off-white background... for the dining-room a conventional yellow leafy stripe on a grey-blue ground. The use of a grey-green line stripe in the living-room might be complemented by a bold leafy design on a grey ground with top colors in green, brown and yellow ground in the dining-room.

Choosing complementary designs and colors in this manner avoids all monotony. One set of colors relates to the colors in the adjacent room and the design in one room emphasizes the design in the next. This principle is fundamental and essential to good decoration.

Regard Bedrooms As Separate Units

The treatment of bedrooms is different, for it is not usually necessary to choose papers that will set off and complement one another. The rooms can be regarded as separate units, not as part of a whole. The main objective is variety of choice to give individuality to each room.

If you have four bedrooms, a large floral design in one, a stripe, a small spot floral and a quaint figure could give good variety of design. To vary the color, use a blue background, a white, a dusty pink, and a soft green or yellow or perhaps mauve. Don't make the mistake of using the same design in three different colors for this would be monotonous and unimaginative.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

HOUSE NO. 2—Not only has this tiny bungalow a pleasant trim exterior; its floor plan as suggested offers interesting hints to the prospective builder of a small house. Corner windows have been used to advantage, both in the living room and in the larger bedroom. There is a bay window in the dining room, which is matched by one in the smaller bedroom. Bedrooms are well separated from the other rooms of the house, and the small bathroom is neatly placed between. The vestibule will meet with approval from most owners-to-be, and the view of the living room and dining room which greets one on entering the house is appealing. It gives the house an air of spaciousness at this point. Attractive chimney treatment is important since its projection forms the only separation between these two rooms. It will be noticed in the picture the garage is conveniently located under the house. Top of the doors are visible at the left. With full basement this house has in the neighbourhood of 15,000 cubic feet. For further information write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Order Anglican YPS To Drop Can-Can

TORONTO, Oct. 1 (CP)—An Anglican church young people's society has been ordered by the Bishop of Toronto to drop the French-style can-can dance from its proposed variety review program, it was learned Friday.

Audrey Milson, director of the "Nativeen Revue," first produced this spring by the AYPA of Toronto's Church of the Nativity, said the show was ordered stopped after an anonymous complainant sent a photograph of the dancers to the headquarters of the society.

She said the picture, a copy of a published newspaper photo was forwarded to the Bishop, Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley who asked the church's rector to stop the show.

Miss Milson, one of the dancers who was photographed, said the show was presented twice without incident last May and now is in rehearsal for another performance Oct. 14.

The woman charged that defence counsel Allen R. Brooks read into the trial record an incident in which a girl was threatened with a revolver and raped by two youths. The complainant said, in reply to a question, that she had read the book. Mr. Brooks said the incident in the book and the girl's accusation were "startlingly familiar."

House Of Commons Studies Plans For Nationalizing Cable Service

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 (CP)—Government plans to nationalize Canada's external cable and wireless facilities were placed before parliament Friday.

The Commons, after lengthy discussion, gave first reading to a bill that would permit the government to buy the overseas telecommunications systems of two companies — Canadian Marconi and the United Kingdom-owned Cable and Wireless Ltd. Approximate cost is $4,500,000.

Under the bill, introduced by Transport Minister Chevrier, Canada would fulfill her part of a bargain with other Commonwealth countries made at a 1945 conference.

At that time the countries agreed to nationalize their external telecommunications systems and co-ordinate them under a Commonwealth board.

All but Canada, Ceylon and Pakistan have done so. The bill introduced Friday will bring Canada into line with the majority of Commonwealth nations.

Packers Bill

During the night-sitting the Commons "talked out" a private bill to place meat-packing plants in various provinces under jurisdiction of the Federal Labor Code.

Labor Minister Mitchell said attempts to make the code apply to the meat-packing industry as it now does to railways would be an "unwarranted invasion of provincial rights."

The complicated nature of the telecommunications bill was illustrated by the wide discussion and host of questions asked by members regarding its meaning and effects.

Several members — including Ross Thatcher (CCF-Moose Jaw) — wondered if Canada might be taking over a losing enterprise. Mr. Thatcher, while saying he favors the bill in principle, said financial reports of Canadian Marconi indicate it is losing money.

Mr. Chevrier explained that the government is not taking over all assets of the two companies. It was only buying their overseas telecommunications facilities which, he said, were profitable. The minister said he would like to assure the members that the government is not buying a "lemon."

Raises Questions

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, while not expressing views on the general merits of the bill, suggested that either a special or standing committee be given the opportunity of going over the measure in detail before the House vote on it.

He raised a number of questions on the results of the bill. Would it result in a monopoly on cable communications?

Mr. Chevrier said it would not. There were still strong and competitive services in the international field.

What effect would it have on arrangements now in existence between Canadian Pacific Telegraphs and Canadian Marconi, Mr. Drew asked?

Mr. Chevrier said he does not think it affects the Canadian Pacific in any way. Arrangements existing under which messages go over Canadian National or Canadian Pacific wires would continue.

Knox To Act In Own Play On Broadway

By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (CP). — Alexander Knox is a playwright as well as an actor and his ability in both roles shortly will be put to the test in a Broadway production.

"The Closing Door," a melodrama by the Ontario-born Knox, is due to open here Dec. 1. Furthermore, Knox will act in the play himself.

Cheryl Crawford is producing the drama and Lee Strasberg has been engaged to direct it. Doris Nolan, Mrs. Knox in private life, also will be in the cast.

This isn't the first play written by Knox, who was born at Strathroy, Ont., and educated at London, Ont. His "Old Master" was produced at the Malvern Festival in England in 1949. Moviegoers will remember his portrayal of President Wilson in the film "Wilson" a few years back.

Judith Evelyn Role

Judith Evelyn, who learned the profession of acting in Winnipeg, will be seen in October in "A Streetcar Named Desire" in Vancouver and Victoria. The National Company, which is touring in the Tennessee Williams play, will be in Victoria Oct. 6-8, and in Vancouver Oct. 10-14. Miss Evelyn's portrayal of the tortured neurotic heroine of "A Streetcar" has been warmly received by critics during the company's tour.

Looking Ahead

A burst of activity next week will rouse the Manhattan stage from its long summer sleep. A production of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" opens Monday night. "Yes, My Lord," a comedy which has had a successful run in London under the title "The Children Hundreds," follows on Tuesday. Also arriving Tuesday is a repertory of Gilbert and Sullivan operas presented by S. M. Chantock. "The Browning Version," a double bill of plays by Terrence Rattigan, is due Oct. 12 with Maurice Evans and Edna Best heading the cast. Oct. 13 is the scheduled arrival date for "Touch And Go," a musical revue produced by the well-known hand of George Abbott.

Nickson's Great Victory

usual in old papers, the advertisements are among the more interesting items. The Times, then as now, devoted its entire front page to classified advertisements; for this reason this paper 150 years old is easily recognizable at first glance by a present-day reader as being the London Times. It has, like some recent war-time editions, four pages; and the size of the pages and general appearance are not unlike today's.

Among the advertisements is one offering two hundred pounds reward by the Post Office, with this explanation: "The Post-Boy carrying the Mail from Bromley to Sevenoaks last night, was stopped about two miles from Farnborough, between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock by a single highwayman, who presented a horse pistol and demanded the mail which the boy gave him. He offered the robber half a guinea (10½ shillings—now about $1.60), but he declined to take it."

Judging from the size of the reward offered, the highwayman got a good bit more cash from the mail than half a guinea.

Here is an advertisement which is as familiar as one that appeared in The Examiner last week: "Lost on Friday last, from Wimbledon a black and white greyhound dog, answers to the name of Driver." And here is a type of advertisement which has been considerably curbed in its claims in these later years: "The Excellence of that invaluable Medicine SPIL-BURY'S ANTISCORBUTIC DROPS, is displayed in the following wonderful cures. . . ."

Here are the cures—and a witness' name testifies to each. "Mary Esdale, who went on crutches, and was discharged from St. Bartholomew's Hospital, as incurable, was restored to health by these drops, and walked without even the assistance of a stick. During the cure 30 splinters of bone worked out." Another person, was cured of "scorbutic humour on his body" by these drops. Another gentleman, who for two years "had laboured under a violent rheumatic fever" was cured by eight five-shilling bottles. A private gentleman of Surrey was cured "of a leprosy." One of York "afflicted with the gout, scurvy, rheumatism, etc., cured by these drops."

And so the advertisements go. One wonders if the "elegant Villa, furnished, with eight acres," was let; if the young person (a lady) who had received a "genteel education" got her job as companion, and if the nobility, gentry and public who went to the anniversary party of Mr. Fox's first election to Westminster had a good political time.

Two Trucks Collide South Of Fraserville

Drivers of two trucks that collided on Highway 28 near Fraserville on Friday escaped without injury. But the accident resulted in total damage of about $170.

According to police reports, a Hydro-Electric Power Commission truck was being driven north on the highway about two miles north of Fraserville by Mervin Kennedy of Millbrook. When it attempted to make a left turn into a private driveway it was struck in the rear by a St. Lawrence Starch Co. truck driven by Andrew Hornick of Toronto. Both had been going north.

Hornick was attempting to pass when Kennedy made his turn into the driveway. The impact knocked the Hydro truck sideways on to the driveway and did about $20 damage to the rear.

The vehicle driven by Hornick received $150 damage to the front end.

Provincial Constable E. G. Patterson investigated.

Milk Market Swamped, Ask Gov't Help

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 (CP)—George T. Fulford (L-Leeds) Friday night in Commons urged the government to help Canadian evaporated milk producers rid themselves of rising surpluses.

These surpluses were showing up right across the country, he said. Milk producers were desperate. Warehouses were piled high with their products and there were no markets in sight.

In his own county of Leeds in Ontario more than 3,000,000 pounds of milk were in warehouses "stacked to the roof." Producers now were looking for more storage.

Farmers did not know which way to turn. The problem had gained "serious proportion."

Mr. Fulford commended Agriculture Minister Gardiner on a statement he made previously in the Commons that the government was trying to maintain the United Kingdom market for Canadian foodstuffs, but greater, urgent steps had to be taken.

Loss Market
In previous years the United Kingdom had been a big market for Canadian milk products, but for the last two years, Mr. Fulford said, Canada has been unable to

Annual Holy Hour

TORONTO, Oct. 1 — (CP) — The annual holy hour of the Toronto Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies will be held Sunday, Oct. 2, at the new Canadian National Exhibition grandstand. The cross of Jerusalem, which has been carried by pilgrims who left the Holy City last Good Friday, will be erected in front of the stand. Speaker will be Rev. Robert I. Gannon, former president of Fordham University, New York City.

sell milk products in that country.

He said he wished Trade Minister Howe—absent from the Commons—was in the House so he could tell him of the need to find new markets for the surplus milk.

There might be ways of getting milk into India, Pakistan, West Africa and other parts of the world.

He said the government appeared to be ready to buy more supplies of tin and rubber from Malaya and he wondered whether they couldn't buy peanuts from West Africa and sell them milk in return.

And steps perhaps could be taken to step up the domestic market. Perhaps the government could help to increase supplies to the armed forces.

Something had to be done quickly. Farmers were storing their products and paying costs without government aid. They had to be assisted in finding new markets.

Senior Official Sent To States

LONDON, Oct. 1 — (Reuters) — Sir Leslie Rowan, Second Secretary of the Treasury, has been appointed deputy to the British Ambassador in Washington, Sir Oliver Franks, "to carry out arrangements for continuing consultation agreed upon at the tripartite talks in Washington."

He has also been appointed Economic Minister in the Washington Embassy.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said in the House of Commons on Tuesday: "We intend to add to the staff of our Ambassador in Washington a very senior official whose whole time will be occupied by the study of particular problems arising from the general principles agreed upon in our talks in Washington."

"Similar arrangements will be made by the United States and Canadian Governments. Matters will thus be prepared for decisions at ministerial level at meetings which take place from time to time in Washington or any of the other capitals."

Sentence Richards To 3-Year Pen Term

HAMILTON, Oct. 1 — (CP) — Edward (Dempsey) Richards was sentenced Friday to 3 years on charges of manslaughter and wounding arising from a drinking party free-for-all Aug. 6 that resulted in the death of Richard Slifka, formerly of Regina.

Slifka was killed and Charles Bulmer wounded in the brawl at the home of David (Irish Davey) Ambersley in suburban Saltfleet Township. Ambersley was jointly charged with Richards and acquitted. He now is serving a two-month term on a liquor charge.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Youth and Age Cannot Mate Mature Marriage Necessary

Should a woman marry a man younger than herself? No question is asked me oftener than this by women. They are enough in marriage by men with whom they are in love; men who are congenial to them and with whom they have all sorts of interests in common; men who are fitted in every way to make good husbands but the women hesitate to marry them because they have celebrated a few more birthdays than the men have. The men care nothing for the disparity in age, but the women are held back by their superstitious reverence for the ancient taboo against the wife being the elder of a married couple.

The wisdom of a woman marrying a man younger than herself depends upon two things only, it seems to me. The first is: How much younger is the man than she? And secondly: How old is the man?

Youth and age can never mate because they have not one single impulse or desire or taste or habit in common and this is equally true whether the woman or the man is the elder. Fortunately, however, elderly millionairesses seldom commit the folly of marrying lads young enough to be their great-grandsons. They lack the vanity that makes a tottering old man of 90 believe that a blooming girl of 16 loves him for himself alone.

But when a woman is considering marrying a man ten or fifteen years younger than herself the vital point that should determine her decision is his age. If he is 20 and she 30 it is not to be thought of. If he is 30 and she 40 it is a good matrimonial risk.

The Reason

The reason for this is plain. At 20 a man still has the mother complex that makes every boy fall in love with his school teacher or any older woman who will take the trouble to entertain him and jolly him along. He still wants to hold on to the hand, so to speak, of some sophisticated woman who will guide him through the strange paths of life. If a very young man marries a woman older than himself she is always more mother than wife to him and he is very certain to turn from her when he grows up to some girl of his own age.

Besides, a boy's tastes and habits are not formed. They are in a state of flux and change from day to day. He does not know what he wants in a wife nor what kind of a woman will interest him when he is a matured man.

If the man is 30, however, the situation is entirely changed. He is mature. He is formed. His tastes are settled. And if he wants to marry a woman ten years older than he is it is because she comes up to his ideals and satisfies his judgment.

The theory that a woman should not marry a man younger than herself was based upon two assumptions, neither one of which is true now. The first was that inasmuch as a girl had to marry for a living the older man made the preferred meal ticket. That was an incontrovertible argument in a time when marriage was not only a woman's sole avocation but vocation, but the modern woman does not have to marry for a living. She can make one for herself. Hence when she takes a husband she does not have to consider whether he is old enough to have worked up to a good position or not. If she is ten years older than he is she either has money of her own that she inherited or else she is apt to be safely ensconced in a good job she has made for herself.

Other Objection

The other objection to women marrying men younger than themselves was the fact that women aged more quickly than men but that is not the case now when beauty culture has become a religious rite with the fair sex and women devote more thought and care to preserving their complexions and their figures than they do to saving their immortal souls. Whereas men let Nature take its course with them and get fat and bald and careless about their clothes. Look about you in any crowd and you will see that women look far younger for their age than men do.

So I would say to the woman who is contemplating marrying a man younger than herself: Beware of cradle-snatching. Boy babies don't grow up into satisfactory husbands, but if the man is as much as 30 years old, go to it. You will have a better chance of happiness than most wives, because your age will give you more sense about how to get along with your husband.

MARMORA, Oct. 1—(ENS)—St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society September meeting was held on Tuesday at the Parsonage. Mrs. G. D. Young had charge of the worship service and, with Mrs. H. R. Haacke, rendered a duet.

The theme hymn of the Dominion Board was sung for the first time, this year being the 25th anniversary of Church Union. In dialogue form, the new book "Growing with the years" was introduced by Mesdames E. C. Prentice, H. C. Barlow, H. R. Haacke and G. D. Young.

Letters were read acknowledging receipt of two bales for overseas relief work and announcing that Marmora WMS had been awarded the anniversary book shelf as a prize for books read. The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. W. Sabine.

City-wide Unit Planned by CCYM

Fourth general membership meeting of the Peterborough District CCYM (Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement) took place Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Yoe, New Romaine St., with president Fred Burrett presiding.

Organizer Bert Holmes reported that present strength of the youth movement indicated the practicability of a city-wide unit organization shortly.

Mrs. Bert Holmes, social convener, said that the first club social, held recently at the home of Reeve and Mrs. Wm. Grant, Lakefield, had been a great success. The next large social will combine a Halloween costume party and box luncheon.

Educational chairman Art Burrett informed the meeting of a shipment of literature from provincial headquarters. Library facilities would be set up within the club. He also said that the lecture and public speaking course, now being set up by the educational committee would be presented at the next meeting for approval by the membership.

Jacqueline Hilderley, delegate to the recent Provincial CCYM convention, gave a brief account of happenings there. Approximately 150 youth delegates were in attendance.

Main business of the evening took the form of a discussion as to the best methods CCYM and CCF work could be integrated.

Miss Joan Miles chaired the meeting, being unanimously acclaimed.

First Girl Born In Havelock Attains Age 70

HAVELock, Oct. 1—(ENS)—Mrs. Charles Dewey, who was the first baby girl to be born in this community before the village was incorporated, was honored recently on the occasion of her 70th birthday, when the ladies of Knox Presbyterian Church and other friends held a birthday party in the Sunday School auditorium.

Mrs. Dewey received many gifts which included money and a large birthday cake, prettily decorated and lettered "Happy Birthday." The cake was the gift of Miss Violet Scott.

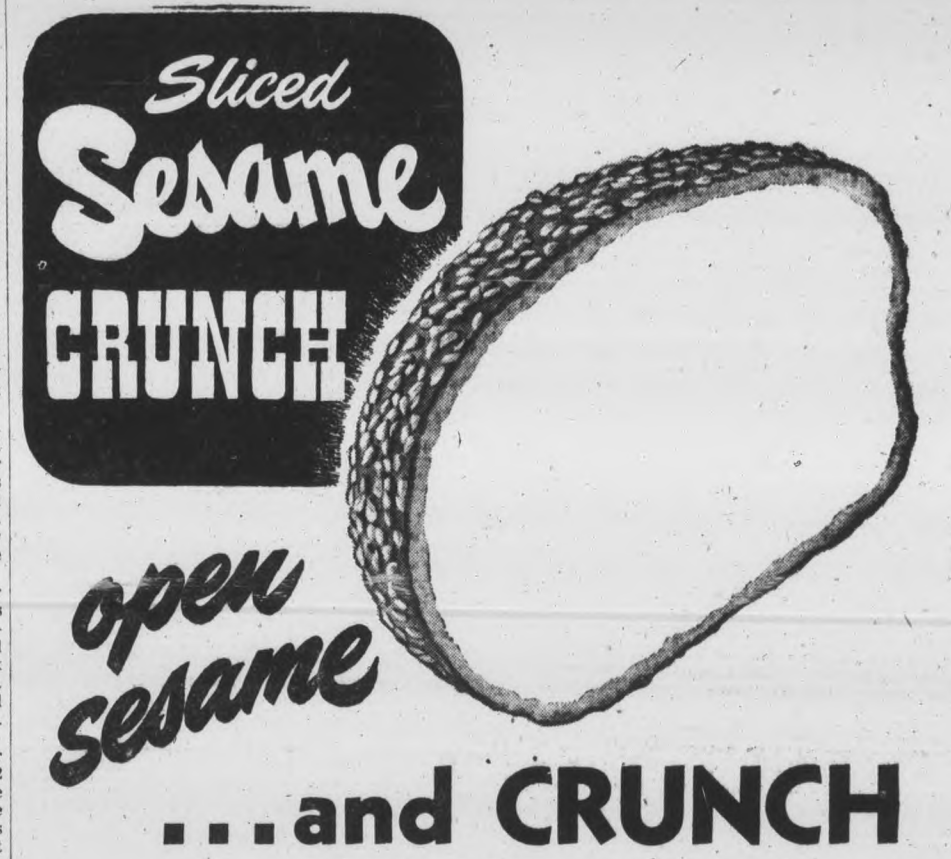

Mrs. W. Watson assisted Mrs. Dewey in opening the gifts and reading the greetings. As further testimony of their good wishes the ladies had quilted a beautiful comforter for the guest of honor. After a pot luck supper they sang her favorite hymn, "Awake my soul in joyful lays."

The material for the comforter was a gift from Mrs. Dewey's granddaughters, Mrs. Jack Stevenson of Millbrook, Mrs. Lloyd Tyrrell, of Tilsonburg; Mrs. Jack Edmunson, of Cooksville, Mrs. James Simpson, of Norwood, and Miss Vivian Hull, of Stoney Lake.

Mrs. Dewey has been a member of Knox Church for more than 52 years and was formerly Beatrice Mathison, a daughter of the late William Mathison and Agnes Bannion. She recalls this district when it was nothing but woods and cowpats. Her husband, Charles Dewey, died in March 1938.

Those present were: Mesdames W. Copp, J. W. Ketchen, W. Watson, P. P. Colquhoun, Grenville Rutherford, Garnet Rutherford, J. Griffith, S. Barlow, A. Jamieson, W. Hitchens, A. Spencer, W. Martin, F. Bennett, R. Anderson, A. Anderson, P. Haig, G. Buchanan and H. Hoard.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Few Peterborough Cattle Reactors to T.B. Retest . . .
Holstein and Shorthorn Results at Lindsay . . . County
Plowing Match Wednesday, October 5, in Ennismore

Of the 9,042 cattle examined in the T.B.-retest in Peterborough County, only seven were reactors, Dr. G. R. Penhall informed the Examiner today.

Inspection of herds has been resumed on its former scale since the end of summer, and close to one-fourth of all the cattle in Peterborough have passed through the hands of the Dominion veterinary service up to the end of this week.

In Victoria county, 4,276 cattle have been retested, with 83 reactors.

FLOWING MATCH WEDNESDAY, OCT. 5

Tractors are allotted six of the ten classes in the county plowing match on Ennismore, Wednesday, Oct. 5. It is half a mile east of the end of the Gifford causeway. One of the classes is for youths of 20 years and under (age limit 20 years) who have never won a prize at a plowing match. First prize is $12.

There is a speed class for tractors, also restricted to novices. One hour and 15 minutes is allowed to plow about half an acre with two-furrow plows, or three quarters of an acre for three-furrow plows. This contest begins at 1:30 p.m. There are five prizes ranging from $12 to $4.

The committee has arranged for a demonstration of clearing a stone fence row with a bulldozer. New tillage implements will be shown in operation. Stubble classes must be finished by 3 p.m. and sod by 3:30. Vern Campbell is president and Frank C. Paterson is secretary.

TO DOUBLE CAPACITY

Officials of the Quinte District Holstein Cattle Breeders' unit at Belleville have decided to double the capacity of their plant next year. They report more cows on their list last June than the total for all last year.

WINTER WHEAT CLUB

The 50-bushel winter wheat club had only eight members at the middle of this week, Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative reported. He is hoping for at least twice that number, and would like to see even more of Peterborough farmers joining up for the coming year. Entries should be in next week.

$10,000 BARN LOSS

Donald McArthur, west of Greenbank, Reach township, Ontario county, lost his barn with season's crop and 60 hogs in a fire caused by lightning Tuesday evening. A pure bred herd of cattle was saved, but most of the chickens were destroyed with the building.

CALF CLUB CLOSING

Durham plowing match is Oct. 20 on the farm of Len Henderson near Millbrook. Robert Bell, assistant agricultural representative was delighted with the response of the boys and girls of the calf club Wednesday night. Frank Paterson left most of this project to him. Ron Frankish was in charge of the screening of four films. One of them was entitled "New Ways of Farming," and another "The feeding and care of the dairy calf." The group of parents present was a fine encouragement. Total attendance was 45, and Achievement Day today winds up the Club for this year. . . Woodville junior farmers sponsored a junior plowing match at Lorneville this week. Winn Timbers of Stouffville was judge.

HOLSTEINS AT LINDSAY

Twelve Holstein breeders of six counties showed 107 head at the Lindsay Exhibition. E. J. Brown of Orono was judge.

The N. W. McConkey cow, Tay-side Supreme June, grand champion at both Peterborough Exhibition and the county Black and White Day at Lakefield, continued her winning by taking the Grand Championship after heading the class for aged cows in milk. Reserve Grand went to P. W. Schroter of Dunsford.

McConkey took the junior female championship on his first prize senior heifer calf Lifloc Tahari Juliet, with the reserve junior going to A. Muir & Sons of Courtice on Elderslie Abbecker Susie, who headed the junior heifer class.

Senior grand champion bull was

Bond Haven Rag Apple Monarch shown by B. W. Naylor, Weston. He stood first in the two-year-old class. Junior and reserve grand champion was the winning senior yearling bull, Otonabee Triune Buster, shown by A. Muir & Sons. Reserve senior award went to Flemming Bros., Reabro, on the top aged bull Airvue Lord Alexander with reserve junior taken by Wm. J. Murphy, Lindsay, on his top junior bull calf. The grand champion bull is a son of "Marksmen" and the reserve junior champion bull a son of "Sovereign."

The senior bull calf class was exceptionally strong. N. W. McConkey had a total of eight firsts, A. Muir & Sons, six firsts, Flemming Bros., two firsts, and B. W. Naylor, Walling Bros., Wm. J. Murphy, S. J. Moore, of Lindsay, and P. W. Schroter, one first each. Incidentally, Walling Bros. and S. J. Moore were showing their herds for the first time and made a fine showing.

REGIONAL SHORTHORN SHOW

Peterborough entries brought home five of the 12 championship ribbons from the regional Shorthorn show at Lindsay Exhibition. They were from the herds of M. H. Pimmett & Sons, Strathore Farms, Indian River, and C. W. Lowes of North Monaghan. The distribution of the championships and reserves were: male division: Grand championship, Reford Gardhouse, Weston; reserve Grand, M. H. Pimmett & Sons.

Senior championship: Reford Gardhouse; reserve, Kenneth Deacon, Unionville. Junior championship, M. H. Pimmett & Sons; reserve, C. W. Lowes.

Female division: Grand championship, R. Gardhouse; reserve, M. H. Pimmett & Sons.

Senior championship: R. Gardhouse; reserve, M. H. Pimmett & Sons.

Junior championship, K. Deacon; reserve, R. Gardhouse.

The reserve male grand championship was awarded to M. H. Pimmett & Sons on their junior bull calf "Strathore New Year," junior champion bull, bred by the owners.

The Indian River reserve senior and reserve grand champion in the female section was the senior yearling "Aberfeldy Violet Vale" Grouped with her sister she won the progeny of dam class. They are daughters of Violet Vale 3rd, bought at the Gardhouse dispersal sale two years ago. The dam is a daughter of the 1941 CNE grand champion "Killean Morley".

The junior bull calf, Strathore New Year, grouped with his first prize sister, Rosewood Bonnie Lassie, placed second in the progeny of dam class, earning first and second for the Strathore herd. The Pimmett entry won the class for a group of three calves, after finishing in second place at the recent CNE and London exhibitions. Reford Gardhouse collected both grand and senior titles and also reserve championship in the junior female section.

Kenneth Deacon showed the junior female champion and reserve senior bull.

The winnings of the C. W. Lowes herd included: reserve junior male championship on his second prize junior bull calf, first honors for senior yearling bull, senior bull calf, senior heifer calf; second in the group of two calves and also in the get of sire class.

Roslyn Flett of Oakwood showed the first prize aged cow and also the winning junior heifer calf. The judge was Maurice Baker of Georgetown who took the grand champion male titles at the 1947-48 Royals.

HOLSTEIN CHAMPIONSHIPS

J. Durno Innes will be the judge at the Central Ontario Holstein championships show in Peterborough Oct. 18. This is the finals of the county Black and White Shows, inaugurated by the inspiration of the late Robert Holby. Some of the local B. and W. Days have already taken place thereby qualifying entries for the championships display.

The last of the county events will be in Northumberland, and is usually the feature at the Warkworth fair.

Brantford Black and White Day is Oct. 19 with Dr. Gordon Cairns, judge; London, Oct. 20, J. M. Fraser, judge; and eastern Ontario at Ottawa, Oct. 27, D. S. Dunton, judge.

MARITIME HAY

"After leaving the parched fields of western Quebec, it was something of a jolt to see stacks of hay everywhere and fields red with second crop clover," says a recent visitor to the eastern provinces. "If baling and transportation charges were not too high the whole maritime region could ease the hay shortage in Ontario and Quebec very considerably. Most of it is the native variety, but it would be quite acceptable cow hay."

Several reports were heard this week that eastern hay could be bought here for $30 a ton. However, that is only casual intimations.

PAYS $4,000 FOR BULL

The Artificial Breeding Unit of the Oxford Holstein Club has purchased the six-year-old bull, Montvic Emile Lochinvar from Eimeroff Farms, Oshawa, at $4,000. This bull has been on lease by the Oxford Unit for the past three years at a cost of $4,200, so that a total of $8,200 has been invested by the unit.

BLACK AND WHITE DAYS

A group of four cows, each with a lifetime production record of at least 100,000 pounds of milk, were an unusual display in a class at the Oxford county Black and White Days at Woodstock, Sept. 21 and 22. Three were owned by Douglas Hart and the fourth by T. R. Dent.

The Hart entries stood first, second and fourth, and the Dent animal third. The winner was the 11-year-old Hartshorn Susie Dorliska with a seven lactation twice a day lifetime total of 115,576 lbs. of milk, containing 4,264 lbs. of butterfat.

In second place was the oldest of the group Cedar Dale Mabel Meg Poach, with a one lactation total of 124,479 lbs. of milk containing 4,911 lbs. fat. She is 14.

The Dent cow has a six-lactation total of 104,307 lbs. of milk containing 4,081 lbs. of fat; and the fourth place animal, 14 years old, is the largest producer of the group with a nine-lactation total on 2X of 129,130 lbs. milk and 4,964 lbs. fat.

James R. Henderson, Kingston, judge this year at Peterborough Exhibition, captured both the male and female grand championships at the Frontenac Black and White Day. The entry of 97 head by 14 exhibitors was a new record.

Henderson took 11 firsts. As a further evidence of the Holstein breeders' response to this Black and White Day feature are the following summaries, from some of the counties:

Perth county, 33 exhibitors and 195 head; Lanark, 17 exhibitors, 104 head; Lambton, 14 and 68; Wentworth, 13 and 72; Waterloo, 23 and 160; Welland, 19 and 99; Stormont, 14 breeders and 130 head; Glengarry, 14 and 61; Carleton-Russell, 24 and 161. Prescott, 12 exhibitors, 74 head; Halton, 26 and 140; Elgin, 22 and 153; Middlesex, 29 and 127.

Expect No Difficulty

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner told the Commons Friday night the government doesn't expect to encounter any great difficulty in disposing of butter stocks it has bought under its price-support plan. He was replying during discussion of agriculture estimates to a question.

Township Seeks Tax Reduction

COBOURG, Oct. 1 (ENS)—Representatives of several municipalities of Northumberland and Durham attended Judge's Chambers Friday where Haldimand Township's assessment appeal came up.

The township is seeking a $100,000 reduction in its assessment, mainly because for several years more and more land in the township has gone into reforestation upon which no taxes are levied. A tentative settlement of $75,000 was proposed with Cobourg and Port Hope assuming $25,000 of the assessment; Bowmanville, $15,000 and Campbellford $10,000. It remains to be determined if the municipal councils involved will agree to the proposal.

Postpone Amendment

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 (CP)—The Justice Department disclosed Friday night that enactment of an amendment to the Criminal Code limiting the powers of stipendiary magistrates has been postponed indefinitely.

Decorate Mr. King

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 (CP)—Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, former prime minister, will be decorated today with France's Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor. He will receive the decoration from Robert Schuman, French foreign minister, at a dinner at the French embassy.

Approved Foals Get $25 Bonus

Government subsidy of horses was recalled in the visit to Peterborough county Friday of Grant Summers of Aylmer and Jack Saunders of St. Thomas inspecting both brood mares and stallions in this area.

The farmer who raises a foal from an approved mare and a premium "A" stallion will receive bonus under the Dominion-Provincial purebred foal policy. Inspection and approval of breeding stallions has been an established practice by government authority, but it has now been extended to mares under the new policy that has been devised as a means of assuring to agriculture a sufficient number of horses for actual needs.

The alarming decline in horse breeding has forced the Dominion and Ontario governments to unite in this course of trying to stimulate interest in horses.

Frank G. Paterson accompanied Mr. Summers in his tour of Otonabee. Fourteen Clydesdale and Percheron mares were examined. Mr. Paterson said "there is still some real good horse flesh in Otonabee." The afternoon trip was extended westward from Peterborough into Victoria.

Fear Unemployment Result In Canadian Plants From Steel Strike In U.S.

If Strike Continues For More Than 10 Days
Dominion May Impose
Wartime Controls On Distribution Again

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—(CP).—The shadow of United States steel strike hung darkly over Canadian industries today. With Canada importing one-third of her steel from U.S. mills a prolonged strike threatened to have repercussions in almost every aspect of the Dominion's industry. Adding to the worry of government and industrial officials was uncertainty as to what form of support Canada's 50,000 steel workers might give their U.S. fellow-union members.

2 Badly Burned In Take-off As Plane Upsets

PORT CARLING, Ont., Oct. 3.—(CP).—Two persons suffered severe burns when their light plane flipped over and caught fire during a take-off near here Sunday.

Reginald M. Hill 47, and Mrs. Betty George 29, both of Toronto, were taking off in Hill's plane to fly to Toronto when a wingtip struck a tree at the edge of the field. The light aluminum plane flipped over, fell and caught fire.

The two, members of a Toronto cross-country flying club, were attempting a take-off from a plowed field near Lake Rosseau in the Muskoka district about 90 miles north-west of Toronto. They staggered out of the light aircraft with their clothes ablaze and were taken to hospital at nearby Bracebridge.

Jack Prosser, former Toronto policeman and partner in a Lake Rosseau summer resort, said the plane arrived late Sunday afternoon and landed in a cleared field.

"He had no permission to land here and I told him so," Prosser said. "I was at the far end of the field when he took off with the engine running. I told him the field was dangerous and warned him not to attempt it, but he just laughed and took off."

Prosser said the plane was unable to become airborne in the 300-yard rough clearing, especially with the wind behind it.

The plane's wing struck a 15-foot evergreen with its wingtip spun around, dropped to earth, and burst into flames. He said he grabbed a fire extinguisher and raced the quarter-mile to the wreckage.

Choppy Water Delays Wilson

PICTON, Oct. 3 (CP).—Choppy waters and a cross current wind today held up Harold Wilson's attempt at a world water speed record with his Miss Canada IV. It is now a race against time.

Wilson had his boat over the one mile Picton Bay course before sunrise but foot-high chop forced him to dock the high-powered craft.

Miss Canada IV set a North American record of 138.6 miles an hour Sunday—about three miles an hour short of the late Sir Malcolm Campbell's 141.7-m.p.h. record set 10 years ago. Wilson is confident his boat can eclipse that speed and he is waiting patiently for a break in the weather.

Meanwhile he indicated to reporters today he might ask the American Speed Boat Association for an extension beyond the Tuesday-sundown time limit if conditions continue unfavorable for another bid.

Question 2nd Cabbie In Quebec Air Murder

QUEBEC, Oct. 3 (CP).—Provincial police today continued their investigation into an alleged bomb plot which resulted in the death of 23 persons aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-3 at nearby Sault au Cochon Sept. 9. Although official information was unavailable because of a news blackout imposed by the attorney-general's department last week, it was reliably learned that police during the week-end questioned a Montreal man, a woman and a taxi driver, who has not yet figured in the case.

Seeks Missing Son

Lloyd Kennedy, RR 3, Norwood, today asked city police for assistance in finding his 19-year-old son, David Lloyd George Kennedy, whom he has not seen since July 29. Mr. Kennedy said his son left home in July for a few days holiday at Cobocook and has not returned. The boy was working at the time for a construction company in Peterborough.

Gas Fumes Kill Second Man At Nickel Plant

PORT COLBORNE, Oct. 3.—John Toth, one of nine men suffering a bronchial ailment believed caused by gas fumes at the International Nickel Company refinery here, died today of pneumonia.

Dr. W. M. Moffat, in charge of the cases, said Toth took a turn for the worse during the week-end and died at 9 a.m. today.

His death was the second believed due to the mysterious lung illness which also sent eight other refinery employees, all members of the International Union of Mine and Smelter Workers (CIO) to hospital. Five have been discharged and one of three remaining in hospital is in critical condition, the doctor said.

Doing Everything Possible

Dr. Vernon Owen of Toronto, who investigated for the union, reported last night that he found everything possible being done to protect workers at the plant and to assist workmen in hospital. R. C. McQuire, refinery superintendent, said there were no fresh developments in the investigations, but that progress is being made.

Dr. E. A. Mackenzie, coroner, said an autopsy into Toth's death was scheduled today and that its findings would be presented at an inquest into Gifford's death, tentatively set for November 2. Oliver Breton, local organizer for the Smelters' Union, said the local was planning to have all members off shift to attend Toth's funeral. Arrangements will be completed later today.

Injured Miners Fly To Sudbury

SUDBURY, Oct. 3.—(CP).—Five injured underground miners are expected to reach Sudbury hospital today from Orofino Mines, 130 miles northwest of here. They are being flown in a chartered plane. No other details are immediately available, but it is believed the men were working on the Sunday night shift at the mine.

A shaft sinking development program is currently under way at the mining property which is a gold prospect southwest of the Groundhog River country, where McIntyre Porcupine Mines recently took over development at the Jobouke Mines. The Orofino shaft is down 250 feet and the injured men are believed to have been members of the sinking crew.

Using communication with the mine is through the forestry branch telephone system through Gogama and Tionaga, but this line is disrupted between these two points. It has been impossible to make radio contact as yet with the mine property.

Train Knifes Vehicle Through Middle, Coming From Beach

ONTARIO, Calif., Oct. 3 (AP).—A racing passenger train ripped into a United States air force bus at a crossing Sunday night, killing 17 of the 22 occupants.

Eleven of the dead were military or civilian personnel from March Air Base; five were members of the Ontario Hostess' Club—a service organization—the other was the chaplain, Mrs. Ruby McLaughlin, 45, mother of one of the dead girls, Juanita McLaughlin, 18.

Chief Coroner Edward P. Doyle said only five, including twin sisters sitting in different parts of the bus, escaped alive. It was hours before officers could draw a coherent picture from survivors. Earlier estimates of the injured ran as high as 24, and police at one time said 19 bodies had been accounted for.

Acetylene torches finally cut away the mangled wreckage from the battered locomotive and the train headed east.

The men from the air base and their girl companions were homebound from a day at the beach. No one on the bus was uninjured, but no one was injured aboard the train, the Union Pacific Pony Express eastbound to Chicago.

Travelling at 70 m.p.h.

The railroad said the train was travelling at 70 miles an hour.

Western University Cuts Frat Parties

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 3.—(CP).—Restrictive regulations governing social activities of men's fraternities at the University of Western Ontario are expected to go into effect this week.

Social events will be limited to four informal dances a year, lasting no later than 1 a.m. after each home rugby game. There will also be one annual stag.

The new rules provide for strict controls on the use of alcoholic beverages. Approved university chaperons must be at parties attended by women as well as at the stag.

Students fear that the proposed regulations may be sounding the death knell for fraternities on the campus. The traditional Saturday night open house is no longer permitted.

University officials would make little comment but admitted that new regulations were presented to the fraternities. Rules of conduct must be the same for all students, an official said.

The University of Toronto has made no move to cut down or restrict social functions. Dr. C. T. Bissell, Dean of University College residence and assistant to the president, said today.

Dr. Bissell said: "I see no reason for such a move here. Although there is a tendency for students to take part in more extra-curricular activities than they need to, it certainly hasn't come to any crisis here."

WHERE THE HOSE GOES nobody knows, not even the owner, Earl Blodgett of 98 Lansdowne St. He was washing his car on Friday evening, laid the hose down afterwards, running, and it worked its way into the ground. Ten feet of it disappeared, the nozzle got stuck somewhere below and Judy and Ronald Blodgett are figuring a way of getting it out. Ron dug the hole in the first attempt but to date has gotten nowhere.

Diagram Missing For Noronic Fire Apparatus

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—(CP).—Fourth day of the federal inquiry into the steamship Noronic disaster opened today with Capt. Howard R. Baxter of Montreal resuming his testimony.

Capt. Baxter, marine superintendent for Canada Steamship Lines, the ship's owners, said a week-end search of company records failed to uncover any documents showing the location of fire alarm boxes, fire extinguishers, water hoses, hydrants and fire buckets on the Noronic.

Capt. Baxter had been asked last Friday to search company records for such documents.

Capt. Baxter said further check of fire apparatus records showed there was no klaxon signal on "B" deck, an open deck. Any passengers on this deck could hear the klaxon signals from either "A" or "C" decks, he added.

The absence in company records of reports from the Noronic's special officers after Sept. 3, 1949, indicated they might not have been mailed by the master and were lost in the Sept. 17 fire, Capt. Baxter said.

Earlier testimony was that the Noronic had two such officers whose duties were similar to those of hotel detectives.

U.K. May Recognize Red China Government

LONDON, Oct. 3.—(AP).—Britain announced today that it is ready to discuss recognition of the newly-formed Red Chinese government with 18 other governments, including the United States.

The countries concerned are the 11 member countries of the North Atlantic alliance and the members of the British Commonwealth.

A foreign office spokesman told a daily news conference that a note from the "people's government" inviting recognition has not yet been received in London.

Mystery of The Buried Hose Under Lansdowne St. Lawn

Here's an item for Ripley. A garden hose, 12 feet of it, has imbedded itself in the ground, straight down, for no apparent reason, at all, at all. And get this straight, by straight down, is meant, straight down. The twelve feet of hose are not lying horizontally a few inches below the surface, no, not at all. The length of hose is vertically buried down to a depth of twelve feet.

That's where the nozzle is—twelve feet down in terra firma.

The hose was left lying on the lawn by Douglas Blodgett, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blodgett, 98 Lansdowne St. Friday night after he and Donald Mastriani had washed Mr. Blodgett's car. The hose was not left running, the boys said, but on somebody's second thoughts maybe it was left running. When the boys tried to take the hose into the house at 9 p.m. it could not be budged.

This was an eerie thing, a movable object like a common garden hose becoming immovable in the dark of night. The boys became frightened, and called a neighbor, Charles Prophet, to help. He came and tugged. The mysterious power holding it refused to release its control.

Crowds See Mystery

Now there is nothing unusual about the lawn, or the place where the hose decided to bury itself. It is directly behind Mr. Blodgett's garage, under an old-fashioned swing. Inspected closely by neighbors and crowds which came Saturday to see the phenomenon, no large hole was visible where the hose entered the ground. Everybody who came took a tug. The hose would not budge. And it seemed to be still moving Saturday morning.

"Mrs. Prophet and I measured the hose Saturday morning and we found that in half an hour it had gone down into the ground another inch," said Mrs. Blodgett today. "Dozens of strangers have been down to see the hose over the week-end and finally some boys cut it off at ground level Sunday night."

Chinese Seize 2 Freighters Take Them To Naval Base

SHANGHAI, Oct. 3 (AP).—Shipping officials received word today that two seized American freighters have been taken to a Chinese naval base by armed Nationalist patrol vessels.

The message (later confirmed by official quarters in Canton) said the Ist-and-ten Line's Flying Independent and Flying Clipper had been escorted to Chushan on the Archipelago south of Communist-held Shanghai—a major target of the Nationalist blockade.

Information here is that the Nationalists confiscated cargoes of blockade runners previously taken to Chushan.

The Flying Independent's captain radioed that the British armed frigate St. Bride's Bay was standing by, within blinker-contact range and ready to give aid in case of extreme emergency. However Britain and the United States do not recognize the blockade. The United States navy has refused to intercede.

Police Rush Burned Baby To Hospital

3-Weeks-Old Child
Given Plasma
On Way From Cobourg

COBOURG, Oct. 3 (ENS).—Burned when cheesecloth netting over its crib caught fire, the three-week-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Menzies, Elgin St., Cobourg, was rushed to the hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, Sunday night by a provincial police escort.

In serious condition, suffering first degree burns to the face is Bruce Menzies, son of Mr. and Mrs. Menzies who formerly lived in Peterborough. Mr. Menzies served on the city police force.

The family, which included the baby's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Ormerod, were just sitting down to supper when Carol Ormerod, 7, screamed that the crib was on fire. Mrs. Ormerod tossed the blazing bassinet out the window, and the child was wrapped with blankets.

While the blazing cheesecloth had severely burned the baby's face, its clothing was unscathed and the rest of the bassinet was only slightly scorched.

Given Transfusion

The baby was immediately put in a car, bound for the Toronto Hospital. Mrs. Menzies held him, while the child was given an emergency plasma transfusion by a neighbor, Mrs. Bert Wright. The transfusion was started by a doctor at Cobourg.

Mr. Menzies had just left for Windsor half an hour before the fire broke out.

Provincial Constables William Baluk and Hugh Woodridge of the Cobourg Provincial Police, met the speeding car at Welcome. When they heard Mr. Ormerod's story they provided a police escort for the rest of the trip. Provincial Constables Fred Wootton and John Thompson took over when they reached the city limits. It is not believed the fire was going for more than 15 minutes before the baby was rescued. The cause is said to be children playing with matches, although this has not been confirmed.

$10,000 Contract Lewicki Demand

STRATFORD, Oct. 3.—(CP).—Danny Lewicki wants a contract for $10,000 a year for two seasons plus $2,500 bonus for signing from Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

That was the word today from J. H. Wyatt, president of the Stratford junior hockey club which claims rights to the starry young leftwinger if he stays in amateur hockey.

Wyatt said that the Leafs had offered Lewicki $4,000 a year for two years with a bonus of $2,000 if he could sign a professional contract.

Last Friday, managing director Conny Smythe of the Leafs said he had sent word to Lewicki to open negotiations at once on a pro contract. Lewicki signed an N.H.L. "C" form with the Leafs which gives them the right to negotiate for his services as a pro. Smythe said that if the 18-year-old native of the Lakehead refused to sign with the Leafs he would not be permitted to play elsewhere.

Hurricane Near Texas Coming From Gulf

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3.—(AP).—Strong winds and high tides were reported along the Texas coast early today as a gulf hurricane moved north-northwestward from a point 20 miles southeast of Brownsville, Tex.

The New Orleans weather bureau said the hurricane had winds of 80 to 90 miles an hour near the centre. It was moving at 15 miles an hour.

"Stations along the immediate Texas coast are now reporting winds 25 to 35 miles an hour with occasional squalls," the bulletin said. "Winds and squalls will gradually increase with winds reaching gale force by Monday forenoon."

Jehovah's Witnesses Hold Circuit Assembly

Three days of exceptionally fine weather were enjoyed by Jehovah's Witnesses as they assembled in the Summer Gardens on the week-end for their semi-annual circuit assembly. The program showed that much instruction and counsel was offered the conventioners to aid them in their ministerial activity. More than 500 persons from Peterborough and district gathered Sunday afternoon to hear Mr. L. K. Greenlee of the Watchtower Society deliver the public address, "The Only Light," as the climax of the assembly. In the discourse it was claimed that Jehovah God alone was the source of all true light, that many other "lights" of this world prove to be false ones and soon go out, and that the message of God's kingdom established in 1914, as announced by Jehovah's witnesses, is the sole hope today for persons of all beliefs and nationalities. Later in the afternoon in his closing remarks, Mr. Greenlee expressed the appreciation of all conventioners to the residents of this city for their hospitality extended during the three days, especially to those who so willingly offered the many rooming accommodations in the out-of-town guests.

Engineer Al Hall said "I didn't see a thing before the crash." Survivors included Omega and Marquita Pearce, 18-year-old twins from Ontario. Omega received a broken ankle, Marquita cuts and bruises.

"I heard a scream: 'Look out! The next thing I knew, some men were picking me up," she said. Nearly a mile of the railroad right of way was strewn with bodies, and one was wedged against the Diesel locomotive.

A reporter described it as "the worst mess I've ever seen."

He counted 12 bodies in the darkness. Ontario is about 30 miles east of Los Angeles.

Hit In Middle
The bus was hit squarely in the middle, police reported. But wreckage was wrapped around the front of the locomotive.

A state highway patrolman, William Beals, said everyone in the bus was either killed or injured and that at least five of the dead are women. He said none of the injured he talked to knew of the impending crash.

Beals said one passenger heard a yell: "Here comes a train!"

An eyewitness, O. K. England, La Crescenta, Calif., said he was driving on U.S. Highway 60, paralleling the tracks, when:

"I saw the train coming. All of a sudden rocks began hitting my windshield and then I drove into a big cloud of dust.

"I pulled up and stopped. A fellow was staggering around yelling 'My arm, my arm!' he was bleeding.

"I saw one man lying against a post, bones sticking out from his body. Two feet away a man and a girl were lying side by side.

Two Sisters Safe
"I went up a little further and found a girl sitting up. 'It hit us,' she said, 'where's my twin sister?' I led her to the other girl and she said 'that's my sister,' and started to cry.

"I went on down the track. A fellow was lying half buried in the sand. I pulled him out, but he wasn't breathing. I saw pieces of truck scattered around, none of them so big you couldn't lift them. There were pieces of bodies scattered everywhere. A fellow had his nose and mouth in a pool of blood and I moved his head so he could breathe. A little ways off, there was a girl lying by the tracks. Half her head was gone."

NO CHARGE LAID
A Provincial Constable's work encompasses a multitude of things. Take this morning for instance. As Provincial Constable G. E. Henderson was patrolling Highway 7 he found a female trespasser on the highway, just north of the city, whom he felt should be lodged behind bars. And he managed to do so by dint of much coaxing and shoving. No summons will be issued however because the trespasser was a stray cow and the bars were those of a fence behind which lay a green field for browsing.—D.W.

USSR Recognizes Red Regime Heading China

By EDDIE GILMORE.

MOSCOW, Oct. 3 (AP)—Russia has finally broken with the Nationalist Government in China to give the diplomatic nod to the new Red regime there. At the same time she accused the western allies of trying to split Germany by setting up a separate government in their zones.

The recognition of Communist China was announced Sunday in a note to the premier of the Central People's Government at Peiping from Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister.

Another Soviet note delivered to representatives of the three big western powers in Moscow, rapped the creation of the west German government at Bonn. It charged Britain, the United States and France had broken big four agreements to try to regain political and economic unity of Germany.

Meanwhile, Romania joined the parade of Soviet-style "People's Democracies" in scrapping the friendship treaty with Yugoslavia. Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary already have followed the lead of Russia in denouncing their alliances with Marshal Tito's regime.

Russia's action on China came while eastern Europe was observing International Peace Day.

Chinese Charge D'Affaires Tien Ting said he had transmitted Gromyko's statement to Canton. "In the meantime," he said, "we are staying here awaiting instructions."

Captain Baxter said to his knowledge passengers did not take part in fire drills.

He told commission counsel J. W. Pickup, he had no knowledge of any consideration being given to arrangements being made for connection between the ship and the Toronto fire department while the Noronic was in port.

Fire Drills No Surprise
Following production of additional reports of fire drills showing they were held each Tuesday at 10:15 a.m. without exception, Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of Ottawa, the commissioner, remarked the drills "obviously lacked any element of surprise."

"Is this good practice?" asked Mr. Pickup.

"That is up to the master of the ship. All we do is ask that he hold a drill once a week," replied Captain Baxter.

J. J. Robinette, counsel for the Seafarers' International Union (AFL) was told by Capt. Baxter members of the crew aboard escaped because they were all familiar with the ship.

"They knew their way to the exits. When they saw they could do not more, it was easier for them to find their way out."

Wind Helped Crew
To a question by Captain R. Mitchell, commission assessor from Port MacNicoll, Captain Baxter said that "from the way the wind was blowing, the crew's quarters would not be subject to so much flame and smoke as the passenger accommodation."

Stanley Ridge, district chief of the Toronto Fire Department, told the court passengers on "C" deck could not get out of their cabins by the windows without breaking the glass in the lower portion or removing screens in the upper portion.

Ridge said inspection of the ship after the fire showed C deck had 48 windows, 24 by 36 inches each, the upper portion covered by 12-gauge screen, each 24 by 18 inches. The bottom half appeared stationary, all of glass.

Daniel Harper, C.S. dock patrol worker, said he first noticed fire and smoke from a window on the Noronic. At that time there was no one on the dock. He saw no one on the ship.

Telephoned Firemen
When he returned after telephoning the fire department, he said the Noronic was a mass of flames amidship with persons aboard screaming and shouting fire, and jumping overboard into the water.

Harper said he used the telephone rather than break a fire alarm box "because it seemed handiest."

"As I was phoning some one yelled at me to get an ambulance so I called the police department and told them to send all the ambulances and doctors available."

Harper told the Commissioner that fear of the panic it might create aboard the ship made him realize the fire was serious from the moment he noticed it.

Heard No Klaxon
He said he heard no klaxon sound aboard the blazing ship. He heard a whistle but was unable to say whether it was the Noronic's, or the whistle of the SS Kingston or SS Cayuga berthed nearby.

Andrew Ferris, night watchman on duty at pier nine the night of the fire told of hearing a ship's whistle and a commotion on the dock. He ran to the Noronic and "saw a lot of smoke."

"It was the main whistle of the Noronic," Ferris said. He said the Cayuga's whistle started to blow later.

Ferris said he had seen a member of the Noronic's crew that

Accept Oliver's Resignation As Ontario Liberal Head

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 3.—(CP)—Farquhar Oliver's resignation as Ontario Liberal leader has been accepted, but Mr. Oliver, who will continue to lead the Liberal group in the Ontario Legislature through the next session. Acceptance of the resignation, tendered several weeks ago, was decided upon Saturday by the Management Committee of the Provincial Association.

Friends of Mr. Oliver fought vigorously—but in vain—to have the resignation left in abeyance until a sub-committee has tried to persuade the farmer-politician to reconsider.

The date for a convention to choose his successor has still to be set, but it is considered likely that the gathering will be held in Toronto next May. The only man so far to declare himself a candidate is Campbell Calder, member of the Legislature for London.

Mr. Oliver, 45, said when he was elected to the post in 1947 that he had no desire to lead an opposition party. But the quick acceptance of the resignation gave rise to talk that certain federal Liberal circles had sought his replacement since the 1947 convention which raised him to Ontario party chief.

Heads 14 Liberals
The election of June, 1948, left Mr. Oliver at the head of a band of 14 Liberals in the 90-seat House. The voting also enabled the C.C.F. to oust the Liberals from the benches of the official opposition.

Now the owner of a large farm at Priceville in his Grey South constituency, Mr. Oliver was only 22 when first elected to the legislature. In that election he won the Grey South seat as a United Farmers of Ontario member. He has represented the constituency ever since, first as a U.F.O. and then as a Liberal supporter.

He entered the Ontario Liberal cabinet of Mitchell F. Hepburn Jan. 23, 1941, as minister of public works and welfare. He left the cabinet in October, 1942, resigning his portfolio in protest over the manner in which the premiership changed hands at that time from Mr. Hepburn to Gordon Conant.

night on duty watch on the gang plank.

To Examine Ship
When the hearing adjourned Mr. Justice Kellock said the Commission would resume at 2:30 p.m. and examine the fire blackened hull of the Noronic this afternoon. He suggested arrangements be made for the chief engineer and first mate to go along to give instructions about the ship.

For safety reasons, the Commission ruled the press would not be allowed to accompany the Commission.

Restaurant Man Held In Shooting

MONTREAL, Oct. 3.—(CP)—Police today are holding as a material witness Gaston Avon, 31, a restaurant owner, in connection with the fatal shooting of his estranged 28-year-old wife on the doorstep of an east-end Montreal apartment house Saturday night. Mrs. Avon died of three bullet wounds in the face. Police said the shots were fired at point blank range.

Police also are holding taxi-driver Roger Lachance, 30, who "tipped" them off at Avon's whereabouts prior to the latter's arrest one hour after the shooting.

Lachance told police he had driven Avon to his wife's home. He said he saw the man insert three bullets into a revolver before stepping out of the cab.

Still Immoveable

So there is the hose today, what is visible of it—the cut end. The twelve feet down to the nozzle are still in the ground, and in there solidly. It still cannot be pulled out.

Eddie Amyotte, an employee of the Examiner and neighbor of the Blodgetts said that six people tried to pull the hose out and didn't move it.

Mrs. Bert Lockington, 107 Lansdowne St., said that her husband suggested there might be quicksand sucking the hose down.

A hole has been dug around the hose to a depth of three and a half feet but a rock bed was reached and digging was discontinued.

Various Explanations

The explanation of this mystery? Well, nobody seems to have a full one. An engineer says that if the water had been left on and the nozzle pointed into the ground, the force of the water might have dug a hole for the hose into which it could progressively have been sucked. Another is that there might be an old well underneath the swing, and that the hose has had easy going into it. The quicksand theory is plausible though the engineer's office has no report of quicksand in that area.

One theory which has not been publicly stated is that the Chinese Communists, acting on orders from the Kremlin have been digging down, on are about to come up in Mr. Blodgett's back yard—a new type of communistic infiltration. And of course, there may be pickles down there with the nozzle of the hose, flushing out the area for diamonds. Or has the hose been passionately seized by some sea-serpent? Did the darkness of night hide the hose's death-wriggles from the two frightened boys?

Both vessels were purse seiners.

One was beached in sinking condition early today and a second was being towed into Prince Rupert.

The beached seiner was identified as the 16-ton Row City. It was rammed in the starboard quarter by the 15-ton Inver Can I.

None of the six men aboard each of the vessels was injured. All of the Row City's crew was taken aboard the Inver Can I before the former vessel was beached on Williams Island.

Cause of the collision was not known.

Conservatism Returns to U. S. Steel

In view of the steel strike in the United States, it is interesting to examine the policy record of the management of U. S. Steel, giant among the steel industries of that country, which usually provides leadership for the others. That policy underwent two distinct changes since the turn of the century, changes which may be regarded as products of the abuse of power by both management and labour.

U. S. Steel, in the early years of this century, ranked high as a reactionary corporation. Judge Elbert Gary ruled it with an iron hand for years, in accordance with the policy of its chief owners, J. P. Morgan and Company, who still largely control it. During this period, there was uncompromising refusal to deal with unions, and the general policy might well be described as one of unenlightened capitalism.

Then came changes in the Morgan firm. One member, Myron Taylor, who is now U. S. ambassador to the Vatican, believed the workers should be given a break. Another, Dwight Morrow, who also served as an ambassador later, supported Taylor heartily. And the brilliant financier who then led the firm, Thomas Lamont, was far more liberal than was generally realized. In 1937, the U. S. industrial world was flabbergasted when Taylor negotiated a union contract for U. S. Steel.

Liberal policies continued under several presidents, and for a time under the leadership of the present president, Ben Fairless, traditionally a friend of labour. Fairless is a coal miner's son; he taught school to make enough money to pay for a university education, was graduated and has had a long and successful career in the railroad and steel industries. But when he announced, shortly after the war, that U. S. Steel would accept an 18½-cent-an-hour increase in wages, a reaction seems to have occurred in the House of Morgan. This was indicated at the hearings of the President's fact-finding board. Fairless was the only president of a large steel corporation who did not appear before the board. U. S. Steel was represented there by Enders Voorhees, chairman of its finance committee and financial watchdog for the Morgan company.

Voorhees and the Morgan partners are said to believe that organized labour in the United States is abusing its power in much the same fashion as the unenlightened capitalists of earlier days. They are apparently determined to resist this trend and are at present countering it with conservatism in management. Their chances of success seem to have been diminished by the Ford agreement to accept a non-contributory pension plan—a precedent which greatly encouraged the steel union now on strike.

Is Our Supreme Court Unfit?

An Act to amend the Supreme Court Act is now before Parliament. The importance which the Government places on this Bill is shown by its being the first active Bill to be tabled. The nub of the Act is in Section 55, the first clause of which reads:

The Supreme Court shall have, hold and exercise exclusive ultimate appellate civil and criminal jurisdiction within and for Canada; and the judgment of the Court shall, in all cases, be final and conclusive.

This is the Bill which sets out to abolish Canadian appeals to the Privy Council. It will sever the last jurisdictional authority which Britain has over Canada.

Without going into the main argument for and against the abolishment of appeals to the Imperial Privy Council in Britain, we can condemn those opponents of the Bill who are maintaining that the Supreme Court of Canada is not fit to act as a final court of appeal because it is a creature of one of the contestants which from time to time appears before it. The Dominion of Canada, through the federal government, appoints the judges, and the Dominion does appear before the Supreme Court in litigation over constitutional matters.

This kind of argument casts unwarranted slurs on the integrity of the Canadian Bench, not only of the Supreme Court but of any court in Canada, for all magistrates and judges are appointed by some provincial or federal authority. Are they then all unfit to serve? Does none ever give a truly judicial decision? If there is truth in this argument, then, as the Montreal Star suggests, Canada had better take all her judges from outside the country—from Afghanistan, China or Russia.

The argument runs that the Privy Council is an outside body, and therefore not subject to Canadian partisanship. Is it not? The Privy Council is appointed by the British Government. The British Government keeps a sensitive ear turned to Canada, particularly in matters affecting Canada. In fact, the British Privy Council is likely to be more sensitive to current Canadian opinion than the Supreme Court would be. A judicial decision may be unpopular with certain section of the populace, but no one can say that it is un-Canadian or anti-Canadian, if the Supreme Court of Canada makes it. Dr. O. D. Skelton in 1935 appeared at Ottawa before a special parliamentary committee on the British North America Act. His scholarly survey revealed that the Privy Council had been influenced by other than legal considerations when making its decisions, which from the eighties until recent years have favoured "a very provincial interpretation . . . ignoring the residuary grant to the Dominion of powers to make laws for the peace, order and good government of Canada."

To condemn the new Bill on the grounds that the Supreme Court cannot be impartial is a gross attack on the Court.

Getting The Goats To Canada

Kids are playful, goats give good milk (it is specially in demand by hospitals), and billy-goats are the butts of this and that. So we can, we suppose, approve of the thirty goats which are emigrating to Canada from England with their own milking machine. Here is the whole story, a titbit from the U.K. Information Office in Ottawa:

"With a two-unit goat milker and a herd of 30 British White and Nubian goats, Mrs. Stansby of Addersbury, near Banbury, England, is on her way to Victoria, B.C. Since her husband's death in 1946, Mrs. Stansby has been breeding high-class goats. Now she has left her 300-year-old home, taking with her her two daughters, her housekeeper, the goats, four dogs and her furniture. The trip to Canada will cost over $6,000— which figure, incidentally, is also the valuation of the herd of 30 goats. Her daughter Anne will accompany the goats in their compartment, even sleeping with them, throughout the 6,000 mile Atlantic and Prairie trek to Victoria. Thirty lovely blue-trimmed woollen blanket coats have been provided to keep the herd cosy. The party will have the ship all to themselves."

If this story gets your goat, it will not be one of Mrs. Stansby's goats with the lovely blue coats, not yet. They have not arrived. At least we have not yet heard any bleats from Victoria.

Toronto Gallery, Aged 50

Friday night the Right Honorable Vincent Massey, C.H., opened a special exhibition at the Toronto Art Gallery called "Fifty Years of Painting in Canada." It is a deliberately appropriate show, for the Toronto Gallery is fifty years old and this exhibition is the first of a series to mark the anniversary. We have not yet seen the exhibit, but do not doubt that it is interesting and well-presented. We have often seen the gallery and taken note of its cultural influence and the service it has given the graphic arts in Ontario and Canada. "The Grange", by which we mean not only Goldwyn Smith's house but also the modern gallery fronting it, is one of the major redemptions of Toronto's mediocrity. It presents a good reason for visiting Ontario's capital, and any Sunday in which we happen to be found in Toronto, we may be found at the Gallery feasting on the elegant delights of the foyer, the pleasures of the canvases on the walls, or the cup of tea and two biscuits which one gets for ten cents in the Grange house.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Czechoslovakian newspaper men have been ordered to learn Russian, "in order to strengthen co-operation with the Soviet press and inform Czech readers about the Soviet Union". We wonder what consternation there would be if English-speaking Canadian newspaper men were ordered to learn French, in order to strengthen co-operation with the French-Canadian press and inform Ontario readers about Quebec?

PROFILE

'Mike' Pearson

By NORA BELOFF

"POLITICS is the art of never giving up." This summarises in his own words the political philosophy of Canadian Foreign Minister Lester Pearson who, as chairman of the Political Committee, last week assumed star role at the United Nations.

As the assembly moves from the inaugural phases and the general oratory of the plenary session to concrete business, its political committee takes over the important items of the agenda. Its newly-elected chairman will therefore have a supreme opportunity of putting his faith to the test.

Temperamentally Pearson is an excellent choice: he is neither intimidated nor bluffed by the familiar wrecking tactics of the Eastern bloc and will certainly not tolerate irrelevance, insults and filibuster. On the other hand he is equally far from being among the anti-Soviet fanatics who believe in the inevitability of war.

THE young Foreign Minister is in his own right one of the finest intellects of the present galaxy of international celebrities in New York. He is frequently mentioned as a future Prime Minister and leader of the Canadian Liberal Party, although he has devoted his life to international causes and in Canada even more than in Europe, votes are obtained from elections won on domestic rather than foreign issues.

The secret of Pearson's success is a strange concoction of impish wit and high moral quality. His invariable bow tie, his friendly informality, his boyish sense of fun and uninhibited chuckle are the first impression of casual observers meeting "Mike" Pearson. Mike, incidentally, is not short for Michael but was arbitrarily imposed on him at the age of eighteen by the sergeant-major training his platoon for service in the World War One. Told that the name of the chubby young recruit was Lester, the sergeant bawled: "Lester is not the name of a fighting man, from now on you're Mike." And from then on he was.

BUT it would be profoundly misleading to allow an impression of gaiety to conceal capacity for hard work and high moral values which are as much a part of Pearson's character as wit and mastery of repartee. Educated at Oxford University, Pearson moved during the late twenties from University to public service along with two intimate friends, the former High Commissioner in London and now chief of the permanent staff at the External Affairs Department, Norman Robertson, and the present Ambassador in Washington, Hume Wrong. The trio proceeded during the subsequent twenty years to give Canada one of the highest-level foreign services in the world.

NEVERTHELESS, today Pearson does not look back on those years with unmixing pride. The greatest humiliation of his life, he says, was when he found himself compelled to plead the cause of appeasement during the Japanese aggression against China when the question was debated at Geneva in the League of Nations. He then resolved to attain sufficient authority to be able to formulate, not merely to execute his nation's policies. It was not until 1940 having reached a highly-paid, safe position at the top of the civil service, that he decided to throw up security and enter politics. The reason for his decision was not a sudden lust for power but a deep fear that post-war reaction might force Canada away from internationalism back into ostrich isolation. Now, as Canadian Foreign Minister and having successfully practiced his "art of never giving up" he has been a prime mover in the Atlantic Pact and has reached a pinnacle in the United Nations.

HIS first address after his election was characteristic of his forthright handling of the major issues of our time. Turning to the Russian delegates two days after the announcement that they had the atom bomb, and a fortnight after he himself had been confidentially informed of this by U.S. Secretary of State Acheson, Pearson told them: "The new imperialism, like the old, will not survive." Everyone was waiting for some reference to the atomic news and Pearson did not disappoint them. Tearing apart the Soviet argument that effective international inspection for prohibition of atomic weapons was incompatible with national sovereignty, Pearson treated them to the grim crack they had yet heard: "It will be small comfort when the first atom bomb drops on us to know that while we have lost everything else we have saved our sovereignty to the very end."

Letter To The Editor

PLEA FOR PARKS AS PARKS

Sir: I was very pleased with the article on your editorial page regarding the renovation of the old fountain so long a land mark in Victoria Park. Some of us well on in years now can recall its beauty when we were young children.

Yes, for city's sake don't let us have still another city park given over for use as a "playground". For as your editorial so truly remarked "If a park is made into a playground, it is no longer a park."

We have seen the truth of this in a survey of most of our city parks, once a place where one could relax and sit in peace and quietness. Just try and get a little of the same now. Wherever you sit you are in danger of being hit by footballs or baseballs or lacrosse balls and must keep moving to get out of their way. Filled with merry-go-rounds, slides, teeters and what have you, the scenery is "not what it used to be". The lovely green sward is broken up into unsightly land areas in some cases and all the accent on youth nowadays.

Surely some of us who have borne the burden and heat of the day are entitled to some place where the spirit as well as the ears may find rest and relaxation. O, some one will no doubt remark, "Some old crank who hates children". This I deny with vim and vigour. Also I enjoy sports and thoroughly approve of their being encouraged, for I doubt if any

Peace: The Upkeep

(CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

WHO won the war? Only those who never viewed the rubble that was Germany, the confusion that was Italy and Japan, would ask the question seriously.

But it is suggested by the United States Department of Commerce report showing that in the last fiscal year alone the upkeep of peace cost Americans $5,000,000,000. That is the amount of foreign aid the United States has been obliged to provide.

The first thing to remember about this aid—to friend or to foe: It is predicated on American charity. If the inevitability of this aid, from the point of view of American security and prosperity be obscured by self-satisfying delusions about altruism, Americans may miss these most significant lessons of this epoch—that the shift of power to the United States carries with it inescapable responsibility.

Another thing to remember about this aid: In part it represents an unrealistic approach to the world's economic problems. That part of it does, at any rate, which is made up of money or goods sent abroad but for which Americans are unwilling to receive goods or services in return. As European productivity increases, either American purchases abroad or American gifts will have to provide more and more ballast for the trade balances.

Among other paradoxes in the picture not the least striking is this. A third of the foreign-aid has gone to former enemy nations without producing a twentieth of the oratorical cynicism, alarmism, and just plain isolationism roused by projects to give aid to America's proven friends. Realistically, however, American policy assumes that a long-time friend may be even more valuable than an erstwhile foe in long-range security planning. So the aid goes where it promises to do the most good to friend, foe, and giver alike.

They Are Out Of Step

(Financial Post)

Four French cardinals one day last week came out with a pastoral statement criticizing capitalistic system at a trade union gathering in pontifical tones that the Roman Catholic church was not joining capitalism in any "anti-Communist crusade and that the church was neutral in political conflicts. Some days before that Bishop Desranleau berated the capitalistic system as a trade union gathering in Sherbrooke, Quebec. "Capitalism," he stated, "is the cause of all our miseries. We must work against it—not to transform it: it is immutable; not to correct it: it is incorrigible."

As far as denying that the Catholic church would ally itself with capitalism in the present crusade, are they not aware that Pope Pius is Communism's most active and articulate foe and that his stand against Marxism is world politics on the priestly level?

Maple Leafs Enter NHL Season With Same Hustling Squad

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 3 (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs head into the new National Hockey League season with virtually the same hustling, bashing squad that trampled all opponents in the Stanley Cup playoffs last spring.

Managing director Conny Smythe sums up the team's prospects in the 70-game campaign this way: "We've got a pretty solid club, better than last year. I don't know how much the other clubs have improved but we'll be in there."

Smythe says there's no worry for the Leafs in two question marks some observers see in his squad. One lies in the aging eyes and limbs of goaltender Walter (Turk) Broda. The other is the danger of over-confidence after a three-year reign as hockey's world champions.

At 35 the Turk is the oldest player in the NHL but here in training camp, where the club is fast rounding into shape, he looks as ever.

Best For Long Time
Says Smythe of the veteran of 11 NHL campaigns: "they've all got to shoot at Turk. He's been the best of them all for a long while."

And of over-confidence: "there's none of that in the camp this year. There was last year after they had won both the league championship and the Stanley Cup. But they learned their lesson last season when they lost a lot of league games."

The Leafs get a preliminary test of strength at Toronto Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 10th against the 1948 N. H. L. All-Stars in the third annual all-star game. They start the quest for their fourth consecutive Stanley Cup Oct. 15 in a home-ice game against Chicago's Black Hawks.

It is expected that the team will carry 19 players—six defencemen, 12 forwards and one goaltender—one above the league playing limit.

The defence group is made up of Jimmy Thomson, Gus Morrison, Garth Boesch, Bill Barilko, Bill Juzda and Farnk Mathers. All but Mathers were with the team through most of last season. He had a short stretch in Toronto although he spent most of the season in the American Hockey League with Pittsburgh Hornets.

Rest of Team
The forwards are: centres Cal Gardner, Ted Kennedy, Max Bentley and Rookie Bob Dawes; right wingers Bill Ezinicki, Howie Meeker, Joe Klukay, and Fleming Mackell; left wingers Harry Watson, Sid Smith, Ray Timgren and Vic Lynn. Klukay and Mackell are both left hand shots and the former plays any forward position.

The forward combinations may shape up like this: Gardner-Ezinicki-Watson, Kennedy-Meeker-Smith, Bentley-Klukay-Timgren, Dawes-Mackell-Lynn. But they aren't fixed.

The job of welding the squad into shape is in the hands of coach Clarence (Hap) Day, starting his 10th season as Leafs coach, and shooting for his sixth Stanley Cup. He guided the club to the title in 1942 and 1945 before embarking on his three-straight run in 1947, 1948 and 1949.

BRYON YOUNG, quarterback of PCVS junior footballers, and John Armstrong at quarter for St. Peter's High School, cheerfully wish each other luck prior to the football game Saturday at Nicholls Oval.

Armstrong's boys had the spirit but Young's heavier linemen tore through the SPHS line to hold the SPHS boys in their zone throughout the game which ended 50-16 for PCVS.

PCVS Juniors Take 50-16 Victory Over St. Peter's

By DON GRANT.

On land and in the air, PCVS junior football team (the Huskies) coasted to a 50-16 victory over the much-improved St. Peter's High School juniors on Saturday afternoon at the Oval. This was the opening game of the Division C of the Lakeshore District League. For a few minutes at the beginning of the second half, the St. Peter's boys threatened to tie the score as they crept up to the Huskies who were leading 22-16. The PCVSers had rolled up a 15-6 score in the first half, with each team tallying a major in the second. PCVS then took advantage of two blocked kicks, two fumbles and an intercepted pass to push the score up to 39-16 at the end of the third. Except for brief moments in the last quarter the Huskies were in command.

Young and Stewart shared the limelight in the passing parade for the Huskies, while Grafstein Langhorne, and Fowler took advantage of the large holes opened in the St. Peter's line by the much heavier PCVS line. The PCVS line was invincible as it stopped the St. Peter's plunges cold. Fortner, Jameson, Faendri, Howe and Johnson were the pick of the winners' line.

Brioux Stars
Picard with his long passes to Brioux and O'Neill shone on the St. Peter's squad, but had a poor day in his specialty, punting. Brioux, as well as scoring the 16 points for St. Peter's, starred in what plunges the team made and snared Picard's and McTeague's passes for the three touchdowns. The light line of St. Peter's could not stand the pounding of the PCVS wall, letting the PCVSers in on several kicks and passes.

PCVS lost possession in the opening few minutes of the first quarter. Picard booted to the SP 40 where Stewart had a runback to the SP 25. Grafstein and Fowler carried the ball to the one-yard line from where Stewart went over standing up. Minutes later a Stewart-to-Young pass went 30 yards with Young carrying it to the one-yard line. Young went over to make the score 10-0. Standing on the SP 40 McTeague heaves a pass 25 yards to Brioux who was in the clear and scored SP's first touch. Brioux also booted the convert. After Young punted to the SP 36, McTeague fumbled there with Fanning recovering for PCVS. Peterborough's next touch was scored by Stewart after he received a pass from Young at the SP 36 to be in the clear. The score at the first quarter was 15-6, PCVS.

Cavanagh was caught behind the touch line at the start of the second after a Young kick for a point for PCVS. Three minutes later Faendri grabbed a Picard kick that was blocked by PCVS on the SP 30 to amble across the touchline. Young converted to make the score 22-6. Stewart's kick in the dying minutes of the half was blocked on the PCVS 47 and taken by Bob Fitzgerald. Picard passed to Mike Fitzpatrick, who went to the PCVS 18 before tackled by Craw. Picard passed again to Brioux for St. Peter's second touchdown.

Drove Back

Brioux tore through the centre of the PCVS line to begin the second half. He went to the SP 49 from the 37. Picard passed to Brioux for 25 yards to put him in the clear for a touch. Passes by Picard, McTeague and Richardson worried the Huskies until they started to march up the field on plunges by Fowler and Grafstein. Young passed to Langhorne and Grafstein to place the ball on the SP 2. Young then passed to Braund for a major. Jameson recovered a SP fumble on the SP 27. Young went across after receiving Stewart's 20-yard pass. The convert was good. Later Young intercepted a Picard pass on the PCVS 40 and ran back to the SP 18. Grafstein plunged the ball to the SP 8. Fowler went through the centre for a try Young kicking the point. The score ended at the third 39 to 16 for PCVS.

Opening the last quarter Young flipped a pass to Gallely for 22 yards. Gallely going on to the SP 18 before tackled by Armstrong. Fowler and Grafstein carried the ball to the SP 4 where Langhorne went through the centre for a touch. Young converting to make the score 45-16. Passes by Hope and Ferguson, both to Scriver, took the ball to the SP 11. There PCVS lost possession. Picard booted out of bounds at the SP 28. Craw plunged for five yards. Then Ferguson's 23-yard pass to Stewart completed the scoring as Stewart was downed just across the touch line. A pass for a point failed.

Officials: Referee, Gord Young. Umpire: Howard Hempstead. Linesman: John Green.

The Lineups:
PCVS—Flying wing, Langhorne; halves, Grafstein, Stewart, Fowler; quarter, Young; snap, Johnson; insides, Fanning, Faendri; middles, Eowe, Jameson; outsides, Gallely, Braund; alternates, Buckland, Clapper, Craw.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

On Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 8 p.m. in the club's parlors, the curling club is holding its semi-annual meeting and at this meeting the main object is to choose the schedule rinks for the coming season.

This season the committee is aiming for 72 rinks—288 active curlers. They would like to have a complete list for the night of the meeting but unless many intended curlers send their applications in by tomorrow night, it looks as if they will be many short.

This appeal is made directly to last year's members. No doubt many have overlooked the importance of signing these applications and returning them to the secretary.

We notice that tomorrow night is the zero hour, after that it may be first come, first served. Don't be left out—contact R. F. Downey tonight.

Hope to see you all at the meeting—enough said.

Midnight Faise Alarm

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 3 (ENS)—A number of citizens had their sleep disturbed at 12:15 a.m. Sunday when the firemen were called to Guy Ferrill's ice house on Front St. Dozens of people, some clad in their night attire, followed the fire reels only to learn that some prankster had sent in a false alarm.

World Series Shaping As A Toss-up

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Despite the 5-9 odds favoring New York Yankees over Brooklyn Dodgers, the 46th World Series opening Wednesday at Yankee Stadium should be a toss-up.

Here are two battle-weary clubs that struggled through the terrific tension of a last-day finish. Nobody is fresh or eager. Both could stand a month's vacation. Instead, they move on to the series. There will be no days off, barring bad weather, in the best-of-seven competition with the scene shifting to Brooklyn Friday.

The Yanks weren't supposed to win but did. With only one .300 hitter, ailing Joe DiMaggio, in their regular line-up, they whipped a Boston club that figured to be better on paper.

Manager Casey Stengel's artful juggling despite 71 injuries and the team's ability to take trigger-quick advantage of every opening, made the difference. The team was able to overcome the handicap of playing without its ace, Joe DiMaggio, for half the season.

Vic Raschi, only 20-game winner in the series, was of little help in the stretch drive until he came through with his vital 5-3 clincher yesterday.

The big man of the Yanks' staff was fireman Joe Page, who strode from the bullpen 60 times during the 154-game season. Smoky Joe may well be the key man in the wrestle with the Dodgers which, on the surface, shapes up as a duel between DiMaggio and Jackie Robinson.

Manager Burt Shotton has no Page in his bullpen but he has a club that outlasted the Yanks 270 to 287, stole more bases 114 to 37 and hit more home runs, 153 to 115. Those figures don't lie. To top those statistics, Shotton has Jackie Robinson, batting champion of the National League at 342. Carl Furillion, "the arm" of the outfield, finishing with a surprising .322 and both of his alternating left fielders Luis Olmo (.308) and Gene Hermanski (.304) are in the charmed circle.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

A prediction that lacrosse will "fold up" unless the Canadian Lacrosse Association strengthens its ranks was made Saturday as the CLA concluded its annual meeting at Vancouver.

Delegates E. H. Lancaster of St. Catharines, criticized CLA methods of operation as being "antiquated" and control as "haphazard." He said the man in the street believes the CLA "is dead." The convention unanimously approved his resolution which urged that a five-man committee fully investigate the CLA structure and lacrosse across Canada. The committee will report at next year's convention.

T. J. O'Brien, a Winnipeg importer, was named president. J. C. McLeod, Owen Sound, was named a vice-president.

King Ranch's Better Self Saturday romped home an easy winner of the $25,000 all American handicap, closing day attraction of the 45-day Atlantic City meeting. Goins Away was second and Pilaster third.

Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox and Enos Slaughter of St. Louis Cardinals were named by the Sporting News Saturday as the outstanding players in the American and National Leagues respectively.

Gus Morrison, defence man for the Toronto Maple Leafs National Hockey League club, was married Friday to Sheila Kennedy of Toronto in Oshawa's Simcoe Street United Church.

TCS Blanks Pickering In Exhibition Game

PORT HOPE, Oct. 3—Trinity College School's first football team opened an exhibition schedule at Port Hope Saturday with a hard-fought 7-0 victory over Pickering College. In a prep for later Little Big Four games, TCS fielded a strong team which fought hard and courageously against stubborn opposition.

The play in the first half was hard but practically fruitless, the only score coming on Wood's powerful kick to the Pickering deadline. Opening the second half Pickering recovered their own kick and ran to the five-yard line but failed to score on three successive plays. In the final quarter, Hughes and Lawson sparked TCS to a touchdown, Lawson scoring and Wood converting.

Indians Take 2-Game Lead Over Montreal

MONTREAL, Oct. 3 (CP)—Montreal Royals are a surprised and somewhat confused baseball team today as they suddenly find themselves trailing Indianapolis Indians of the American Association 2-0 in the best-of-seven Little World Series.

Only two days ago, the International League champions were established 8-5 favorites over the Indians as the result of their remarkable showing in the Shaughnessy loop play-offs when they polished off Rochester Red Wings and the pennant-winning Buffalo Bisons in nine games.

But today, Royals are confronted with the difficult task of winning four of the next five games, the majority of which are to be played in Indianapolis. Only one more game is scheduled for Montreal.

Stopped Cold

Saturday night it was Joe Muir, a rangy southpaw, who stopped Royals' cold with three hits for an easy 5-1 victory. He walked only one and fanned five.

Left-hander Johnny Van Cuyk, the losing hurler, was the victim of three unearned runs in the second inning. Les Fleming added another Indianapolis run in the third with a towering home-run over the right centre-field wall.

The final Indian tally in the fifth inning forced Johnny to the showers and Clarry Podbielan took over. He stopped the visitors until relieved for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. Charlie Lare finished up for Royals.

It was much the same story on Sunday as the Indians again won the game 5-1.

The visitors got off to a fast start when Fleming homered once more with Nanny Fernandez, who had walked, scoring ahead of him.

They added single runs in the second, third and fifth innings. The lone Royal marker came in the bottom half of the third.

Refund Money

For the first time since St. Louis Cardinals started winning pennants in 1926, the club office will have to refund payments sent in for world series tickets. The task will require several days. About 115,000 orders for tickets have flooded the office since it was announced Thursday that applications would be accepted. Accompanying the orders was about $1,500,000 in cheques and money orders.

Fort Henry 1832

The year was 1832

Canadians, with the war of 1812 fresh in their minds, built a grim fortress on the St. Lawrence, near Kingston. Its name: Fort Henry. Its avowed purpose; to "keep out the Yankees."

But never a shot was fired from Fort Henry. Its limestone walls crumbled into ruin . . . until a century later, when it was restored as an historic site where thousands of "Yankees" are welcomed as friendly visitors, every year.

Fort Henry is fort in name only because two great nations live side by side, in peace, in friendship, in mutual help.

Can it be coincidence that both these nations are ruled by the will of the majority?

Between nations where the people speak freely, peace will be maintained. So Fort Henry is an historic reminder that . . .

When YOU cast your secret ballot at every election—municipal, provincial, federal—you exercise a duty and privilege planned, worked and fought for by your forefathers. Your vote protects the future of your children. To fail in this duty is to be less than a good citizen.

Bombers Gain 10-8 Win From Panthers

By FRED MAYBEE

Orilla Silver Bombers came from behind via the aerial route, to edge out a 10-8 verdict over Peterborough Panthers Saturday in a hard fought ding-dong Senior B ORFU battle at Orilla featuring the kind of play that makes football fans.

Trailing 6-3 as the first quarter began, as a result of an amazing 85-yard drive by Panthers early in the third, climaxed by Spike Matthews' sensational 20-yard run for a converted major, through a maze of tacklers, to effect Milligan's early field goal—Orilla switched to the air. Two passes—Cooke to Naismith—took Bombers 35 from their own 30 to Panthers 45. Bond's plunge for six was followed by a fast end run and lateral to Milligan who ran for 20 yards and booted a single on the next play as a field goal missed.

Got The Break

At this point, Orilla gained the game-winning break, as a fumble gave Bill McGill's boys possession on Peterborough's 30. Two plunges followed but on third down Milligan crossed the percentages and tossed a 30-yard forward to Clive Naismith, behind the line, who held it like sugar as he evaded tacklers behind him for a likely punt that didn't develop. It was a beautiful strategic play perfectly executed. Milligan converted.

Panthers fought back hard, tooth and nail, in the hard going that featured yeoman work by Matthews, Conlin, Beatty, Plunkett and Davidson of Panthers. Brown's single, the latter stealing second. Matthews came in and Brown took third on a hit by Stewart, Joe going down on the throw-in. Both scored on a sharp single to right by Edvardson. The Murphys threatened also in several other heats and left 10 men stranded.

Major Upsets

Pittsburgh, Kansas State and Navy, doormats of United States college football in recent years, smote unsuspecting rivals Saturday to turn in major upsets. Pittsburgh knocked off the proud Rose Bowl champions from Northwestern, 16-7. Kansas State, without a big seven victory since 1944, walloped a highly-favored Colorado machine 27-13.

Navy's sophomores gave the Middle Corps something to cheer about by bouncing Princeton, 28-7, the first time the young sailors had won a football game since 1947.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

A fair sort of crowd at Riverside on Saturday aft., but a lot of ball fans—who passed it up—missed a great hurling effort by Bill Edger. His contribution to the Petes' 8-0 win over Chatham Maple Leafs was a four-hit chore, 16 strikeouts and no walks, besides Bill himself getting two safe bingles. Nothing wrong with that job, eh? In fact one of the four hits was scratchy, and Bill didn't let a man reach third. All the Petes fielded well and came up with timely thumps at the plate, besides scoring five unearned runs as the visitors kicked the apple around for two frames. But a good ball game for home fans on a fine sunny afternoon.

This was the opener of the best-of-three OBA senior "B" semi-finals, return tilt being in Chatham next Sunday at 3:30 p.m. If a third is necessary, the men of Murphy will stay over night and play it there Thanksgiving Day. Sunday is just another day in sports down around the Chatham-Windor district. We trust it doesn't become contagious. Edvardson, Edger, Menzie, Brown and Stewart were the main sticklers for the Petes on Saturday, and Garvey hit a timely two-bagger. Lefty Dadson was beamed off a bat and had to retire but was okay by game's end. In tribute to Howie Dalton, whose mother was buried Saturday, a minute's silence was observed.

Golfers Finish Up

Following an afternoon of play, male members of the Peterborough Golf Club sat down to dinner and entertainment on Saturday eve at the official closing of the club for this semester. Prexy Milf Hardill and his directors had a fine season and there's talk of enlarging facilities another year to take care of the increasing membership. Winners this year were Jack Hardill, senior club champion; Frank Vyse, junior victor; Ross Cutmore, Westclox Cup; Ed Dixon, Macdonald Trophy; and Stew Williamson, Stratton Trophy. They will be presented at the club dance on Oct. 14.

ORFU Panthers had a tough break in Orilla on Saturday and the Bombers won the fixture 10-8. Spike Matthews wound up a dandy drive by the visitors in the third for a converted major and it looked like the team was in. Count was 6-3 and they were really working. But Milligan got a single and then a Panther fumble—"It's that everlasting fumble that undoes a football game"—gave Orilla possession 30 yards out of paydirt. Two bucks were halted but Milligan crossed his rivals up on third down by tossing a forward to Naismith for a major, which was converted. Panthers drove savagely toward the finish and Orilla conceded two points to stop a possible touchdown. A great game but a tough one to lose.

PCVS Juniors Win

Up at the Oval, a scrappy St. Peter's squad gave the heavier PCVS pack a real fight for awhile but faded finally and took the skinny side of a 50-16 count. It opened the junior school grid schedule. Young and Stewart passed in fine fashion, as Langhorne, Fowler and Grafstein plunged well behind excellent line work. Brioux starred for SPS with Picard, O'Neill and McTeague catching the eye with good work at times. Under Coach Allure, the SPS boys have shown a lot of improvement, but they're facing a powerful junior outfit in Coach Londry's large PCVS lads. 'Twas an open and interesting tussle.

Ron Menzie advises that the local Administrative Boxing Council hopes to start training amateur boxers in a couple of more weeks. Application is being made for use of the Ashburnham Hall, and Wilf Jones plans to check on price of necessary equipment for a report to Jack Dane, director of the Recreation Commission. A lot of boys have been asking when gym workouts commence as they want to learn the many art. Lloyd Burrows of Lindsay has a club going and would like to work with the Peterborough club later when enough boys in each town have been trained properly and are in good ring condition. The odd inter-club match might be arranged through the winter months.

Hither And Yawn

Dodgers and Yanks made the World Series, both finishing with a .630 average, whilst the runners-up (Red Sox and Cards) each had .623. CGE beat O'Halloran's 5-1 to take the W. G. Owens Soccer Cup. Intermediate school soccer tomorrow: Queen Elizabeth vs. Queen Mary at Bonnerworth, and Prince of Wales at Confederation. Marines play Westclox girls at 7:30 in the Bowl tomorrow night in a benefit game for Pat Williams. Sheddies beat Stratford for the FWSU junior title; they earlier eliminated our Woolens. Toronto Webbers wiped out Oshawa to reach OBA juvenile "A" finals. And Burrards won the Mann Cup in senior lacrosse from Hamilton. Jack Slason started at half Sat'day for Queen's seniors, and Moe Richardson subbed, as McMaster won 7-5. Cobourg Ghosts edged the intermediate Queen's 8-7 in an exhibition. Clapper's midget puckists of last year, along with prospective juveniles, are asked to contact Clapper's now. Senior "B" Petes have an open workout, with all positions open, from eight to nine tonight at Civic Arena and at seven p.m. tomorrow. Junior "B" Oddfellows have an open drill there at nine tonight for two hours and again at eight p.m. tomorrow. Bill Berwick played for Oshawa Generals as KC Mohawks beat them 10-4 on Sat'day. Long layoff and Fergus beat our petwee Petes 11-5 in Toronto in the OLA sudden-death final on Saturday; tough luck, boys. The end.

The second annual PCVS track and field sports day will be held Wednesday starting at 1:30 p.m. in Morrow Park. Last year more than 450 students took part in the six-event program which was brought back to PCVS after an absence of 10 years. Of this number, about 250 were girls. The staff and the Fifth Form students helped with the organization. As last year, the students of the Collegiate have been divided into four houses or batteries from which four teams or troops will compete as a group. Each competitor will be awarded one point for his entry, or upon passing the necessary standards, three, five or seven points. The total score will determine the winning house or battery. Two more events have been added to the sports day program this year. The events for the boys will be: Sprint, ball throw, high jump, broad jump, shuttle relay, shot put, dribbling course, potato race. The girls have a similar lineup which is: Sprint, ball throw, shuttle relay, high jump, hurdle relay, broad jump, dribbling course, extension jump. House D-4 was declared winner of the meet last year on the meet day, but a recount of the results declared House C-3 the champion by only two points and the House C-3 compiled 1,423 points, of which 806 were won by the boys. The out-riding team of boys last year was the 14-year-old team from House B with 220 points, while the best organized group honors were won by the 16-year-old group from House C. The meet is held each year with the hope that every student will compete and thus profit from the experience.

Electricians Win In Soccer For Owens Cup

CGE gained a 5-1 decision over the O'Halloran eleven in the final of the W. G. Owens Injured Players Cup Saturday afternoon at King Edward Park, in perfect weather. Best of the soccer losers were Hutchinson, Duffus and Laithem; for CGE, Attard, Craig and Pyle. Captain Howard Steel was presented with the trophy at the end of the game.

Within five minutes O'Hallorans were up a goal. Duffus repulsed a CGE attack by punting up the centre to Scott who broke fast into goal to bulge the rigging. Quickly the CGE were at the O'Halloran citadel where Attard connected with a header slated for the lower corner but Art O'Halloran, in goal, put out his hand to divert it off for a fruitless flag kick. Scott broke away up the centre and passed over to Buchanan who missed the corner of the upright. Then Attard, at centre for CGE, did everything but score as he skied, skinned or missed the upright, while O'Halloran's front line working to perfection compelled the CGE custodian to put up a brilliant display as they bombarded his citadel from all angles until the interval.

On resuming, O'Halloran's attack hemmed the CGE full backs into their goal to keep up a steady siege that finally saw Pyle picking up the ball from a scrimmage, in front of goal, to clear. With 17 minutes to go, O'Halloran's eleven wilted against the Electric attack as Booth slipped a twirling ball into the net to get the equalizer. This was followed by McGann sending a foul kick into the far corner of the goal from 20 yards out. On the next raid Strong added the third courier. Towards the finish Attard opened a brilliant effort with a sizzling drive that landed inside the upright in the top corner. His next goal was converted after he had four tries that Art O'Halloran saved at point blank range as he slipped the ball into the far corner.

O'Halloran's—Art O'Halloran, goal; J. Hutchinson and A. Downer, full backs; A. B. Smith, E. Duffus and H. Laithem, half backs; A. Langley, H. Foster, T. Scott, D. Murdoff and M. Buchanan, full backs. CGE—H. Pyle, goal; S. Murdoff and R. Tollyington, full backs; S. McGann, J. Craig and F. Booth, half backs; R. Strong, H. Steel, F. Attard, A. Featherstone, and J. Goodhead, forwards. Subs: J. Chamberlain, J. Titchell. Referee: J. Buchanan; linesmen, A. Downer and J. Titchell.

Gil Mayer has been chosen to tend goal for Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League this season, ending Hornets' search for a replacement for Baz Bastien, who lost his right eye two weeks ago in the team's first fall practice. Mayer was voted the most valuable player in last season's Ontario Hockey Association junior A competition when he was goalie for Barrie Flyers.

Two Jockeys Steal Limelight

TORONTO, Oct. 3 (CP)—A pair of hard-riding jockeys among the oldest and the youngest riding in Canada, threaten to displace the thoroughbreds as the chief attraction at suburban Long Branch race track.

Veteran Pat Remillard, who was riding winners before 17-year-old Charley Bright was born, had another field day Saturday, booting home four winners. This topped his previous day's record of three and tied Bright's score of four winners Thursday. Bobby Keane, another popular jockey, had scored a triple on opening day, Wednesday.

The race for the title of Canada's champion jockey lies between Bright and Remillard, who have a big lead on the rest of the riders. With 31 days of racing to go, Bright has 75 winners against 70 for Remillard.

The younger rider, nicknamed "be right with Bright," didn't start his winning record until June last, and has averaged about 25 winners a month since that time. Horsemen say he "gets more out of a horse; they seem to like to run for him." Other jockeys say he croons to the horses and chants "I gotta win, I gotta win" as the pack races down the back stretch.

Fergus Victors In Final Over OLA Petes

Fergus Peewee lacrosse team trounced Peterboro all-stars 11 to 5 on Saturday to take the Ontario championship. The game was a sudden-death fixture for the championship and was played in Toronto at St. John's Training School.

The Petes did not display the form they had two weeks ago when they battled their way through the semi-finals for the right to meet Fergus. The two-week layoff did not help them and wet weather limited their practices.

Fergus opened scoring in the first quarter and notched three before Keating scored for the Petes. Fergus picked up another one before the quarter ended with the score Fergus 4, Petes 1. Petes showed flashes of good lacrosse in the second quarter and held a slight edge in play with both teams scoring three times.

Poor Shooting
In the third and final quarter Fergus again outscored the Petes four to one. At times Petes gave indications of breaking out in a flurry of goals but some erratic shooting and the net spoiled their chances.

On the strength of their showing Saturday the Fergus team deserved to win as they checked well, passed the ball around and in general worked hard. Play was fairly clean, although Fergus picked up all four minor penalties handed out by referee Bill Anthony of Brampton. Even while Fergus were shorthanded the locals were unable to put it to their advantage.

Bake with three, Hodge Sadler and Henderson each with two and Matthews and Finley each with one were the goal scorers for Fergus. Keating, Simmons, Fergusson, Hunt and McInnis each had a single for the Petes. All the locals tried hard but it just wasn't their day. Pete Heffernan, Pearl and Simmons were the pick of the locals.

TORONTO, Oct. 3 (CP)—A player swap was staged during the week-end by the Stratford Kroehlers and Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A circuit. In return for defenceman Bill Mitchell, captain of the Stratford squad last year, Marlboros gave up defenceman John Ashley and forward Moe Galand.

Brooklyn and Yankees In World Series, Tightest Race Since 1908

By RALPH RODEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers open the 1949 world series in Yankee Stadium Wednesday following tightest major league pennant races in 41 years. Both series foes clinched their pennants Sunday, final day of the season. The Yanks gained American League honors by dusting off Boston Red Sox 5-3 before 68,055 fans in New York. The victory enabled the Yanks to break a first place stalemate with the Sox and win by one game.

Brooklyn nailed down the National League flag by outslugging the Philadelphia Phillies 9-7 in 10 innings at Philadelphia to finish one game in front of St. Louis Cardinals. The Cardinals parted the Cubs 13-5 in Chicago to no avail.

For the Yanks, it will be their 16th appearance in baseball's blue-ribbon classic. The Dodgers will be making their fifth bid to capture baseball's highest honor. They have yet to win a series. The Yanks have 11 series scalps dangling from their belts.

Closest Since 1908

There have been close races in either the National or American League before but the super-duper finishes in both leagues this year was unmatched since 1908.

Vic Raschi pitched the Yanks into world series glory with a glittering five-hitter. Raschi, who posted his 21st victory, had the Sox, pre-season favorites, blanked on two hits going into the ninth when he faltered and yielded three runs before Birdie Tebbets fouled out to end Boston's hopes.

Tommy Henrich and Jerry Coleman drove home all the Yankee runs. Phil Rizzuto tripled and scored the first run on Henrich's grounder in the first inning. Henrich homered off Mel Parnell, who relieved starter and loser Ellis Kinder in the eighth and Coleman doubled home three more runs in the eighth off Tex Hughson.

Singles by Pee Wee Reese, Duke Snider and Luis Olmo brought the Dodgers victory in overtime at Philadelphia. The Dodgers blew a 5-0 lead but airtight pitching by Jack Banta over the final 4 1/3 innings saved the day for the Dodgers.

Paces Cards
Stan Musial with two home runs and Chuck Diering with one paced the Cards and Howie Pollet to his 20th victory in Chicago. The victory ended a four-game Cardinal losing streak but it came too late.

Boston Braves, last year's National League champs, came in fourth. They beat New York Giants 2-1 in their final game with Warren Spahn racking up his 21st victory. In other National League games, Pittsburgh split with Cincinnati, winning the opener 4-2 and losing the nightcap 6-5. Ralph Kiner failed to hit a homer and wound up with 54.

Cleveland, 1948 American League titlist, defeated Detroit 8-4 and finished third. In the other American wind-ups, last-place Washington blanked Philadelphia 3-0, and St. Louis split with Chicago, winning the second game 5-3 after losing the first 4-3.

Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn won the National League batting championship with a .342 mark, beating out Musial by three points. George Kell of Detroit won the American League crown, .3429 to Williams of Boston, .3429 to .3475.

Cemetery Gets Smart New Look

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 3 — (ENS) — During the past summer many improvements have been made to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The roads were gravelled, low spots tiled and drained, plots cleaned up and the unsightly bank at the roadside removed and the slope held in place by a cement retaining wall.

The crowning achievement was the erection of a $3,000 vault. It is constructed of cement blocks with a stucco front and a concrete retaining wall. The steel door opens on a large room where racks are arranged for caskets. The committal service can be held in the enclosure during inclement weather. The vault is available without charge to all.

This much needed work has been done under the supervision of the Cemetery Board, Mr. F. W. Burgess, treasurer, and P. B. Nelson, who spent considerable time and effort in maintaining a well kept cemetery.

WI Starts Preparation For Christmas Parcels

WARKWORTH, Oct. 3 (ENS)—The September meeting of the White School Women's Institute was held at the home of the Misses Emma and Nina McColl.

The president, Mrs. Owen Finlay, was in charge.

The following program was given under the direction of Mrs. Carmen Nelson: A paper on historical events was prepared by Mrs. R. B. Nelson and read by Mrs. Andrew Runciman; a reading "At Half Mast" by Mrs. Owen Finlay; a contest conducted by Mrs. Carmen Nelson with Mrs. Clifford Skinkie and Mrs. Leslie Finlay being the winners.

An exhibit of "Something Ancient" was on display. The exhibit included homemade crocheted oodspreads, an unusual coal oil lamp, snuff box, fancy lace collar and various other articles.

It was decided to finish a quilt, the top having been donated by Mrs. P. Grass and Mrs. M. Skinkie. Suggestions were given by members on packing special Christmas parcels. Lunch was served by the hostesses.

Get More Power

TORONTO, Oct. 3—(CP)—The DeCew Falls plant, near St. Catharines, will produce an additional 1,250,000 kilowatt hours daily at the close of navigation, a spokesman for the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario said Friday. Navigation normally closes about mid-December, he said.

Sunday Shooters Careless Shots Rouse Residents

Several complaints were lodged with provincial police over the week-end that hunters were breaking the law by careless shooting outside the city limits.

In the majority of cases the offenders were shooting on Sunday which is an offence in itself.

A resident of Sherbrooke St. South, reported on Sunday that a small child in that vicinity narrowly missed being struck by a stray rifle bullet.

The hunters—reported in various sections of the suburbs including Sherbrooke St. West, North Monaghan West and Smith—were chiefly interested in bagging rabbits, but critical residents said they shoot at anything that moved.

Riddle Mail Boxes

A number of rural mail boxes have also been riddled by the itchy-fingered marksmen.

Provincial Police told the Examiner today they would crack down hard in future, particularly on those hunters breaking the law by endangering human lives, shooting on Sunday and shooting on land without the owner's permission.

Two Cars Damaged At Highway Junction

A two-car collision near the junction of highways 7A and 28 Saturday afternoon resulted in total damage of about $650.

The accident occurred when Donald Stokes of Niagara Falls, driving south on No. 28, went past the intersection of that highway with No. 7A. Realizing his mistake, Stokes slowed down and another car travelling in the same direction, and driven by Mrs. M. L. Kennedy of Water St., collided with the rear of his vehicle.

Stokes' car received about $500 damages, including a smashed trunk and twisted frame. The right side of the grill, right fender and headlight of the Kennedy car were damaged to the extent of about $125.

Nobody was injured. Provincial Constable R. A. Feeley investigated.

Car Went Off Road

Donald Kerr, 173 Rubidge St., drove his car off the road and into the ditch, breaking a telephone pole Sunday at the turn at Cameron and Park streets. Kerr, who was attended by Dr. Charles Scott for a cut above the left eye, told Constable Claire McGillen that he was driving at 25 m.p.h. when his car went out of control on the turn.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

ST. PETER'S HIGH SCHOOL successfully introduced a snappy cheering section to the fans at their game with PCVS juniors Saturday. The five cheerleaders had bright uniforms, consisting of long garnet skirts and white sweaters with a school letter on each. With short, but loud yells they helped build up excitement in the game. Here are Barbara Hollingsworth, Gloria Graham and Sheila Donnelly giving their all for SPHS. They need to, for, as in the picture at top, the St. Peter's boys are kicking from behind their touchline in the early part of the first quarter. On the second play after the picture was taken Stewart went over for a major for PCVS.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

RECEIPTS DOWN

Customs receipts for September this year are nearly $50,000 lower than for the same period in 1948. September 1949 figures are $306,974.02 compared with $356,489.38 for last September.

LUCKY DRIVER

Lucky is the word for transport driver Orval Weese of Peterborough. When the steering wheel on his truck jammed at Bewdley Saturday, the vehicle struck a driveway, leaped into the air and smashed into an oak tree. Weese escaped with back injuries.

BACKFIRES AND BURNS

A car driven by G. Potter, RR 9, Peterborough, backfired and the wiring in the engine began to burn Saturday afternoon. Firemen went to Rogers St. where the blaze started and doused it with a hand pump. There was slight damage to the engine.

SMOKE FROM BACKDRAUGHT

A damp chimney is believed to have caused a backdraught that led to the residence of E. Hamilton of Downie St. being flooded with smoke early Saturday night. When the furnace was lit the chimney did not draw properly and the smoke flowed back into the residence.

Canada Gives To Mankind Greatest Hope For Future

"In making nationality the servant and not the master in world affairs, Canada is today giving to mankind the greatest hope for the future." His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke told seven new Canadian citizens today after administering the oaths of allegiance.

The ceremony of presenting the certificates opened the non-jury sittings for Peterborough.

"Only by extending throughout the world the ideals of mutual tolerance, of racial co-operation, and of equality among men can nationality come to serve humanity," said Judge Smoke. "Only as nationality serves humanity can mankind hope to substitute co-operation for conflict in the relations between the nations of the world."

It was at this point in his address to the seven new citizens that Judge Smoke spoke of Canada's particular contribution to international understanding.

Two of those receiving their citizenship certificates were Chinese—Gan You Kam, an employee of the Star Laundry, Hunter St., and the other, Hum Yee, a chef at the De Luxe Cafe, George St. The five others were Theodore J. Gobin, a former United States citizen in the Canadian Army; George Hamilton Panter, of Frank St., also a former United States citizen; Walter Dinesen, born in Denmark; and Joseph F. Micollucci, Charlotte St., and Carmine Paterno, Park St., both of Italian origin.

After congratulating them on receiving their citizenship Judge Smoke addressed them on their new rights and duties. Two of the duties singled out were exercising the franchise "that you may assist in assuring good government both in your local communities and in the country as a whole," and assisting in the administration of justice "to the extent to which you may be called upon to do by serving upon juries, to determine whether accused persons are guilty when charged with criminal offences as well as to determine certain civil matters."

Without mentioning any specific ideologies Judge Smoke warned the new citizens to be wary of subversive influences. "It devolves upon the citizens of any country to do all in their power to be zealous in seeing that there does not grow up among us a body of people who subscribe to foreign ideologies, and who would, if it were within their power, overthrow the government and install some other system."

September Cold Low 25 Degrees

The range of temperature last month was from 81 degrees on the 4th to 25 on the 25th with the average 55.2.

In September last year the high was 88 deg. on the 5th and 6th and the low was 39 on the 16th, for an average of 61.8.

Those figures repeat the experience of the community in its sense of the last month of autumn, with weather hovering down to 25 degrees for the frosting job, the first signal of the approach of winter.

Rainfall was 2.92 inches as compared with one-quarter of an inch last year. Three inches of rain ought to put the Ennismore ground in easily worked condition for the county match Wednesday.

Girls Capture Top Honors In Calf Club

Three of seven girls in the Peterborough Calf Club, with a total membership of 27, finished one-two-three in the Achievement Day finals at Morrow Park Saturday.

They were Marie Kelly, 934, Mary Wood, 922, and Gwelda Bolton 905. Possible score was 1,000 points. Francis Walsh of Otonabee was the first of the boys to show near the top, in fourth place with 895 points, one more than Dane Stewart, 894, Otonabee.

Gerald Coughlin was sixth with 888 points; Allen Stewart, Indian River, 874 seventh; Jean Bolton, Douro, 873, eighth; Leo Moloney, Douro, 855, ninth; Archie Davidson of Otonabee, 854, tenth; Dorothy Chambers, Otonabee, 850, eleventh.

Marie Kelly is a daughter of the late Frank Kelly, who was one of the prominent members of the Holstein Breeders' Association. Her entry was a Holstein calf that was selected for her by Hugh Ormiston, Holstein fieldman. It won the first prize in its class at the Black and White field day at Lakefield Fair.

Mary Wood is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wood of Otonabee, and Gwelda Bolton is of Douro township. Five of the Club members were junior Boltons of two families in the township.

Compete At OAC

Miss Kelly and Miss Wood will comprise a Peterborough team in the judging of dairy cattle at the provincial inter-club competition at OAC, Guelph, this month.

The club this year was sponsored by the Junior Farmers of the county, and was coached by Robert Bell, assistant agricultural representative. Of the 27 members, 25 brought out their calves Saturday. Nineteen were Holsteins, and the six others were of beef breeds. Shorthorns shown by David Stewart, Otonabee; Robert Hutchison, Otonabee; and Don Matthews, Young's Point; Herefords, by Francis Walsh and Arthur Dawson, Otonabee; and Aberdeen-Angus by John DeNure.

Points were awarded on the basis of care and management of their calves since spring; test questions; showmanship and rating of animals.

Oliver Dalrymple, Stirling, Hastings county agricultural representative, judge, complimented the girls and boys on the evidence of good care of their calves and suggested to them a feeding course to follow in the immediate future. He also congratulated the parents of the club members.

Favor Changing Season Pickerel Fishing

MIDLAND, Oct. 3 (Special to The Examiner)—A request from the Peterborough Fish and Game Association that pickerel season open May 1, and close with the maskinonge season, Oct. 1 was presented to the annual meeting Zone 5 Federation of Anglers and Hunters at Midland on the week-end. The suggestion was endorsed, when explained by Campbell Rowatt, but several delegates of the more than 40 attending suggested Peterborough district should fight to scrap the existing special fishery regulation which place "high walls around four counties. The resolution will go before the annual meeting at Sudbury in January, then before the Ontario Legislature.

Jack Hambleton, Toronto was elected chairman, succeeding Blake Uren, Orillia. Pete McGillen, Peterborough, is first vice-chairman with Ed Johns, Gravenhurst, second vice, and Ed Woods, Scarboro, secretary-treasurer.

Campbell Rowatt, president of the Peterborough club, was nominated for the chairmanship and also as secretary but declined to stand because of pressure of his own work. He was elected a director along with Jack Arndt, Peterborough, and J. D. Cumming, Belmont Lake, who is a member of both the Havelock and Campbellford clubs.

Fishing Good

Reports of committee chairmen indicated fishing was as good if not better than in 1948, and also that the scarcity of deer in the Parry Sound-Muskoka district was alarming. Ed Johns, Gravenhurst suggested a buck law, the banning of dogs, or even a closed season were all possibilities in the next few years.

Carle Warne and Jack Prentice, Toronto, reporting on pollution, said conditions in the Scugog-Sturgeon Lake had not improved, and hinted that the Central Kawartha Cottagers Association was considering legal action. An editorial which appeared in the Peterborough Examiner regarding the establishment of a Trent Valley Authority to curb pollution received high praise and Harold Darrough, Orangeville, secretary of the zone was instructed to write a letter of commendation to Robertson Davies for this editorial.

Million Dollar New Increase In City Building This Year

Peterborough's new building values to the end of September were a million dollars more than last year, as indicated by the permits issued through the office of City Engineer Chalmers. The total for the nine months of the year was $3,174,244 as compared with $2,085,867 for the same period last year, an increase of $1,088,377.

There were in September 133 permits for $201,056 as against 113 permits in September last year for $462,499.

The September items were: 23 garages, $4,855; 21 dwellings, $135,600; 89 miscellaneous permits $60,601. Total $201,056.

And for September last year: 16 garages $5,290; 22 dwellings $114,300; 75 miscellaneous, $342,909. Total $462,499.

The issue of 21 permits for dwellings estimated at $135,600 is an indication of the liveliness of new realty activity throughout the building year. It means that considerable work will be carried into the winter as walls go up and roofs on before the cold comes.

Truck And Cars Tangle At Lane

A truck driven by George R. Gould, R.R. 3, Peterborough, trapped another car, forcing it into a parked car, when the truck swung to the left before making a turn into a laneway off Water St., south of Charlotte Saturday afternoon.

Thomas Harris, driver of the trapped car, told police he went to pass on the right of the truck when he saw it turn left, because he thought it was going to make a left turn. His car was crowded into a parked car owned by A. Comstock and Sons. None of the cars was badly damaged.

Hearse Hit

A hearse, driven by Norman Nisbett, 303 Brock St., was struck in the rear when Nisbett stopped quickly for a bread wagon as he was turning from Lansdowne Ave., onto Park St. Saturday evening.

Driver of the second car was Victor Doughty, 150 Hart St. Damage to both vehicles was slight.

Truck, Car Collision At Chemong Rd. Entry

An out-of-town truck driven by Lillian V. McDonald, Bracebridge, Ont., driving south on the Lindsay highway, ran into trouble at the Reid-Stewart St. junction Sunday afternoon.

She told police as she approached the turn, she saw a car driven by Carl H. Lang, 537 Gilchrist St., approaching. She tried to swing south to Stewart St. to avoid the Lang car, but hit the left front wheel of the car and both vehicles made a 90 degree turn ending up on Stewart St.

About $75 damage was done to the car and about $40 to the truck.

Parked Car Hit

Leo Collins, 504 Patterson St., reported to police Saturday night his car had been hit between 6:30 and 8:30 while parked on Simcoe St., just west of George St.

Looking Ahead In Ottawa

Shrinking Food Markets To Be Conference Topic

OTTAWA, Oct. 2.—(CP)—The problem of shrinking world markets for Canada's foodstuffs will be aired when the annual Dominion-Provincial agricultural conference meets in Ottawa early next December.

Agricultural Minister Gardiner likely will be in a position then to tell Canadian wheat, meat, milk and poultry producers what Canada can expect to sell in the traditional world markets such as the United Kingdom.

Other farmer-growing problems will be discussed, but the biggest discussions will centre around what the United Kingdom will take from this country in 1950.

Last year just before the conference, Mr. Gardiner made a hurried trip overseas and came back with a bigger price for Canadian wheat. This year it is not even certain that he will make a trip to London.

However, Canada is guaranteed a $2-a-bushel price for 140,000,000 bushels of wheat to be shipped to Britain in the 1949-50 crop year.

New Contracts

Still to be negotiated are new contracts for bacon, eggs and cheese.

Just what amount of these products the U.K. will take likely will depend to a great extent on her dollar situation and the amount of Marshall-aid funds she can divert to the Canadian food market.

Wrapped up in these considerations is the agricultural situation in the United States. For example, eggs are surplus in the U.S. and Marshall-aid administrators may insist that Britain buy American eggs with American dollars.

Sterling devaluation is another problem which will enter the contracts picture. Expected to earn the U.K. more dollars in time—it now leaves Britain in the awkward position of having to pay 20 cents more for Canadian products at current prices.

Barn Saved From Fire While Tractor Burns

MILLBROOK, Oct. 3 (ENS)—Quick action by George Thorn, RR 2, Millbrook, saved his barn from burning when his tractor caught fire recently while standing in the barn. Mr. Thorn pulled the blazing tractor out of the barn in time to avoid a more serious fire. Damage, although considerable, was confined to the tractor. Edwin Thorn, had a badly burnt right hand as a result of fighting the fire.

Asks Barriers Lifted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (CP)—Representatives Charles A. Eaton (Rep.-N.J.), Canadian-born member of Congress, called on the United States government Saturday to remove barriers preventing Americans from investing in the securities of "the largest and best customer of the United States—Canada." In a letter to State Secretary Dean Acheson, he protested that the Securities and Exchange Commission, a government agency, is doing "everything it can" to block the sale of Canadian securities in the U.S.

Beat Up Thieves

KITCHENER, Oct. 3 (CP)—Residents of the hamlet of Conestoga, seven miles northwest of here, surprised five youths taking gasoline from a service station at 5 a.m. Sunday and gave them a thorough pummeling. One of the youths was badly beaten about the face and two escaped. The three taken into custody were Emerson Stricker, Clifford Preston and Douglas Preston. All gave a Kitchener address.

Says Crisis Unnecessary

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP)—Robert Schuman, France's foreign minister, said Saturday he was convinced that the crisis in the French cabinet in recent days "could and should have been avoided." Mr. Schuman, who served as Premier of France in 1947 and again for a short period last year, made the statement at a press conference. He is starting a three-day visit to Canada.

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—(CP)—Willie E. Williams, 35, was slain by his girl friend on a downtown street with the gun he offered her after argument, police reported. Christine Brown, 34, is being held for investigation of murder.

Mass Farmers' Tour

EDMONTON, Oct. 3.—(CP)—Forty-nine plane-loads of Montana flying farmers will fan out from here today to points in Saskatchewan, the Peace River district and Alaska, ending a mass aerial tour of Alberta that included stops at Lethbridge, Calgary and Edmonton.

MONTREAL, Oct. 3 (CP)—Mrs. Claire Lecompte, 35, Saturday was held criminally responsible by a coroner's jury for the death of Fernand Michaud, 28, of St. Hyacinthe, Que., as the result of an illegal operation.

A JOB REMEMBERED—These wrought-iron gates, dedicated in a ceremony at the RCAF station at Trenton, Ont., were presented to Canada by Commonwealth countries that participated in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Representatives of the British, Australian and New Zealand governments attended the dedication ceremonies.

Popular Singer Buddy Clark Killed When Plane Crashes

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3 (AP)—Popular singer Buddy Clark was killed Saturday night, and five others, including radio commentator Sam Hayes, were injured in a plane crash in a Los Angeles residential area.

Clark, 44, a favorite crooner for a decade or so, died at a police hospital, despite oxygen and transfusion efforts, about an hour after the crash. Death was caused by multiple skull fractures. The others were not believed critically hurt.

The crash came as the pilot of the chartered plane attempted a forced landing on Beverly Boulevard. The party was returning from the Stanford-Michigan football game at Palo Alto.

The injured were James L. Hayter, 27, the pilot, of Fresno, Cal.; Hayes' wife, Sally, 28, and two NBC executives, Frank Berend, 40, Beverly Hills, and Jennings Pierce, 52, North Hollywood.

Not A Sound

Hayes, 45-year-old west coast broadcaster for 20 years, said a minute and a half before the crash: "We all knew that this was it."

"We had been noisy and talkative all the way back from the game. But from the moment we knew we were going to crash up there was not a sound uttered. We were all too scared to speak."

Hayter said the plane was attempting to land at suburban Burbank because of a low supply of fuel when it ran into overcast. When it emerged, he said, he didn't know where he was. "I figured we were out of gas. I just picked a spot and set her down."

Wreckage was scattered over a 500-foot stretch of Beverly Boulevard. All hurt suffered cuts and bruises. Mrs. Hayes also received a broken ankle.

Clark, whose recordings and radio work during the last few years had boosted him into the higher income brackets, leaves a wife, the former model, Nedra Clark, and a daughter, Penny, 6. By a previous marriage to singer Louise Hughes, he had two children, Thomas, 11 and Katherine, 6.

Union Holds Fumes' Inquiry

PORT COLBORNE, Oct. 3 (CP)—An investigation into refinery workers' illness blamed on gas fumes at the International Nickel Company plant here was made during the week-end for the International Union of Mine Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO).

The investigator, Dr. Vernon Owen of Toronto, an independent consultant, told the union that he found everything possible being done to protect workers at the plant and to assist workmen in hospital.

A provincial investigation started a week ago following the death of Frank Gullieu, 59, from what doctors said was bronchial pneumonia. Nine others were taken to hospital but all except five have since been discharged.

Denounces Policy

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—(CP)—E. E. Adcock, Detroit director of Immigration and Naturalization, said a "red-tainted" organization had denounced his policies when it met recently in Chicago. He identified the organization as the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (CIO). Adcock's surprise transfer to Baltimore effective Nov. 14 was revealed on the weekend.

Kills Wife, Man

BREMERTON, Wash., Oct. 3.—(AP)—A 27-year-old father of three children told police he killed his wife and another man Sunday in a shower of bullets. The husband, Willie Joe Dunn, was booked for investigation of murder. Police found the bodies of Mrs. Ruby Dunn, 26, and James Dickens, 22.

Movie Column

Powells Star In Second Movie Production

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3 (AP)—Five years ago a wavy-haired crooner, slightly on the down-grade, starred in a hapless musical hash called "Meet The People." Playing a bit in the film was a winsome and hopeful young blonde from Broadway.

The crooner soon after traded his megaphone for a gat and blazed a new career as a private eye. The blonde struggled to stardom.

The pair now co-star in "The Reformer and the Redhead." Even the dullest-witted film fan can tell you their names are Dick Powell and June Allyson. They are also Mr. and Mrs., as if you didn't know.

Their marriage has been remarkably smooth for such Hollywood unions, and it's possible that this picture will be the acid test. I visited them on their first day of work together and found them disgustingly happy.

"She's a doll," glowed Powell, looking like a college senior in his crew cut.

"He's wonderful," cooed Allyson, her squinty smile lighting up the sound stage.

Mrs. Powell's reaction to working with her husband was unique: "You know, once I get into the scene and the camera starts rolling, it's just as though he were any other actor."

Capsule Review

"The Red Danube" (MGM) concerns an English colonel who slowly realizes the Russians intend ill toward their refugees he helps to repatriate in Vienna. Walter Pidgeon is the army man who finally brings about reforms in the United Nations and the British army. Ethel Barrymore, Peter Lawford, Janet Leigh and Angela Lansbury, also figure in the film, which is sometimes soggy but interesting in a ponderous way. The many loose ends are tied up neatly.

It's Good News

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—They caught 40-year-old Bob Mahoney dancing with a hospital nurse — and that news may make 7,000,000 arthritis-sufferers feel like dancing, too. Because Bob says he came into Massachusetts General Hospital on crutches and they found him doing his dance less than 12 days after treatment with a new medical discovery—cortisone.

More schooling today means more success TOMORROW!

An Urgent Message...

IT IS OUR BELIEF that a serious problem is gravely affecting the efficiency of many Canadian businesses, and the prosperity and happiness of the men and women who staff them.

THE PROBLEM?

A perilous shortage of adequately trained office help—chiefly typists and stenographers!

It's a fact that many thousands of teen-agers are annually finding employment in offices. But... it's also a fact that only a very small minority possesses even the basic training in typing, stenography and general office routine essential for a proper start.

THE REASON?

Far too many boys and girls—the overwhelming majority, in fact—are leaving Business Schools too early. Lured by the thoughts of "easy money", they are embarking on their careers deprived of the proficiency and confidence gained only by staying at school long enough to graduate with recognized standards. Too early departure from school cheats them of normal advancement and the greater earning power that goes with it.

Each precious month of Business schooling curtailed can and does have gravely far-reaching consequences. Under the test of actual work at an office desk, a skimpy, "unfinished" training in typing or stenography soon reveals itself. While the half-trained typist gropes to attain accuracy and confidence, his or her adequately trained colleague does more work and better work—thus is automatically marked for promotion!

For these reasons parents are urged to remind their sons and daughters that only by staying at school until they have obtained the complete and adequate training prescribed, can they get ahead as they hope—today or in the future. That last month or two of schooling purposely designed to eliminate "rough spots"... build self-confidence... will save years of disappointment and frustration later!

Canadians Get Chance To Learn Investment Story

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor—Canada is and will be for some time to come—unless all signs fail—about the best place in the world into which to put your money.

The question is: Will the average Canadian get his money into it and share in the profits which will come from its expansion?

The average person probably feels he knows little about how to do this. And he needs to know: else he is going to lose opportunities, or get taken in by some one trying to turn a fast dollar.

Well, he is going to get a chance to learn. He is going to get a chance because money now is more widely distributed than it used to be, and the sums he has cashed away or can get together are needed by the expanding business and industry of the country.

Investment men state there now are 827,000 Canadians with bank balances of more than $1,000, about four times as many as in 1939.

Various companies and organizations across the country have already arranged lecture programs for this year.

A course being given by the University of Toronto in co-operation with education committee of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada, illustrates the range of topics discussed. They include:

How the Stock Market Functions; The Difference Between Bonds, Preferred Stocks and Common Stocks; How to Understand a Balance Sheet; The Effect of Changes in Business Prosperity on Stock Market Prices, and Dangers to be Avoided in Speculation.

Low-Calorie Dinner

Broiled Sea Trout Steaks (4 oz. 150 cal.) (see notes); Lemon (juice from ¼-10 cal.); Fresh Succotash (Green Limas and Fresh Cut Kernel Corn—4 oz. with butter 100 cal.); Broiled Tomato Halves (2 50 cal.); Assorted Grapes (3 small bunches 150 cal.); Clear Coffee (0 cal.)

High Calorie Dinner

Baked Stuffed Sea Trout or Pacific Salmon; Special Baked Fish Sauce (see note); Vegetable Marrow with Parsley Butter; Cabbage and Tomato Slaw; Apfel Kuchen; Coffee.

One-Burner Dinner

Pork Chop Suey with Rice (see notes); Sliced Peaches; Almond Cookies; Coffee.

Directions:

Pacific Sea Trout or salmon is in season this month and it is similar to pink salmon and to lake trout. It is delicious baked stuffed, and if you are a fish enthusiast you should try this delicacy once per year. The "slimmers" should buy steaks and broil them.

The Stuffing for Baked Sea Trout that I want you to try is quite different: for a 3½-lb. fish mix 3 cups fresh breadcrumbs or 1 cup stale fine crumbs and 1 cup ½-inch bread cubes from fresh bread together and add 1-3 to ½ cup melted bacon fat, ½ dill pickle diced finely, ¼ teaspoon thyme, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ to ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon each finely chopped parsley and chives. Wash the dressed fish, cut off fins, remove back bone without breaking off any of the bones if possible, and wash the washed fins and backbone in water to cover until 400 deg. Fahr. for about ½ hour. To test slit thickest part of fish with tip of paring knife to see if it is baked to centre. Lift to hot platter on parchment paper, to which bottom skin will cling. Garnish with tomato wedges and watercress.

To finish sauce mix 2 tablespoons flour with salad oil or melted butter. Stir into this the stock from boiling the fish bones. (Pick out the bones but leave in the bits of fish.) Stir until thick, then pour over 1 beaten egg yolk and add parsley, chives and finely chopped pimiento and salt and pepper and lemon juice to taste.

Pork Chop Suey: Cut into 1-inch fine strips 1 cup fresh raw pork, peel and cut 1 small onion in thin slices, add both to 2 tablespoons salad oil and stir and cook for 5 minutes; add 1 cup celery cut in thin diagonal slices and 2 cups chicken or veal stock or water and simmer until celery is about ¾ tender. Drain 1 can chop suey vegetables and add with ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and 1 teaspoon to 3 tablespoons soy sauce.

Geneva Holmes Weds Rod Armstrong

A lovely autumn wedding was solemnized in St. James' United Church Saturday when Geneva Ferne, daughter of Mrs. Fred Holmes and the late Mr. Holmes of Madoc, was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert Roderick Armstrong, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Armstrong of Millbrook.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. W. Craik in a setting of gladioli and fern. Mrs. C. Renaud was at the organ and Mrs. L. McLaren sang the Lord's Prayer at the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Mr. Lynn Holmes of Madoc and she wore an ivory satin gown with slight train and long pointed sleeves, featuring an inset yoke of net. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses. Her bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy Newnham who was frocked in pale green taffeta with matching headpiece and carried an old-fashioned nosegay.

Mr. Gordon Paige attended the groom and ushers were Verle Bronson and Victor Doughty.

A reception followed at the Club Aragon where the bride's mother assisted to receive, wearing a dress of navy crepe with pink trim and matching hat and her corsage was of pink roses. Also receiving was the groom's sister, Miss Margaret Armstrong of Millbrook, who wore a navy ensemble and corsage of red roses.

For travelling the bride chose a suit of hunter's green gabardine and black hat and accessories and her going-away corsage was of yellow roses. The couple left by plane for a honeymoon in New York and on return will live in Peterborough.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Illegitimate Child Bears Stepfather's Jealous Wrath

DEAR MISS DIX: My son married a girl a distance from home whom he met in quite the correct way, and who seemed to be of exceptionally good taste and unusually good character. Since then I have had authentic information that this woman's past life forfeits her right to marry an honorable man. My son is ignorant of this. So is my wife, and I think it would kill her to know it. Shall I let my son go on in ignorance and build a home without him or his wife knowing that I know about her past, or shall I tell my son? Where is my duty?

Dorothy Dix
knowing that I know about her past, or shall I tell my son? Where is my duty?

DISTRACTED FATHER
ANSWER: If you had known before your son's marriage about the woman's past life, it would certainly have been your duty to tell him, but now that the marriage is an accomplished fact, it is not so clear what line of conduct is best for you to take.

If you reveal your knowledge to your son, you will wreck his home. It will be a terrible shock to find out that the woman he trusted has lied to him and bedded him. It would take a man of exceptionally strong character not to have his whole life warped by such an experience.

Her Character

It seems to me that the only thing that you can have to guide you in this case is the woman's character. If you feel sure that she means to go straight in the future, you may well keep silence and give her her chance. If you believe that she has repented of her sins, you may forgive them and try to blot them out of your memory.

But if you feel that she is an adventuress who has married your son for a home and position in society, or if she is a weakling without principle or honor, who has not the strength in her to resist temptation to run straight, then you will do well to warn your son before there are any children, because such a woman is not fit to be a mother.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What is the best method of pursue in order to make my spoiled, selfish and self-centred girl friend give me some consideration once in a while? I have catered to her in every way ever since we met, but a fellow surely gets tired of being a slave and a doormat for a girl, even though he loves her. Can you suggest a way to make her give me a break now and then? I would be satisfied with the small end, say 10 per cent out of a hundred.

A PERPLEXED BOY.

ANSWER: There is no way in the world of ever changing a selfish, self-centred woman. You've got your warning, and if you marry her you will have brought your misery on yourself. She will always look upon you as a servant-to-wait on her, a slave to toil for her and escort to take her out when she wants to go a-partying.

SKI FASHION. This original ski suit in cherry all-wool gabardine worn with black Scotch grain ski boots with Swiss leather cuffs, will be a top-notch "up-north" this winter.

And you will get no thanks for what you do for her but bitter reproaches when you fail to supply all the money she needs. And as you say, after a while a man gets mighty tired of giving all and getting nothing back in return.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a child born out of wedlock. I married a man who was kind to the child before we married and promised to give it a home and a name, but now he refuses to do this. We have two children born of this marriage and my husband has a fine position and we have a nice home and every comfort. I love all of my children dearly. What must I do?

BROKEN-HEARTED MOTHER.

ANSWER: The best thing you can do is to try to get somebody to adopt your eldest child, or else board her out somewhere. To bring her up with a cruel stepfather in a home where she is not wanted, will embitter her whole life. Your other two children have as much claim on you as she has and they are younger and need you more.

But poor little Cinderella, how pitiful she is. And how hard must be the heart of the man who can so punish a helpless little child for a calamity that was not of its making.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: You mentioned stuffed green peppers in one of your menus and I either missed the recipe or lost it. Would you mind repeating this? Cora H.

ANSWER: I like this dish during September and October for it is such a flavoursome way of using up leftover meat.

Stuffed Green Pepper

Sweet pimientos may be used for this too—in fact they are even better. Cut stem portion of pepper away and cut out seeds and ribs; wash out and drain. Fill with mixture of half cooked rice or breadcrumbs and half chopped meat seasoned with 1 teaspoon grated onion, ½ to 1 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, 1 tablespoon melted butter or bacon fat. Place in pan standing on their bottoms if possible and add a little hot water. Bake until the pepper is tender enough to cut easily with knife. These are sometimes served with a tomato sauce, and it is good.

QUESTION: My husband is a professional man and comes home for lunch every day. He is not a hearty eater and has asked me to serve him a salad for his lunch. Now I think I am a pretty good cook but I run out of ideas on this salad diet. Could you suggest a few new ones I could try—nice to look at too. Thanks for other help you have given me in the past. Doctor's wife.

ANSWER: I have two or three ideas that will help you to enlarge your salad repertoire—each one of the ones I give you can be varied.

Scrambled Egg Salad

Fill scooped out and salted fresh tomatoes with freshly scrambled eggs, let cool, then chill. Top with Mayonnaise. Serve surrounded with wedges of iceberg lettuce, garnished with stuffed or ripe olives.

Variations: Stuff tomatoes with eggs scrambled with bacon; or stuff with cottage cheese mixed with chopped almonds and chives and mayonnaise; or stuff with chicken mixed with celery and mayonnaise; or stuff with canned shrimps or lobster mixed with lettuce hearts or celery or fresh cooked green peas.

Jellied Cheese Salad

blespoons cold water, ½ cup hot water, ¼ cup grated cheese, ½ cup cream whipped, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper. Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes, then dissolve in over hot water. Mix remaining ingredients using only ½ cup of the cheese. Add gelatine, pour into mould and let begin to set; sift remaining cheese on. Chill. This may be moulded in individual moulds or in square mould and sliced from, for different salads on succeeding days.

Serve this with half fresh pear or canned pear and half banana dipped in chopped nuts. Mayonnaise.

Variations: This cheese salad is good with additions of drained canned pineapple (do not use fresh pineapple or it will not jell) or add chopped olives—green or ripe, or shredded almonds. I have suggested proteins for I believe lunches and suppers for everyone should contain meat or eggs or fish or cheese or nuts. Write again when these ideas become monotonous.

Boys' Town Choir Entertains Mr. and Mrs. Club

The Mr. and Mrs. Club of St. James' United Church resumed monthly meetings on Friday. The meeting was to have been in the form of a weiner roast at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Naish at Chemong, but due to uncertain weather it was held in the church basement.

Leslie McLaren as chairman, opened the meeting with the singing of a hymn, followed by the Lord's prayer, and a short business period.

Mr. Walter Bent, supervisor of the Optimist Club's "Boys' Town" was introduced by Walter Murphy. With him were 12 boys, members of the "Boys' Town" choir.

Mr. Bent outlined the work being done at this new centre, and introduced the boys, who entertained with solos, group singing husband by remembering that the way to his heart was through his stomach.

The high point of the story was the beatific expressions that spread over his face when he tasted her puffy cheese balls that she served with some kind of a pineapple salad.

That night he proposed. (Imagine getting a man to pop the question by means of anything having to do with a salad.)

Gals—do you have to catch a man? Here is how our heroine did it.

Puffy Cheese Balls

(Yield 25 1-inch cheese balls.) Sift together ¼ cup bread flour, ¼ teaspoon each paprika and cayenne pepper, 1½ teaspoons salt. Add 1 lb. grated mild or medium old cheddar cheese. Fold into this ½ cup stiffly beaten egg whites. Form this into one inch balls. Dip each in 1 egg which has been slightly beaten and diluted with 1 tablespoon water; then dip into a mixture of 1-3 cup fine dry breadcrumbs mixed with 1-3 cup finely chopped almonds. Drop into deep hot fat at 375 deg. Fahr. until golden brown. Drain on unglazed paper. Then go into your act!

Townships Plan Co-operation To Fight Fires

OMEMEE, Oct. 3 (ENS)—Friday evening saw a demonstration of the new fire equipment purchased by the village of Omemee at a cost of $8,225. To go with this equipment there is 2,000 feet of hose and purchase of a $425 auxiliary pump is being considered.

The force and extent of the hose spray was demonstrated from the mill bridge by Chief W. R. Stevens and volunteer firemen, Captain W. Fisher, Lieutenant L. A. Williamson, H. Fisher and H. Bannon. Its right-fighting ability was tested in a field south of the village where it rapidly brought under control and extinguished a blaze in a huge pile of oil soaked rubbish.

After the demonstration Reeve H. Deyell conducted a public meeting in Coronation Hall where brief speeches were heard by Fire Chief George Smith of Peterborough, Mr. Lowe, representative from the Fire Marshal's Department, Toronto; Mr. Bruce McNevin, former M.P., Chief Allan Clark, Lakefield; V. Fee, Reeve of Emily township; Ops township, Reeve W. Reeds, the village councilmen, C. G. Shaw, H. Jones, G. Stephenson, and W. Mitchell and Omemee's Fire Chief, W. R. Stevens.

Chief Smith and Chief Clark both offered their assistance in the instruction of the new fire brigade and Mr. Lowe announced that travelling instructors were available from his department. He said a fire fighting college would open in 1950 where applicants would be taught at the expense of the Department.

Congratulate Council

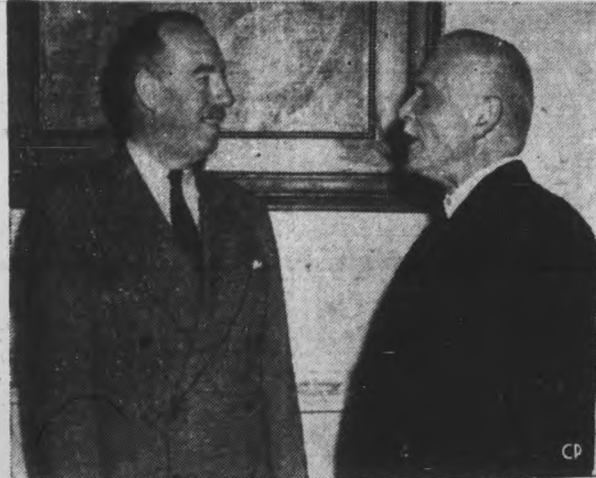

Mr. McNevin congratulated the council on its initiative in procuring a modern, up to date equipment and spoke in favor of the council's plan to co-operate with the neighboring townships. Reeves Fee and Reeds were also in accord. Mr. Shaw stated that he was wholeheartedly behind any co-operative plan of protection in view of the fact that their equipment, with its 500 gallon tank was especially suited for rural fire fighting. He expressed gratitude for the offers of help from the neighboring fire departments. Councilors Jones, Stephenson and Mitchell voiced the same sentiments. Chief Stevens said that Fire Chief McNeilly of North York had already given one evening's instruction to his brigade and that the Fire Marshal's office would send a man to give instructions on fire prevention.

The use of the auxiliary pump was explained by Mr. John Sobeski.

Each Pay $5

The meeting was thrown open for discussion. In answer to questions about terms of co-operation, Reeve Deyell read the agreement between the village and the Emily Council which said that each township property holder by paying $5 a year for 15 years, was entitled to the services of the fire engine and brigade without further obligation. The money is to be collected by the township clerk and paid to the village clerk. There is a similar agreement with Ops township.

Members of Omemee Volunteer Fire Brigade are: Chief W. R. Stevens, Assistant Chief and Engineer, Wm. Kingsboro; Captain, Wm. Fisher; Lieutenant, L. A. Williamson and firemen H. Fisher, H. Bannon, Wilfred Whitney, John Magee, Charles Shaw, Brackley Shaw, Thaxter Shaw, Garnet Mitchell, Norman Graham, Grant Brown, David Eggleston and H. V. Northey.

Cost-Of-Living Index Reached

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP)—The trend of Canadian prices during August will be disclosed Tuesday when the government's monthly cost-of-living index is announced. The government's computations may show that prices went a little higher than the July all-time peak, or even a little lower. However, whatever change is noted won't be because of recent currency cuts. Sterling and dollar devaluations were still a matter of conjecture in the hot August days.

Fruits and vegetables were slightly down in price but meat prices still were buoyant and so were a variety of other goods which housewives buy and which have a direct impact on the price barometer.

Sterling and dollar devaluation arrived with electrifying rapidity in mid-September and thereby will have some impact when the September index is published early in November—even then, since only part of the month saw devaluation, the impact is expected to be only slight.

The housewife and the Canadian buyer generally likely will be able to measure the full benefits or ill-effects of the currency cuts for the first time when the October index comes out early in December.

Mission Work Mothers' Concern

OMEMEE, Oct. 3 (ENS)—The Baby Band of Trinity United Church and their mothers were guests of the Women's Missionary Society Thursday afternoon. In charge was Mrs. H. Deyell, Baby Band superintendent.

Mrs. S. Moyer welcomed the guests and the mothers were addressed by Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, pastor of the church.

He pointed out that mothers should be the people most interested in missions, since the results of missionary teaching would determine the kind of world in which their children would have to live. The WMS, he said, was the church group best informed on missionary achievement and, because they had a vision of the importance of missions, provided a gradual growth in missionary knowledge and zeal, beginning with the Baby Band and continuing through the Mission

Lock Works And Union Go To Conciliation

Negotiations between the Peterborough Lock Mfg. Co., Ltd., and local 527 (UE-CIO) will be carried on with the assistance of a conciliation officer and necessary with a conciliation board. This will be following the procedure as outlined in the Ontario Labor Relations Act, 1948.

There are several points on which assistance might be required, such as rates of pay which now range from 93c to $1.45 per hour, hours of work, union security and vacations with pay.

The company offered a written guarantee to the union that the old contract which expired on September 30th, 1949, would continue in effect until the new contract is agreed upon.

Demonstrates Care Of Bulbs

OMEMEE, Oct. 3 (ENS)—Potting and garden planting of bulbs was the subject of interest at the September meeting of the Omemee and District Horticultural Society.

The secretary read a letter of thanks from Miss I. Clement for a book on horticulture which she received from the society on the occasion of her moving from the locality.

On the suggestion of Mr. W. Evans, an emblem of identification for members was discussed but left over for further consideration. On the recommendations of Mrs. H. Hill and W. Wilson it was decided to make application for an award of merit to be given the person whom the directors think most worthy.

Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt's and W. Evans' proposed that the annual pot-luck supper be held in November in the Anglican Church Sunday School room was carried.

Mr. Zufelt then began his demonstrations on potting bulbs, dealing with consistency of soil, planting methods and duration of storing, and gradual bringing to the light. He also gave hints on the planting of bulbs in the garden.

He showed some colored pictures on the screen which had been taken in his own garden and greenhouse and some in the garden of Mr. E. A. Cornell, R.R. 3, Omemee.

Luncheon was held in the main lodge and was enjoyed by the large audience. A special meeting was held at the close of the congress by the executive of the Peterborough Chapter and plans made for the fall meetings.

Crops Hit Hardest In Hurricane

Say Damage Light In Texas Cities; One Person Missing

HOUSTON, Oct. 4.—(AP)—A hurricane which came screeching out of the Gulf smashed into this Texas metropolis early today and surprised everyone by doing little damage.

A few plate-glass windows were broken as the wind swept in behind torrential rains which flooded streets and underpasses. One person was reported missing.

An exact estimate of total damage was impossible until further checks could be made. But it appeared heaviest damage was to rice and cotton, and that the coast's vast and sprawling industry was unhurt.

Galveston, island resort city about 50 miles southeast of here, caught the edge of the storm. But its high seawalls saved it from great damage.

100 M.P.H. Gale

The New Orleans weather bureau in a 6 a.m. EDT advisory said that winds should diminish as the hurricane moved inland. But within 25 miles of the centre of the hurricane they raged at a speed of 100 miles an hour.

Hurricane warnings may have cheated the big winds of human casualties.

Most towns in its path were hit, but many residents had fled to inland cities. Five thousand persons sought shelter in Houston's city auditorium and Sam Houston Coliseum.

Freeport, Galveston, Texas City, Angleton, Alvin and many other smaller towns were in the hurricane's path as it roared in from the Gulf of Mexico toward Houston.

The big winds sent a litter of debris flying into numerous towns and villages. They ripped up small trees, unroofed some flimsy structures and blasted a rich, ripe rice crop.

Seeking Uniform Time Schedule

BRANTFORD, Oct. 4 (CP)—City council Monday night adopted a resolution proposing that definite regulations regarding a uniform country-wide observance of Daylight Saving Time be observed to end the "confusion" caused by the variance of time in many municipalities.

The resolution suggested that the matter be discussed at the proposed Dominion-Provincial conference and that the matter of a "uniform country-wide system of daylight saving time be considered and some definite regulations be decided upon."

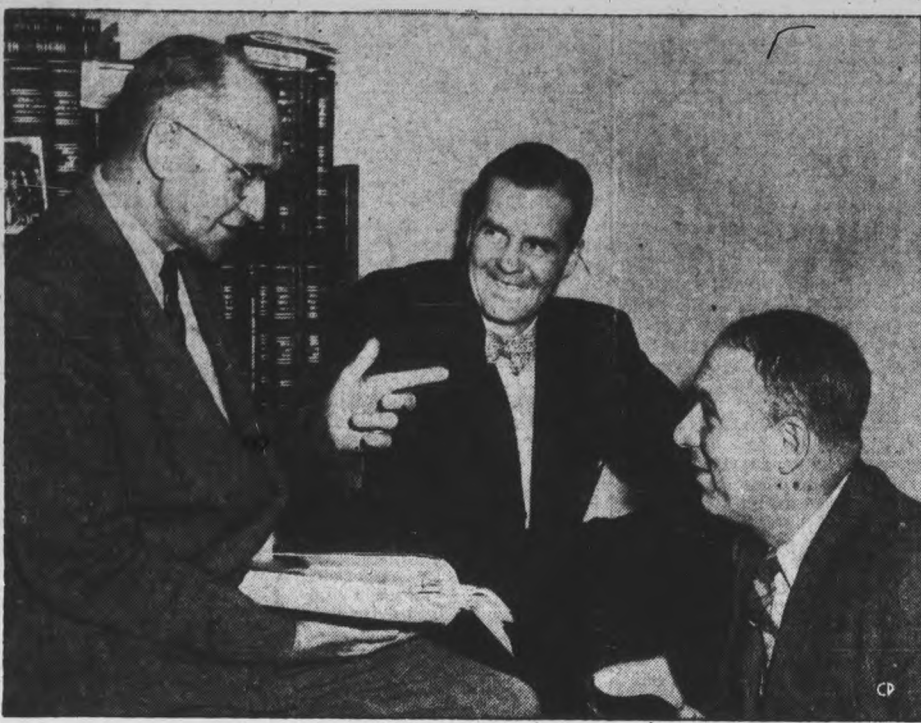

The resolution noted that adoption of Daylight Saving Time in some centres and the retention by others of Standard Time caused "considerable confusion to the business and home life of many of our citizens" and that regulations governing time should be controlled by the Federal government in co-operation with the provincial governments.

Czechs On Band Wagon Break Pact With Tito

PRAGUE, Oct. 4 (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist government scrapped its friendship pact with Yugoslavia today and demanded that the Yugoslav ambassador to Prague be recalled immediately. There was no immediate indication that the demand for the recall of Yugoslav ambassador Marjan Stilianovic meant a final break in steadily worsening diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Previously Russia, Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania had denounced their friendship and mutual aid treaties with Tito but they had stopped short of breaking diplomatic ties.

The Yugoslav-Czechoslovakian pact was signed in Belgrade in 1946 two years before the Russian-led Cominform (Communist International Information Bureau) expelled Yugoslavia for balking at Moscow dictation over internal policies.

Gunfire Breaks Brief Calm At Mine Fields

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4 (AP)—Gunfire and death broke the brief calm in the strife-torn mine fields as the twin strikes of 900,000 United States steel and coal workers ground on today at a staggering cost of more than $30,000,000 a day.

Violence flared in Tennessee. A Virginia miner was killed in a rock fall. Pickets wrecked machinery at a Pennsylvania bituminous pit.

The economy of the United States staggered and creaked in the wake of the two-pronged crippling shutdown.

John L. Lewis' 400,000 soft-coal diggers have been strike-bound since Sept. 19. That's 16 payless days.

And 500,000 of Philip Murray's CIO Steelworkers last Saturday struck 95 per cent of the country's steel mills and iron-ore mines.

Pensions are involved in both disputes.

Violence broke out anew on Monday. Matt Bunch, United Mine Workers international representative, said 20 union miners on a "peaceful mission" were ambushed at Pikeville, Tenn., by non-union miners. Three men were shot, one severely. Two others were missing. No arrests were made.

Bunch said between 75 and 100 shots were fired by men hiding behind bushes as the UMW miners walked up a small path toward a non-union mine.

At Grundy Va., Johnnie Compton, 23, was killed in a rock fall that buried the truck in which he was hauling non-union mined coal. An employee of a strike-bound mine was questioned several hours, then freed.

Airborne Fish Poachers Said Operating In North

KIRKLAND LAKE, Oct. 4 (CP)—T. H. Fowke, chief game warden for the Temiskaming area, said Monday there is strong suspicion that an airborne fish poaching rink is operating in the small lakes surrounding Kirkland Lake.

He said his department has received several reports of a plane or planes landing and taking off on small lakes in the vicinity. His department has been investigating but so far has not discovered concrete evidence.

Monday's report stems from a message received by game wardens last Thursday that an airplane showing no lights took off from a small lake near Gowganda, 40 miles south-west of here, and flew over a summer resort. The report said the plane flew

Pulp, Paper Mill Ordered To Stop Polluting River

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today ruled that the K.V.P. Paper Company of Espanola, Ont., must stop polluting the Spanish river, but gave it six months to effect. The company had appealed from an injunction issued by a lower court, restraining it from depositing waste materials from its pulp and paper plant into the Spanish river. Today's judgment dismissed the appeal with costs but varied the injunction to stay its operation for a six-month period.

Action was brought against the company more than a year ago by several land owners of land bordering on the stretches of the river below Espanola. Farmers and operators of tourist camps, they claimed the company had, since opening the plant in May, 1946, polluted the river by discharging poisonous substances from its mill.

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario High Court granted the landowners damages and issued an injunction restraining the company from depositing into the river any waste substances which altered the quality of the water.

The mill is the only industry in Espanola and the company claimed that its continued operation was "essential to the economic existence not only of the town but of the whole adjacent area."

The company said it had invested a total of more than $13,000,000 in the plant, employed approximately 1,500 persons, and had monthly payrolls of some $450,000 a month.

US To Double A-Bombs Arms Race Developing

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 4.—(AP)—President Truman will ask Congress to double the United States atom bomb production program as an answer to Russia's possession of that weapon, the Nashville Tennessean report today.

Truman, at the request of the United States Atomic Energy Commission will ask for emergency funds before Congress adjourns, the paper says in a copy-righted Washington dispatch.

The AEC has been working on plans for a tremendous expansion in bomb production for the last six months, according to the article in the Tennessean, and now feels that the urgency of the arms race with Russia demands immediate action.

Reds Suggest UN Meet In Russia

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(CP)—The New York Times says today Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia has suggested that the Soviet Union play host to the United Nations General Assembly in 1953.

The Times says the suggestion was made at a dinner Friday at Soviet delegation headquarters here, after Brig.-Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, president of the current session, had asked Vishinsky whether the 1950 Assembly could convene in Moscow.

Vishinsky pondered a moment, the Times says, then suggested 1955.

Breaks Record But Unofficially

PICTON, Oct. 4 (CP)—Harold Wilson's hard luck was still holding out on the fourth and perhaps final day of his bid to crack the world's speedboat record with his Miss Canada IV.

The elements—an early morning rain followed by a stiff southeast wind and choppy, white-capped water—may keep the craft at its dock mooring throughout the afternoon. There is a possibility local speedboat officials may ask the American Powerboat Association for a 24-hour extension but this request will not be made until at least sundown.

If the weather clears meantime and the sharp-nosed craft makes an official run the "reprieve" may not be necessary. But chances of the Ingersoll, Ont., driver taking over the controls of his boat grew dimmer as time passed.

In one run Monday, the 37-year-old Wilson from Ingersoll, Ont., sent his big boat roaring over the measured mile at 142.2 miles an hour. The 10-year-old record set by Sir Malcolm Campbell is 141.7. Wilson didn't break the record officially because he failed to race the second lap within twenty minutes, under regulations of the American Speedboat Association.

After that glowing one-way run there were hours of uncertainty until it was announced by Association officials that Wilson would be permitted another try today within the rigid Association rules governing such competition. He must cover a one-mile course twice, with the elapsed times charting success or failure of his attempt.

Found Crowd Rowdy Before Fire

Witness Complained To Asst. Purser About Fire Danger

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP)—Capt. William Taylor of Sarnia, master of the steamer Noronic, took the witness stand today before a Federal inquiry into the disastrous fire which swept through his ship with the loss of at least 130 lives.

The grey-haired, 66-year-old captain said he was unable to produce his captain's certificate for it was lost in the fire. Earlier the court heard S. J. Orth, a survivor from Detroit, testify he had complained of hilarity and late merry-making on the ship prior to the fire.

Orth, an insurance agent, said parties aboard the Noronic went on until as late as 2.30 with some passengers more hilarious than others.

He said he, his wife and two other members of his family boarded the ship at Detroit Sept. 14. All occupied cabins on C deck where the holocaust is believed to have broken out.

Orth said the behaviour of passengers from the time his party got on was typically that of an excursion crowd. "There was some hilarity aboard. In the ordinary sense the behaviour was quite satisfactory."

"Does that apply to all passengers?" asked J. M. Godfrey, assistant commission counsel.

"Yes and no," Orth replied. "Some were bent on having fun and they continued until the night of the fire."

"Following the first night out, sometime Thursday morning I had a talk with the assistant to the purser and asked him if the ship maintained some sort of a cabin watch whereby comfort and rest of the passengers would be considered after a certain time of the night."

"I mentioned in particular that the previous night there was fun-making and dancing on the carpet of the corridor of this deck... men and women with lighted cigarettes in their hands... I was concerned about the danger of mixing cigarettes and alcohol at that hour of the morning."

Orth said he asked whether any effort was made to control that sort of thing and whether any regular cabin watch was maintained.

Crash Kills Youth

OAKVILLE, Oct. 4.—(CP).—Harold Luscher, 22, of nearby Port Credit was killed today when the automobile in which he was riding skidded off the highway and struck four trees. Katherine Boyer, 15, also in the car, was not injured. Police said it was believed the girl was driving the automobile.

CCL Demands Labor Code For All Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP)—A National labor code covering all workers was demanded today by the Canadian Congress of Labor. A resolution adopted at the CCL's annual convention declared the present set-up of provincial codes "conflicts in many ways with the right of workers to organize."

It added the system has too many technicalities that are "translated in favor of unscrupulous employers."

(The Federal code now covers only certain industries such as railways, communications and shipping.)

The resolution asked the CCL executive to continue to exert every effort to get a code covering every worker.

Elroy Robson, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees in Ottawa, criticized Melvin Shipman of the United Electrical Workers in Montreal for "insulting" the executive was not "doing a job" to get a better code.

"If 'some' CCL unions had not attempted to block Congress political action, he said, the CCL now would be able to exert more pressure on governments."

(The CCL officially has endorsed the CCF as the political arm of labor. The Electrical Union opposed this political tactic.)

Steel, Meatpacking

Murray Cotterill, CCL political action director declared the Canadian government at least should bring under its code immediately the steel and meatpacking industries.

He declared there was only one way to force the government to do anything about the code. That was to "scare them into action."

Fred Dowling, national director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, said the labor relations packinghouse industry now were hampered by divided jurisdictions.

"It is a very deplorable situation," he said. He thought most of the packing companies favored national bargaining for the industry. Perhaps the only exception was the Swift Company.

CCL Refuses To Take Back 5 Erring UEW Leaders Suspension Upheld 10 to 1

C. S. Jackson Makes a 4,000-Word Reply Shouting Not Guilty Pleas; Executive Warns Union Heads Change Ways

By JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Communist party-liners in the Canadian Congress of Labor were thrown for a sharp loss Monday when the CCL convention refused decisively to reinstate five suspended officers of the left-wing United Electrical Workers of America. A 10-to-1 majority of shouting delegates beat off an attempt at reseating national director Clarence S. Jackson and four UEW colleagues who had been suspended by the congress executive last spring for a "slandering" attack on the Ontario Federation of Labor.

It was the first clash of the newly opened convention and it established without doubt that the anti-Red congress executive is firmly in the saddle. It also made it evident that the executive's International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers—to propose expulsion of the leftist came up later at the convention—will go through without trouble.

The UEW, fourth biggest union in the congress, with some 34,000 members, is now left without representation on the executive council of the CCL, its governing body between conventions.

The body of the union itself is not barred from Congress deliberations—it has a strong delegation at this convention—but the banned group will not be able to take part in congress activities until the suspension is lifted.

Subject To Review

The suspensions are subject to review at any time and the five could be readmitted if they would go along with CCL policy. It was indicated the electrical union could have representation on the council any time it chose to put up an acceptable candidate.

The battle over banning the electrical officers was short but intense with UEW spokesmen charging the executive with stifling freedom of speech in unions and the executive countering with claims that the UEW officers were trying to put over the policies of the Communist party of Canada.

For 60 minutes, Mr. Jackson and UEW Secretary-Treasurer George Harris—another of those suspended—shouted their "not guilty" pleas and counter-charges into a microphone before a convention coldly silent except for scattered applause from their supporters.

Then the executive brigade did a clean-up job, with Secretary-Treasurer Pat Conroy spearheading a leather-jungled trio that included C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steel Workers of America, and Sam Baron, Canadian chief of the Textile Workers' Union of America.

Bitter Attack

It was Baron, a consistent target for left-wing attacks, who accused the suspended five of a "cold, cruel and calculated attempt to destroy every Congress Labor leader who stood in the way of the program of the Communist Party of Canada."

After "turning the other cheek" for years, he said, the CCL was through with their kind of tactics.

Work, Not Slump Way Out Of Crisis—Bevin

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP).—Foreign Secretary Bevin said today Russia's assumption that the West's economy must inevitably collapse will eventually "be her own undoing."

"This assumption," he told a press conference, "argues that the West never learns anything... I don't think we are going to have slumps inevitably arising."

"We are not going to rely on the creation of unemployment and misery in order to adjust our economic system in crisis," he said. "Our basis shall be to work, not to starve, our way out of crisis."

US Navy Morale Low—Brass Congress To Investigate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—A thorough Congressional investigation was promised today of complaints by high level officers that morale in the United States navy is at a low ebb with resulting peril to the country's security.

The navy complaints were contained in typed copies of papers signed with the names of Admiral Louis Denfeld, chief of US naval operations; Vice-Admiral Gerald F. Bogan, commander of the first Pacific Task fleet, and Admiral A. W. Radford, commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet.

Vinson noted that they were not official documents officially released and said, too, that there was a possibility that propaganda on behalf of the US Navy might have been the "motive" behind their publication.

In speaking of such a possible purpose Vinson was referring to navy complaints, some made public and some otherwise that the US navy is getting a bad deal out of the "unification" of the army, navy and air force.

The gist of the documents was this:

1. A statement by Denfeld that a "navy stripped of its offensive power means a nation stripped of its offensive power."
2. An assertion by Bogan that "almost to dependency" because of belief that the United States is being sold "a false bill of goods."
3. A statement by Radford that most Pacific fleet officers concur in Bogan's and Captain John G. Crogg's views.

Guay Insured Wife's Life Just Before Trip

QUEBEC, Oct. 4.—(CP).—An airline office attendant testified today that J. Albert Guay bought a $10,000 insurance policy on the life of his wife three days before she was killed with 22 others in a plane crash Sept. 9.

The witness was dark-haired, petite Lucille Levesque, employee of Canadian Pacific Airlines, who appeared as a witness at Guay's preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering his wife.

Guay is alleged to have arranged for a time bomb to be planted aboard the plane. The Crown maintains the explosion occurred about 40 miles east of Quebec, sending the plane crashing into rugged, wooded country.

Miss Levesque said she sold Guay a ticket for his wife's passage from Quebec to Baie Comeau, Sept. 6, three days before the flight that ended in disaster.

Insurance Cost 50 Cents

She declared that at the same time, Guay inquired about passenger-insurance rates and was informed they were 25 cents for $5,000 insurance, 50 cents for $10,000 and $1.25 for $25,000.

Guay thought $10,000 was "sufficient" and bought a policy when he paid $40.00 for his wife's fare.

Miss Levesque was the fourth witness of the hearing which opened before a court room packed a half-hour before the start with a chattering crowd.

First witness was Frank Hartley of Montreal, in charge of CPA maintenance for Quebec district.

3rd Victim Dies Of Nickel Fumes

PORT COLBORNE, Oct. 4 (CP)—A third man died today of a bronchial ailment believed caused by fumes discharged in the International Nickel Company's nickel-oxidizing process.

Frank Gettin died early today in hospital of pneumonia which Dr. W. W. Moffat attending physician said was "a secondary condition arising out of an irritation." Gettin, like John Toth and Frank Gulleau who died earlier, was employed in the company's leaching department.

H. C. Rickaby, Ontario Deputy Minister of Mines who ordered an investigation into the death of the two nickel company employees, said last week: "I think our inspectors have a fairly good idea of what occurred. Some little part of the process which has been in operation successfully since 1931 went wrong and the men inhaled poisonous gases."

Oshawa Men Jobless While Outsiders Work

OSHAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP).—A special committee of the town council was set up Monday night to investigate charges that "outsiders" are being given employment in the General Motors plant here while Oshawa men are refused work.

The charge was advanced by Local 222 of the International Union of Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.).

Council was told that men from the other provinces and even from overseas were being given jobs in the plant "while Oshawa boys tramp the streets."

Three Czechs Killed By Gunmen

Machine Gunners Strike Terror Into Prague Citizens

PRAGUE, Oct. 4 (Reuters) — Three men were killed and several others were injured in shooting incidents in this Czechoslovak capital last Saturday night.

First hand reports received today confirmed rumors circulating in Prague since Saturday.

No official statement was available.

One man, before he died of bullet wounds in the stomach, said: "Comrades, why have you done this to me?"

Eyewitnesses in one incident said Tommy-gun fire came from a car carrying uniformed passengers. They sprayed into people waiting for a public transport vehicle outside Prague's big Pankrac prison. One person was killed.

Shot In Red District

The first incident occurred in a dark street in the Prague district of Ziskovce, known as "the red suburb" from the number of Communists there.

Three unidentified men were walking along in the darkness beside the wall of a closed Jewish cemetery.

A black car came up behind them and its occupants sprayed the group with bullets. One died on the spot. A second died soon afterwards. It was his last words which were overheard. The third was severely wounded.

In the incident outside Pankrac prison several persons, besides the one killed, were injured. The wounded are in hospitals and under police supervision.

There were reports not yet confirmed of shootings in other Prague districts the same night.

MORE ABOUT—Guay Insured

He testified in English. He described the plane involved in the Sept. 9 disaster. He said it was a twin-engine 28-passenger plane and carried a crew of four.

He said he last saw the plane at 8:45 a.m., Sept. 9 before its departure from Montreal.

Guay Not Interested
While Hartley gave his testimony, Guay sat sideways in the box resting on his right elbow. He did not seem interested in the testimony.

Hartley, questioned by Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion, said that to his knowledge everything was in order when the plane left Montreal en route to Baie Comeau.

Hartley's testimony was mostly about the technicalities of aircraft maintenance. He was not questioned by defence counsel Bertrand Marcotte.

Next witness was Marcel Boisvert, of Montreal, 39, chief pilot for CPA, in eastern Canada and supervisor of CPA pilots in his division.

Guay followed the chief pilot's testimony attentively. It was given in French.

The Crown Prosecutor questioned Boisvert extensively about the methods used by an airline crew to work out a flight plan, Pilot Above Average Boisvert said the pilot of the crashed plane was Pierre Laurin of Quebec and that Laurin was with Ferry Command during the war, returned to CPA after war service and was given his captain's rank in 1947. Laurin was an "above average" pilot.

Boisvert said Laurin had passed his last monthly flying test August 10 and had been rated top-grade. Boisvert then told of test an airplane is put through before take-off on a regular flight and identified such documents as the flight plan for the ill-fated September 9 flight.

He said Pilot Laurin was familiar with the route and visibility that day was about 15 miles — "excellent."

Bomb in Compartment
Boisvert described and identified from charts the location of luggage compartments in a DC-3. A package containing the bomb is said to have been placed in a compartment.

Mrs. Guay remained on the waiting list for the Sept. 7 flight. There was a cancellation the morning of the flight. Miss Levesque told Guay about it by telephone about 9 a.m.

Miss Levesque said she asked Guay if his wife would take the vacancy. He replied it was "too late" and Mrs. Guay would travel Sept. 9.

Miss Levesque said Mrs. Guay wanted to travel to and from Baie Comeau the same day. When Mrs. Guay was told she couldn't return the same day, she wanted to cancel her trip.

The witness said Guay then urged his wife to go on the Sept. 9 plane, spend the week-end at Baie Comeau and return Monday, Sept. 12.

Guay Insisted Wife Travel
Miss Levesque said Guay and his wife discussed the matter. "Guay insisted his wife make the trip Sept. 9," said the witness.

She said Guay, "who seemed nervous," asked about reports the plane had crashed. Miss Levesque said she nodded to his question and then Guay and his daughter retired to a chair in the hotel lobby and wept together.

Miss Levesque was not questioned by defence counsel.

Overide Berton, driver on an airline taxi service, corroborated Miss Levesque's testimony about discussion between Guay and Mrs. Guay at the ticket office.

Will Talk Over Dominion-Wide Pension Plan

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP) — A Dominion-wide contributory old age pension scheme will be among matters discussed at the forthcoming Dominion-Provincial Conference on the Constitution.

Health Minister Martin told the Commons Monday night that discussion will inevitably arise at the conference on the attitude of the provinces toward the idea of giving the Federal government power to introduce such a scheme.

Need for Dominion-Provincial agreement would result from the fact that at present the Federal government did not have the Constitutional power to bring in the plan.

Mr. Martin made the statements during debate on a resolution sponsored by Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East) which called on the Federal government to co-operate with the provinces in formulating a national social-security scheme.

The resolution, discussed on a day devoted to private members' business, was still being debated at adjournment and thus moves to the bottom of the list of private members' resolutions. It probably will not come up again at this session.

Leads Discussion
Mr. MacInnis led off discussion of the resolution which said:

"That, in the opinion of this House, the government should seek the co-operation of the provinces for the purpose of formulating a program of social security that will be national in scope; adequate in its provisions, and that will cover all citizens of Canada in every circumstance where the individual or the family is, for any reason deprived of the opportunity of earning a living."

So far, Mr. MacInnis said, many of the social security measures had been introduced in piecemeal fashion. These had been introduced not so much because of government belief in them but because it was felt "politically expedient" to bring them in.

There were tremendous gaps in the country's social security legislation. There were no sickness benefits, for instance. Mr. MacInnis said that when a man is sick and unemployed he is more in need of assistance than a man who is unemployed but well.

Approves of Plan
Mr. Martin said there was no one in the Commons who would like to see a comprehensive social security plan more than he would.

He said the government has been co-operating all along with the provinces and that the general program in operation is a good one.

That co-operation would be continued and he hoped that before too many months there would be "good results."

Mr. Martin said he agreed with the aim of the resolution but added that it left things unclear in some respects. It did not cover the question of municipal responsibility in national welfare nor did it specify whether citizens as described in the resolution included those living abroad.

Willing To Pay
Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra) said he believes Canadians generally want an all-embracing program of social security and that they are willing to pay for it.

He expressed favor with the idea of a contributory plan of pensions with employers, employees and the government each paying a share. The means test was particularly objectionable and should be among the first things remedied.

A 30-year-old labor dispute occupied the Commons during most of the three-hour afternoon sitting.

It concluded with a formal division in which the Commons voted 105 to 38 against a CCF resolution asking that a Royal Commission be set up to investigate loss of pension rights by men involved in Canadian Pacific Railway strikes of 1918 and 1919.

Fenders Bore Brunt In Traffic Incidents

Milton Traynor, RR 3, Lakefield, complained to city police Monday that a fender on his car was damaged by a hit and run driver. Mrs. Traynor was sitting in the car, parked on the market square, when the car was hit, he said.

The fender of a car driven by Howard Johnston, Warsaw Rd., was torn Monday as it became involved with another car on Water St. Constable S. Kellele reports that Mr. Johnston's car was struck by a car which J. Magee, 186 Dublin St., pulled out from the curb as Mr. Johnston was passing in a line of traffic.

MORE ABOUT—CCL Refuses

The two UEW officials accused the CCL leadership of cutting off union autonomy and trying to ram its political theories down the throats of labor as a whole. The Congress has designated the CCF Party as the political arm of labor.

Besides Jackson and Harris, those under suspension are Ross Russell, director of organization; M. Chambers, former Canadian vice-president; and J. F. Douglas, editor of the UE News, official publication of the electrical union in Canada.

An article in the News last January accused Ontario Federation of Labor officers of using tactics like those of fascists, union-bust was suspended by the executive and war-mongers. The group after a CCL investigating committee had found them guilty of slander.

If the suspension were made to stick, Jackson said in a 4,000-word reply, the only winners would be the employers and "a small group within the CCL who are more concerned with advancing their selfish position."

Deny Slander
Both he and Harris denied the union had committed slander, admitting only that they had used the forceful language of labor.

Secretary-treasurer Conroy denied politics had anything to do with the suspensions. The executive wanted to clean the congress of slander and slander makers, an opinion which was expressed in blackballing and slandering.

He said the banned five could come back when they demonstrate they are fit to work with the men they have slandered.

Millard said the electrical men had presented no real defense, and he charged their publication was still running direct and deliberate lies.

Not Giving Up
But despite the pounding they have been taking, the UE leaders promised to send a second line team into the battle on the convention floor.

C. S. Jackson, Canadian director of the UE, said Monday night the union will continue to hammer away at the convention against the North Atlantic Treaty, the Marshall plan, and other issues on which the UE has differed with the congress.

Logic would demand that the UE and other pro-Communist unions maintain their place within the respectable confines of the CCL. A bolt would expose them to extensive raiding from other unions.

The answer to the question of whether these unions will make the break that could be tantamount to suicide may come at the CIO convention in Cleveland this month.

The UE has handed the CIO an ultimatum in the form of six demands relating to autonomy. If these demands are not granted the UE may withhold its per capita tax payments to the CIO. This would invite almost automatic suspension.

"I was told 'well, we can warn these people but we have no way of stopping them.'"

Orth said that prior to the fire outbreak he had seen one or two kids smoking in a C deck linen closet. And he thought of fire hazard at the time.

Earlier in the inquiry, a member of the crew said he had located the fire in this linen closet.

Orth said after the fire started he and his wife had some difficulty opening the window to the cabin occupied by the other members of his party, both women.

Praises Officer
He said the window was finally smashed by a man who had helped him out of his own cabin.

"I wouldn't know him, but he was doing a wonderful job," the witness said of the man whom he described as a ship's officer. The man helped "about 25" passengers off the ship.

Orth, said he heard no alarm after being awakened by smoke. The first warning he heard was the ship's whistle. He said the fire department was on the dock by the time he reached the ship's bow.

Orth was unable to identify First Mate Ward as the officer who assisted passengers on the bow.

Orth told counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, ship's owners, he had not referred to any one the maid smoking incident.

John James Moffat, supervisor of marine inspection for the Federal Transport Department who testified last week, was recalled to amplify his evidence on the Noronic's safety appliances.

He said that in an inspection of the burned out ship he had been able to establish position of but a single inside hydrant on "A" deck. The plan before the court showed positions for seven.

Hydrants Missing
Moffat said there were seven outside hydrants on "A" deck, and that location of these and those on "B" deck correspond with the plans.

Three hydrants indicated on the "C" deck plan actually were never on the Noronic.

"They were not fitted," said Moffat.

"Never had been fitted?" asked Capt. H. S. Kane of Montreal, commission assessor.

"Never there," the witness answered.

"Would that mean they were not there the night of the fire?" asked Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, the commissioner.

"Never fitted," said Mr. Moffat.

Capt. Taylor, the next witness, said he had been master of the Noronic the last eight years.

The Jacob's ladder of the ship did not extend high enough "C" deck.

"Would there be any difficulty for a person not a seaman to put out a like ladder?" asked Commission Counsel J. W. Pickup.

Capt. Taylor said he did not think so. He knew of no instructions issued passengers to lower the ladders. He said all ropes were lowered during the last drill prior to the fire. Ropes were not provided as a regular means of egress from the ship.

Capt. Taylor said there were three double doors on each side of the ship on "C" deck. They opened outward, while, screen doors on each opened inward.

"What do you say as to the advisability of having double doors opening out, and screen doors opening in?"

"It's probably not the best," said the captain.

Early questioning of Capt. Taylor pertained solely to the outline of the ship, position of stairways, doors. Several times the captain, who spoke in a barely audible voice, was asked to speak up.

He admitted passengers would have no knowledge about stairways in the crew's section of the ship which was closed to them. He did not reply to a question whether instructions were issued passengers on the existence of such stairways and directions on how they could be reached in an emergency.

Capt. Taylor said there were 15 officers on the Noronic, including himself. There were 23 fire stations, and officers were not assigned to any particular one in the event of a fire.

He said it was the duty of the officers to see that the crew reported to their stations and that fire equipment was in operation. The commissioner noted the witness gave the names of only 14 persons assigned to watch 23 fire stations. When he pressed for an explanation, Capt. Taylor said there were bell boys and boatswains assigned to the remaining nine stations.

Bevin Has Conference With Canadian Cabinet

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP)—Britain's Foreign Secretary Bevin conferred with the Canadian cabinet Monday in an atmosphere which underlined a fairly recent and almost imperceptible stabilization in the world situation which has not been markedly jarred even by Russia's atomic weapon.

Quarters close to the talks said Mr. Bevin presented no pessimistic picture in what he had to say, first to Prime Minister St. Laurent, Trade Minister Howe and Defence Minister Claxton, the acting Minister of External Affairs and later to the whole cabinet.

There were unconfirmed reports that one of the subjects discussed was Russia's recognition of the Chinese Communist government.

MP Investigates New Wig-Wag Council Told

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4 (ENS)—At its Monday meeting the town council received a communication from Chief Constable George H. Hardy requesting $200 a year for car expenses.

Councillor Kelly stated that the chief should not perform police duties outside town.

"If we grant this $200," said Councillor MacMillan, "we will be severely criticized by the public unless we can prove that it is absolutely necessary."

Councillor Wilson thought that if the chief received an extra $200 a year, the assistant would also have to be given more money.

Uses Car
Reeve Anderson pointed out that Chief Hardy used his car a great deal in the performance of his police duties and should be given financial assistance in operating his car.

Deputy Reeve Locke thought that the difference in the present salary between the chief and his assistant was too small.

Councillor MacMillan moved that the matter be referred to the Police Committee and that they report their findings at a future council meeting. The resolution, seconded by Councillor Kelly, carried.

Scout Apple Day
The Boy Scouts were permitted to hold Apple Day on Oct. 15; The Canadian Institute for the Blind Tag Day on Oct. 22; and the Legion Poppy Day on Nov. 5.

The council agreed to purchase a wreath and ribbon for the memorial service at the cenotaph. J. E. Latimer asked permission to connect to the sewer on Raglan street. He said in a letter that he would meet all expenses in laying the pipes from his home to the sewer if the council would not impose a frontage charge.

After much discussion the clerk was instructed to write the Municipal Board to get a ruling on the question.

Taxi License Letter
A communication was received from Gordon and Lillico, barristers, Peterborough, on behalf of their client, R. E. Willis, who it is alleged was threatened with the cancellation of his taxi license for the town of Campbellford. It was also pointed out in the letter that Willis doesn't have to have a new license until the old one expires.

"Willis is still operating his taxi business," said Councillor MacMillan, "and his application for a taxi license didn't come before council."

The matter was left in the hands of the legal committee chairman and the town solicitor.

New Wig-Wag?
Dr. F. G. Robertson, MP, wrote the council promising immediate action in interviewing the proper authorities, regarding the installation of a wig-wag at Centre street crossing.

The Royal Bank asked for a share of the town's business. Council decided to continue doing business with the Bank of Montreal, but suggested that the Public Utilities Commission should turn over their business to the Royal Bank.

Harold Nicholas was granted permission to connect his house to the sewer on Church street.

Mr. Parcels complained about the poor condition of a hill near his home on Maple street. He said that he had broken several car springs in climbing the hill. The matter was referred to the chairman of the bridge and road committee.

Mrs. F. I. Peters asked for relief for an old lady who was confined to her rest home. Twenty dollars a month was granted.

W. A. Kingston was granted a permit to erect a house on the corner of Mill and Second streets.

Carl Walmsley's request that taxi drivers should be given stickers for parking purposes was not entertained.

George Stafford's tender of $1,249.40 to repair the bridge over Trout Creek on Balacava street was accepted. Other tenders were: Harris and Fair, Omeene, $1,875; Wilfred Spencer, $1,675; Edwin Little, $1,489.90.

Congregation Urged To Keep Spiritual Currency At Par
ROSENEATH, Oct. 4 (ENS)—"Keep your spiritual currency at par" was the challenge thrown out by Dr. J. A. Wilson, B.A., D.D., of Toronto, editor of the United Church Observer, as the guest speaker at the anniversary services of Roseneath United Church on Sunday. At the evening service Dr. Wilson's subject was "Devaluation" and spoke of the debased spiritual currency and the devalued moral dollar.

Dr. Wilson's subject at the morning service was "Broken Foundations" and spoke of disruption and confusion in the world today, of divorces, broken homes, the lower moral standards, increasing use of intoxicants, and juvenile delinquency.

Rev. R. C. White was in charge of the services. Roseneath choir was in charge of the music under the direction of Mrs. Douglas Coyle with Miss Carolyn Atkinson at the organ and Miss Clarice Atkinson at the piano. At the morning service, Mrs. Sam Black, Lakefield, was guest soloist, contributing a vocal solo "God's Garden". The choir sang an anthem "With Grateful Hearts", and the male quartette sang "Steal Away".

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4 (ENS)—Through the management of the Hollywood Theatre and Mr. and Mrs. John Herd, the Juvenile Baseball Club and officials were given a complimentary banquet at the Villa Trent over the week-end.

Following the dinner, Carl Maier, president of the club, said that we can build a fine baseball team for Campbellford in three seasons but coach "Toey" Ikey will be the man to do it.

George Airhart, Bernard Kerr and Pat Doherty congratulated the team on capturing the Carl Maier trophy and said that they were happy to be associated with such a fine club.

Doctor Explains Mental Quirks To Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4 (ENS)—"A mentally defective child is one whose brain has not developed normally," Dr. W. W. Baker of Campbellford told the members of the Rotary Club on Monday.

He gave a description of Letchworth village on the Hudson River where over 3,000 underprivileged children are under the care and supervision of a competent staff.

He said that the cottages were constructed of limestone and housed from 80 to 100 inmates. The children were grouped according to their mental ages. "Every effort is made to help the child establish himself in some useful occupation," he added.

Causes of Defects
Dr. Baker outlined five causes of mental defects. He said that injury to the brain tissue during birth often left the child with paralysis of various degrees.

Glandular disturbances, produced what is known as freaks and dwarfs. Infectious diseases of the brain tissue often brought about marked changes in growth and behaviour.

"Heredity plays a large part," he said, "in the mental and physical equipment of the child. You could not expect subnormal parents to produce children with a high mental rating."

Some No Soft Spot
Some children are born without the soft spot on the head, Dr. Baker explained, saying this prevents the normal development of the brain. Children of this type have very small heads.

He said that the children at Letchworth received the best care and most of them were kept busy under careful supervision. "Outside an institution mentally deficient children are a problem both to the parents and teachers," he said.

W. Brady introduced the speaker and A. K. Loucks moved the vote of thanks. President Charlie Calver was in the chair.

Labor Paper Says Early Election In UK Unlikely

LONDON, Oct. 4 (CP)—The pro-Labor Daily Herald today throws cold water on talk of a close-at-hand British general election — but conceded changing political conditions might bring an early vote.

The Labor government's full term does not end until next July, though it can call a general election at any time. Talk has been current recently that Labor might call such a "snap" election soon, hoping to obtain another term before rising commodity prices—expected in the wake of currency devaluation—could turn the voters against the ruling party.

Ernest Jay, political correspondent of the Labor party's organ wrote the chief argument against an election this fall was that two important measures now going through parliament would be lost, at least temporarily. These are the bill to nationalize the steel industry and another reducing the power of the House of Lords to delay legislation from two years to one.

Meanwhile, there was some measure of political house-straightening in the Conservative party household.

Handicap Swim Series Begun At YM Pool

Donald Stewart won the first event in a series of handicap swims held at the YMCA Monday night. He had to break his best time for the 40-yard free style to do the trick. Jack Boorman who tied for second place with Dennis Hale recorded the fastest time of the race in one of his heats when he was clocked in 24 seconds.

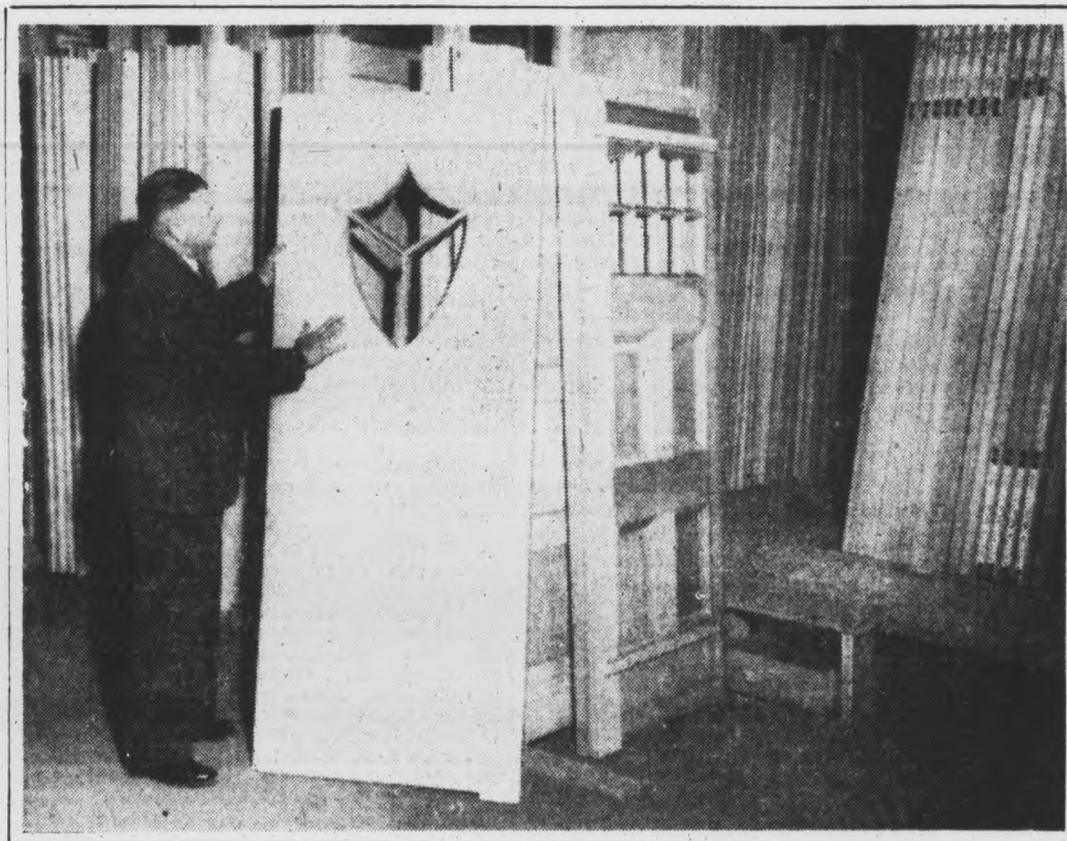

Bill McIlmoyle, who was out with the club for the first time, took first place and according to Gordon Minty, honorary swimming instructor, is one of the best club prospects this year. Walter Woodhouse showed the most improvement on the night's swimming. Robert Boyce assisted Coach Minty in running the event in which 26 swimmers entered.

Impressions Of Britain (1)

The Canadian who has returned from Britain is greeted on every hand with this question: What do you think of the chance of the Labour Party at the next election? This tempts the traveller to assume the role of a prophet, and the temptation must at all costs be avoided. The only answer which an honest man can give is: I don't know. But when he has said that he may enlarge a little upon the conclusions which he has been able to draw from his limited experience. In the opinion of the present writer the chances of the Labour Party are still pretty good. There is a great deal of talk about it, but there are many millions of people who are better off under Labour than they have been under any Government they can remember. It is not likely that they will throw Labour overboard.

It may be argued that if these supporters of Labour knew more about Britain's financial situation, and about economics, they would vote for the Tories or the Liberals. But the fact is that they know very little about Britain's financial situation, and they do not care much about it. Their horizon is limited by their own lives and their own family economics, and Labour has helped their domestic arrangements and their weekly wages. The Labour Government has given them some new social services, and has boosted their basic wages. It is hard for a farm labourer or a mill worker to feel that the country is going to the dogs when he himself is enjoying unusual prosperity. The Tories and the Liberals will have to talk very convincingly in order to win many votes from Labour.

The Tories are not talking very convincingly, either as a party or as individuals. The traveller encounters, among Conservatives in Britain, a great deal of criticism of the Labour Government which is childish and ill-natured, as well as some which is on a higher level. The fact is that the workers like Labour because it has made their lot easier, and the business and professional people dislike Labour because it has made their lot harder; both sides are inclined to argue from a narrow and personal point of view. Complaint, even when justifiable, is apt to become tiresome, and the complaints of the Tories are becoming very tiresome indeed.

Nevertheless, although the tone of the Conservative complaints may be irksome, there is much that is true in what they say. Their complaint, for instance, that the Trade Union Council has too big a voice in Government is a just and significant one. The T.U.C. and the trade unionists do not agree, of course; the think that they elected the Labour Government, that it is therefore their Government, and that they have a right to call the tune to which the Government shall dance. But it is clear enough that the interests of the T.U.C. and its followers are not always the interests of the country as a whole, and that the T.U.C. neglects many important matters not because it takes no interest in them, but because it has never realized that they exist. Trades union politics can be just as bad for a country as any sort of politics which puts a special interest first, and the interest of the whole country second. 'Special privilege,' which used to be the particular sin of Tory governments, is now changed in its direction, though not in its destructive power.

Britain's problems, however, are not basically the product of the Labour Government, nor does it lie in the power of socialism to cure them. This point will be discussed tomorrow in another editorial under this heading.

We Resume Our Book Reviews

Tomorrow we shall resume publication of our weekly column of book reviews, which was suspended during the summer months. Some of our readers may be interested to know that we have seriously considered abandoning this feature altogether; for roughly six years The Examiner has published reviews of new books, and during that time we have had very little indication from our readers that they cared whether we reviewed books or not. This is perhaps understandable; people who are keenly interested in books usually subscribe to one or more papers or magazines which have a strong literary flavour; they do not look for opinions on books in their daily paper.

Nevertheless, we are not willing to abandon the expression of opinion on new books entirely to specialist publications. We cling to the idea that books are, or should be, of interest to everybody; the publication of a good book is, in our view, an important piece of news. And, while we do not pretend that what The Examiner may say about a book is a final or even a particularly weighty judgement, we are determined to have our say about new books as they appear.

In publishing book reviews we rely upon the cooperation of the book publishers, who send us copies of their books for review. Because we do not publish puff pieces for all books, regardless of merit, a few publishers have removed this paper from their lists. The better publishers, however, who regard their work as a profession as well as a business, approve of our reviews and continue to send us books. We shall continue to deal with these, to the best of our ability, in our Wednesday Third Column, and each review will be signed, as formerly, with the initials of the critic. A column a week, devoted to the work of contemporary writers, is by no means too much, in the opinion of this newspaper.

Record Lore, Preserve Relics

In July, 1904, Lt.-Col. Rogers, President of the Peterborough Historical Society, received the following letter from Miss Mary Grundy of Peterborough:

Dear Sir: Will you please accept for the Historical Museum in Peterborough the accompanying photograph of Isabella Valancy Crawford, and autographed volume of her poems. It was my good fortune to have the distinguished poetess as an intimate friend, and it is a pleasure to me to make this presentation, in remembrance of warm and true friendship, and of a Peterborough citizen of the past, whose genius has brought distinction to the town where she resided for years, and which is honoured by possessing her remains.

Today the Historical Museum has withered, the Historical Society has vanished, and perhaps even the photograph and autographed volume of poems have disappeared with the Museum and the Society. This is not as it should be. Peterborough is the only Ontario city or town of importance and a century's history which has not an active organization devoted to preserving relics and forming records of her past. This lack has been pointed out several times in these columns, and today appears elsewhere on this page a letter from Mr. James D. Cumming of Toronto and Havelock, urging the re-establishment of an historical society and the importance of Peterborough's having a museum collection.

The old Historical Society became inactive early in this century, and the historical collection thereby lost its sponsors. It had been quartered in Judge Dennistoun's old house in what is now Inverlea Park, but shortly after 1900 it was removed to the second floor of the Public Library because the house was unsafe. (The building was then soon torn down to make way for the park). When the Red Cross needed sewing room in 1914-18, the collection was consigned to the basement, and never fully reassembled. Until the present war a collection of sorts was to be seen in the main upstairs room, but few bothered to mount the stairs to see it. Now it is scattered (the Red Cross again occupied the room during the recent war) in schools, in the basement of the library, and in private homes, for original donors, or their descendants have come to claim articles.

The need is apparent for a central place to house pieces of authentic local historical value, and to which donors can contribute private items with some feeling that they will not only be appreciated but looked after. But before a permanent collection can be established there must be some society to father and foster it. Some organization such as a revived historical society is greatly needed.

There are urgent reasons for this. Next year Peterborough will observe its hundredth anniversary as a corporation. Yet no history of town or county has been published, and no comprehensive one written, since Dr. Poole's of 1867. There is a gap of more than eighty years. The gap can be bridged, for there are older folk still living who have important verbal recollections of the years between. Their stories should be collected and set down, before it is too late. Valuable documents and records are available which in a few years may be lost. The time is ripe for the re-establishment of an active historical society which will stimulate interest in the district's past, and rescue it from near-oblivion. Let us hope that some of the more interested people—and there are many—do meet together as Mr. Cumming suggests, and start the ball rolling.

U.S. Response To Russia's Bomb

From FRANCIS WILLIAMS
In Washington

Washington (by cable)

THE United States is now spending at a rate of well over three and a half million dollars a day on atomic research. It is now practically certain that this expenditure will be sharply increased, even although at least four thousand million dollars have been spent already on atomic research since the work first began. This is a great deal of money in any currency, particularly when it is only one item, although the major one, in the defence programme. The size of this bill and the fact that despite its enormous proportions most Congressmen now feel, in view of Russia's possession of the atomic secret, that it will probably have to be stepped up considerably, is going to be a factor of increasing importance in American policy from now on.

MOREOVER, the immediate effect of the Soviet news has been to increase demands not only for stepping up direct atomic research expenditure, but also for more money for radar defence installations, for which six hundred million dollars are already planned, and for a possible expansion of the Air Force.

And although the dollar cost of the changed situation resulting from Russia's possession of the atomic bomb may not be one of the most important consequences of a development whose total results cannot yet begin to be assessed, it is one which may have some immediate effects. Among them is likely to be increasing willingness on the part of Congress to vote money for civilian recovery programmes, in view of its present feeling that any money that is available ought to be kept for additional defence expenditure. This reaction has been sharply demonstrated already. The House of Representatives reacted immediately to the Soviet atomic explosion news by abandoning its previous determination to cut down the military aid programme for Europe. Even most of those Congressmen who privately grumbled that money for ground forces could not stop the atomic bomb did not feel like taking the public risk of opposing expenditure to help European security at this moment, especially as they were very firmly told by the military authorities that any defence strategy that underestimated the importance of ground forces because of the atomic bomb was quite unrealistic. But the reaction to the atomic news which brought swift acceptance of the need for military aid also brought with it a quite unexpected volume of hostility to President Truman's Point Four programme for the development of economically backward areas when it came before the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Previously it has seemed as though this programme would have pretty general support. Certainly State Department officials who have been working on it have been fairly confident of adequate Congressional support for the funds needed to launch it in the first stage of spreading American scientific and industrial knowhow in undeveloped areas as a preliminary to investment of private capital later. The total amount Congress is being asked to vote for this stage of the programme, which could in the end lead to an immense improvement in the standards of life of many millions of people in the backward areas, is thirty-five million dollars—or the amount spent on the atomic programme in ten days.

BUT the effect of the atomic news has been to make many members of the Foreign Affairs Committee, without whose support the programme has no chance of getting through, hostile even to such comparatively modest expenditure for such a purpose. "This country's security is more important than charitable and benevolent deeds. We should suspend new spending until we find out what we need for defence against the atom," declared the Republican Leader in the House of Representatives, Joseph Martin, and it was clear that a large number of other members of the Committee agreed with him and went on agreeing despite all the efforts of State Department spokesmen to persuade them that one essential way to stop Communism and strengthen the United Nations was to fight that economic misery and poverty which has already proved itself so powerful an ally of Communism in the Far East.

IT may be that in the end the Administration's view of the importance of this programme will prevail and that Point Four, which aroused so much enthusiasm when it was first enunciated by Truman when given the modest start that is asked for it. But this first reaction on the part of Congressmen is symptomatic of a Congressional mood following the news of Russia's atomic advance that must be taken into account. It may be, indeed, unless the mood changes, that the real victories her possession of the atomic secret will give Russia will not be military but political, in turning American interest away from constructive measures of international economic improvement to concentration exclusively on defence in the narrowest military sense. That there is such danger cannot, I think, be ignored. But it need not, despite first reactions of some Congressional groups as shown in this example of the Point Four programme, be exaggerated. Certainly the Administration itself shows no signs of falling into that error. Nor, so far as one can judge, do most of the ordinary men and women one meets. Indeed, one of the most remarkable features of the American reaction to the Soviet atomic news has been its calm acceptance by the general public. The American people have always been atom-bomb conscious to a very high degree, and I well remember the mood which swept this country when the first atom bombs were dropped on Japan.

THEN it was impossible to meet any one without being drawn into discussion bordering only too frequently on hysteria on the future of the world in the atomic age. Remembering that, it had seemed likely that the news that Russia probably possessed the atom bomb would bring another wave of near-hysteria in its train. There has been no such thing. Instead, there has been a

TO SAVE PETERBOROUGH'S PAST

Sir: Peterborough has grown into a great industrial city and is approaching its hundredth anniversary. Progress and materialism, no matter how engrossing, should not be allowed to obscure the recording of the city's history and its pioneer past. Behind that again is the vast wealth of Indian and prehistoric lore with which this area is crammed. Champlain, over three hundred years ago, passed this way. Huron and Iroquois war parties used these waterways in their savage forays. Every landing and portage yields its relics of arrowheads, pottery, bead work, and other artifacts to the digger and student.

The fur trader, the pioneer settler, and then the lumberman carried on into the mid century when Peterborough became a civic entity. Then, for a hundred years, our city fulfilled the promise of industrial growth so obvious to early visitors.

All this fascinating lore should be recorded. There should be a Peterborough Historical Society. All through Ontario, the Ontario Historical Society is fostering and assisting in the formation of local societies to record and preserve this priceless heritage of tradition, pioneer memory, documents, and relics, before it is too late.

The most valuable adjunct to, and means of financing the many activities of a historical society, is a Museum.

Not knowing the background, I cannot be critical of the fact that the remains of such a museum are stored somewhat haphazardly in the basement of the Library.

It is, however, a splendid nucleus around which can be built an institution of tremendous value to the district. It will be educative to our youth. It will give an appreciation of the tremendous, and often heart-breaking, effort of our pioneers who are now passing on to their reward in increasing numbers. A good museum is also one of the very finest tourist attractions that can be provided.

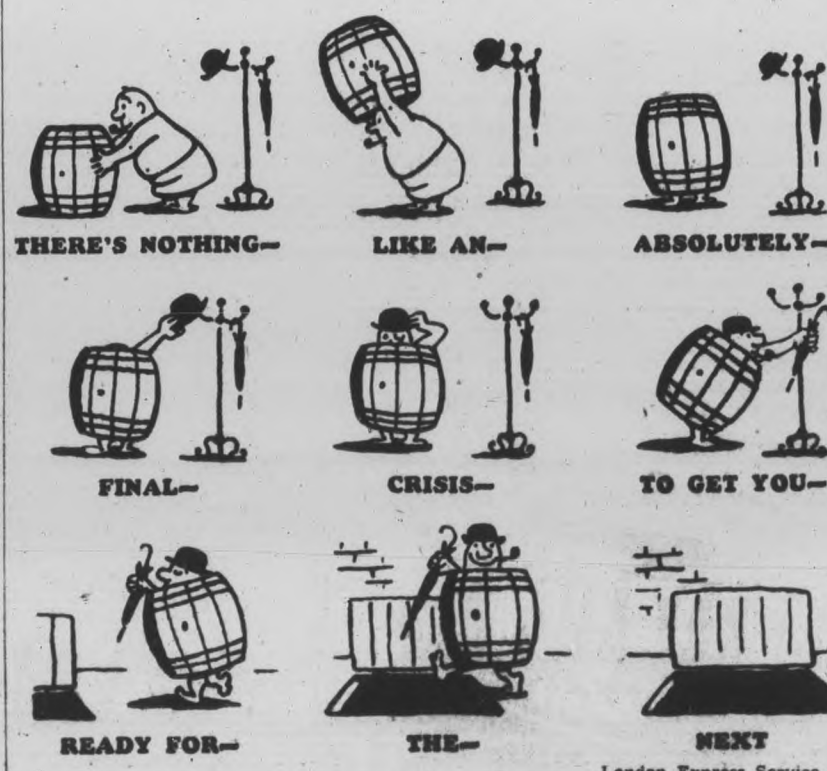

A local museum should preserve its integrity and local character by strictly limiting its collections and displays to items originating in or very closely related to the Peterborough-Trent Valley area.

The aim should be to secure objects of local origin, interest and significance, and to document them precisely and completely to preserve their values as exhibits. Such objects might include: Indian relics and artifacts in which this district abounds; pioneer implements and household tools, handmade cradles, spinning wheels, etc.; documents such as early histories, diaries, letters, records, and records of interviews with pioneers; pictures, paintings and photographs, maps and cuts of early scenes. This list can be added to as the work progresses.

Things definitely not wanted are the crayon enlargements in huge ornate gilt frames of Uncle Eb and Aunt Minnie on their wedding day. The broken rocker or cracked gramophone records from the attic are also taboo. You will be astonished at the variety of junk that will be offered and at the resentment on its refusal. This, however, will pass

(From the Authorized Version)

Now as he walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting a net into the sea; for they were fishers. And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.

And when he had gone a little farther thence, he saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, who also were in the ship mending their nets. And straightway he called them: and they left their father Zebedee in the ship with the hired servants, and went after him.

And they went into Capernaum; and straightway on the sabbath day he entered into the synagogue, and taught. And there was in their synagogue a man with an unclean spirit; and he cried out, saying Let us alone; what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? are thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou art, the Holy One of God.

And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him. And when the unclean spirit had torn him, and cried with a loud voice, he came out of him.

And they were all amazed, insomuch that they questioned among themselves, saying, What thing is this? what new doctrine is this? for with authority commandeth he even the unclean spirits, and they do obey him. (Mark 1: 16, 17, 19-21, 23-27.)

U.S. Low Tariff Myth

(Financial Post)

To read some of the popular American publications or listen to certain wails from pressure groups at Washington one might conclude that the United States had swept away its tariff barriers, that the industry of that country was completely at the mercy of foreign competition. A table published in The Financial Post last week doesn't jibe with that sort of nonsense. On a very wide range of goods, and particularly those of a highly processed or manufactured nature, American duties, even after the Geneva cuts, still remain well above prohibitive.

In the table mentioned the average duty when translated into the ad valorem equivalent runs far over 50 per cent. In some cases the total levy actually exceeds the value of the goods laid down in the United States. Moreover, as the usual American duty is on a specific basis, so many cents per pound or dozen, the levy rises as the price falls.

This means that the market we may enjoy in the United States today, might completely disappear overnight with a slight easing of world prices. A duty of 10 cents per pound on an article priced at 50 cents per pound is stiff but not altogether prohibitive. But if the price of that article falls to 30 cents, then a 10-cent duty may shut it out of the U.S. market completely.

away, if a firm stand is taken at the start.

Without elaborating further, I suggest a meeting of those interested to start a Peterborough Historical Society and Museum.

Speakers who are ardent antiquarians such as Premier Frost, the Hon. Dana Porter and Major John Barnett of the Ontario Historical Society could, we are sure, be induced to address later meetings with their message on the methods of formation and the great value of recording our pioneer heritage and preserving such records for future generations.

Yours very truly,

JAMES D. CUMMING,
Mining Engineer.

REPLY TO "A DOCTOR'S WIFE"

Sir: The letter by "A Doctor's Wife" confirms what had been only gossip; that is, that some of our doctors are engaging in bitter personalities over the revised by-laws of the Civic Hospital. This is to be regretted. Doctors should continue to work together in healing the sick. I do hope that most of the rumours of ill-will are unfounded.

"A Doctor's Wife" is concerned over advantages and disadvantages to certain doctors. The doctors who consider their economic and professional status of first importance should have no influence on the Board of Governors. The patients are of first importance. Every doctor should recognize this fact.

The Board of Governors are there not only to aid in the management of the hospital, but to see that the patients get the best possible consideration. It may be difficult for some doctors to take an impartial view, not only from personal reasons, but due to selfish consideration of other doctors, with whom they work.

Personalities have no place, and "A Doctor's Wife" would contribute more to the cause if she poured oil on the troubled waters instead of adding fuel to the fire.

I am glad we have a Board of Governors who acted as a jury, who listened to doctors argue both sides of the case and then rendered their impartial judgement as representatives of the citizens.

See No Change Austrian Election

VIENNA, Oct. 4—(AP)—There are two predictions that can safely be made regarding the Austrian national elections next Sunday:

Austria will not go Communist and the coalition government between the right-wing peoples party and the socialists will continue.

The Communists may not even be able to return one candidate to parliament.

In the last elections, held in 1945, the people's party won 85 of the 185 seats in parliament; the socialists won 76 and the Communists won only four.

This time the balance of power may shift to the socialists, but there will be no landslide.

Gangster Film Takes Page From Real Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 4 (AP).—Shooting quietly in Culver City is a film which appears to have been written from the headlines of Los Angeles newspapers. It's called "Wrong Guy" and it's a thinly-veiled treatment of the local crime situation. The script concerns an attempt to set up a race track information wire in California—with various fire-works thrown in. Followers of recent news events will detect parallels to the Bugsy Siegel murder and the recent Sunset Strip shooting of Mickey Cohen. Kingpins of crime and gambling in New York as well as Los Angeles may find themselves closely etched in the film, which stars Edmond O'Brien and Joanne Dru. There's no kidding about the seriousness of the project; Los Angeles police detectives are on the set constantly.

Rolled Ahead

Joel McCrea is considering a "Captain Kidd" role after "The Outriders." He is balking, because the film will be made in England.

Ida Lupino and Collier Young take on another problem with "Pacheco," which will deal with Mexican-Americans in Los Angeles. The producers have already tackled the problems of unwed mothers ("Not Wanted") and polio ("Never Fear").

Roy Rogers is the first top screen star to take on a regular television show. He'll put his nag through its paces on a program called "Tricks With Trigger."

Claude Jarman, Jr., will be either an actor, a farmer or a businessman, the preference being in that order. He says he'd like to keep on acting. "Might as well keep making money," he reasons. "People go to college to learn how to make money; so if you already are—why go to school?"

20 Italians Die In Flood Waters

NAPLES, Italy, Oct. 4—(CP)—Flood waters which swept through three nearby inland provinces Sunday took at least 20 lives and left hundreds of persons homeless, scattered reports showed Monday.

Eleven persons were killed at Benevento when water-weakened walls of a house collapsed. A mother and four children were drowned at Novera Suprior, about 100 miles to the south in the province of Salerno.

The flood waters, following a heavy storm, swept down the Calore and Sabato rivers and numerous other streams, inundating areas in the provinces of Benevento, Caserta and Avellino.

Government officials said 12 dead had been identified but many more casualties were feared. Some reports put the dead as high as 30 including many children.

Aircraft Propeller Kills 14-Year-Old

NORTH BAY, Oct. 4—(CP)—Struck on the back of the head by an aircraft propeller, Robert Watson Sim, 14-year-old North Bay boy was killed Sunday afternoon on the shore of Obabika Lake, west of Temagami. He was on a week-end trip with R. S. Fischer, North Bay garage owner and well-known amateur pilot.

Police said the accident occurred as Mr. Fischer was taxiing his aircraft into shore. The Sim boy often travelled in the plane and it was his habit to stand on a pontoon of the plane as it was approaching shore and secure the craft as it touched the beach.

A stiff breeze prompted Mr. Fischer to keep the engine turning over longer than usual to force the plane into shore. He had turned off the ignition and was gliding to shore when the Sim boy jumped from the pontoon to the beach. The propeller struck him near the back of the head, killing him instantly.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

Fumbled footballs—the bane of coaches, players and loyal fans—break more hearts than the fabled Helen of Troy. 'Twas a butterfingers bobbie on Panthers' part that set Orilla up for the winning touchdown Saturday at the Bombers' base, and that's but one sad example this autumn. One supposes it is necessary to have a rugby football lemon shaped, but they take some crazy bounces on hitting the turf. True, one couldn't tuck a round soccer-like ball under the arm so well or so deceptively on runs, nor can a passer do much with the round missile. Wonder, if the rule makers couldn't introduce a round ball with nice little handles on it, possibly retractable handles when punting. Ah, well, just a thought.

Thar's no gold in them thar thrills, podnuk. That is to say, there's no financial profit in operating most senior sports in places this size. With the exception of our OLA senior "A" team—which made a hat full the past summer—none of our senior clubs got right out of the red. Legion won a senior "B" title last spring but went in the hole. Ditto the Petes' puckists. Local grid Panthers are in debt right now. Same with the Petes' baseballers. Minors of course aren't expected to show a profit, and they don't. But it's too bad when the major sports in a city can't do better. It's the overhead in these days of high cost of living.

Ed Has Right Slant

In line with this, we'd like to mitt Manager Eddie Murphy of the ball-playing Petes. They're down quite a bit financially now and will lose more the longer they go, but Ed decided the Petes would play toward a provincial title as long as they could. "I hate to fold up and default," he said Saturday; "I'd sure like to bring Peterborough a senior ball title—and maybe we can run a few dances or something through the winter to get out of the hole." Ed always believed a team should win or lose on the field. He dislikes protests and defaults, where victories are settled in the committee room. A smart skipper, he is also still a player at heart.

Ed Schneider of Belleville was in town yesterday and said that Belleville puck interests were all for forming a good OHA junior "B" group in Central Ontario, starting play early on artificial ice. A Quinte official asked Panter of the OHA about it and the latter thought it could be worked if interested clubs would write on the subjects. So, if the local Oddfellows are interested, they should write immediately to Dick Beare, Cook's Wholesale Co., Everett St., Belleville. Lindsay and Oshawa will be asked to do likewise—though Lindsay is a doubtful starter. If four such applications are made, we may see good junior "B" hockey some time next month at Civic Arena.

Some Holes To Fill

Legionnaires, the 1949 OHA senior "B" champs, have an open workout at Civic Arena tomorrow night at eight for an hour. Several big holes in the champs' lineup to fill, especially those of Goalie Ross Nicholls, playing-coach Ned Vitarelli on defence, and right-winger Bob Greenlaw. Possibly a few more spots, too. We're told that Bob Greenlaw, who left to play for Sydney in the Maritime senior circuit for $150 a week, could have had $200 had he waited a week. The report is that Jake Wade recommended him to his executive of Glace Bay Miners in the same loop, and the Miners came through with the better offer after Bob had signed with Sydney. Jake will be back with the Miners.

Tomorrow aft, the World Series opens in Yankee Stadium. Second game there the next day, and then they switch to Ebbett's Field for three, final two (if necessary) being back in Manhattan on Monday and Tuesday. No day intermissions required between switches in this "10-cent subway series". Casey Stengel is expected to start south-paw Eddie Lopat on the Yanks' hilltop, while Burt Shotton has intimated he will pin his opening-game hopes on the left flipper of Preacher Roe. Gamblers so far are leaning a little toward the New Yorkers, and we like their chances, but it's pretty much a tossup.

From The Grab-Bag

Girls' benefit game at 7.30 tonight in the Bowl, weather permitting, betwixt Westclox and Marines. Tip Tops can't make it here for an exhibition this fall. Red Raiders blanked Oakville gridders 7-0. Toronto ousted Oshawa in OASA senior "B" senior "B" 7-0. Hunters reached the OBA junior "A" finals against Guelph, while Brantford rubbed out Oakville in senior "A" semi-finals. Lindsay junior rugbists took Whitby 18-5 in an exhibition. PCVS field day is tomorrow aft at Morrow Park. W. Thistlewaite won the 10-mile road race from Lakeside to here in record time. Senior school soccer tomorrow: QA at KG, POW vs. QA at Oval, and Confed. vs. Central at KE; intermediate tilts: QA at KG, and Central at KE. Petes have an open hockey drill at seven tonight at Civic Arena; they're followed at eight by the Oddfellows in an open workout. Six squads of Belleville and Trenton go later this month in a district puck circuit; teams may draw imports from anywhere. Church Hockey Loop has an open meeting tonight at 7.30 in the "Y" to elect officers; all churches urged to have a representative. POME: Some like sports that are rugged, and some prefer gentler stuff, but our delight on a Saturday night is a game called "Colonel Puff".

Injuries Plague Two Teams In NHL Tuneups

By The Canadian Press

The National Hockey League's new season doesn't start until October 12 but already the injury list is lengthy. Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers are bearing the brunt with four injured players each.

New York—Defenceman Frankie Eddolls, an injured leg tendon; centre Don Raleigh, a bruised shoulder; and Wes Traister and Jean Paul Denis, both suffering undetermined injuries.

All players are expected to be back in the line-up before the season starts when Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings meet at Detroit.

The Canadiens break up camp today. They will leave tomorrow for a series of three games with teams of the American Hockey Association.

They will play Providence Thursday, Springfield Saturday and Buffalo Sunday. Then they move into Toronto where three of them—Reardon, Maurice Richard and Goalie Bill Durnan—will line up with the NHL All-Stars against Toronto Maple Leafs Monday night in the 1949 "dream game".

Boston Bruins break up their Hershey, Pa., training camp Friday and move on for two week-end exhibition games against Providence Reds, AHL champions.

Toronto and Montreal are at it again.

Garth Boesch, 197-pound Toronto rear-guard, doesn't agree with Montreal's Kenny Reardon, who said recently that defence-men are the forgotten men of the league.

Says Boesch: "Why, Reardon gets more publicity than most of the players in the NHL."

World Series Notes

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP)—Guy Lombardo and his orchestra have been engaged to play at the World Series. The "Royal Canadians" will sit in centre-field at the Yankee Stadium and play for 40 minutes before each game.

Today is a big day in Brooklyn. The Dodgers will be feted by Borough President John Cashmore and the citizenry with a parade through the downtown section.

Officials said it would be "an orderly and dignified ceremony in keeping with the spirit of Brooklyn."

Just to be on the safe side, though, 1,500 police have been ordered on duty.

Bronx Borough President James J. Lyons dispatched a telegram to Brooklyn Borough President John Cashmore, which read in part:

"... You may be sure the Bronx Bombers will annihilate the Brooklyn Dodgers. Your visit to the borough of universities will at least benefit your people and improve their culture."

The first World Series ball will be tossed out by a nine-year-old boy, a victim of New York's heavy infantile paralysis epidemic this year.

He is Bruce Howard, and he will watch the series as a guest of Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

No Change In Condition

STRATHAVEN, Lanarkshire, Scotland, Oct. 4 (CP)—Condition of Sir Harry Lauder, famed Scottish comedian who has been critically ill several weeks, was reported unchanged Monday. Sir Harry, ill with cerebral thrombosis and uraemia, is understood to be resting quietly and no longer losing strength. He is 79.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

The time of decision is at hand for Danny Lewicki, the Port William boy who is one of the brightest young hockey stars to come up in years.

His choice lies between negotiating with Toronto Maple Leafs on a professional contract or facing suspension from both professional and amateur hockey.

The suspension threat was voiced Monday by President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League who said in Montreal that "if the Maple Leafs have lived up to their commitments and Lewicki refused to sign a pro contract with them, his suspension will be virtually automatic."

Matters came to a head rapidly Monday.

First, a Stratford dispatch reported Lewicki had received an offer of $4,000 a season for two seasons from the Leafs plus $2,000 for signing a contract and had countered with a demand for $10,000 a season for two seasons and $2,500 for signing.

Then Conny Smythe, general manager of the Leafs, said the $4,000 offer was made Sept. 21. He had not heard from Lewicki since. Friday he sent word to the player to open negotiations for a contract under the commitment he made in summer when he signed a renewal of his NHL C form with the Leafs. But there was no response.

Monday morning, said Smythe, he gave up hope of negotiating with Lewicki directly and turned the case over to Campbell.

The world series starting Wednesday will be broadcast over 740 stations and 51 television stations—peak totals for both mediums.

Montreal Clips Indians 3-1 In Third Game

MONTREAL, Oct. 4 (CP)—Three runs in the bottom half of the fifth inning were enough to give Montreal Royals a 3-1 victory over Indianapolis Indians in the third game of the Little World Series here Monday night.

Indians now lead the best of seven series two games to one. All remaining games will be played in Indianapolis.

Royals managed only three hits off Mel Queen, two of them coming in the fifth when, aided by an error, the Montreals scored all their runs. Queen was lifted for a pinchhitter in the seventh and Chet Johnson held Royals hitless until the end.

Meanwhile, Indians reached Dan Bankhead for five hits but managed to tally only once in the sixth inning.

Bankhead held Indians hitless until the fifth when catcher Clyde Klutts singled. The big Negro right hander struck out six batters and walked only four.

The Royals meanwhile had got only one hit off Queen, a scratch single Al Giphfriddo in the first. Then in the fifth George Schmees opened with a walk. When centre fielder Ted Beard let Rocky Bridges single roll through his legs, Schmees scored the first Royal run and Bridges went all the way to third.

Toby Atwell followed with another single that scored Bridges and Atwell later scored on Gionfriddo's long fly to centre.

Newcombe and Reynolds Probable Series' Starters

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP)—Following a mind-reading session with the opposing managers, Don Newcombe and Allie Reynolds emerged as the probable pitchers for tomorrow's world series opener between Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees.

Burt Shotton, elderly keeper of the Brooks, said "you'll know Wednesday" about the Dodger starter at the Yankee Stadium. Casey Stengel was still huddling with his brain trusters. The jury may be in by sundown.

For the Dodgers it's almost certain to be Newcombe (17-8), the jumbo-sized rookie right-hander, or Preacher Roe (15-6), the crafty southpaw ace. Roe needs several days rest between starts. Newcombe, if he opens, could work three times in a seven-game series.

As for the Yanks, it's strictly a guess. Chances are that Fireman Joe Page will be striding in from the right field bullpen along about the sixth or seventh inning to mop up no matter what. He did it 60 times this season, 20 times for Reynolds.

Reynolds is ready. The chief has started many of Stengel's most important series, and when there is a "must" game to be won Allie (17-6) usually has been the man picked.

Tommy Byrne (15-7), the unpredictable southpaw who either walks eight or 10 or throws a one-hitter, is a possibility.

Ed Lopat (15-10) might get the nod from Stengel. However, the chunky left hander was belted out in three innings by Philadelphia A's Friday.

The odds, which now are close to 2 to 1 in favor of the Yanks, appear out of line. It's not such a lopsided thing as that, although the pick here is the Yankees in six games.

Both clubs are weary and battered. The Yanks' 71 injuries have received top billing because such important men as Joe DiMaggio, Yogi Berra and Tommy Henrich had been affected. But the Dodgers' hospital list has been imposing.

There is no certainty that Carl Furillo, the .322 hitting right-fielder, will be able to open because of a bad leg. Pee Wee Reese has hernia trouble.

Rest figures to help both teams, the Yanks the most. DiMaggio, still thin and weak from the after effects of a virus infection, looked better. He is improving, but still is not up to snuff.

Henrich, tightly corseted a week ago because of a back injury, has thrown away his girdle. Berra's hand is much improved. There also is a chance that catcher Charley Silvera, with .315 batting average, may be available.

Newsman Meeting In Halifax Recalls AP's First News Service

HALIFAX, Oct. 4 (CP)—Canadian Press directors, meeting here Monday to discuss modern transmission of news and pictures from coast to coast, paused briefly to remember a newspaper man who used carrier pigeons, pony express, fast steam packet and telegraph to establish the first Associated Press foreign service here 100 years ago.

CP is allied with AP in the big job of bringing the world's news to the newspaper reader and radio listener and the CP board of directors passed a resolution in recognition of the anniversary.

The inauguration of the Halifax-to-New York "Express" route in 1849 for the dissemination of European news also marked the beginning of the co-operatively owned AP. It has grown into the world's largest co-operative news service, serving more than 4,250 daily newspapers and radio stations throughout the world.

Before 1849, the biggest news of the day—that from Britain—reached metropolitan papers in the eastern United States by ship through Halifax. When the telegraph was extended up the eastern seaboard to Saint John, N.B., some newspapers saw that the much shorter Halifax-to-Saint John overland route might be utilized by stock speculators.

United Kingdom market quotations—or which fortunes depended—could be wired to New York long before the steamers arrived.

Craig Appointed
Six New York newspapers decided to offset any such possibility and make all world news generally available. They formed the Associated Press—with estimated yearly operating costs of $20,000—and hired an ingenious Boston newspaper man, Dan

Craig, to manage the Halifax end of a horse and telegraph service. Craig, already noted for scooping the opposition more than once, mapped a route across Nova Scotia from Halifax to Victoria Beach near Digby, where dispatches would be put aboard a Saint John-bound packet steamer. At first, he had competition from an express run by "some mercantile gentlemen in the United States."

Both outfits did the 146-mile grueling ride with only one change of horsemen at Kentville and fresh mounts every 12 miles. For nine months—until the service was superseded by telegraph lines extended to Halifax—riders plunged along the lonely, wooded trail day and night and they missed only one trip.

On March 8, two competing riders streaked out of Halifax "at a speed unprecedented in this country," records the Nova Scotia Historical Society. The men lashed their foaming horses through forests, across brooks and over hills.

Nothing Daunted
After leaving Windsor, AP's man was thrown, knocked unconscious and lamed. He got up and made the next 18 miles in 53 minutes along the wildest part of the route. He pounded into Victoria Beach only 2½ minutes behind his competitor and his was the only boat ready for the 43-mile Bay of Fundy crossing to Saint John. His total time was 8½ hours.

Craig's stories rated extras in New York and later, Boston and Philadelphia. He met inbound steamers at sea and sent his stories ashore by carrier pigeon. He once used the pigeons 50 miles at sea, beating a competitor aboard the same boat.

veteran of the Spanish civil war, as Chancellor or Prime Minister. Foreign diplomatic circles in Moscow were reported of the opinion that Russia signalled for such a government when she protested to the governments of the United States, Britain, and France last week-end that establishment of a West-German government at Bonn had created a "new situation." Informed British sources in London also were of the opinion that an eastern rival to the federal republic at Bonn soon will be proclaimed with pretensions to representing all Germany.

Only Few People Can Be Rich But Many Can Avoid Poverty

The present is the best time ever offered for people to save, said J. E. (Joe) McCully, until recently the assistant superintendent of the Bank of Montreal in Toronto, to the Rotary Club on Monday. Mr. McCully is leaving Canada to take up a similar position with the bank in New York.

People today have three times as much money as before the war, Mr. McCully said. He added that everyone knew hard times are ahead and that the post-war prosperity was not going to continue on endlessly.

Mr. McCully read from Billy Rose's Pitching Horseshoes telling of financial organization presidents who in recent years died poverty-stricken or committed suicide from financial distress. These men, Mr. McCully said, had learned to make money and not to save it.

He urged that all people learn to save their money without being compelled to do so. A savings plan, he said, was no good unless it is regular.

Wills, Mr. McCully said, should be made by everyone and put in safety deposit boxes. If no will is made, he added, the Legislature will step in and do the necessary work. He explained that nothing can be done after death to correct what is neglected. A will will keep the time of settlement at a minimum as well as the cost.

Once a year, suggested Mr. McCully, everyone should make out a financial statement which should be placed in a safety deposit box. The statement should include the value of all furniture, house, car, stocks, bonds, and all money in the bank in one column and all debts in the other, with a balance struck at the bottom of the statement. He said the net gain should grow from year to year, and if not, the reason for it not doing so should be discovered. Mr. McCully suggested a budget should be used to control a person's spending, saying that if a person is not a dictator of his money, he will remain a slave of it forever.

Only a few can be rich, he said, but most people can avoid poverty. If a man is poverty-stricken, he has only himself to blame, he said.

Mr. McCully was introduced by Charles Cummer and thanked by E. L. Sackville.

Walter B. Schulte of Freeport, Illinois, was presented with an ashtray given weekly to the visitor from the greatest distance. Sidney Black, who introduced the guests, made the presentation.

Chairman of the revenue committee, Gordon Munro, announced that the draw for the car would take place at the Civic Arena on Friday, October 14, when the Lindsay Meteors will play the Peterborough Legion, 1948 Senior B Ontario champions in an exhibition game.

President Harley Keefer announced that there would be no meeting next Monday.

AFL To Demand More Increases

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 4 (AP)—The AFL leadership Monday rejected the United States government's current no-pay-boost formula and counselled workers against any let-up in seeking wage increases.

William Green, AFL president, said in a keynote address opening the Federation's annual convention that the big labor body will "constantly" strive for higher wages.

Green hit out at President Truman's steel fact-finding board's recommendations against any wage raises at this time for American workers. That board called for employer paid welfare programs, instead, saying wage changes could upset the national economy.

Green said the AFL never has "waived our right to demand wage increases for the workers of America—and we are not going to do it."

Bouquet For Canada

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (CP)—The Washington News paid editorial tribute to Canada Monday and said the Dominion has become one of the world's "great powers." In an editorial entitled "Canada to the Front," the News hinged its comment on the election of L. B. Pearson, external affairs minister, as chairman of the United Nations political committee and said this emphasized Canada's "increasing voice in world affairs."

Producer Of Play Returns To Canada

QUEBEC, Oct. 4 (CP)—Mrs. Douglas Blair of Ottawa, producer of "Eros At Breakfast," a play which the Ottawa Drama Group presented at the Edinburgh, Scotland, Drama Festival early last September, is returning home from Europe.

She is aboard the liner Empress of Canada which made a brief stop-over here en route to Montreal where she is expected to arrive tonight.

Mrs. Blair, second of the Ottawa group of six to return to Canada, said the play was enthusiastically received in Scotland and that she returns home "more impressed than ever by the high standards of Canadian plays."

Ad Limina Visit Bishop Berry Goes To Rome

Most Rev. Gerald Berry is leaving on Friday on his first visit to Rome since his elevation to the episcopacy.

According to canon law the bishop of a diocese is expected to make this "ad limina" visit every four years if circumstances permit. He is required to make directly to the Pope as head of the Roman Catholic Church a report on the spiritual and temporal state of the diocese. In the last ten years few bishops were able to visit Rome during the war period, but many of them have visited Pope Pius XII during the last year or two.

Bishop Berry is sailing from Montreal Saturday for Liverpool and will spend some time in England, Germany, France—including the shrine of the Blessed Virgin Mary at Lourdes—and Italy. He will be absent from Peterborough seven weeks. Monsignor F. J. O'Sullivan, V.G. DP, will be in charge of the diocese during that time.

At the conclusion of the regular October devotions tonight, there will be departure prayers for the safe journey of Bishop Berry, who will be accompanied by Rev. P. Butler, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Rev. J. J. McCarthy of St. Joseph's Church, Douro, will be the speaker at tonight's devotions.

FIRE ALARM FALSE

The usual number of fire-truck chasers were disappointed Monday night. Shortly after 9 p.m. the fire department was informed that the residence of James Gates on Dunlop St. was afire. When firemen got there however they found no trace of fire. And the would-be spectators, following hard after the reels mostly in cars, were forced to return home disappointed at their fruitless chase.

Mayor Casts Deciding Vote On Motion To Reduce Recreation Costs in City

In a tied division of the council Monday night, Mayor Swanson cast the deciding vote in favor of an amendment to reconsider broadly through a committee the future of the Recreation Commission.

The motion by Ald. Grant Miller, seconded by Ald. Adam Sands was: "That the Recreation Commission be requested not to renew the expiring contract of the recreational director, Mr. Jack Dane, and that all other remunerated personnel of the Commission be disbanded as of Dec. 31."

"That the officers of the present Recreation Commission continue in office until some modification or amalgamation is considered early in 1950."

An amendment by Ald. J. E. Gillespie, council representative on the Commission, seconded by Ald. Hurrell Dods, suggested that the subject of the motion be considered by a small committee for a report at the next council meeting Oct. 17.

"I think a committee should be named to study this matter of scaling down the Recreation Commission," Ald. Gillespie said. "I think it would be better than making a decision tonight that would affect the future of the Commission."

Voting for the amendment, by show of hands, were: Aldermen Waddell, Gillespie, Raine, Dods, Young. They comprised half the aldermanic body of the council.

Mayor Swanson did not call for those opposed. Presumably he expected a tie vote. He briefly said that it appeared to be wise to give Ald. Grant Miller's idea some thought, and declared the amendment carried. The members of the committee named by His Worship were: Ald. Hugh Waddell, chairman; Ald. Dick Raine and Ald. Doug Miller.

In a preface to his motion Ald. Grant Miller said that the forecast of municipal financing recently given to the council by Edward Humpage, city auditor, indicated the obligations which would face the city for some years to come. The council had control over only part of them.

"The requirement of $24,000 for the Recreation Commission appeared to be a luxury in a time of burdensome taxation, and if the council was to offer any solution to the rising tax rate it should begin on that kind of expenditure where an adjustment could be made."

"We are endeavoring to attract industries to Peterborough, and one way of helping to do so is by keeping control of the taxes," Ald. G. Miller continued. "I feel that we have come to the time when we must retrench to some extent. I want to make myself clear. There is no personal reason involved in this motion. It is no reflection whatever on the salaried personnel or on the members and officers of the Recreation Commission. I think they have done a good job. The motion is recommended solely in a feeling of enforced economy."

Ald. J. E. Gillespie said the financing of the Commission was for $21,500. Of that amount, $3,500 was for the Citizens Band. "I was appointed to the Recreation Commission this year. I think Ald. Miller has the right idea that expenditure be cut down somewhere, but there are several things in the Commission's program on which money can't be saved. One is the operation of the playgrounds and the other is for life guards and swimming in the lake."

Men's Chorus To Open Concert Season

Mrs. W. B. Brown, president of the Community Concert Association, announced today that the series of concerts to be presented this season will begin November 3. That night the Depaur Infantry Chorus, 36 ex-servicemen who have been climbing to fame since World War Two ended, will be the guest entertainers.

Other concerts will be January 20, Bartlett and Robertson, a duet piano team who on their last appearance in Peterborough brought down the house; February 8, talented members of the local Concert Association will present the evening's entertainment. — March 6 Kathleen Ferrier, noted British contralto, will sing.

Tickets for the season's concerts were mailed Tuesday.

569 Take Out 'Y' Membership

A total of 569 members were admitted into the YMCA during the recent membership campaign, team captains reported at a meeting Monday in the YMCA. Four hundred and sixty-three of the members are renewals and 106, new members. There are still 150 renewal prospects to hear from. Chairman of the membership campaign, Stanley Payne congratulated the division majors and team captains on the work they did last week.

Gordon Minty, honorary swimming instructor at the YMCA, said the highest number of members, 29, Ron Doughty's team, No. 15, was the high team gathering a total of 820 points for getting 27 members to renew their membership and 17 people to join the YMCA. Team 9, jointly captained by Kenneth Kingston and Arthur Lewis, were runners-up with 700 points, 50 renewals and three new members.

In Division A the teams had 193 renewals and 44 new members while Division B had 175 renewals and 37 new members. The office in the YMCA accepted 95 renewals and 25 new members.

Thanks Expressed By Virginian Group

A glow of appreciation of Peterborough's hospitality remained with the recent touring group of members of Virginia Beach, Va., Chamber of Commerce, as expressed in a grateful letter to Mayor Swanson which was read at the council meeting Monday night.

The letter was written by Albin Mailhes, secretary of the Chamber.

"Dear Mayor Swanson: We are back in Virginia with wonderful memories of our delightful trip through the beautiful resort country of southern Ontario.

"To us it is quite natural to say 'southern Ontario' after our visit with you, for we can look back feeling ashamed to abuse the word hospitality the way we have in the south for so many years.

"Hospitality to us in the future will mean the people of Ontario.

"We were greatly impressed with your country, and we feel that you are qualified salesmen for you since we are completely sold on your resorts. It is our hope that our exchange of visits will be most beneficial to all of us.

"Mrs. Mailhes joins me in expressing our deep appreciation to you for the part you played in making our visit so enjoyable."

Peterborough Matron Planted One Seed And Lo! It Turned Out A Big Lemon

You don't have to go to California to see tropical fruit grow. Skeptics can confirm this for themselves from the experience of Mrs. Elsie Brook of 688 Monaghan Rd.

Mrs. Brook has a lemon plant in her window that boasts a fruit as big, if not bigger, than the ordinary lemon you can buy at a store.

The whole thing began as an experiment with Mrs. Brook about a year ago. She poked a lemon seed into some earth in one of her flower pots; and she watered it daily along with the rest of her plants.

Parking Meters Under Fire Of Town Council

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4—(ENS)—Town council had a heated argument at its Monday meeting about the parking meters. The discussion arose out of a resolution instructing clerk J. F. McGregor to write the Mi-Co Meter Company of Montreal that unless a reply to the town solicitor's letter regarding the removal of the meters was received in seven days, the parking meters would be taken out of service.

The motion was moved by Councillor Davidson and seconded by Councillor Nicholas. Councillor McMillan said that the Mayor had signed the contract in good faith and it was up to the council to honor it.

"The resolution is a threat, therefore I cannot support it," asserted Councillor Maier.

"I am not in favor," said Councillor MacMillan, "of involving the corporation in a law suit. Contradictory Statements

Deputy-Reeve Ralph Locke maintained the meters were driving business to other towns.

This assertion was contradicted by Councillor MacMillan. He named a local butcher who said that his business had increased since the installation of meters.

"There were 72 names of business men on Frank DeCarroll's petition," stated Councillor Kelly, "that was not affected by meters. They carry no weight in claiming that business had declined," he added.

Backing his resolution, Councillor Davidson said that he had made it drastic in order to produce results.

Solicitor's Letter Criticized

Councillor Maier severely criticized the town solicitor's letter to the company, claiming that he had expressed his personal views when he said that the town was too small and the country too conservative for meters.

"He did not receive these instructions from the Council," stated Councillor Maier. "I believe these personal views had an unfavorable reaction on the company," he added.

After further discussion the Mayor put the question and the vote resulted in a tie. "There is nothing I can do but vote against the resolution," said the Mayor.

Councillor Maier moved a resolution that the clerk be instructed to write the Mi-Co Meter Company, asking for a reply to the town solicitor's letter and that the Council would appreciate a call from Mr. Cameron, salesman for the company. The motion, seconded by Deputy-Reeve Locks, was carried.

Another Apprentice Course In Bricklaying Suggested

New houses with unlad bricks stacked in their yards, and winter approaching, suggested to Ald. H. Dods that possibly another class of apprentices might be organized in Peterborough.

"I have been wondering whether arrangements could be made for a class similar to that which was conducted by Mr. Albert Cuffe during the war," Ald. Dods said. "We would have to consult the Bricklayers' Association about it. Only one apprentice to so many journeymen was allowed in the other school."

Ald. Dick Raine said the wartime school was sponsored by contractors in an emergency of getting qualified help. "They got a grant of $1,500 from the Council. The school was a real success. I understand most of the boys remained in Peterborough, but some of them went to the States."

Brickwork Unfinished

Ald. Dods said it appeared that houses might not be bricked in time for the cold weather, but that families would probably move into them.

Ald. A. B. Burrows recalled that the Department of Veterans Affairs was interested in the first school project. Seven of the 13 apprentices were veterans. An arrangement was made for their financial help during the course.

Bricklayers and contractors will be asked for their opinion of the proposal.

Faces Traffic Charge Judgment Reserved

Magistrate W. R. Philp, K. C., reserved his judgment after hearing evidence for more than an hour in city police court today concerning a traffic incident between a truck and a car on the 11th concession of Smith township Sept. 9.

Earl Dickson, Otonabee, was contesting the case in which he was charged with failing to allow half the road to an oncoming car driven by Jacob Sturzenegger, RR 3, Lakefield. The two vehicles were in collision on the township road and the incident was investigated by Cpl. L. A. McClure of K.C. was defence counsel.

The magistrate will deliver his judgment Oct. 11.

William Blaine McGregor, 737 New Chamberlain St., pleaded not guilty to attempted theft of an Irwin-Godson Ltd. vehicle. He was remanded until Oct. 12 with bail set at $1,000.

Some material is required to finish the cabinets built around the new sink on the third floor. The letter was referred to the property committee.

INSPECT EQUIPMENT

Four men, Warrant Officer 1 George Fraser, Warrant Officer 2 W. E. Elliott, Staff-Sgt. Fred Toms and Staff-Sgt. Len Smith, all of Headquarters No. 3 Company, RCEME, Kingston, are inspecting the guns and instruments at the armoury. They will be here Thursday.

HOLD MEET

Al Clark, physical director at the YMCA and chairman of the Kiwanis Club's Little Olympics, said this morning that the annual meet will be held definitely this Saturday at the Exhibition Grounds. A number of school meets have been held in the past week and he hopes the competition will be keener with these extra meets.

MAKE TWO CALLS

Firemen made two of their usual colder weather calls Monday afternoon. Within 20 minutes they went to the residence of K. Bleakley, 489 Murray St., for a chimney fire, and then to 264 McDonnell St., residence of E. Grange where there was a flooded oil burner. In neither case was an extinguisher used.

CONFISCATE GUNS

Hunters trying to beat the gun on partridge and duck shooting opening dates are getting short shrift from Game Warden Reg. McCulloch of Campbellford. During the week-end he is reported to have confiscated eight or nine firearms from lawbreakers. The season for partridges in Peterborough and Victoria Counties, north of Highway 7, is October 8-20 and November 14-23. Duck hunting begins October 15.

PLAN FOR REUNION

A meeting of former members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment now residing in Peterborough has been called for Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. by M. A. Gahagan, the president of the local chapter. The meeting will be held in the Legion Hall and plans will be completed for the coming reunion of this regiment.

ORGANIZE LEAGUE

Members of the house basketball league committee will hold an organization meeting in the YMCA Wednesday night. A six-team league will be arranged and the teams for the opening night's play will be chosen. Saturday night is planned as the opening night. Players wishing to play must register at the YMCA by Wednesday night.

MORE BIRTHS IN 1949

In line with Peterborough's increased population the vital statistics for September show an increase over those of a year ago. The comparison of 1948 and 1949 are respectively as follows: Births 140 and 143, marriages 48 and 4, deaths 27 and 32. The discrepancy in marriage figures is because the new wedding licences do not contain a form for municipal records. All four recorded in September were on the old forms.

Autumn Beauty Attracts Many To Rural Scene

Autumn beauty of the Haliburton Highlands attracted hundreds of Peterborough motorists last week-end and if the weather is fine over Thanksgiving, many plan to return. The countryside is at its best and up Haliburton way local boosters claim their scenery is the most showy in the province. Local motorists concede that it is pretty fine but cannot excel their own Kawartha.

The popular drive, many found, was to leave Lindsay on Highway 35 continuing to Rosedale and after a short visit to Gull River dam to continue through Coburn to Norland. It was worthwhile to stop at Moore's Falls, Miner's Bay and the power dam at Minden. To pause at Carnarvon for a view of the foliage on the shores of Twelve Mile Lake was worth while, they found. Maple Lake and West Gullford also had something special to offer in the way of scenery.

Other Sunday tourists reached the Kilmount country from Essexville through Troy Hill, Gooderham, Irondale and Furnace Falls. At Fenelon a few made an acquaintance with Blondie, a pet deer at a popular service station that wears a bell on her neck. She roams at large and returns each night to her home pen except in hunting season when she is locked for safety.

SAYS WALLS SLANT

A. E. Watkins, assistant building inspector, estimated to the council last night that repairs to the community building at Burnham's Point would cost $250. He reported that the north and south walls "are leaning out two or three inches, caused by the main ties across the building having been cut and not replaced." His letter was referred to the property committee.

Praises Oliver
For Resigning

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 4 (CP)—Farquhar Oliver's idealism in carrying out his promise to resign as leader of the Ontario Liberal Party was praised here Monday night by Campbell C. Calder, Liberal MPP for London.

Mr. Calder, who has announced his candidature for the leadership of the Young Liberals' Association of the University of Western Ontario.

He said that when Mr. Oliver was chosen leader in 1947, he stressed he would not be content to remain as leader of the opposition and if he failed to lead his party to victory at the next election he would give up the post.

Mr. Oliver has done that, and he did it gracefully, said Mr. Calder. "I imagine there are quite a few Conservatives who would like to see George Drew do the same. Mr. Oliver never considered the Liberal party his private property. He is a great fighter, and when he speaks in the Legislature he commands the attention and respect of all the members."

Sunday Sports
For Toronto
Will Go To Vote

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP)—Toronto citizens will vote in the municipal election, Jan. 1, on the question of Sunday sport.

After hours of heated debate on the original motion asking for a vote on a wide-open Sunday with cocktail bars, race tracks, motion pictures and entertainment centres operating as on week days, council amended the motion to read:

"Are you in favor of the city of Toronto seeking legislation to make amateur, professional and other forms of commercial sport legal on Sunday?"

Although the motion was passed by a 14-4 vote, most council members were opposed to Sunday sport, but wanted the contentious question settled officially.

Charging that Sunday sport was merely the initial step toward a wide-open Sunday, Ald. Roy E. Belyea called the plebiscite "the thin edge of the wedge for a noisy minority."

Con. Allan Lamport countered with "nobody is asking for a wide-open Sunday. All we want is a bright Sunday in which healthy, athletic activities may be enjoyed by participants and spectators alike."

Much of the opposition was based on the belief that the city had no right to question the people on a matter under the jurisdiction of the provincial and federal governments. Ontario Sunday law, in existence now, is virtually the same as the present Lord's Day Act of Canada. It states that only works of emergency or mercy shall be performed on Sunday, thereby outlawing any commercial sports on Sunday.

Sends Congratulations
OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP)—Defence Minister Brooke Claxton Monday sent a message of congratulations to the RCAF for the way memorial ceremonies were handled at Trenton, last Friday. OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP)—Manitoba pays the highest average old-age pension of any Canadian province and Prince Edward Island pays the lowest, it was shown in a Commons return tabled Monday by Health Minister Martin. The average Manitoba pension was $37.96 a month. In Prince Edward Island the average pension was $26.42 a month. Average old-age pensions in Ontario, with the average blind pension in brackets, is $37.06 ($37.64).

Outline Details Of Britain's Dollar Crisis

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

The current issue of the Economic Record, published from the United Kingdom Information Office in Ottawa, contains a study of Britain's dollar crisis.

In its introduction it comments: "It is completely misleading to think of this problem as exclusively British. Britain is in the forefront because she is the world's largest trading nation."

After a resume of the trade changes which have followed two wars it adds: "The explanation of Britain's grave dollar situation is largely to be found in her great loss of 'invisible earnings' before the Second World War. Britain's income from 'invisibles' paid for almost 40 per cent of her retained imports, whereas in 1948 'invisibles' paid for only 5.5 per cent of her imports."

75,000TH NHA HOUSE—RCAF Veteran Paul Bergman, of Winnipeg, and his family found there was special significance to completion of their five-room bungalow when they were greeted by a ceremony at their new home on September 30. Built by the owner's father, Winnipeg contractor Walter Bergman, the house is the 75,000th unit constructed with National Housing Act financial assistance. Another 20,000 houses, similarly financed, are now under construction. Among the hundreds on hand to welcome the young couple and their daughter, Gail Denise, were: The Hon. R. F. McWilliams, KC, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba; Mayor Garnet Coulter, KC, of Winnipeg, who presented the keys of the house to the Bergman family; Mrs. Monica McQueen, Winnipeg, a member of the Board of Directors of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and Major-General Hugh A. Young, CB, CBE, DSO, of Ottawa, Vice-President of the Crown Company.

Outline Details
Of Britain's Dollar Crisis

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

The current issue of the Economic Record, published from the United Kingdom Information Office in Ottawa, contains a study of Britain's dollar crisis.

In its introduction it comments: "It is completely misleading to think of this problem as exclusively British. Britain is in the forefront because she is the world's largest trading nation."

After a resume of the trade changes which have followed two wars it adds: "The explanation of Britain's grave dollar situation is largely to be found in her great loss of 'invisible earnings' before the Second World War. Britain's income from 'invisibles' paid for almost 40 per cent of her retained imports, whereas in 1948 'invisibles' paid for only 5.5 per cent of her imports."

"The reason for this catastrophic decline in invisible earnings are well known. Britain had to sell off the most valuable part of her foreign investments during the war to a total value of £1,125,000,000 ($4,500,000,000 before devaluation)."

"She incurred increased indebtedness totalling £2,900,000,000 ($11,500,000,000). A large part of her merchant shipping was sunk. In addition, her government expenditures overseas after the war (largely for military reasons) is far greater than before the war."

The Economic Record also goes into Britain's responsibilities for the dollar requirements of the whole sterling area.

Thistlewaite Sets Course Record

W. Thistlewaite of the Peterborough Harriers Club won the third annual Lakefield-Peterborough 10-mile road race and bettered Jack Martin's 1947 record by more than 11 minutes, with Dave McNeil finishing a close second, and Jack Martin third. The winner was clocked in 64 minutes and three seconds, as McNeil did the distance in 64:15 and Martin went it in 70 minutes.

Seven started and four finished. The pace was set by Martin who took a big lead, with Dougherty on his heels, followed by McNeil and Thistlewaite. Flowers—a sprinter—trailing. After three miles, Martin was still in front, Thistlewaite and McNeil moving up, going at about six minutes the mile. Near the halfway mark, Dougherty (a half-miler) dropped out. Thistlewaite took over the lead, followed by McNeil. Martin running nicely at his own pace.

Got Cramps
At six miles, Martin had to stop running, owing to stomach cramps, McNeil taking over the lead. Martin lost much ground but he kept in the race as they opened it up more. Near the nine-mile mark, Thistlewaite tried but couldn't take the lead from McNeil. Coming down Water St., Thistlewaite twice was shaken off but at 150 yards from the finish he forged in front with both running strongly. He was forced to sprint all the way to make the tape ahead of McNeil. Coach McCreedy said that, if Martin had not been hit with cramps, the race would have been faster and closer. Some 20 minutes after, a lone figure trotted to the finish, Jim Flowers, the sprinter, sticking it out at a dog-trot in an hour and 20 for the conditioning. All who finished showed good conditioning and coaching. Harriers now get ready for the club cross-country and the 30-mile relay at Toronto.

Canada's First Jetliner Goes Through Its Paces

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP)—North America's first jet-powered commercial transport, the Canadian-designed and built Avro Jetliner, will be unveiled to the public today.

The flight comes almost 40 years to the hour after Wilbur Wright made the first flight of any distance—some four miles—in a heavier than air craft at New York on Oct. 4, 1909.

After two months of test flights officials of A. V. Roe Canada Ltd. will put the big craft through its paces for military and civilian aviation officials and members of the press of both Canada and the United States at Toronto's suburban Malton airport at 2:30 this afternoon.

Trade Minister Howe, Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, Chief of Staff of the RCAF, and Hon. Laurence Steinhardt, U. S. Ambassador to Canada, are flying from Ottawa to watch the jetliner perform. Also attending will be civilian aviation officials and editors of Canadian and U. S. publications. Another Canadian achievement, a new jet fighter plane, will make its maiden flight before the end of the year. Officials hope that this Canadian-designed and Canadian built jet fighter will be more suitable for Canadian flying conditions than either the British Vampire jet now used by the RCAF, or the U. S. designed P-51 Sabre which is scheduled to replace the Vampires in the RC AF.

The jet transport plane, which made its first flight Aug. 10 shortly after the world's first jetliner was in the air in England, has undergone a series of test flights following its crash landing on Aug. 16 during a demonstration flight for the employees of the company. The plane, which was forced to land with its wheels up when the crew were unable to lower the landing gear, was only slightly damaged at that time.

Tito Warns USSR Yugoslavia Defends Itself

BELGRADE, Oct. 4 (AP)—Premier Marshal Tito, accusing Russia of trying to "endanger a small people," has bluntly warned that Yugoslavia is ready to defend itself to the last breath.

In one of his toughest speeches since Yugoslavia's feud with the Soviet bloc began, Tito told his army officers that Russia "has been forging its iron" against its one-time Communist partner.

Unmistakably aiming at Russia Tito said in a speech made public Monday night:

"No one has the right, regardless of who he may be, to endanger a small people."

"We are prepared," the Yugoslav chief added, "to defend this country to the last breath, regardless of the attack comes."

"It pays to live," he added, "but it pays to die as one should."

Tito spoke at the conclusion of Yugoslavia's biggest troop manoeuvres this year. Obviously pleased with the showing his soldiers had made, he said he was convinced of the army's ability to defend Yugoslavia.

"Where the Soviet Union is in the right," he asserted, "we shall go along with it. If it is not in the right and if its stand is a hypocritical one, we will call that by its right name."

Tito referred to his charges of a week ago that Russia and her satellites are "rattling their arms" around Yugoslavia's borders, as part of Russia's pressure campaign to oust him and his top lieutenants.

Sullivan performed the ceremony and said the nuptial mass. Wedding music was played by Mrs. J. Armstrong, organist, and Mrs. Clare Connelly sang during the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of white satin with long train, and lily point sleeves, and Chantilly lace formed a yoke and peplum. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was caught to a beaded crown and van, bridesmaid. They were attired alike in gowns of mist grey nylon marquisette over apricot taffeta, made on similar lines to the bride's dress. They wore matching crownless hats with shirred brims and carried cascades of apricot gladioli.

The groomsmen were Mr. Harold McDonald of Niagara Falls, Ontario. Ushers were Messrs. Harold Brain and R. J. Ross of Oshawa, George Ingram of Midland, John G. Sullivan of St. Catharines and George G. Sullivan of Peterborough.

The Kewartha Golf and Country Club was the setting for the wedding reception. The bride's mother assisted to receive, gown in cocoa brown tissue faille and wearing a matching profile hat with plumes shading pink to brown, and corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother also received, and was wearing grey sheer with black and white print, a matching hat and corsage of Sweetheart roses.

After their trip to the Laurentians, Mr. and Mrs. Egerer will reside in Oshawa. The bride chose for travelling a dressmaker suit of autumn brown gabardine and accessories in fern green.

she carried a bouquet of American beauty roses.

Her matron of honor was Mrs. Vernon Grady, wearing a gown of pink taffeta with matching net overskirt and carrying a bouquet of mauve 'mums. Bridesmaids were her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ted Collins, frocked in mauve brocade taffeta and carrying yellow 'mums, and her sister, Miss Marjorie Collins, in green taffeta with net overskirt, and carrying bronze 'mums. Flower girls were her two young sisters, Gail and Ann Collins, the former dressed in yellow net over matching taffeta, and the latter in white net over pink taffeta, and they carried variegated bouquets of baby 'mums. Each attendant wore a headdress of flowers with veiling to match her dress.

The groomsmen were the bride's brother, Mr. Leo Collins, and the ushers were Bill Primeau and Ted Collins.

The reception was held at the bride's home, where her mother received in a dress of green crepe, black hat and accessories and wearing Talisman roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who was in grey gabardine and black accessories and wore a corsage of pink Broadcliffe roses.

The couple left later for a honeymoon in New York city. When going-away the bride was wearing a blue dress, navy hat and accessories and a grey gabardine topcoat. Her corsage was of Rapture roses. They will reside on Edinburgh St.

DOROTHY DIX

Must Accompany Hubby On Middle-Age Flings

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I married very young and are now past middle age. Our five children are married. We have always lived happily together, but now a break has come in our lives because my husband wants to go with a fast set and has been going on wild parties. He begs me to go with him and says he does nothing that I cannot do. He says that we married so young we didn't have any fun when we were a girl and boy and now that we haven't very long to live we should get the most out of our lives. He is hurt and worried when I refuse to go and try to keep him from going. I have two reasons for not doing so. One is that I don't care for that kind of life. The other is that I am jealous of two women who go. He says my jealousy is without foundation. What should I do? Go with him or refuse to let him go?

A WORRIED WIFE

ANSWER: If you have a grain of intelligence in your head and want to save your home, you will get yourself the best-looking clothes you can purchase and have a facial and a permanent and stay out with your husband while the invitation is still good.

Neglected

Otherwise you are going to find yourself one of the neglected wives who sit at home of an evening alone and think bitter thoughts while their husbands are out playing. And likely as not, you will end up in the divorce court because you are leaving the field open to the gold-diggers and they are hot on the trail of every man whose wife refuses to play with him. You have to keep up with your husband or else you lose him. There is no fact in nature truer than that.

Just remember that when your husband steps out he goes to places where he meets pretty young women, half your age, better looking than you even in your youth, who yes-yes him and fall into all of his plans and are full of laughter and gaiety and help him enjoy himself. Then you will perceive the folly of being a kill-joy and of interfering with his pleasure. Then you will see how little it profits you to have him contrast your mental attitude as well as your looks with these little playfellows.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: When people have to make their homes with some one else, why are they so difficult to get along with? Why do they develop such an extreme sensitiveness? Why can't they realize that others in the family need some consideration, too? Why must one tread on eggs in dealing with them? Why must they have special invitations to join family activities? Why must they wear the air of a martyr? In short, why can't they make the burden they are to others easier to bear?

ANSWER IF YOU CAN

ANSWER: I can't answer it. I gave up trying to answer the conundrum long ago. The only explanation I can suggest is that dependence is a shame that cuts so deeply into the soul of a man or woman that the wound always aches. Hence they set up sensitiveness as a sort of defense mechanism and spread their feelings all over the place so that it is impossible to move without stepping on them. It is their way of getting the attentions that they crave and making themselves important to the family circle. And that is pitifully childish, but it is pitiful all the same.

Of course, all of this does fake those who are dependent upon us harder to get along with, but their

Hat Designer Prefers Montreal to NY

By MARIENNE IZSAK

Canadian Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK (CP). — It isn't everyone who has made a success of their career who would be willing to start again at the bottom.

But Mary Goodfellow, Montreal-born hat designer who has an exclusive hat salon here, says if she were 20 years younger she would like to start her business in Montreal.

Miss Goodfellow, who believes there are a great many more opportunities for young people in Canada than when she started, featured some of her hats at a luncheon fashion show here recently.

"I believe that every woman looks better in a hat," said Miss Goodfellow firmly. "And women are beginning to realize that, whether it's worn with a tailored suit, winter coat, cocktail or evening dress, a hat will enhance their costume."

Complementing Miss Goodfellow's hats were coats and suits designed by Donald Norris, internationally famous designer. Mr. Norris comes from a long line of designers whose starting point was in 1800 at the Court of St. James.

His costumes featured handsome English tweeds in softly muted colors. Suits were distinguished by the detailed work on pockets and belts, and the blending of color, silhouette and movement.

Coats Are Roomy.

Nearly all coats shown were full and roomy, with stand-up collars and wide dolman sleeves. Sometimes they were belted, sometimes loose, and sometimes belted only at the back.

Perfect for football weather was an alpaca shortie coat with patch pockets and wide suede belt. At each side seam a short slit gave freedom of movement. A mosaic tweed coat with flowing back had the yoke and sleeves in solid brown tweed. Worn underneath, a suit of the same material had a solid-color skirt and mosaic jacket.

Another tweed suit in a muted cocoa shade had several inserts of lighter colors in the shoulder of the jacket and running vertically in the skirt.

An unusual treatment was given a camel brown tweed coat with dolman sleeves. The half belt which caught and fastened the fulness at the back widened at one end with a giant button at the widest point, giving it the effect of running on a bias.

DARK CONTINENT

Until the middle of the 19th century the area drained by the Congo river in central Africa was practically unknown.

Do Real Treats Emerge From Emergency Shelf

You know that well-advertised "emergency shelf" that we are advised—oh so often—to keep well-stocked?

Mine had one lone can of prepared meat on it last night, and it had its opportunity to rise to an emergency.

My young next door neighbor had to stay at home alone with the baby because her husband had an unexpected business call out of town. Apparently this is quite a trial, so I pushed my mending aside and asked her if she would like me to get together two more grass widows to play bridge. She would, I did.

An unplanned evening which should have seen my darning done turned out to be a good bridge game and ended with eight refreshments—at my neighbor's house—for her baby had to be "sat with." The other girls' husbands turned up quite late as did my son when he knew it was feeding time—and I had to improvise fast.

I hopped across the street to my house and grabbed the little square tin of "lunch meat" from the emergency shelf and sliced it thin and laid sliced processed cheese on it to stretch it for eight people and put the whole business on the broiler to warm through and brown.

I toasted buttered rye bread too.

Meanwhile over at my neighbor's house they were making coffee and setting the table. In a very few minutes I turned up with my offerings all arranged on a silver platter.

What they actually did with this food was make openface sandwiches on the rye bread. It was exceptionally good and well liked or I would not have given the description this much space.

A standby of one of my friends is her chicken salad toasted buns. If she does not have enough warning to buy the little tea buns at her favorite bakery, she makes fresh baking powder biscuits. Then she opens her famous can of commercially canned chicken (famous because she always replaces it when one is used up and because she makes so much fun of it) and mixes it with chopped celery and thick genuine mayonnaise. She spreads this on the split little buns and toasts them under the broiler.

These are very popular. I do the same trick but use nippy spready cheese mixed with chopped almonds and cream for the spread. This is attractive to look at and delicious to taste when toasted under a very hot broiler and served as quickly as possible.

Great Britain Sees End Of Surplus in Brides

By GRAHAM JENKINS

LONDON (Reuters).—After 100 may have to begin talking about years of "surplus women," Britain is "surplus men."

The National Marriage Guidance Council says it is estimated that about 12 years from now, if no unexpected incident disturbs the present trend, population figures for British men and women will be about equal.

Thereafter Britain may expect to find a small preponderance of marriageable men.

"It will be interesting," a spokesman for the Council commented, "to see what effect this significant change will have upon the attitude of young people to marriage."

"The average young man of today simply takes it for granted that there is a liberal supply of potential wives awaiting his choice."

"The average young woman knows that she must secure a husband without too much delay or she will find herself on the shelf."

But the Council considers that the term "surplus women," though widely used in Britain, is "unfortunate and grossly inaccurate" while the publicity given the whole matter has often been widely distorted.

Called For Polygamy
One writer, for instance, spoke of 2,000,000 women denied marriage and another shocked many with proposals to sanction polygamy to alleviate their plight.

Nevertheless, the Marriage Guidance Council believes that the number of marriageable girls without potential husbands has seldom been seriously high, when allowance is made for the women who lost their men in the First World War and for the fact that in advanced age groups the longevity of women gives them an overwhelming preponderance.

Emigration and war losses are considered the main causes of Britain's man shortage in the past. Today, however, the situation is undergoing a decided change with the preponderance of women in marriageable age groups steadily lot is so forlorn, they are so piteous, that those of us who do not have to find out how steep are the stairs in another man's house, as the Spanish proverb puts it, may well bear with them patiently and take the trouble to humor their weaknesses.

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think it is brutal to pinch a child to make it mind in the presence of guests? He cries, but they think he is crying because I scolded him. My mother says I am a snake to do it. She is angry at me every time I do it, she loses her head about it.

C. N. O.

ANSWER: I do not see how any mother could be so cruel as to bruise the tender flesh of a little child by pinching it. You are living too late. You belong in the days of the Inquisition and would have made a grand torturer. I don't believe it is necessary to beat up children to make them behave. If you will establish the habit of obedience of children in everyday life, you will not have to pinch them and make them mind in public.

Social Situations

SITUATION: You disagree with a statement made in a social conversation.

WRONG WAY: Say: "You're wrong" or "Where did you get that idea?"

RIGHT WAY: Prove your point with facts or a logical argument—but do it politely.

Leprosy Hard To Contract New Drugs Halt Disease

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP)—Maybe you heard this spine-tingling story during the war: A pretty girl received a bracelet from her fiancé serving in the Pacific Islands. It was a lovely piece of native craftsmanship. After a time she noticed some blotches on her skin. They didn't go away, even when she stopped wearing the bracelet. Her doctor examined her wrist, said "leprosy."

The bracelet had been made by a leper, and the girl got the disease from it. She was doomed to a life of exile among other lepers. I heard that story twice, in two different cities. Each time the storyteller said he knew someone who knew someone who knew the family. The story isn't true, of course. But it combines most of the main false ideas and superstitions about leprosy. They date from Biblical times, when the "leper" was an object of fear, horror and disgust. Today the person with leprosy still carries this terrible burden. The deep-rooted ideas, still popular, make it one of the diseases of false shame and fear.

FLOYD G. CURTIS was appointed to the Suburban Area Commission in a bylaw passed by the council Monday night. He becomes the city's third representative on the Commission since its institution in 1925, succeeding the late Mr. H. Gainey, a Commissioner for almost a quarter of a century. A former member of the city council, Mr. Curtis is appointed for the unexpired term of the late Mr. Gainey. The bylaw was introduced by Ald. H. Dodds.

Bacteria Long Known

But let's look at the facts. Leprosy is caused by a rod-shaped bacteria, discovered 75 years ago.

The leprosy bug has been shot into mice. The mice didn't get leprosy. Doctors shot the bug into themselves and other human volunteers. None of them ever developed the disease. Leprosy is a communicable disease, but not as infectious or dangerous as tuberculosis. You apparently have to live for a long time in intimate contact with a patient to run any risk of getting it.

The centre for leprosy treatment in the United States is the National Leprosarium at Carville, Louisiana. Patients have been treated there for 55 years. In all that time, not a single doctor or nurse has contracted the disease. Leprosy is not an automatic death warrant. It is usually not fatal. People's fingers and toes do not drop off.

A new class of drugs, the sulfones, halts leprosy in many people. It is, authorities say, a disease and not a disgrace.

Hotels Get Licenses

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP)—The Ontario Liquor Licence Board Monday announced reinstatement of licenses for the Capital Public House and the Commercial Public House, Ottawa, and the New Windsor Hotel, Kingston.

structors at the beaches." Ald. Gillespie said these services cost $10,900, leaving over $10,000 "that might be worked on."

Well Handled

"I am sure we all agree that the playgrounds and bathing beaches are well handled. If you were to do away with the Commission, you have got to make plans for handling supervision in those two branches of the program. I think the council should have a small committee to study this matter and see if it can be done. It might be better to cut the appropriation next year. It should be remembered that the Ontario government gave the Commission a grant of $3,500 this year. If there was no Commission, that grant would not be forthcoming."

Ald. Grant Miller said it was not his thought that the Commission should be disbanded. "But I do think there should be a more modest allotment of finances given for recreation, and that arrangement be made to keep within that appropriation. The motion asks the Commission to continue in office to the end of the year, and suggests some modification of it. I feel there is a place for the Commission, but in the face of the heavy costs that were placed before us by the auditor, I think we are justified in beginning to scale down expenditures."

10-Week Period

Ald. Miller suggested that as an economy and satisfactory arrangement a director of playgrounds and swimming places might be engaged for ten weeks during the summer.

Mayor Swanston said that any Commission outside the council should not bring in new contracts "until they know what is to be done next year. Expiring contracts should not be renewed, until we have had a chance to give them some consideration."

"You can't do much without a staff," Ald. Gillespie said, in presenting his amendment.

Mayor Swanston: "And not without the money, too." "I think we should be careful before we decide on Ald. Miller's proposal," said Ald. Dick Raine. "We know how long it took to get the Commission formed. If there is anything to be done about contracts, it should be done in good time. It should not be left too long in fairness to any persons who would be affected. I am in favor of a committee being appointed to make a careful survey of this matter."

Leave It To Service Clubs

Ald. P. J. Anglesey remarked that evidently Ald. Miller had put careful thought into his motion. "He does not want to see the Commission disbanded. It may be that we have been engaging in recreational affairs that deprived some of our service clubs of activities they would wish to do. I believe a number of them would be prepared to handle some of that work," Ald. Anglesey said. He was in favor of Ald. Miller's idea.

Ald. Doug Miller said that some councils in the past might have gone out with the aim of getting governments grants. Obtaining $3,500 for Recreation looked to be an easy matter, but that thinking did not take into account that $21,500 had to be spent to get the government's $3,500.

"This general question came up for consideration when we received the financial statement from Mr. Humpage," Ald. Miller said. "It is our duty as aldermen to do all we can to keep the tax rate down. I don't think our tax rate should go over 50 mills. I think the maximum rate should be pegged there. And, I have no hesitation in making that statement. We should cut expenditure so that it will fit into less than a 50-mill rate. I feel that Ald. Miller has made a move in the right direction, and there may be other committees under fire next year."

Ald. Sands explained that he had seconded the motion requesting that any Recreation Commission contract be not renewed "because that is as far as we can go. We can point our finger at the tax rate, and ask the members of the Commission to consider it. They would probably be sorry if next February came and the council found that it could give the Commission only $10,000."

Should Control Rate

Ald. Gillespie: "I agree that we should endeavor to control the tax rate, and Recreation is a place where you could knock off some money. But, I don't agree with the resolution. If it passes, by tomorrow or the next day we might not have a Recreation Commission. I think we should consider financing the Band, playgrounds and swimming beaches before there is any doing away with the Commission."

Ald. Hugh Waddell said he preferred the amendment "because this is a matter we should consider, and it gives the council a little more time to think about it. This is the first I have heard of cutting the appropriation of the Recreation Commission. I think there is merit in referring it to a committee. Its report could be passed at the council meeting two weeks from now."

Ald. Dodds said he seconded the amendment for one reason because the Commission could not be blamed for the financing of the Citizens' Band. "That expense was our own fault because we were a bandless town, and there was a feeling that we should organize a band. I think a committee might bring back a report for part time supervision of recreation. Something similar, at less cost."

"I think the members of the Commission are intelligent citizens and will see our point of view," said Ald. Grant Miller, "and they will bring expenditure in line with our means. I feel they would adjust their services to the diminished circumference as far as money is concerned."

Ald. Miller said he had no doubt that they would agree with his views next May "when they get their tax bills." "Once this is fully explained to them, I believe they will co-operate with us. If the council wants to appoint a small committee to sit in with them, it would be all right. But I don't see any other point to be served. I believe they will co-operate. This is only one such measure of retrenchment. I think the responsibility can be left with the Commission."

Skating Opens At Civic Arena

Peterborough hockey teams and skaters are rejoicing that skating days are here again. For them winter is early this year as the Civic Arena with the artificial ice was opened Saturday night.

Monday night the Peterborough Petes and the Peterborough Triple Link Juniors held their practices from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. Walter Smiley, manager of the Arena, said that the boys had 3/4 of an inch of ice for their first workout. The same teams will again take to the ice tonight between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m.

Skaters will flash the blades to waltzes for the second time this year Wednesday night from 8 until 10:30. Five hundred and ninety-nine paid admission Saturday night to open the skating season while 300 people looked on.

The ice Saturday night was only 3/4-inch thick and with the warm weather and huge crowd was not able to stand the strain. After half an hour the ice was breaking leaving the bare cement showing at the ends of the skating surface. The ice will be kept at a thickness of 1/2 to 3/4 of an inch throughout the winter.

U.K. Election Now Or Later?

LONDON, Oct. 4.—(Reuters)—The Labor government, confronted with strong Left-Wing pressure inside the party for an immediate general election, is expected to decide shortly whether Parliament should be dissolved next month or next spring.

Labor party managers are carrying out a country-wide appraisal of party reaction to the three-day emergency debate on devaluation, for which Parliament was recalled last week from summer vacation.

The final recommendation to the Cabinet will be made by Prime Minister Attlee, in consultation with Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister and campaign "boss."

It has been believed all along that Attlee and a considerable section of the Cabinet would like to see Parliament run its full course till next year.

It was assumed that the General Council of the Trades Union Congress will eventually line up behind Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the devaluation action.

Soft Muck Saves 5 Falling Miners

SUDBURY, Oct. 4 (CP)—Five men were injured, four seriously, as they plummeted 35 feet to the bottom of the 250-foot shaft at Orofino Mines, 130 air miles northwest of Sudbury, Sunday. All were brought to hospital in Sudbury at noon Monday by plane from the remote mining property.

Most seriously injured are: Lester Hometh and Mike Nazar, both former employees of Falconbridge Nickel Mines near here, and William Davis, of Mirror Lake, a Sudbury suburb, and Allan Sheehan of Douglas, near Ottawa.

All four were brought in on stretchers, suffering severe back and facial injuries.

Dore Gillis, shaft foreman, was able to walk to the awaiting ambulances, suffering only from an injured hand.

"The five of us were all on the heavy timber blasting mat which was being lowered to the bottom of the shaft," said Sheehan. "When we were about 35 or 40 feet from the bottom, it broke in the centre. We all tumbled down onto the muck below. It is lucky it was fine muck, or we would all be dead."

"It was lucky for them the safety cables held, or the blasting mat would have fallen on top of them, and all would have been killed, Leo Vendetta, shaft contractor of Sudbury, said.

Co-Op Robber Takes $1,375 Bolts In Cab

Said In Lumber Camp As Police Block Area Near Kirkland Lake

RAMORE, Ont., Oct. 5 (CP)—Ontario Provincial Police said today a holdup man who yesterday robbed a Ramore co-operative store of $1,375, may be holed up in one of a score of wooden huts in a lumber camp 20 miles north of Kirkland Lake.

Police who have blocked off the Wooling's Lumber Company camp near this Northern Ontario hamlet were preparing this morning to move in and search the buildings. After interviewing the store manager and a taxi driver in whose cab the holdup man escaped, police put together this account of the robbery:

They said a stranger entered a taxi office at Matheson Tuesday morning and asked to be driven to a hotel. Manager Elton Walker assigned driver Hugh Clark who drove the man to two hotels in each of which the stranger had a beer. The pair then drove to Ramore where Clark's passenger had a third beer. He asked Clark to wait while he went to visit a friend.

Asks For Change

The man walked around the corner to the co-operative store and waited while the manager waited on a customer. After the customer left he asked to have a $20 bill changed then produced a gun and said: "This is a holdup. I'm not fooling."

He ordered the manager to lie on the floor while he scooped the money from the till and the store safe. He put the automatic lock on the door as he left.

He told Clark to drive him to nearby Sesekenka Lake. The manager raced to the door and called to the customer to stop the cab. When the cab sped off he called Ontario Provincial Police.

Police picked up Clark whose car stalled with a flat tire as he returned to his office. He said he had driven his passenger to Sesekenka and was paid $8.50 fare.

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—Left-wingers in the Canadian Congress of Labor took their second beating of the CCL's annual convention today as the Congress pushed through a foreign-policy resolution supporting the Atlantic Pact, ERP and international armament control.

An executive-sponsored resolution went through by a majority of about 10 to one after its supporters had gone to the mat for 1½ hours with party-liners who denounced the pact and US aid to Europe as imperialist US proposals.

During a hot debate that broke out into name-calling at times, the United Electrical Workers' Union—one of the spearheads of the attack on the policy resolution—was described as Communist-led and aligned with the Labor Progressive party.

Robert Haddock, Montreal member of the left-wing Fur and Leather Workers' Union, launched a scathing denunciation of the ERP and Atlantic Pact clauses of the resolution.

NW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—The moon due another tomorrow night. Hayden Planetarium officials said the total eclipse will begin at 10:30 p.m. EDT and last until 11:33 p.m. With the exception of Alaska, it will be visible all over North America, wherever skies are clear, and in most of the western part of the world.

LIGHTER MOMENT — A heavy pile of official documents points to serious work ahead of Prime Minister St. Laurent, left, and Ernest Bevin, but the British foreign secretary took time out for a bit of good-natured banter with Mr. St. Laurent during an interval in their discussions in the Prime Minister's office at Ottawa.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York Oct. 5 (AP)—Big Don Newcombe Brooklyn's 235-pound negro cook-le righthander, was named today to oppose the Yankees' Allie Reynolds in the opener of the 46th World Series at Yankee Stadium.

After an early morning shower, the sun peeked through the low overlying clouds some two hours before game time.

Long before game time, the bleachers were jammed with their 13,500 capacity and most of the 6,000 standing room tickets had disappeared. At least 68,000 fans will be here.

Choice of Newcombe over Lefty Roe was a last-minute development as Earl Shotton held back on his pitching nomination until after a secret meeting today.

Newcombe is the first negro pitcher to start a World Series game.

Great Responsibility Opening the series is a tremendous responsibility for this husky righthander who moved up from Montreal Royals in mid-May after a spring training trial.

During the season, big Newk has been Shotton's hardest worker, pitching 245 innings en route to a 17-8 winning record. Of his 31 starts, 19 have been complete games. He has a low earned run mark of 3.12.

Despite a painful grain injury, rightfielder Carl Furillo reported ready for play. Unless he finds out in pre-game practice that he can't make the grade, he will be in the starting lineup.

CCL Wants 40-Hour Week With Same Take Home Pay

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—(CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor today called for a five-day, 40-hour work week without reduction of take-home pay. The demand came in a resolution adopted at the C.C.L.'s annual convention. Jean Pare, Montreal member of the United Electrical Workers, referred to a speech made Tuesday night to the C.C.L. by Prime Minister St. Laurent, in which he declared increased production would bring higher living standards.

"We have been faced with the speed-up before," Pare said. "It has resulted in nothing but layoffs."

Fear Over-Production

Thomas Peel, auto worker from Oshawa, declared stepping up production in that industry would bring a surplus of automobiles. "Before long there is going to be a crisis in the auto industry," he said. "Unless we get the 40-hour week on a national basis, we're going to be in an awful mess."

R. W. Jones, steel worker from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., said the CCL should go further than say there should be "no reduction" in take-home pay under a 40-hour week.

Many workers did not receive a minimum pay sufficient to let their families live decently. Another resolution adopted by the CCL asked for an immediate start on a Federal public works program to absorb what was termed "considerable numbers" of unemployed now in the country.

Thomas Curran, United Electrical worker from Welland, urged that unions get after their municipal governments to prepay work projects.

"Let us not spend money on munitions to destroy our people and others," he said. "We're out to build, not to destroy."

Pass On Savings
TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP)—Retailers might be wise to pass savings on fruit and vegetables to customers, even though, at times, it might mean a temporary loss.

David McNair of Kelowna, B.C., told the Retail Merchants Association here Tuesday. Officers elected at the two-day meeting included: President, Robert Williams, London, Ont., vice-presidents, R. Hayes, St. Catharines, J. Shames, Kingston and C. Sandos, Hanover.

Explorer Arrested In Jealousy Shooting
CANTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Explorer Leonard Clark was arrested today on charges of slaying Shanghai-born Harold Harris and American Willard Freeman in a wedding anniversary shooting at the Freeman home Sept. 8.

The 42-year-old San Francisco explorer who claimed to have located the world's highest peak, in the Amne Machin Mountains of western China, was removed from a Canton hospital to a detention house. He was shot near the heart in the affray, which culminated a drinking bout at the Freeman home.

Harris' widow and young daughter are living in Vancouver. Clark was quoted by police as saying Freeman "pulled a jealousy act" at the conclusion of a "drinking bout," which was the preliminary to the fourth wedding anniversary of the Freemans and the birthday of blonde Mrs. Freeman.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—The United States government today called John L. Lewis and soft coal operators to a meeting Friday in an effort to end the three-week mine shutdown.

Witness Says Guay Advised Her Suicide

Warned Mrs. Pitre She'd Be Blamed If Parcel Discovered

QUEBEC, Oct. 5.—(CP)—Mrs. Arthur Pitre, key witness in the Quebec air disaster murder case, said today that J. Albert Guay advised her to commit suicide after an aircraft crashed near here Sept. 9.

Mrs. Pitre, facing a charge of attempted suicide but testifying under protection of the court, gave evidence at the second session of the preliminary hearing into the charge that Guay murdered his wife, one of 23 passengers aboard the plane.

Mrs. Pitre, who admitted Tuesday she had purchased dynamite for Guay and had carried a mysterious parcel to the airport before the departure of the doomed plane, said Guay advised her to "leave" or "disappear."

She said he suggested she "take sleeping pills, turn on the gas and everything would be finished."

Backed Notes

Previously Mrs. Pitre had testified that Guay had backed notes by which she and her husband borrowed money from the bank.

Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion questioned Mrs. Pitre again about the mystery parcel she received from Guay at Palais Station Sept. 9. Guay had told her it was "fragile" and was a statue. He told her the package was destined for Baie Comeau. Mrs. Pitre said she did not question Guay about the parcel.

Mrs. Pitre said Guay did not say why he was not to take the parcel to Quebec airport himself. She did not know at the time that Mrs. Guay was to be a passenger on the plane.

Not Excited

The witness said she learned during the day that Mrs. Guay had been aboard the plane for Baie Comeau. She said she heard about the crash but did not pay much attention to the report. She said "My God, isn't it awful," and that was all.

Mrs. Pitre didn't notice what became of Guay after she took the parcel from him. She noticed that the name "Bouchard" appeared on the parcel.

Mrs. Pitre told the taxi-driver the parcel was fragile and was a statue. At the airport the driver carried the parcel into the airline office for weighing. The weight was 25 or 26 pounds.

Mrs. Pitre said Guay had once said if his "affairs went well" he

Boat Fails Wilson Twice

PICTON, Oct. 5 (CP)—Miss Canada IV failed twice in her attempts to break the world speedboat record this morning and driver Harold Wilson told reporters he did not know what is wrong.

He said he was "almost on the verge of calling off" his second attempt in five weeks to break the 141.7 miles an hour record set by the late Sir Malcolm Campbell 10 years ago.

Returning to the dock after one run on the course shortly after 10 a.m. EDT, Wilson said he could get only around 135 miles an hour—far short of the world record and also less than his 138.6 miles an hour record set here Sunday.

Abandonment of the Miss Canada's bid is dependent on a showing late this afternoon. A specially-made propeller is expected to arrive here sometime between four and five p.m., from Owen Sound.

Wilson said simply: "If there is still something wrong we'll take Miss Canada out of the water and call the whole thing off. If it is OK we'll make another official try tomorrow morning."

Wilson, who Tuesday received sanction from the Union of International Motorboating, with headquarters in Ghent, Belgium, to make as many attempts at the world's mark "as he des'ed," said: "It is a shame that something should go haywire at this point."

KILLED EARLY TODAY when his truck overturned on Highway 2 near Newtonville, was Frank Clark, 39, of 480 Reid St. (LEFT). A driver for Payne's Transport, he swerved to avoid a cow on the highway and the vehicle struck a culvert and turned over. John Faux, 77, of Douro, (RIGHT) died in Civic Hospital Tuesday night after he was struck by a Peterborough motorist while walking on the Warsaw Rd.

Captain Had 'Just One' At Friends, 'Not Drunk'

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—(CP)—Capt. William Taylor of Sarqia, today told the Federal Commission inquiring into the Noronic disaster he was not under the influence of liquor Sept. 17 when his ship burned at with the loss of 130 lives in Toronto harbor. The 66-year-old captain said on that night he had "just one drink"—a small one under two ounces which he poured himself. This was ashore at the home of friends.

The suggestion he was intoxicated was made at an inquiry in Cleveland where C. R. Wilson, a survivor, charged the captain was drunk. Other survivors said he acted in a normal manner.

Capt. Taylor said he went ashore in Toronto about 10 p.m. EST, and returned about 12.30 a.m. He had spent the time with friends.

"Where?"
"In the one place."
"Any reason why you should not tell me the names?"
"None, whatever." Dean Bradley, Imperial Oil.

"You heard the suggestion that when you returned to the ship you were under the influence of liquor? What have you to say about that?"
"I was not," Capt. Taylor said he had one drink all night. He said his physical condition would not permit any more.

Asked about the size of the drink, he said it was small, under two ounces—"I poured it myself."

Capt. Taylor told the Commissioner the drink had been "Scotch."

Delegated Duties
Earlier today, Capt. Taylor said he delegated to heads of departments aboard ship the task of instructing crew members on their duties in an emergency.

He said he knew CSL written orders called for ship's masters to carry out this duty themselves.

Capt. Taylor said he had been told by Capt. Norman Reoch, CSL operating manager, to vary from written orders to Masters only with reference to muster buttons. These were not issued crew members as required under maritime law.

"Yet you observed the order regarding muster buttons coming CAPTAIN HAD

Rents Likely Go Higher As Housing Still Scarce

By The Canadian Press
Canadian houses are going to be as scarce as ever for some time to come and rents are likely to go even higher, a cross-country survey reveals.

The trouble is, The Canadian Press was told in its survey, that those who now have a place to live in the ever-crowding urban centres across the country are in no hurry to move. Those who are still looking for a home are promised little respite because building firms just can't keep up with their demands.

About the only place in the country where any easing is indicated is in Montreal, the country's largest city. There real estate agents report they are actually looking for home-seekers to fill their empty houses, for the first time since the war.

From the coast of Newfoundland to the Pacific the cry is still the same—"more homes"—despite record-building housing schemes and developments in almost every province.

In St. John's, Newfoundland capital, a joint Dominion-Provincial slum-clearing project now is under way at a cost of $2,500,000. On the site of these 500 undesirable dwellings, new homes will be erected.

While Ontario similarly reports over-crowding and high costs, the small town of Tavistock near Stratford believes itself to have about the only really low-cost housing in the country. Most of its 1,000 persons are quite happy with their lot, too. They can rent a three-room apartment for as little as $4.25 a month, and a six-room house for $12. Why? Well, they say their population is relatively static and "we just wouldn't pay any more anyway."

Frank Clark Crushed In Transport

Douro Man Hit Walking On Road Dies Of Injuries

TWO victims of motor accidents were reported overnight by Provincial Police. John Faux, 77, of Douro, was struck down while walking on the Warsaw Rd., and Frank Clark of Peterborough was killed as a result of injuries sustained when his truck turned over on Highway 2, west of Newtonville.

Clark, 39, was killed in a vain attempt to miss a cow which had strayed onto highway No. 2 about a half mile west of Newtonville about 5.30 this morning.

Provincial Police reported after his truck hit the cow, it swerved onto the shoulder of the highway, hit a culvert and turned over on its side, killing the driver. Provincial Constable Ray Kowal, Bowmanville, investigated.

The father of three, Mr. Clark was driving a Herb Payne transport loaded with meat to Toronto from Peterborough. He had been a truck driver for more than 10 years. He lived at 480 Reid St.

He is survived by his wife, the former Geraldine King, three children, Gary, 10, Frank Jr., 7, and Rita 20 months; his mother, Mrs. Kate Clark and several brothers and sisters living in England. His father, William Clark predeceased him 10 years ago.

Mr. Clark came to Canada at the age of 14. He was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Dies of Injuries
Faux died Tuesday night as a result of his injuries. The accident occurred about four miles east of Peterborough.

It is believed that Faux became confused when caught in the glare of headlights from cars approaching from in front and behind him. He was struck by the oncoming car of Don Clysedale of 25 River Rd. N.

Knocked some distance by the impact, he was later taken to Civic Hospital with a compound fracture of the left arm, and a leg injury. He also sustained head and internal injuries as well as severe shock.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young pronounced him dead in hospital. Police report that visibility was poor at the time, as it was raining heavily. It is believed this contributed to the confusion of the elderly man.

Mr. Faux was born in Asphodel, son of the late Joseph Faux and Mary Lancaster.

Farmed All His Life
He farmed all his life. For the past three years he has been living with his daughter, Mrs. Vernon Campbell of Douro. Previously he farmed on the Warsaw Road for 29 years and before that in Otonabee.

US, Canada, UK Atom Partners?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—State Undersecretary James Webb said today Britain, Canada and the United States are considering a "partnership" in the atomic energy field.

He told a press conference that "good progress" in exploring this possibility was made in the recent British, Canadian, American talks on atomic matters.

Premier Of France Resigns Over Crisis

PARIS, Oct. 5 (CP)—Premier Henry Queuille of France resigned today. The resignation was made to President Vincent Auriol.

Queuille's coalition government, in office more than a year and longer than any previous post-war French cabinet, ran into a crisis with the insistence of the Socialist party that Labor's demands for wage increases be satisfied.

The tender of the premier's resignation followed a meeting of the cabinet ministers which had been deadlocked on the wages and prices issue.

Companions Bruised By Flying Debris

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—(CP)—A groom was fatally injured and two others were hurt at Long Branch race track when a horse bolted through the outside rail during Tuesday's fourth race. Donald J. Conley, 26, of Windsor, died in hospital of a fractured skull when the horse, Little Action, smashed through the rail sending pieces of two-by-four scantling flying into the crowd. Conley was struck on the back of the head with a piece of the railing.

George Coady, 46, of Montreal, and William Jewell, 16, of Windsor, who were standing beside Conley, suffered cuts and bruises when struck by flying pieces of wood. The horse did not strike or trample any of the men.

Jockey Jumps
Jockey Bobby Fisher, who was riding Little Action, slipped his feet from the stirrups when the horse bolted out of control after the break and jumped before he hit the railing. He was not injured but the horse required 20 stitches to close the cut on its shoulder.

Jewell, a stable boy, said he was standing at the rail with Conley when he saw the horse running wide. "I figured he would take the turn even with the amount of ground he was losing," he said. "Suddenly I saw the horse crash through the fence and that is all I can remember."

The race was won by Linwood Ghost and paid $28.20. Fisher, undaunted by the accident, rode Susie Beville in the seventh race, but ran out of the money.

French Premier Quits Cabinet Member Says

PARIS, Oct. 5 (AP)—French Premier René Quèllec has virtually decided to resign, a cabinet spokesman said today.
The spokesman said, following a meeting of the ministers, that the government was deadlocked over wages and prices.
The spokesman, Robert Bruy-nell, Undersecretary of State, said Quèllec would see President of the Republic Auriol this afternoon.

through on subsequent instructions from the company?" asked Commission Counsel J. W. Pick-up.

"Yes," said Capt. Taylor. Read instructions.
The captain said he had seen and read company instructions each season for the last eight years he was Master of the Noronic.

"Why did you not see that certain things were carried out?" Company instructions say that muster stations must be set up throughout the ship, and the crew made acquainted with them. Was this or was it not carried out?"

Captain Taylor replied he had to delegate some of his duties and that this duty had been delegated to the Chief Officer and heads of departments.

Capt. Taylor said he knew these duties had been carried out because each member of the crew had his "blue" card of printed instructions. He said heads of the departments had told them the duty delegated by him to them had been carried out.

"When did you ask them?"
"Before the start of the spring cruise this year."

Capt. Taylor said he had checked the muster list by looking over the shoulder of the officer delegated to draw it up as the list was being prepared.

"Is that the extent to which you looked over it?"
"Yes, sir."

Gave Confused Evidence
The witness said he was confused Tuesday in saying the Noronic had a chart showing muster stations and allocating members of the crew to them by number.

He said this chart was maintained on another CSL steamer, the SS Kingston.

Capt. Taylor said the error was made because of his nervous condition. He told the court he is still under medical care.

He agreed with Mr. Pickup that he now realized there was no muster chart aboard the Noronic. He said there was a sheet on which similar information was typewritten.

Capt. Taylor told the commission Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, that in emergencies ship's officers were assigned to lifeboat stations but not to fire stations. He could not say definitely who was in charge of any one station.

The witness said he had not approved or signed a muster list as each master was required to do under company orders. He had not seen the Noronic's muster list after it was completed.

Discussed Deck Fire
Capt. Taylor said after questioning at length by Mr. Pickup that he had discussed with department heads, the possibility of fire while the ship was in dock.

In that event they were told to get everyone ashore as fast as possible.

"Can you recall any specific instructions you gave any officers?"

Capt. Taylor said he remembered having told the chief steward that if fire broke out in dock he was to see all passengers were roused and that the crew helped in putting them ashore.

Capt. Taylor told Mr. Justice Kellock no muster stations were allocated to passengers. Senior officers had been alerted throughout the ship for boat and fire drills.

He said the chief mate's post was all C deck, the second officer A deck, third mate B deck, and chief steward and purser D deck.

Capt. Taylor said he always felt that while the ship was in dock it was more or less under the fire protection of the port of call. He had not considered the possibility of a fire in port being "as serious" as one at sea.

Second Officer in Charge
The witness said on the night of the fire the second officer was in charge of the ship. There also were on watch two wheelmen, a watchman, and a special officer.

Also part of the regular watch, in the engine room, were the third engineer, an oiler, a water hand, and four firemen, said Capt. Taylor.

He told the commissioner that he considered 4 bellboys on duty that night were part of the ship's watch. He considered their duty was to keep watch over the passengers.

Capt. Taylor told Capt. H. S. Kane, commission assessor from Montreal, he had never consulted the shore captain about providing extra facilities for getting passengers ashore in an emergency.

Asked if he did not consider some extra precautions advisable when crew discipline while at dock would be relaxed, Capt. Taylor admitted "it wasn't done, anyway."

First Inning, Dodgers
Reese watched Reynolds' first two pitches across the plate for strikes, then looked at a ball, then rolled to Henrich who made the unassisted putout at first.

Lindell started late for Jorgensen's fly to left centre and the ball went over his head for a two-base hit.

Snider swung and missed a three-and-two pitch to become Reynolds' first strikeout victim.

Mapes moved a few feet to his right to gather in Robinson's easy fly.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

First Inning Yankees
With the count one and one, Rizzuto attempted to bunt but raised a short foul which Hodges caught in front of the Yankee dugout.

Reese gathered in Henrich's sharp grounder and tossed him out.

Reese backed up onto the grass in short left to camp under Ber-ra's high pop-up.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning Dodgers
Hernanski walked on a full count.

Furillo also worked the count to three and two before getting his base on balls.

Hodges fouled off two attempted sacrifice bunts, then rapped back to the box Reynolds speared the bounder and started a double play.

He threw to Coleman who forced Furillo at second and Coleman whipped to Henrich to double up Hodges at first.

Mapes stood in his tracks to catch Campanella's high fly.

Second Inning Yankees
DiMaggio attempted to hold back his swing on the third strike but "broke" his wrist and was ruled a strikeout victim by umpire Hubbard.

Lindell timed a changeup pace expertly and stroked it into left field for a single, the first Yankee hit of the game.

Johnson struck out swinging, missing a high fast pitch for the third strike.

Newcombe, blazingly fast, in this hazy muggy weather, poured a third strike past the swinging Mapes to retire the side via the strikeout routine.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Third Inning Dodgers
Rizzuto came in fast for Newcombe's dribbler to the left of the mound and whipped him out at first.

Johnson and Henrich collaborated to retire Reese on a nice play. The third baseman came in fast to make a nice bandedhand pickup and underhand throw of Reese's bunt. Henrich helped with a long stretch and gloved hand catch of the throw.

Jorgensen swung at Reynolds' first pitch and sent an easy bouncer to Coleman who threw him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Third Inning, Yankees
Coleman looked at a third strike that nipped the outside corner to become Newcombe's fourth strikeout victim.

Reynolds sent a high fly that fell for a double near the left field fence. Hernanski, playing far over toward left-centre, could not quite catch up with it after a long run.

Rizzuto popped to Robinson behind first base with Reynolds staying glued to second.

Reese waving everybody away, took care of Henrich's high pop a few feet to the left of the mound.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Fourth Inning, Dodgers
Swinging at a three-and-two pitch, Snider raised a high foul that Johnson caught near the third-base field boxes.

Robinson rapped a one-bouncer to Johnson who threw across to Henrich for an easy out.

Mapes ran an easy out behind second base to make a nice catch of Hernanski's looping fly.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

St. Laurent Warns Labor Hold Wages

Exports May Suffer
If Wages Raised,
Says Production Key

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—Canadian labor today pondered a double-barrelled admonition from Prime Minister St. Laurent to improve production and not to push wage demands too far.

His advice:
1. Too high wages could price Canadian goods out of foreign markets needed to keep her economy at its present level.

2. Productivity (production per man) is the key to a higher standard of living.

A third point put forward by the Prime Minister before 800 Canadian Congress of Labor members Tuesday night was that currency devaluation should result in long-run Canadian price reductions, despite labor leaders' claims that it will send up the cost of living.

Speaking in careful language but with unmistakable meaning, the Prime Minister warned that wages could be boosted to the point where unemployment might follow.

He said there was such a thing as getting wages so high that Canadian goods would cost too much to be sold abroad. In such a situation, surpluses would glut the domestic market and soon bring about "some degree" of unemployment.

Governments must organize some social security—and he admitted Canada still had some way to go in that respect—but the extent of social security depended on production.

"The more that is produced, the higher and better can be our standards of living," he said.

Mr. St. Laurent, speaking with considerable bluntness for the head of a government addressing a labor gathering, threw something of a jolt into his listeners at the annual banquet held in conjunction with the CCL's convention here.

His observations touched off a buzz of discussion among convention delegates, and likely will have reverberations in convention discussions that continue until Friday.

Earlier the convention spent a busy day, giving a reception to Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain—a union man—and passing a series of resolutions aimed largely at cutting down the cost of living.

Living-cost resolutions included demands for the re-imposition of price controls, restoration of rent controls at their pre-war effectiveness and the payment of subsidies on staple commodities, as was done during the war emergency period.

UK Dollar Drop Half Expected, Still Dangerous

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Britain disclosed Tuesday that her dollar reserves fell to $1,404,000,000 at the end of September.

But this was only a little more than one half the drop that had been forecast, and it was $80,000,000 above the low point reached Sept. 18, the day Britain devalued the pound from $4.03 to $2.80 in U.S. funds.

The gross deficit in dollar outgo and income of the reserve for the quarter actually was $532,000,000. But this was partially covered by drawing $28,000,000 from a Canadian loan and $284,000,000 from Marshall plan aid, leaving a deficit of $220,000,000.

The figures were announced by Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer.

About seven weeks ago authoritative sources said the reserves were expected to fall at least another $400,000,000 by Sept. 30—down to $1,200,000,000. Long since British officials had set $2,000,000,000 as the danger point.

Dollar Deficit
Sir Stafford said the post-devaluation jump was just "a temporary reversal of the previous trend." He declared the dollar deficit in foreign trade still is "an impossible burden."

The gold and dollar reserves are a pool from which the sterling bloc—Burma, Iceland, the Republic of Ireland, Iraq and the Commonwealth countries, except Canada—draw to balance their trade deficits with the dollar area.

The dollar outgo has been heavier than the income because Britain has had to make heavy dollar purchases of food for her people and materials for her industries, while her exports to dollar areas have been drying up in the world competition.

Sir Stafford warned Tuesday that devaluation will produce a pressure toward inflation, which "will probably be increased."

Government expenditures and the country's capital investment program were being reviewed with an eye to economy in an effort to lessen such pressure.

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 5.—(AP)—A small steamer loaded with about 200 Koreans capsized today en route to the island of Kangwhwa.

The ship was travelling from Inchon, a port 30 miles west of Seoul, to Kangwhwa on the west coast.

The passengers were returning to their native island for tomorrow's autumn festival.

Guay would tear up notes for money the Pitres owed him. This was to be for Mrs. Pitre's "services," she said.

Guay had made similar offers of help before, she added, but she could not remember any such offers prior to her purchase of dynamite for Guay in August.

Mrs. Pitre said she did not see Guay the day of the crash after he handed her the parcel at the station. She telephoned her own home from her mother's and understood Guay was then at the Pitre home on Monseigneur Gauvreau Street.

Guay Joking
She could hear him over the telephone talking to another brother, she said. "Guay was joking, saying all kinds of things," Mrs. Pitre added.

Mrs. Pitre learned of the plane crash "during the day."

She heard Mrs. Guay was aboard but did not know it was the same plane on which the parcel had been shipped, she said.

Mrs. Pitre said Guay telephoned once after the crash to find out if she didn't "have something to give for the bank." Mrs. Pitre said Guay had signed notices by which the Pitres had borrowed from the bank.

Mrs. Pitre said on another occasion Guay said he had $1,000 insurance on his wife. Mrs. Pitre said it was not much for loss of one's wife. Guay had appeared sad over the death of Mrs. Guay.

Mrs. Pitre said when she saw Guay Sept. 18 he carried a newspaper telling of a woman who had taken a parcel to the ill-fated plane.

Mrs. Pitre said she did not question Guay at that moment about the parcel he had given her Sept. 9.

Guay said the police would come after her but she replied she could not imagine why, the witness said.

"I said the parcel I carried contained a statue as you told me," Mrs. Pitre said she told Guay.

Blamed For Crash
Guay said if it ever came out she had delivered a parcel to the plane she would be blamed for the crash.

After recess Mrs. Pitre testified Guay had told her if the parcel she had taken to the plane had caused the accident, she would be hanged.

Guay advised her to "leave" or "disappear."

"They would say I'm guilty if I did that," Mrs. Pitre said. She protested, ordering Guay to leave.

Guay then advised her "to take sleeping pills, turn on the gas and everything would be finished," she added.

Guay had given her the pills some weeks before the crash, the witness said. They were "little white pills." She had trouble sleeping at the time.

Guay also gave her "yellow capsules" to help her to sleep. Guay told her if she did away with herself she would "clear everything" though he knew she was no more "guilty" than he was, Mrs. Pitre recalled.

That ended Mrs. Pitre's testimony. The body of Mrs. Guay was ex-

Imperial Vets Get Pension Aid

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—(CP)—Canadians who served in the Imperial Forces and who are receiving pensions from the British Government will not lose any money by devaluation of the pound, Veterans Minister Gregg said in a Commons return tabled Monday. He was replying to a question by T. L. Church (PC—Toronto Broadview).

Mr. Gregg said the Canadian Government will supplement these pensions to bring them up to an amount equal to that received by Canadian pensioners in similar circumstances.

Supplementary pensions are paid only to Canadians who lived in Canada before joining the Imperial Forces in either the First or Second World War and who returned to Canada after the war, drawing pensions from the British Government.

No provision exists for payment of supplementary pensions to Imperial Veterans who came to Canada after the war and receive pensions from the British government.

Lucien Carreau, a young needle worker, told the court how Guay asked him to poison his wife for $500 and then offered him $50 to "keep his mouth shut" when he refused. After the crash, he said, Guay offered $100 for his silence.

Carreau said Guay had proposed poisoning Mrs. Guay with her favorite cherry wine combined with a poison which he said Guay showed him.

Carreau said he asked Guay if he was crazy and refused to have anything to do with the plan.

Cobourg Taxis Increase Fare

COBOURG, Oct. 5 (ENS) — Cobourg town council has approved the request of local taxi owners to raise their price from 25 to 35 cents per fare on trips in town. As far back as taxis have operated in this town the fare has been 25 cents but taxi owners complain that their costs are now all out of proportion to the amount of the fare and they accordingly asked the town council to pass a by-law which would authorize the new rate.

While the rate for any trip within the town limits is 35 cents, two or more passengers from and to the same address are 25 cents each. Sundays, holidays and

Who Wants Money?

TEDDINGTON, Worcester, England, Oct. 5.—(AP). Harold Greenwood inherited £8,000 ($24,800) but he doesn't want it. "I'm too old to do anything with it," said Greenwood, who is 73. He inherited the money from his 78-year-old brother Ernest, a recluse, whose hoard was found in a bank after he died. The old man lives contentedly on a derelict boat in the Thames.

from 12.30 midnight until 6.30 a.m. the rate is 50 cents per passenger. Workers' fares will be 25 cents to or from work.

Jetliner Tests Successful, RCAF Interested

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—(CP) — Canada has literally rocketed ahead of the rest of the world in adaptation of jet aircraft for commercial use with the unveiling of the new Canadian-built Avro jetliner.

The huge, 30-ton airliner, built to carry 40 to 50 passengers on distances from 200-800 miles, Tuesday made its first public appearance at the suburban Malton Airport. An estimated 1,000 persons, including Trade Minister Howe, Hon. Laurence Steinhardt, United States Ambassador to Canada, Air Marshall W. A. Curtis and Leading Royal Canadian Air Force officials saw James J. Orrell, chief test pilot for A. V. Roe Company of Manchester, England, put the sleek craft through its paces.

The jetliner has a normal range with full payload, of 600 miles, increasing to 1,200 to 1,400 miles with smaller load. It was designed primarily with the busiest air routes in mind. It operates at its most economical on distances of from 200 to 800 miles, the distance between most heavily travelled points in Canada, the United States and Europe.

T.C.A. Ideas. The plane was built on specifications suggested by officials of Trans-Canada Air Lines and Tuesday's flight was the culmination of three years of research and development. The Canadian Government gave financial assistance to the project.

So impressed by the jetliner's performance were R.C.A.F. officials present, that Air Marshall Curtis admitted the R. C. A. F. was "interested."

No attempt was made during the flight to extract maximum performance from the plane. Highest speed during the flight was about 300 miles an hour, but the jetliner showed her power when she climbed to 100,000 feet at 2,000 feet a minute.

The safety factor is stressed by the fact that although the big airliner is powered by four Rolls Royce Derwent jet engines, it can maintain flight with two. On its maiden flight in August the plane developed trouble with the landing gear—which since has been changed—and in a crash landing merely scrubbed the finish off its sleek nacelles.

Choral Society Names Officers

At a most enthusiastic meeting in the YMCA the Peterborough Choral Society was formed under the direction of Mr. William Sims, who recently opened up studios in the city.

Chosen unanimously for president was Mr. Wilford S. Jones, connected for many years with choral groups and bands in western Canada.

Other members of the executive are: Mr. John A. Smith, vice-president; Mrs. Jean Curry, Secretary and Miss Gwen Kilburn, treasurer.

Other committees appointed to look after the many details involved in such an undertaking were: Library, Miss Janice Fraser; music Mrs. G. W. Craw, Mrs. G. Kilburn, Mr. Wm. Sims; concert hall, B. King, John Smith, W. S. Jones. Other committees not yet appointed are social, scenery and membership.

At the first meeting of the Society Mrs. Gwen Craw accompanied the 39 members present in a chorus from Handel's "Messiah." Practices for the choir will be held in the YMCA banquet room Friday evening at 8 p.m.

Present indications are that the 70 voices hoped for by Mr. Sims will be reached by October 15, the next on the agenda being a male choir which has already been discussed and is a definite possibility.

Wants Fees Abolished

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—Abolition of radio licence fees was advocated in the Commons Tuesday night by Don Brown (L-Exeter West). Mr. Brown said the present method of collecting the money to operate the CBC is unequal, unfair and unjust. Mr. Brown's idea was that the licence fees be abolished and that the money to run the CBC be taken from federal revenue.

Won't Have Time If War Starts Bevin Stresses

BY DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—In the opinion of Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain, it would be a "mistaken policy" for even North America to assume she would have a long period to nourish and build strength after war starts.

That concept, he said here Tuesday, passed into discard with the Second World War. It was made obsolete by air power. The democracies "can no longer keep light forces to contain an enemy and then build up as Britain did for years."

That was one of the numerous opinions Mr. Bevin expressed in the last of three days in the capital. They emerged at a press conference and in addresses to the Canadian Club and the annual convention of the Canadian Congress of Labor. He is in Montreal today.

His statement on defence aroused some speculation because he made much the same argument twice, once in the presence of Prime Minister St. Laurent and Defence Minister Claxton. The policy of the Canadian government envisions small standing forces which would become the nucleus for large-scale expansion in the event of another 1914 or 1939.

Other Views

These were some of Mr. Bevin's other views: Depression — Russia's assumption of a disastrous western slump will, in the end, be "her own undoing" because it is based on the false belief that "we don't learn from our mistakes."

Economics—Britain had been determined to "make the most desperate efforts" to hold the sterling area together, and to save it from going down into a shambles, had made loans of £900,000,000 to its multilateral-trading members countries. But even its survival did not remove the chance that the west might be divided into dollar and sterling worlds whose conflicts would unloose another war. It was to avoid anything that would enhance such a prospect that Britain had consulted the U.S. and Canada when she concluded she wasn't strong enough to wait until the tide turned to aid the pound.

Unveil Monument To Mountie Trek

EMERSON, Man., Oct. 5 (CP) — Memories of the west's wild and lawless frontier days will be recalled tomorrow at the site of old Fort Dufferin, three miles north of this international border town. The occasion will be the unveiling of a stone monument commemorating the historic westward trek of the North West Mounted Police—Canada's first lawmen and forerunners of the RCMP.

The monument, erected by the Federal Resources Department on the recommendation of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board, will be unveiled, fittingly, by Dr. Ross Mitchell of Winnipeg. Dr. Mitchell is the son of Col. G. B. Mitchell, the last surviving member of the intrepid band that carried law and justice to the broad territory between Lake Winnipeg and the Canadian Rockies.

It was just 75 years ago that the NWMP started the memorable march from Fort Dufferin that took them almost 2,000 miles. The force had been organized the previous year—1873—after reports of whisky-running, Indian massacres and unpunished murders had reached the east.

The column of 274 scotch-coated officers and men and 20 half-breed guides, accompanied by 310 horses, 142 oxen, 114 Red River carts and 92 head of cattle, made a colorful spectacle as it headed westward July 8, 1874.

The Recreation Commission And Its Expenditures

At the Council meeting on Monday night it was proposed that ways be sought of curtailing the expenditures of the Recreation Commission and it was suggested that the contract of the Recreation Director should not be renewed. At first sight this plan of action will recommend itself to many citizens; schemes of economy are always popular. We suggest, however, that it may not be as simple to curtail the activities of the Commission as it first appears, and we also suggest that the fact that the Commission now asks for a rather large sum ($21,500) from the Council is not entirely the Commission's fault.

It is easy and popular to give a public service; it is difficult and unpopular to take it away. Since the Recreation Commission was established and began its work the people of Peterborough have become accustomed to supervised playgrounds and swimming beaches which are patrolled by lifeguards. These amenities cost $10,900 every year. The Commission has also put the Citizens' Band on its feet, and the band has given a great deal of pleasure to the people of Peterborough. But the band costs money, and the Commission is asking for $3,500 to support the band in the coming year. Two-thirds of the Commission's budget, therefore, goes to keep up the playgrounds and beaches, and to support the band. The remainder goes to assist organized sports and recreations in the city (including some club work among young people) and to pay the salary of the Recreation Director, which began as $3,300 in 1947, and has been increased by $100 each year since then.

If the Council does not re-engage Mr. Dane as Recreation Director, what is likely to happen? His salary will be saved, and some other expenses, amounting perhaps to three or four thousand dollars, will be saved by cutting grants to sporting organizations and to clubs. But we do not think the Council will wish to abandon the playgrounds and beaches, or the band, and it will still be necessary to have somebody to do the supervisory work which these things create. Is it suggested that the officials of the Commission do this work? There is, we understand, a good deal of work involved in overseeing these activities, and it might not be easy to get it done on a voluntary basis. It might, in the long run, prove cheaper and easier to keep Mr. Dane and to put a stricter limit on the work of the Recreation Commission.

If the Recreation Commission has become too ambitious and is spending too much money, we think that the Council itself must bear at least half of the blame. As soon as the Commission was set up it became a chore boy for the Council, and jobs with which the Council was not eager to cope were referred to it. The band was among the first of these. The Commission was eager for work, and took what came gladly, but it soon made it clear to the Council that the work could not be done without money. The sum which the Commission asked for has mounted from year to year and upon the whole we think that the money has been spent well and profitably. But it is always possible for recreation expenses to get out of hand, for there is no easily-defined limit to recreation, or to the demands which are made upon a body like the Recreation Commission. A consultation between the Commission and the Council to decide how expenses may be cut is desirable, but we think the Council should keep in mind that it has made the Commission what it is today, and temper its criticism accordingly. As for dismissing the paid organizer who carries out the Commission's decisions, we suggest that in the long run amateur direction may prove just as expensive and infinitely more vexatious than professional direction.

Impressions Of Britain (2)

There are many people in Britain today who blame everything that is wrong with the country on the Labour Government. This is sheer spite, or ignorance, for a superficial examination of Britain's situation is enough to show that virtually all Britain's major problems were well begun before the Labour Government came into power, and were created by the war, rather than by any narrowly political action.

Without going into matters of detail, it may be said that Britain, in order to wage war on the largest possible scale, undertook financial burdens which even her vast credit and financial resources could not sustain. For fully two years Britain paid the lion's share of all the costs of war, and even when the U.S.A. entered the fight her expenditures were not appreciably lightened. That is the fact, and any suggestion that Britain should be "forgiven" debts which she owes is a sentimental approach to her problem. No amount of forgiveness of debts can alter that fact that Britain's vast fortune has been spent, and she will be badly off until she can make another fortune, or at least find some means of doing it. It is with this problem—the task of making another great national fortune—that the Labour Government has been concerned itself. It has not shown any signs yet that it is on the road to success. On the contrary, it has given evidence that the problem is too big for it. This is regrettable, but the point which must be made is that the Labour Government did not create Britain's present predicament; it inherited the predicament, and has done its best, according to its lights, to find a solution for it.

"According to its lights" — yes, but what lights? The lights of socialism, of course. The Labour Government came to power not only convinced that it could solve Britain's problems, but that it could solve them by the application of socialist principles. These principles have broken down in application because they do not make allowance for many human frailties—greed, the desire to get the best of the other fellow, laziness, mental inertia; socialism also fails to take account of some human feelings which are not frailties—ambition, a desire to get superior rewards for superior work, and detestation of legalism for its own sake. There are in Britain hundreds of thousands of convinced socialists, who whole-heartedly accept and live by socialist principles; but there are millions who love socialism only when it can bring them rewards which free capitalism denied them. It is upon this latter class that the Labour Government has stubbed its toe. This is the class which wants the rewards of socialism without its responsibilities.

The franker Tories admit readily that a Tory Government could not have done much better than the Labour Government, and might have done worse. The problem, we must repeat, is not in essence a political one but a national problem on the largest scale, curable only by economic daring and brilliance. There are no outstandingly daring or brilliant economists among the Tory leaders at present; Sir Stafford Cripps is probably the finest economist in politics in Britain today, and he is doing his best. To be lightly scornful of what he is doing is to show a lack of understanding of the immense and complex problem which confronts him.

But if the Labour Government is not blameworthy on the highest level, it has certainly done many irritating things on the lower national level, and these have had their effect in present-day Britain. What that effect is we shall attempt to outline in another editorial under this same heading tomorrow.

Cranberry Comfort

Whatever fowl flights of price there are at Thanksgiving and Christmas, one of the dinner table trimmings will be cheaper. When the embargo on fresh fruits from the U.S.A. was removed Saturday, cranberries took a fifty per cent drop in price. They began to cross the border at $4.50 a box—brokers' prices. This should mean that berries from Massachusetts will retail at fifteen or twenty cents a pound less than heretofore.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Flapper of Terrible Twenties Due for Comeback" says a headline. Well, if she comes back in one of these silly cloche hats it will be good for a laugh, anyway.

We pondered an article in our own esteemed journal in which a professor claims that a baby says a lot in only one word. The professor, like the baby, says a mouthful.

It now costs the Department of National Revenue 52 million dollars a year to collect the taxes, though in 1943 it cost only 15 million. Couldn't the Department save money by not trying so hard?

From The Critic's Notebook

TOM CULLEN OF BALTIMORE by Judith Robinson (Oxford). This biography of a Canadian doctor who has won fame in the United States and a great name among pathologists and gynaecologists the world over, immediately recommends itself because of the authorship.

Judith Robinson is a daughter of the late John Robinson Robinson, for forty years editor of the Toronto Telegram. She gained a wide journalistic reputation for herself in the thirties, through her column of political and social comment in the Toronto Globe, until that newspaper found her criticism too pungent and discarded the columnist. During the war Miss Robinson founded a weekly Canadian paper of political comment, called News. It was a gallant effort and there are those who greatly regret its demise.

Judith Robinson's pen assures that the biography of Dr. Thomas Stephen Cullen is clearly and honestly written, and what is more, good and bright reading. She has a good subject and has made the best of him. Dr. Cullen was born in 1868, one year after Confederation and he is still, though retired, active in his chosen interests. He was born at a place then called Bridgewater, now a mere name on the railway, called Actinolite, north of Belleville, and near Tweed. His father was a Methodist minister, and young Tom Cullen moved from place to place in Ontario with his parson father's large family; Brighton, Colborne, Belleville and Toronto.

Bridgewater (Actinolite) was the father's first charge, and his church was the only marble Methodist church in Canada, built by the Honourable Billia Flint, a gentleman of some fortune and Belleville fame.

The story of Dr. Cullen, from his youthful college days in Toronto (he sold papers until he got his M.B.) to his heyday at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore and his present veneration there, is partly Horatio Alger, partly the story of medical science during an expanding half-century, partly the portrait of a likeable, strong personality. Cullen was a student under famous men, a contemporary of famous men (like Sir William Osler, the centenary of whose birth was observed this year... Osler was of course older than Cullen, but, like Cullen, a member of the staff of Johns Hopkins), and Cullen himself has established a permanent position in medical history.

Under Judith Robinson's pen this biography becomes a novel about a doctor and an extraordinarily interesting account of important formative years in medical and surgical practice on this continent. The story is expertly woven—a tribute to the author's good journalistic sense—and has an index, sign of a careful study. T.J.A.

THE INNOCENT TRAVELLER, by Ethel Wilson (Macmillan). It is a pleasure to begin a new series of reviews with so pleasant a book as "The Innocent Traveller". Ethel Wilson's first book "Hetty Dorval" though widely praised by Canadian reviewers, was not particularly successful in our estimation. "The Innocent Traveller" is a far better piece of work.

We shall not complain that it is plotless because it is not really a novel, but rather a series of family sketches chronologically arranged about the central figure, one Topaz Edgeworth. Topaz is the eternal maiden of her family, afterwards Aunt Topaz and then Great-Aunt Topaz, for she lived from the eighteen forties until the nineteen forties. Topaz is not a deep character, but she is a merry one. From the time when she was perched on two cushions in order to reach the family dinner table and challenge Mr. Matthew Arnold to conversation, until almost a century later, when supposedly bed-ridden in her Vancouver apartment, "she has nipped out of bed in her cotton nightie and is playing the Raindrop Prelude" to the horrified surprise of her nurse, Topaz is irrepresible.

At the age of fifty Topaz leaves England behind, and then we see her with her assorted female relatives against the background of Vancouver as it grows. Anyone who knows Vancouver will recognize the middle-aged Topaz, with a fly-away look, wheeling her sturdy English bicycle garnished with a string bag.

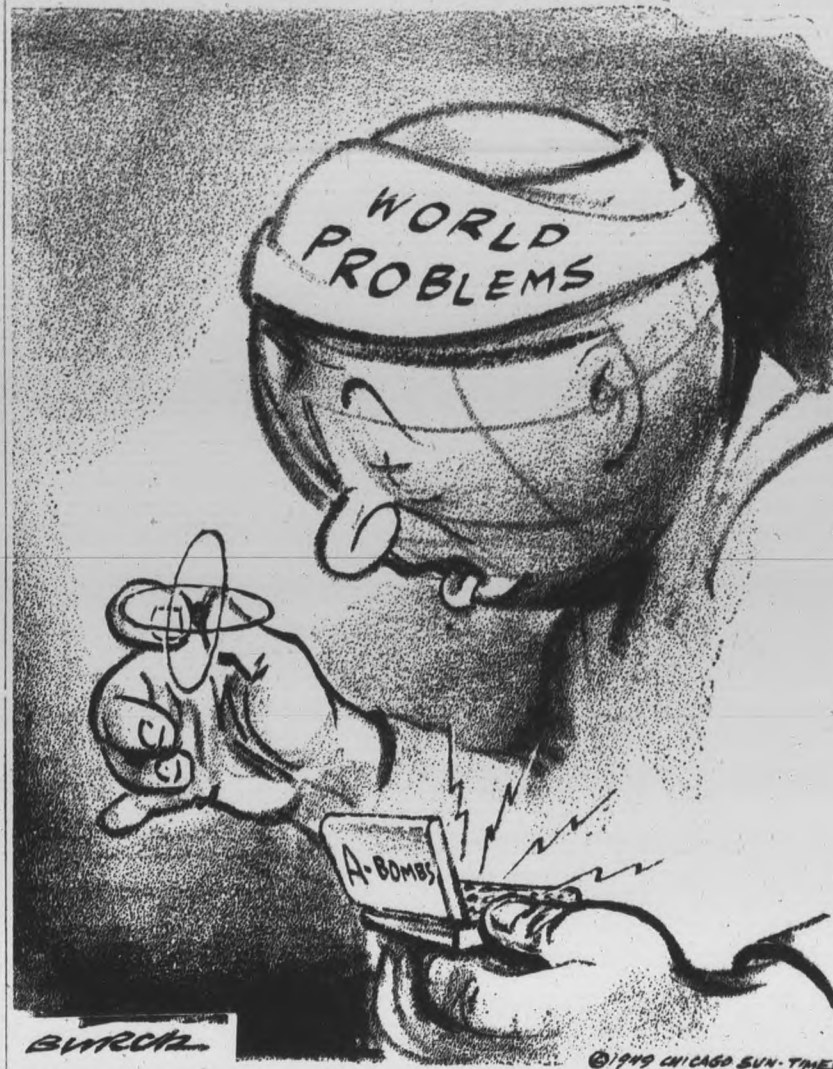

Except in the earlier pages where Mrs. Wilson has a little trouble with the sequence and steps into her story to assure us that it really happened this way although she wasn't there herself, this family story is delightfully well written. A deep and kindly humour pervades it, a humour of character and situation, neither brash nor forced. Nor does Mrs. Wilson embarrass us with the too intimate details that many writers indulge in when dealing with family themes. Perhaps it is because she is decently reticent that her gentle comedy is of such a high order.

The chapters entitled "Down at English Bay", "Family Prayer" and "I have a Father in the Promised Land" are quite complete in themselves, and it is here that Mrs. Wilson's writing becomes real artistry. Her feeling for feminine character, and the telling detail is reminiscent of Katherine Mansfield, but hers is the comic, not the tragic Muse.

I heartily recommend this book to women of all ages, and advise the men who make gifts of it to read it themselves first. It is too delightful to miss. H.T.K.

DANTE GABRIEL ROSSETTI, by Helen Angeli (British Book Service). The writer of this book is D. G. Rossetti's niece, the daughter of his brother William; it is plain then that Mrs. Angeli has access to information and oral tradition which would not be open to the ordinary biographer, and it is also probable that she will seek to present her uncle in the best possible light. Mrs. Angeli makes it clear at once that she has taken up her pen to clear Rossetti of some of the charges which have been made against him, and the full title of her book is "Dante Gabriel Rossetti, His Friends and Enemies"; biographers and critics who have written among the enemies she classes several of the about him without, she thinks, sufficient material and without a true understanding of his character. Among these enemies the names of Evelyn Waugh and Violet Hunt occur. It must be said at once that Mrs. Angeli does not attempt to whitewash Rossetti, or to make excuses for him. She is prepared to admit all his faults. She objects, however, to the carefree manner in which some of his de-

Letters To The Editor

A RESTRICTION OF OPERATING ROOM PRIVILEGES

Sir: I have read all your articles on the proposed By-Laws of the Civic Hospital. So far as I can recall you omitted to mention or comment on one of the most important clauses of Section 59, which deals with Operating Room Privileges. It reads: "Members of the Medical Staff appointed for the first time subsequent to the coming in force of these By-Laws and not attached to the Surgical Service may not do major surgical procedures unless qualified to have full Operating Room privileges."

That is, new doctors coming to Peterborough or district may not do any major surgery, with or without the assistance of a practitioner with full O.R. privileges, unless certified as a specialist in surgery or unless he certifies his intention to qualify as a specialist in surgery. The objection to this clause is that there is no provision for an ambitious young man to learn, practice and advance in some branches of surgery so that he may treat his own patients. The By-Laws seem therefore intended to eliminate permanently the competition of the General Practitioner no matter how competent he may be. It is almost certain that if this clause were tractors have enlarged upon these faults, and drawn unwarrantable conclusions from them about Rossetti's treatment of his first wife, his attitude toward money, and his relations with his friends. To this reviewer her arguments all seem to be sober and convincing; Rossetti was just the kind of careless, exuberant, moody man to be misunderstood and blackguarded by people who cannot understand that such a temperament might be linked with integrity and a keen sense of honour. There are plenty of people—some of them professional critics and biographers—who expect a man of genius to be all of a piece, all good or all bad. Very few men of genius possess such unity of nature.

Although it is written to settle particular points, and to end a few old quarrels, this is not a specialist's book, and should be welcomed by the reading public in general. I am happy to recommend it highly to any reader who wishes to know more about a much-wronged and belittled man of genius. R.D.

passed further restrictions in the use of the hospital would soon be forthcoming, and no good General Practitioner would come to the city or district. It may be that the day of the Family Doctor is coming to an end. It has been predicted for many years. Still I do not think that it would be in the best interests of the community to pass laws which would keep him away.

BACK TO MOSES

Sir: Kindly allow me a little space in your Examiner. Recently we have read that the "Lairds of the Church" have objected to the remarriage of divorced persons (guilty or not) within the church.

Over the air, and in our churches, we hear of the "Crucified Christ" who died for sinners, which is so very true and wonderful. One has only to attend some of the meetings and listen to testimonies given by people after conversion—I am happy to be here and so on—or I am glad I came to realize and so on, which is absolute proof of new found joy.

But what about little children? Can a child understand repentance? Children need standards set before them and the encouragement to follow after such standards.

In order for we, the people to progress, we must get back, yes back, and back we go to the "Thou Shalt Not" in the Old Testament which were given by Moses as leader, to the children of Israel. What was good for people in those days, is good for us today.

Let us reason together and honour homes wherein honour lies. Let us ponder and think deeply of the future.

After all, the church is dedicated, is She not? Thank heaven! She is standing.

Thank you, Mr. Editor, A WOMAN.

THE LAST WORD

As the weary night-worker—a polite name for a cat burglar—lay half asleep in bed, his wife brought him an early cup of tea.

"Here, drink this," she said: "It'll be the last I'll bring you for a long time."

"Ho," he snorted, "An 'oo says so?"

"The couple o' coppers waitin' in the passage," was her retort.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Solomon stood before the altar of the Lord in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands toward heaven: and he said, Lord God of Israel, there is no God like thee, in heaven above, or on earth beneath, who keepest covenant and mercy with thy servants that walk before thee with all their heart.

When thy people Israel be smitten down before the enemy, because they have sinned against thee, and shall turn again to thee, and confess thy name, and pray, and make supplication unto thee in this house: then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them again unto the land which thou gavest unto their fathers.

If there be in the land famine, if there be pestilence, blasting, mildew, locust, or if there be caterpillar, if their enemy besiege them in the land of their cities; whatsoever plague, whatsoever sickness there be; what prayer and supplication soever be made by any man, or by all thy people Israel, which shall know every man the plague of his own heart, and spread forth his hands toward this house: then hear thou in heaven thy wedding place, and forgive, and do, and give to every man according to his ways, whose heart thou knowest; (for thou, even thou only, knowest the hearts of all the children of men); that they may fear thee all the days that they live in the land which thou gavest unto our fathers.

And he stood, and blessed all the congregation of Israel with a loud voice, saying... The Lord our God be with us, as he was with our fathers: let him not leave us, nor forsake us... And let these my words, wherewith I have made supplication before the Lord, be nigh unto the Lord our God day and night, that he maintain the cause of his servant, and the cause of his people Israel at all times, as the matter shall require: that all the people of the earth may know that the Lord is God, and that there is none else. (1 Kings 8: 22, 23, 33, 34, 37-40, 55, 57, 59, 60.)

Norway Lidice Rebuilt

(News of Norway)

Reconstruction of the west-coast village of Telemark—Norway's Lidice — was officially completed on September 9th, when Norwegian Prime Minister Einar Gerhardsen and other high Government officials joined residents of the island community in a simple dedication ceremony. It was in April, 1942, that the Nazis determined to wipe Telemark from the map in reprisal for the killing of two German soldiers there. Every able-bodied man was snipped off to concentration camps in Germany, women and children were deported to other parts of Norway, livestock was butchered, and every building in the little village was burned to the ground. With Norway's liberation, a solemn promise was made to the survivors of Telemark: the rebuilding of their village was to become a national project.

Reconstruction costs totalling nearly a million dollars were met through public and private aid. Seventy-two dwelling houses, 49 wharves and boat houses, 43 barns, and 43 outbuildings have been built here since war's end, as well as a new school, church, shops, and community centre. New fishing boats and new equipment were also provided under the project.

Licencing Act Puts Cork In U.K.'s Bottle Parties

By H. L. JONES

LONDON, Oct. 5.—(CP).—The lights of London's west end don't seem quite so bright these days, nor the rhumba bands quite so gay. The capital's night life is undergoing a revolution that means the end of all-night partying. Changes are being enforced through Home Secretary Chuter Ede's new licensing act. It will bring a semblance of order to Mayfair's somewhat tangled club life and put a strict 2 a.m. curfew on drinking in all establishments.

Boys' Town Staging Bike Races At Oval

Bicycle races will be held in the Oval on Monday morning (Thanksgiving Day) when the Optimists Boys Town stage their "bike Olympics," starting at 9.30. The events are open to any boy in the city in the proper age group, and entries should be made by 9.15 a.m. to Walter Bent at the Oval clubhouse. The boys of Boys Town are running the competitions, with members of the Optimists Club acting as officials.

Three classes will go, that of boys 16 and under, the 14 and under class and the one for those 12 years and under. The first is for two miles, the next for a mile and a half, and the younger group race a mile around the Oval track. Cups have been offered for the winners by Clapper's, Trent Baking Co., and Milard's, with smaller replicas to be retained. There will also be semi-finals and finals to declare a grand winner, with prizes up for these events. No racing bikes (those minus brakes) are permitted.

U.S. Steel Slowdown May Close Two Locks

SAULT STE. MARIE, Oct. 5.—(CP).—General slow down of traffic in the upper Great Lakes due to the United States steel strike will mean the closing of one and possibly two locks at the United States ship canal on the St. Mary's river, superintendent Clifford Auni said Tuesday.

Only 20 vessels of the ore carrying fleet checked through the canal in 60 hours, the canal reported. Ordinarily the ore fleet averages more than 20 lockings a day.

Local navigation officials said Tuesday that the full effect of the strike would not be felt for about a week.

Great Lakes vessels carrying grain, oil and so on and the larger Canadian freighters are not affected.

Didn't Know Gun Loaded

TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP).—In a statement given police and read in court Tuesday, Gordon Graham, 16, said he did not know the rifle which killed his father, Douglas Graham, was loaded. Graham is charged with manslaughter in connection with his father's death in suburban Etobicoke Aug. 5.

Economy Steady Adjusting To Devaluation

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor.

The Western economy seems to be steady under the impact of devaluation. Foreign Minister Bevin of Britain said in Ottawa yesterday.

This seems as good a comment as any on the far-reaching changes made recently in the values of the moneys of some 25 countries.

In fact, about the most remarkable thing about devaluation to date is the calm way in which peoples are proceeding to adjust their buying and selling with each other. For the value of nearly everything made in any country has been changed in terms of the moneys of other countries.

Mr. Bevin added: "But it is really too early to tell." And no one is likely to deny that, or pretend to know what changes in trade may take place.

Recognizing Conditions

Devaluations have been taken calmly probably because they are not regarded as creating a fundamental condition, but as recognizing one and not trying to buck it. If devaluation works or does not work it won't be so much that it is right or wrong, but because fundamental conditions are right or wrong.

Mr. Bevin has something to say about fundamental conditions. The Western powers, he stated, are determined that they will not be ruined by economic collapse.

"We are not going to rely on the creation of unemployment and misery in order to adjust our economic system in crisis. Our basis shall be to work, not to starve, our way out of crisis."

The West, he added, has learned in crisis to collaborate, to find causes and to make adjustments.

Mr. Bevin is the spokesman in this instance, but he expresses the manner in which Western peoples have tackled their problems since the war's end. They have sometimes grumbled or used hard words in the process, but when the crisis is at hand bold action is taken.

Still Seasonal Bans

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—(CP).—Removal last week of restrictions on fresh fruits and vegetables did not affect normal seasonal restrictions under the Tariff Act. Finance Minister Abbott said Tuesday in the House of Commons to a question by G. K. Fraser, Peterborough West's member. He said that only restrictions under the Exchange-Conservation Act were being removed.

Paraguay Regime Calls State Of Siege

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Oct. 5

(AP).—The government decreed Tuesday night a state of siege to combat what it called activities intended to re-establish a regime of "despotism and terrorism" in Paraguay.

The decree was issued only three weeks and three days after Federico Chavez left the Supreme Court bench to become president. He succeeded Felipe Molas Lopez, 49-year-old dentist who resigned under pressure from the ruling Colorado party.

Molas Lopez seized power last February in the country's fifth change of government within a year. He was chosen president April 17 in an election in which he was the sole candidate.

MONTREAL, Oct. 5 (CP).—Solicitor General Hugues Lapointe said Tuesday the standing population of training schools, reformatories, common jails and penitentiaries in Canada is about 10,000. He told the Montreal Rotary Club that the floating population of such places—the number received and released during the year—is 75,000.

aluminum house

MANY PEOPLE, perhaps you yourself, already live in houses which are as much "aluminum" as others are "brick" or "stucco".

Just look at the amount of aluminum which already is going into Canadian buildings:

Roofing and Siding—Last year alone about 100 Canadian fabricators shaped thousands of tons of aluminum for use as roofs and exterior walls.

Windows—Today a score of Canadian companies are making aluminum windows and sash which have unique advantages: they never warp, swell, shrink or crack, and never need painting.

Insulation—Aluminum has outstanding insulating properties. Already numerous Canadian companies adapt it to keep homes warm in winter, cool in summer.

Gutters, Flashing, Trim, Architectural Hardware—Because aluminum is attractive and lasts a lifetime, dozens of Canadian manufacturers are now kept busy making it into all sorts of forms for use outside and inside the house.

ALUMINUM COMPANY OF CANADA, LTD.

Producers and Processors of Aluminum for Canadian Industry and World Markets

MONTREAL • QUEBEC • TORONTO • VANCOUVER • WINNIPEG

Why Aluminum?

Aluminum is becoming more and more popular for use in home building because...

...it does not rust... it is practically indestructible. Therefore maintenance costs stay low.

...it is light and easy to handle, is very strong, needs only correspondingly light supports.

...it has an attractive natural finish, and can be painted if desired.

...like other building materials, aluminum can be used in houses of any design.

Ask your architect or contractor about aluminum for building. He knows the story of Alcan's continuing research into its uses. So he can tell you about its overall advantages and how you can profit from them when building or remodeling.

Boxer Collapses After Fight; Condition Critical

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP).—Enrico Bertolo, Italian-born heavyweight boxer who collapsed in his dressing room after dropping a 10-round decision to the veteran Lee Oma, formerly of Detroit, was reported in critical condition today after an emergency brain operation.

Emil Nanny, manager of the 25-year-old Bertolo, now a resident of Chicago, said the Italian underwent an operation early today for removal of a blood clot from the brain. Nanny quoted a doctor as saying that the injured boxer had "a very good chance" of recovering despite his critical condition.

Dr. Louis Hertz, who examined Bertolo in his dressing room, said the boxer suffered a cerebral concussion and probably a cerebral hemorrhage.

world middleweight title, now held by Jake LaMotta. Douthill scored a decision over LaMotta here before Jake won the crown.

National Hockey League offices at Montreal announced Tuesday that the NHL pension society will be luncheon host to hockey executives, writers and players of the all-star and Toronto Maple Leaf teams in Toronto next Monday.

The luncheon will be one of the functions associated with the annual game of All-Stars vs. Stanley Cup winners to be played on Monday night.

President Clarence Campbell of the NHL, the league's six governors and president Maurice Podoloff of the American Hockey League have been invited to the luncheon.

Jack Scruton, 19-year-old hockey player who suffered a fractured skull while working out with Galt Red Wings of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" Circuit, was reported "progressing favorably" Tuesday night in a Toronto hospital where he had undergone an operation.

He was struck by a skate when he and his check fell during practice a week ago. He was treated for a cut head at the time and it was not until Friday that a check-up revealed that the blade had pierced the skull. Doctors have not yet determined whether he will be able to play hockey this season.

Jersey Joe Walcott, Camden, N. J., heavyweight boxer, arrived back Tuesday at New York after a tour of European countries.

He was accompanied by his manager, Felix Bocchicchio who said Walcott hopes to sign with Ezzard Charles for a title bout in December. Charles is recognized by the National Boxing Association as the world heavyweight champion.

Toronto's Marlboro Seniors have signed a well-experienced goaltender for this season's Ontario Hockey Association race. Pat Boehmer, who played with the 1944-45 St. Michael's College Memorial Cup champions, will fend off shots.

The 24-year-old net minder, since playing with St. Michael's has seen service with Hollywood Wolves, Boston Olympics and Pittsburgh Hornets, for whom he played one game. He did not play at all last season.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

Let's run our weary glance around the rugby scene and see what's on tap for the holiday week-end. Holiday, hah! Starts off with a twin bill under the arcs in Morrow Park this Friday night. Lindsay plays PCVS juniors in the opener, and Oshawa tackles the senior PCI-ers in the nightcap. Both lakeshore scheduled high school fixtures. On Monday aft at 2.30 in the Oval, St. Mike's of Toronto meet St. Peter's High in an annual exhibit or match. Same day sees the ORFU Panthers off to Oshawa for a loop tussle. The latter local squad winds up its schedule here the following week-end 'gainst the same club.

Manager Eddie Murphy and his Petes are preparing to go to Chatham this week-end for an important game, or games, if needed. One up in their best-of-three OBA senior "B" semi-final series, they hope to wrap it up Sunday afternoon on the Western Ontario diamond. Should they lose, they'll stay over and settle the series on Thanksgiving Day. Chatham Leafs played in the Mich.-Ont. loop this season. In the other semi-final bracket, Prescott Glovers beat Ottawa St. Anthony's to take that series three games to two. Their veteran flinger threw three-hit ball and fanned 14 in the final fray. Petes may yet meet Ottawas for the senior "B" crown.

It Always Is The Syme Flery Conny Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs keeps rapping the amateur puck clubs for paying too much to players. It is Conny and his pro brethren, who force up amateur prices by tying youngsters to pro forms where they can't bargain. As the cockney rhyme has it:

It's the syme the whole world over,
It's the poor what gets the blame,
While the rich they have the pleasure:
Isn't that a bleeding rhyme

The few good amateurs who refuse to be tied up on the pro "C" form jack up their prices with amateur clubs. Who can blame them?

Frank Buckland sends us the 1949-50 CAHA rule book, the OHA bible, and there are several new points covered. We like this one (which has teeth) hitting at managers or coaches who refuse to go on the ice or who take their teams off in a huff: "If a team is withdrawn from the ice or fails to go on the ice and start play within two minutes when ordered to do so by the referee in charge, the game shall be forfeited to the opposing team. The manager, coach or official of the club, who is responsible for either of these actions or both, shall be automatically suspended for two years from the date of the infraction, without the right to appeal."

Reaching A Compromise Hockey drills proceed apace in Civic Arena as the puckists revel in the earliest ice in Peterborough's history. Three local OHA clubs objected strongly to the $10 an hour rental charge for practice ice, but an agreement was reached last p.m. whereby each OHA team would get two hours free practice a week, and pay $10 an hour for anything over that. This arrangement runs through October when the matter will be overhauled again. Same rent was charged last year and the clubs figure that helped put 'em in the hole. In the old Brock St. rink days, there was no charge for OHA teams practicing, though they couldn't take over the ice when it was wanted for skating or hockey.

Nearly 400 boys played in the well-organized Peterborough Minor Lacrosse Association the past season, and the winning clubs all made an excellent showing in OLA play-downs. Pee-wees might have taken the provincial title but a layoff and lack of drills at the last—due to rain—beat them. Much credit for the PMLA success goes to officials like Ken Kingston, Walt Murphy, Jack Cooper, George Hill and Walt Firth, as well as coaches like Jack Foote, Rowan Chute, Barney Dundas, Lou Vitarelli, Jerry Creighton and Manager Ed Woodcock. Drs. D. W. and Ralph Clark helped out, too. Money was raised by a Lifesaver Day, through the Recreation Commission, and with the seniors giving five per cent of gates. The minor association really co-operated with the press, too, all season.

Dese, Dem And Dose Bike races at the Oval on the holiday morn; details in elsewhere. Girls' Cage Loop has re-organized and will start play late this month. Brintons rolled high again in the lasses' bowling league. O'Halloran's play CGE at King Edward on Sat'day to decide the city soccer champion. Confeds beat Prince of Wales 2-1 as Queen Mary edged Queen Elizabeth 1-0 in school play yesterday. Junior jousts tomorrow: QM vs. Grove at Bonnerworth, and May's at POW. Carpetball league meeting at eight p.m. Friday at Legion to close entries. Local badminton club is clearing the decks for action. Scalpers are getting up to $100 a ducat at Yankee Stadium for World Series games. Hastings' team travelled 860 playdown miles in capturing the OASA Junior "C" title this year. Suggested rule changes should be sent to the OASA secretary shortly. An executive meeting of the PMHA (minor hockey) at 7.30 p.m. tomorrow in the "Y". Panthers protested Orillia using resin on the football in last Saturday's game. Legionnaires have an open workout at seven tonight in Civic Arena. Al Burns and Sixty Combs are trying out with Wichita. Local junior "B" club wrote Belleville re a grouping. Some 15 PMHA teams in, and they'll likely settle for 18. Sugar Jim Henry will play goal for Kansas City 'gainst the Petes here Monday night. Cobourg arena may be ready by Dec. 15. Plump turkeys now wish they hadn't eaten so much.

Close Games Feature School League Soccer Confederation Intermediate soccer eleven defeated Prince of Wales on Confederation school grounds Tuesday afternoon 2-1. Best for the winners were Brown and Smith; for the losers, Downer Morton and Allen. The new field caught Prince of Wales unprepared to meet the aggressive tactics of Confederation who rattled in two goals through the efforts of Floyd; while Godfrey scored for the losers. There was no further scoring in the second half although Smith, Confederation, had the chance to score from a penalty kick. Prince of Wales: J. Drummond, goal; T. Northrop and S. Allen, full backs; P. Spryrow, J. Morton and C. Peel, half backs; J. Allen, G. Downer, G. Hancock, R. Oliver and D. McFarlane, forwards; subs, W. Godfrey, T. Ballantyne, P. Falkner. Confederation: J. Rose, goal; B. Lusic and K. Kimbell, full backs; W. McArthur, D. Goldie and B. Duery, half backs; R. Parnell, J. Brown, J. Smith, B. Floyd, L. Walling, forwards. Referee: Mr. Patterson.

Overtime Decision Overtime had to be played in the intermediate game between Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary Tuesday afternoon to declare a winner when the latter gained a 1-0 verdict. Best for the winners were: Hilliar and Friar; losers, Cameron in goal and Tigh. The full period failed to register a winner but in the first period of overtime Friar scored on a Hillier pass; Cameron saving another effort in the closing minutes. Queen Elizabeth: C. Cameron, goal; C. McMillan and R. Freeman, full backs; D. Fries W. Harrison and B. Hicks, half backs; M. Tigh, R. Whitnall, R. Smith, J. Hall and W. Whitnall, forwards; subs, G. Little, R. Gardner, R. Dargen. Queen Mary: G. Finn, goal; D. Hillier and A. Harris, full backs; J. Dafeo, K. Beck and P. Jones, half backs; A. Wilfong D. Peacock, R. Brown; capt., R. Dubay and D. Friar, forwards; subs, J. Munckett, N. Reynolds. Referee: Arnold Olmstead.

Play To 10-10 Tie OSHAWA, Oct. 5 — Cooksville and Wooler met here Tuesday afternoon in the third and deciding game for the OASA Intermediate C championship series, but failed to settle the issue. The game was called at the end of the 12th inning, 10-10. Each team scored four runs in the 12th. Wooler . . . 020 001 030 004—10 Cooksville . . . 310 020 000 004—10 Farr, Rosenblatt, McColl and Redcliffe, Tanas and Cavan.

Red Wings Have More Hustle This Year Declares Coach Ivan

DETROIT, Oct. 5 (CP)—More hustle, more bump and more balance—that's the way coach Tom Ivan describes the Detroit Red Wings as the team prepares for the National Hockey League's 70-game schedule.

The dapper coach bases his forecast on a new training formula in which the team plays itself into shape with exhibition games in Ontario and the United States, rather than the former method of hours of drilling.

"And you can quote me—the boys will be hitting harder, and more often, this year than last," Ivan said. Most of last season's squad is back—with defenceman Bill Quackenbush a major exception—along with players from the Indianapolis Capitals, Detroit's American League farm club.

One of the hottest players in camp is George Oer, who has been a pivot man between Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay in exhibition games. The former Chicago Black Hawk, acquired by Detroit last season, has been going strong both ways but Ivan says the centre spot "on any of the four lines" is still wide open.

Rounding Into Shape

Captain Sid Abel, whose play at centre between Jimmy Peters and Pete Babando belies his 31 years, is fast rounding into shape as is another veteran defenceman Jack Stewart, also 31. Abel, league-leading goal scorer last season as well as its most valuable player and Stewart are in their ninth season with the Wings.

Ivan has a host of top-notch reserves for the schedule which opens here Oct. 12 with Boston Bruins as the opposition. Most players involved in the Boston-Detroit "four-for-two" trade earlier this year are expected to see action that night.

The swap sent Quackenbush and winger Pete Hornebeck to Boston for Peters, Babando and defencemen Clare Martin and Lloyd Durham.

Martin is expected to fit into the Wings' five-man defencive brigade, along with Stewart, Leo Reise and Len (Red) Kelly. Lee Fogolin, up from Capitals the middle of last season, Benny Witt and Al Dewsbury are also in the running for a rearguard position.

Goal tending chores will come again to Harry Lumley who, in the opinion of Ivan, looks sharper "and in better shape" than he did a year ago.

Among the forwards available are Gerald Couture, Fred Glover, Jim McFadden, Max McNab, Gerry Reid, Marty Pavlich, Jim Enlo and Steve Black.

CANADIANS HOLD OWN

Canadian-born football players are holding their own against American imports in the individual scoring race of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, with five home-brews showing in the big ten.

Vern Graham, Stampeder's Calgary born flying wing, continues to lead with 33 points, statistics compiled by The Canadian Press at Winnipeg show. But Sammy Pierce of Saskatchewan Roughriders, import from Baylor University, crashed through for a touchdown last week-end to bring his total to 30, while Graham was only collecting two points.

Canadian Matt Anthony, Riders' sticky-fingered end, moved into undisputed possession of third place with 25 points.

Leafs Thirsting For Vengeance In All-Star Tilt

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Maple Leafs are preparing for the annual National Hockey League All-Star game with more than the usual enthusiasm. Coach Hap Day and his charges take the view that the game will settle an issue that has been bothering them for a long time.

When the all-star team was picked last spring, Maple Leafs, last year's Stanley Cup winners, were dismayed to learn that none of their members were included in the blue-ribbon team. The three times world champions haven't forgotten what they regarded at the time as an undeserved slight.

Conn Smythe, Leafs manager, puts it this way: "This is the game we've been waiting for. Monday night will provide the answer as to who was right, the all-star selectors or the Leafs."

"I'm looking forward to the game to prove to myself that we were the all-star team and I think the team feels the same way about it."

If Leafs win, they will establish a precedent. In each of the two previous all-star games, the all-stars have been the winners. Two-thirds of the proceeds of the game will go to the NHL players' pension fund and the remainder will be split among several Toronto charities.

Murphy Chamberlain, hard-rock former left wing of the Montreal Canadiens of the NHL has taken up his new duties as playing coach of Sydney Millionaires of the Cape Breton Senior Hockey League. Another new arrival in the Maritimes is Sweeney Schriner, former NHL scoring champion, who is taking over as playing coach of North Sydney Victorias.

Sisson Trying For Queen's Backfield Post

KINGSTON, Oct. 5 (CP)—The Golden Gaels, senior intercollegiate football entry from Queen's University, face the 1949 season with a team of rookies and veterans in almost equal proportions. Weakened by the loss of nine of last year's varsity squad, the tri-color have dug deep in their talent barrel to mould a "dark horse" outfit.

—Gone are wing line huskies Dino Bandiera, Keith Christianson, Roy Salder, Roy Fardell, Art Jackson and Bob Stevens. Plungers Frank McIntyre and Bill Huntley and quarterback Billy Bell have hung up their cleats for the season.

However, some 20 of last year's senior griders are back to form an encouraging nucleus. Quarterbacks Don Bahner, former Ohio University regular, Morris (Moe) Richardson from the intermediates, and Dave (Rosie) Bryane show promise in their handling of the intricate T formation plays. Husky Al Lennard, another quarter who was twice voted intercollegiate all-star for the position, is being considered as a possibility at flying wing if the current over-supply of field generals continues.

Sisson Back

Ross McKelvey, three time Ontario Rugby Football Union all-star half, Murry Bulger, in his third year with the seniors, John Faulkner and Billy Gattfield, also veterans, Jack Sisson from Peterborough Collegiate and intermediate stars, Bart Difrancesco and Bobo Penner are all in the running for backfield posts.

On the line, the Gaels have a solid collection of starters with substitutes the problem. Burly Jim Charters is back at snap. Hal McCarney, six-foot-three and 225 pounds, and John Welton appear to be good bets at middle with Nick Speropoulos, a demon tackler, Harry Dick and Pete Salari top inside prospects. Dependable Tip Logan and veterans John Walcott, Doug Woolley and Dick Harrison are outside wings.

Towering Harry Lampman, a converted backfielder, is the best of the newcomers. At inside Moe Capreol, an Ottawa boy, and Sam Sheridan are able replacements. Rod Montrose, another intermediate graduate and Hank Simola appear as the better of the team's recruits for the alternate snap spot.

World Too Small For Tall Man
Says Dan Dailey

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5 (AP)—In these days of pressure groups and abused minorities, Dan Dailey seeks a fair deal for the outsized male.

Without the aid of uplifting shoes or any other form of subterfuge, Dailey ranks as Hollywood's highest star. He rises to a chandelier-brushing height of six feet, four inches. Now this may sound ideal to males constructed on a smaller scale.

But the actor claims it has disadvantages, due to man's inhumanity to tall men.

"I'm in favor of all tall men in the country organizing to combat various discriminatory practices against them," he said militantly. "Standard sizes aren't big enough for us."

Everything Is Small

"Regularly, once a week, I hit my head on the top of my car," he complained. "When I get out of the car, my legs are so stiff from being folded up I can't walk straight."

"But 19 isn't just automobiles that are too small. Fitting clothes that fit is a long, arduous task. Sometimes it's easier to have them made. Of course, that means more expense."

Dailey moaned that he seldom gets a good night's sleep when on film locations; he has to fold himself into bed like an old contortionist. At home he has a custom-made seven-foot bed, a luxury he promised he'd get once he got in the chips.

He added that he practically holds his breath whenever he stands up in his "Ticket to Tomahawk" dressing room. He has a half-inch clearing on the ceiling.

More Problems
Towering height also brings problems for an actor. Most leading ladies are so much shorter that it takes camera trickery to avoid making it look like a father-daughter team. Sometimes they have to dig a trench for the actor. Sometimes the actor almost has to kneel.

"Yes," mused Dailey with a political glint in his eye. "I think I will get Jimmy Stewart, Gregory Peck and Rory Calhoun together and organize a committee to see that tall men get their rights."

November By-Elections

REGINA, Oct. 5 (CP)—Provincial by-elections in the Saskatchewan constituencies of Canington and Gull Lake will be held Nov. 10 Premier Douglas announced Tuesday. The 52-seat legislature now has 30 CCF members, 19 Liberals and one Liberal-Progressive Conservative.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Soviet Officials Curbing Divorces

MOSCOW, Oct. 5 (AP)—Russian divorce procedure is being tightened up. The Soviet Supreme Court has directed courts hearing divorce cases to regard "strengthening of the Soviet family and marriage" as the basic problem.

A sudden spat between husband and wife no longer will be accepted as grounds for a decree. Cases arising from "accidental or transitory causes" will be thrown out of court.

The Moscow radio announced the ruling Monday.

From now on, the radio said, divorces will be granted only:

1. "When the divorce case has been raised for serious and well-founded motives."

2. "When the further preservation of the marriage contradicts the principle of Communist morality and there can be no re-establishment of normal conditions" for cohabitation and the upbringing of children."

Suspended Sentence For Bigamy

TORONTO, Oct. 5 — (CP) — A 45-year-old father of five children was given a two-year suspended sentence and ordered to appear before the court at any time he may be called during that period when he was convicted of a charge of bigamy Monday.

The man admitted marrying one woman in April, 1925, and another in April, 1946. He said these were both legal forms of marriage and he had not obtained a divorce or had his first marriage annulled.

He had two children by his first marriage and three by his second.

The man pleaded not guilty. The jury found him guilty but recommended leniency.

Judge Forsyth said he would not send the man to jail for the benefit of his second wife and three young children.

Ask Service Clubs Back Cedar Lake Park Idea

Peterborough's Service Club Council is strongly behind the establishment of a public park on Cedar Lake. This project was initiated by the Kawartha Conservation Association which was alarmed over the lack of open parks on the Kawartha waterways near the city.

Now about 600 acres have been set aside at Cedar Lake for this purpose from crown lands. And it is understood that a good road will be built in as soon as possible.

The Service Club Council passed the following resolution: That each club forward a written recommendation to the Kawartha Conservation Association supporting the park project, and that this project should be completed as soon as possible.

U.S. Helped Russia
NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, who vainly sought the Republican nomination for president last year, said Tuesday night on arrival from a European trip that the Truman administration is partly to blame for Russia's having the atomic bomb. He said that in 1947 the United States shipped to Russia electronic control devices, Geiger counters (for measuring radioactivity) and "similar equipment used in atomic research and development."

Diamond Rings Stolen

INGERSOLL, Ont., Oct. 5 — A jewelry store here was entered overnight and about $2,000 worth of diamond rings and wrist watches were stolen. Entrance to store was gained by a rear door where four locks and a heavy bar had been pried off. Discovery was made this morning by Dick Wilkins, 21, of Woodstock, a watchmaker at the store. Wilkins noticed the back door was wide open and notified police.

Crashes Fence Into Creek At Jackson Park

A car travelling on Parkhill Rd. downgrade by Jackson Park at 5:20 a.m. today skidded 235 feet 8 inches, according to city police, before coming to rest with the front wheels on the concrete part of the bridge and the rear end in the creek.

Police say a 20-foot-long fence on the left side of the approach to the bridge was completely demolished and an iron section of the bridge, approximately 15 feet long was broken. A piece of timber about six feet long went through the windshield.

With the front of his shirt stained with blood, the driver of the car, Kenneth Grange, 242 Gladstone Ave., Toronto, appeared in city police court today to face a charge of careless driving. He appeared to be uninjured, but police say his passenger, Mrs. Marjorie Richardson, 663 Donegal St., had a cut nose, cut fingers on the right hand and possible other hand injuries, both legs and knees cut and scraped. She was attended by Dr. C. F. Cahill.

Constable Jack Morrow, who investigated the incident with constable John Conlin, says Mr. Grange told him the accident occurred because he had been blinded by headlights.

No plea was made and at the request of W. J. A. Fair K.C., the case was postponed to Oct. 19. Mr. Grange was remanded with bail set at $200.

Vehicles Collide At City Intersections

Impact of a collision between a car and a truck at Weller St. and Monaghan Rd. Tuesday sent the car round a quarter turn, denting the left front door panel and left side of the body, crumpling the left rear fender, left running board and cracking windows. A portion of the front bumper of the truck was torn off. The truck driver was Charles Redpath, 219 Bethune St.

Constable S. Kellese reports that E. E. McNeil, 308 Burnham St., driver of the car, had been driving west on Weller St. when half way across the intersection the collision occurred.

A little later in the morning there was another collision at the intersection of Water and Brock Sts. The cars met when Mrs. Jean Henderson, 406 Water St., had her car half way across the intersection, driving south on Water St. and John Mitchell, S. Monaghan, was making a left hand turn into Brock St. Constable Claire McGillen investigated.

MEANEST LUMBER THIEF
Theft of a load of lumber from the Lions Club swimming pool building was mentioned with sharp disappointment by Doug Anderson today.

"It was probably Saturday night," Mr. Anderson said. "Members of the club were trying to get some extra funds for the public swimming pool by sponsoring the Lucky Lott drivers at Morrow Park Saturday night. The lumber disappeared over the week-end, and the indications are that somebody drove into Riverside Park and helped himself."

Mr. Anderson merely reported the loss without mentioning any inferences which might be drawn from the theft.

Hockey Teams Protest Practise Charge

The OHA hockey teams, the Junior Oddfellows, the Peterborough Petes and the Peterborough Legion, will receive two hours free practising time a week at the Civic Arena and any period exceeding that time will cost $10 an hour for the month of October. Delegations from the three clubs attended the Board of Directors meetings Tuesday night to protest paying $10 an hour for practice periods prior to the playing season. Fred Scates, treasurer of the Peterborough Hockey Club, was spokesman and said that the club had never paid for practice periods. The club, he added, operated at a loss last year. Three hours a week were required to pick out a good team before the season opened, it was intimated.

The two senior clubs offered to play an exhibition game, dividing the proceeds four ways between the clubs, the junior squad and the arena. With their cuts each team would be able to have some financial backing to commence operation of a team.

Mayor M. J. Swanston first suggested that the teams be allowed to practise free until the end of the month but after a lengthy discussion the two free hours a week and any time exceeding that $10 an hour was agreed upon by the directors.

Minor Hockey
Richard Ouimet, Albert Watkins and Robert McCabe, representing the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association, asked for recognition of the Association. Mr. Ouimet said that 15 teams have been entered with seven of last year's teams still to be heard from. He added that they plan to limit the league to 18 teams.

Three things were asked: (1) regular times for games, (2) time for games and practices, (3) time when schedule could be started. Six o'clock to 8 p.m. were the times mentioned by the teams.

Mr. Watkins suggested that as in St. Catharines, Toronto and Oshawa the minors could practice from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m.

In the discussion of the minor setup the directors decided to work the minor games in prior to the OHA games each Monday, Wednesday and Friday with practices being held in the mornings from 7 until 9. There will be no charge.

Skating Club
Headed by Ralph Standish, a delegation from the Peterborough Skating club requested time, preferably two hours Tuesday evening and two hours Saturday afternoon from November to March. Percy Killingbeck, chairman of the Board, explained that the week-day hours in the evenings were indefinite as yet but that the Saturday afternoon may be fitted in. The time schedule was left to the chairman and Walter Smilie, manager of the arena.

A flat rate of $200 was set for the rental of the rink to the service clubs of the city. A Rotary club delegation had asked for the amount of rental for the rink for their exhibition hockey game between the Petes and the Legion October 14.

Nights for skating until the hockey season opens will be allowed whenever the manager sees fit. After that time there will be skating at least once a week, likely Saturday nights, with the possibility of two nights.

Admission to the senior and junior games was set at 75 cents reserve seats, 50 cents general admission and 25 cents to children for the senior games and general admission 50 cents and children 25 cents for the junior games.

Elementary schools will have free skating hours with the hours of skating to be decided by the manager and the chairman.

Backward Step Scaling Down Recreation Cost

Scaling down of the Recreation Commission as proposed at Monday's meeting of the City Council met with strong opposition at the Tuesday night meeting of the Service Club Council.

Such a move was described as "a terrible mistake" and "a backward step" by Service Council members who had read the press reports of the session.

(A motion not to renew the contract of recreational director, Jack Dane and to disband remunerated personnel of the Commission by Dec. 31 was only defeated on Monday by Mayor Swanston casting the deciding vote. Instead an amendment passed for a committee to study the matter and report back at the October 17 meeting.)

(Aldermen supporting the original motion stated it was not a matter of dissatisfaction with the present Recreation Commission, but retrenchment in the face of a possible rising tax rate.)

Mistaken Idea

William J. Hamilton of the Rotary Club thought that the proposed economy in this particular instance was a mistaken one. "After what has been advocated right here I think it is a terrible mistake to start cutting the Recreation Commission," he said. "They've started at the wrong end."

Some years ago "Laffy" Small had been hired to do the same job as Jane Dane is now doing, Mr. Hamilton asserted, and after he organized things "some people" became dissatisfied and recreational projects were allowed to lapse.

Harley Weir, president of the Kinsmen Club said: "It is a backward step, definitely."

As late as last year he said it was decided at a citizens' meeting that the recreational facilities in Peterborough were practically nil.

Newly installed chairman, Jas. Marshall of the Lions Club, said he did not advocate an increased expenditure but suggested that last year's remain. And this year the city would probably get a better return on the taxpayer's dollar.

Mr. Hamilton said he did not think parents interested in their children's welfare would criticize the expenditure on recreation. "There has been a tremendous improvement in recreational facilities last year over the two previous years," Mr. Marshall observed.

He was followed by Stanley Gilmore, past president of the Kinsmen, who said a large number of families now realized the value of these facilities.

After some criticism of the city's attitude toward Kinsmen and Rotary playground projects, the following motion was passed: That the proposed action of the City Council regarding the Recreation Commission be brought to the attention of each service club; and the feeling of each club as to the curtailment of the recreation commission should be passed on to the City Council.

Alderman Patrick Anglesey who was at the meeting to preside at the installation of officers explained, in an unofficial capacity, that personalities had nothing to do with the matter; it was strictly an economy measure.

On behalf of the Mayor Alderman Anglesey installed the new president James Marshall, and the new secretary-treasurer, Miss Grace Sargent. They succeeded Stanley Gilmore and Isadore Black, respectively.

Find Munition In Garbage At Incinerator

J. E. Pierce, superintendent of the Sanitation Department, showed the Examiner today a live airplane cartridge which one of the employees at the incinerator spotted in the garbage on its way to the big furnace.

It was a machine gun cartridge four or more inches long which some person had thrown out with garbage from a home.

"That seemed to be the limit of carelessness," Mr. Pierce said, "and most of do considerable damage if it got into the fire. Worse than that, was a live hand grenade that was picked out of a load of refuse on the incinerator floor some time ago."

Employees can hardly be expected to sift through the garbage for explosives, at least with fine tooth comb thoroughness, but it happened that these two strays from wartime munitions were noticed by department employees. Mr. Pierce was appealing to the public to use common sense in putting out garbage. He said he did not think there was any destructive intent in either of these instances, and they have not been the only ones in the experience of the incinerator staff.

"We have live shells from 22 size up, including shot gun cartridges," the superintendent said. "This argun specimen is the latest, and also one of the biggest."

SKIPPER'S AID—A joint party from the Canadian Geographical Bureau and Canadian Hydrographic Service this summer toured the north shore of the Great Lakes collecting information, sketches and photographs to be used as a guide for small vessel owners. Existing charts, designed for commercial craft, give little detail of coastline anchorages and other information necessary for safe navigation of small craft. Top photo is typical of the illustrations appearing in the new book. It shows the Bayfield, vessel used by the party, at anchor at Rocks, Lake Superior. The bottom sketch, drawn by B. V. Gutsell of the geographical bureau and who headed the expedition, is an example of the information gathered for skippers. It is of Ganley Harbor, 35 miles from Michipicoten Harbor on Lake Superior.

Government Launch Charts Great Lakes Coast Waters

By H. DENT HODGSON
OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—Maiden voyage of the launch Bayfield, now back from a summer's cruise may help open the Canadian shores of Lake Superior to many small Canadian and United States craft. And quite conceivably, may save their lives.

The launch put out from Midland early last June and skirted the north shores of Georgian Bay, the North Channel and Lake Superior. It covered 2,500 miles.

A joint survey project of the Canadian Hydrographic Service and the Canadian Geographical Bureau, headed by Hydrographer C. G. Connelly and B. V. Gutsell of the Geographical Bureau, checked up on the lakeshores from the viewpoint of the small vessel skipper. They made sketches of the shore-zone, anchorages and harbor approaches which will be incorporated into a new guide.

Commercial Lanes Charted
Existing guides, called "Pilots," were originally compiled nearly 50 years ago and were designed principally for commercial-Lake shipping. The pilots give full descriptions of the channels, the coast and the islands off-shore, but often the smaller islands appear only as small dots on the charts. The skipper of a small craft cruising inshore finds it difficult to determine the precise location or where he can find safe anchorage.

Existing charts show wharves long ago washed out; landmarks long since burned or obscured.

"At Kincardine," wrote one Michigan man in a series of complaints solicited from Americans by the Ontario Government and passed on to the Geographical Bureau, "the main light is located uptown. This is okay, but they've let the trees grow so high around it, you have to pass the city going south before you can see it."

Many Complained
The entire lakeshore in the area presents a series of such problems. More than 150 persons registered complaints and one typical beef said:

"I have taken a cruise from Mackinac to Little Current via the North Channel and would like to go again if navigation was not so difficult. This is beautiful country and I am sure hundreds of boat owners would cruise there if only the more simple aids to navigation were provided."

Answering such complaints was the job of the 48-foot Bayfield and her crew. A new guide, to be published as soon as possible, will bring the business up-to-date. Appropriate photographs and sketches, invaluable to the small-vessel coastal tourist, will be made available.

Fear Treacherous Superior
Only the more intrepid, small-yachtsman cares to skirt the shores of Lake Superior. The

Bill To Ban Crime Comics Unlikely To Be Law In '49

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—Lurid and obscene crime comics—not the strips published in newspapers but the type bought in book form for a dime—are leading Canada's youth to violence, crime and murder, the Commons was told Tuesday night.

E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) 33-year-old lawyer, said crime comics should be banned and the publishers and distributors prosecuted. He spoke during second reading—adoption in principle—of his private bill which would amend the Criminal Code to make crime comics illegal.

The legislation still was under discussion when the hour devoted to private members' bills expired. It went to the bottom of the list and may not be reached again at this session, expected to prorogue early in December.

Before the bill was talked out two clergymen, the Rev. Dan McIvor (L-Fort William) and the Rev. G. Hansell (SC-MacLeod) joined in the battle to ban crime comics and obscene literature from the bookshelves.

Feature Violence

"The comic books concentrate on aggressions which are impossible under civilized restraints—with fists, guns, torture, killing and blood," said Mr. Fulton.

On the pages of these comics, flowing out of United States publication houses at the rate of about 720,000,000 a year, were portrayed "pictorial beatings, shootings, stranglings, blood-puddles and torturings-to-death."

They "invariably" portray the law and the administration of justice and "decency" as a "slow stumbling and stupid progress."

But the "gangster," the man of violence, is portrayed as acting quickly and forcefully, thus directing the sympathies of children "toward the wrong side."

Learn Crime Methods
Mr. Fulton cited the case of an American boy who turned kidnapper after reading a crime-comic magazine. In Montreal a 12-year-old beat his mother to death with a bat while she was sleeping. At the trial the boy said "he had seen that sort of thing in the comics."

A 16-year-old Philadelphia boy killed a 12-year-old comrade with a pair of scissors.

"His room was found to be littered with crime comics," said Mr. Fulton.

There were other cases, too. In Los Angeles a 14-year-old boy poisoned a 50-year-old woman.

Northern Quebec Said Church Field

MONTREAL, Oct. 5 (CP)—The Rev. Henry Cousens of Brockville, Tuesday urged the Presbyterian Synod of Montreal and Ottawa being held here turn its attention to Northern Quebec.

Mr. Cousens, convener of the Synod's mission committee said Presbyterians now direct the only protestant school at Val D'Or, Que., built by the Val D'Or protestant school board at a cost of $400,000.

The Rev. Donald B. Mackay of Quebec, reported that during his term of office as Moderator he had turned the first sod for a church at Val D'Or. The board of missions was given $5,000 towards erection of a church.

G. Akestrom, chairman of the Val D'Or building committee, appealed for help from the Synod.

Rev. T. DeCourcy Rayner, of Almonte, Almonte mission convener for the Presbytery of Lanark and Renfrew, reported to the Synod that "prospects for churches in Petawawa and Chalk River were good but that 'as far as Deep River is concerned we as a church are out.'"

He said 30 of 33 Presbyterian families at Deep River favored a community church, now being established.

Pittsburgh Wife Has 17 Children In 15 Years Husband Takes Things In Stride, Old Story

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5 (AP).—A 34-year-old housewife with 14 little income tax exemptions scrambling around her home, has added three more — this time triplets.

Mrs. Erma Griser gave birth to two boys and a girl in her home at suburban Pitcairn. Her flock already included three sets of twins.

The births Monday put Mrs. Griser's number of offspring at more than her total years of marriage. Her last birth had made 14 children in 14 years. The new windfall brings the record to 17 in 15 years.

Husband Arthur is taking things in stride this time. Said the family physician: "He is getting used to it."

The girl was the first of the triplets to arrive. She weighed 6 pounds. The boys scaled 7 and 6 pounds, respectively.

Warns Canada Must Buy More U.K. Goods

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—Senator Wishart Robertson, government Senate leader, Tuesday defended the government's record in foreign exchange but warned that if Canada wants to continue to sell to Britain she must buy United Kingdom goods on a larger scale.

He spoke in the Upper Chamber during debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, resumed at a brief night sitting.

The Senate also gave second reading—adoption in principle—to a bill which would incorporate the Alberta Natural Gas Company. The bill passed the Senate last session but failed to receive approval of the Commons. The bill was referred to committee for further scrutiny.

Senator J. W. de B. Farris (L—British Columbia) spoke at some length on the measure and presented a petition asking that the Senate refuse to pass the bill.

He was counsel for the West-coast Transmissio Company which has an application before the Board of Transport Commissioners to build a natural gas pipeline which would rival the proposed new company in piping gas to Vancouver.

Senator Robertson, in resuming the throne speech debate, dealt with criticisms of Finance Minister Abbott advanced earlier in the debate. It had been said that Mr. Abbott had promised previously there would be no devaluation of the dollar last month.

As soon as any decision is reached a statement will be communicated to the Commons by Mr. St. Laurent or by External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Suave Actor A. E. Matthews Carries Play

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—A. E. Matthews, a suave British actor with a winning sense of humor returned to the Broadway stage Tuesday night and captured a first-night audience in a fairly interesting play. The production might have been left in the doldrums except for this young-old man who began his stage career in 1886.

Matthews, who is 80, has the leading role of the Earl of Lister in "Yes, My Lord," a light, kidding comedy of present-day austere living conditions in England. And it is only because of the brilliant and bubbling performance of Matthews that the play becomes an evening of gaiety and charm.

The play has run for a year or more in London. Matthews employs his age to pretend to be unconcerned with the facts of life going on about him. His son is defeated on a Tory ticket for parliament, promptly leaps over to the Labor party and is filled by his American fiancée who has pioneer feelings about loyalty to one's party.

The play would be a fair document that would ordinarily be shuffled off the Broadway boards in a week with an inferior cast. But with Matthews in control of the leading role and with George Curzon, a Lieutenant-Commander in the Royal Navy in the late war, in the role of an impeccable butler, the play makes a return to crisp and welcome British comedy.

More Controls Likely—Salisbury

TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP)—The Marquess of Salisbury told a University of Toronto audience Tuesday night that "we must all look forward to a more closely integrated world" with some increase of controls within and among countries.

"But that does not mean that the pendulum need necessarily swing right across to something that differs little from dictatorship" the 56-year-old nobleman said. The Marquess came here to deliver the 1949 Sir Robert Falconer lecture at the university. "Even in a closely integrated world," he said, "the essential liberties both of individual nations and of individual citizens can be preserved." He said the second part of his lecture, to be given here tonight, would consider how the two could be reconciled.

Sixteen Sea Cadets Hold All-Day Cruise

Sixteen Sea Cadets took an all-day cruise Sunday on Stony Lake aboard the cruiser, YoHo. Under the command of Lt. Bill Thomas and Lt. S. Gardner, the boys sailed from Burleigh Falls to McCracken's Landing and back. The youthful sailors were given a course to follow and stuck to it. Fully kitted, they ran the whole show themselves, taking the lieutenants along for insurance.

The trip was designed to teach seamanship and manoeuvres specifically.

Buried In Hole Youngster Saved

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 5 (CP)—A six-year-old St. Catharines lad, Billy Michellin, was buried alive for what seemed to him an eternity Monday night when he fell into a hole while playing in an abandoned sand pit.

The youngster was playing cowboys and Indians in the field with some friends when he fell into a huge pit.

"Some big boys started pushing said in on top of me, and I couldn't get out," the boy said. But he finally made it with the help of a cousin and some friends. Meanwhile, motorists shone headlights on the pit while police held flashlights and lanterns for a rescue squad who threw shovelfuls of dirt frantically out of the sand pit. After about three feet of the loose sand had been removed from the hole, the rescue crew found that the boy had arrived home safely.

She then visited Texas, San Diego, and other points, later reaching Vancouver. While in BC she taught Indian children at the Alert Bay school, which is at the northern tip of Vancouver Island, later going to Fairview in the Peace River district. She found these children lovable and interesting. Before leaving the west she also taught the Blackfeet Indians, at Cardston, Alta. and mentioned them as being exceedingly clever, showing some of their art work to illustrate.

Toronto Teacher Speaks At St. Anne's School

Fall meeting of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association of Peterborough district was held Saturday in St. Anne's School. Sister M. Clotilde presided.

The meeting opened with prayer led by Mr. E. J. Boland, principal. Mr. P. Burke, on behalf of Smith Township School Board, welcomed the teachers to the new school.

At the conclusion of the business Miss Patricia Twomey entertained the assembly with a Schumann piano selection.

Guest speaker for the day was Mr. Donald J. Pierce of Riverdale Collegiate Institute, Toronto. His address entitled "Discipline in the School" was most interesting and informative.

Mr. Pierce said "Today as always discipline is the key problem of the school. For the modern teacher it is a serious and delicate problem. It has been made such by the advocates of progressive education of self expressionism on the part of the child."

"The gravity of the situation has been further intensified by the widespread social upheavals resulting from the recent world conflict. Many a home was left almost parentless during the war; after the war many a child was left in the unnatural situation of possessing but one parent."

"Since the war there has been an anti-family crusade, an effort on the part of many to destroy the remnants of family life. Parents are encouraged to flee the home, to fulfil their so-called social obligations elsewhere. As a consequence the training and moulding of the child is left almost entirely in the hands of the school."

The speaker emphasized the fact that parents must be made aware of their duty to discipline and guide their children. "They must be convinced of the fact that never is a being more social than when fulfilling his obligations within the family circle," he said.

Slate of officers for the coming year will be: president, Sister Mary Bernard; past president, Reverend John Coughlin; first vice-president, Sister M. Clotilde; second vice-president, Mr. Maloney; third vice-president, Sister M. Belinda; treasurer, Miss Hazel Guerlin; secretary, Miss Maureen Hickey; councillors, Sister Theresa Eileen, Patricia Twomey, Sister Mary Charles.

After the singing of the National Anthem the teachers enjoyed a dainty lunch served under the convenship of Miss Marie Flynn.

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you ever think how desolate is the lot of the lonely women in this world? We live alone, eat alone, walk alone. Often it is all we can do to carry on. No body cares whether we die or live, or are happy or miserable. We are seldom invited out anywhere, seldom asked to ride in any one's car. Please say some thing to the selfish people who pass us by.

but she spends most of her time snooping and spying on him and seems to think that every patient he has is trying to vamp him. She says she can't help this, but the tragedy of it is she has ruined his practice and broken down his health. What can be done about it?

A FRIEND.

ANSWER: Nothing at all, I fear—jealousy is a kind of insanity. You cannot reason with it because very often the one who is in the clutch of the green-eyed monster knows that there is no real foundation for her fears and suspicions.

Of course, if the jealous person could only turn the light of common sense on her morbid suspicion, they would vanish into thin air. This woman, for instance, might say to herself: "Of course, my husband loves me, or else he would not have married me," and she might add to herself that instead of resenting other women coming to him as patients, she should be glad of it as his success and prosperity depended upon that very thing.

But the jealous wife will scorn to use any common sense in dealing with her problem. She wants to believe the worst of her husband. She gets a sort of sadistic joy in torturing herself, and still more fun out of torturing him, and for the sake of this enjoyment she is willing to ruin him professionally and wreck his health and his happiness. Which is a pretty high price to pay for one's entertainment.

DEAR MISS DIX: How can you cure a disease called "being boy crazy"? Everybody I know laughs at me about being so wild about boys and this causes me no end of anguish. Please tell me how to get over it.

ANITA.

ANSWER: Time is the only infallible remedy for your complaint. It is one of the ailments common to adolescence and in a few years you will outgrow it, but while you are suffering from it you are in great danger of doing something foolish and rash that will make it terminate fatally for you.

In a few years you will get over being boy crazy, but in the meantime why not try a little home treatment and size up the boys you know and try to see what is in them that should make you run a temperature? Analyze them and try to figure out what is so wonderful and marvellous about Tom, Dick and Harry, who may make fine men later on, but now are nothing to write home about.

Extend Good Wishes To Bishop On Trip

Promised prayers in union with those of the Pope comprise the spiritual bouquet which Bishop Berry is taking with him to Rome. "I have had it purposely exposed to view," His Excellency told the congregation at St. Peter's Cathedral Tuesday night. "It is beautiful in exterior appearance and in its internal meaning and value. As a mad world waves against things divine, this spiritual bouquet tells our Holy Father that we are with him in these hours of trial."

"Your good rector, Father Butler, is accompanying me. I ask your pious prayers for both of us. I am very grateful to all who have expressed their hopes to me for a bon voyage, and I am happy to include His Worship Mayor Swanson who kindly sent his good wishes. In our journey abroad we shall carry Peterborough diocese and city in our heart and our prayers."

The bouquet was an artistic representation of the prayers of the people of the diocese in union with Pope Pius XII and for his intentions.

Bishop Berry is leaving Peterborough Friday for his first "ad limina" visit to the head of the Roman Catholic Church. He will be away seven weeks. Members of the clergy, of the diocese and people of the city attended the October devotions Tuesday night at which Rev. J. J. McCarthy of Douro preached the sermon and extended to Bishop Berry their good wishes for journey in health and peace.

Those assisting in the devotions were Rev. G. J. Weiss of the Cathedral staff; Very Rev. M. J. O'Leary of Bracebridge; Very Rev. J. V. McAuley of Lindsay, and many others. Rev. John F. Coughlan was master of ceremonies.

Few Mining Issues Feature Market Climb

TORONTO, Oct. 5 (CP). — A few mining issues featured a climbing market in brisk forenoon trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

The upward trend continued steadily for the second successive session as activity increased. Consolidated Duquesne mines highlighted the gold list, suddenly spurring upwards for a new high at $1.16 before settling back to $1.12, a gain of 24 cents. Turnover was heavy following reports of good drill results from the property in North-western Quebec.

Donalda Mines, with property in the Rouyn district, Northern Quebec, and a feature of markets early this week, continued brisk for a new high at 90 cents, up 6 cents.

Base metals were also higher, with Noranda and Quemet leading the way despite recent price cuts in lead and zinc. Noranda sold at 62½ up ¼, and Quemet gained ½ at 17½.

Senior gold producers added fractions and a few juniors also were ahead slightly. Industrials bucked their way slowly upwards on gains ranging from fractions to more than a point. International Paper, Tuesday's highlight, gained ¼ at 67 and touched a new top at 67½.

Awarded Annulment

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Nancy Oakes De Marigny Tuesday won annulment of her marriage to Count Alfred De Marigny, 41, who was tried and acquitted of a charge of murdering her Canadian-born millionaire father, Sir Harry Oakes. Sir Harry was found murdered on his fabulous Nassau estate in 1943. Nancy stood by her husband throughout his trial.

Smog Sickens Three

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5 (AP). — The paint on more than 100 homes in South Reading—a part of greater Cincinnati—was peeled off or discolored Monday by a mysterious chemical-laden smog, thought to have come from a factory. At least three persons became ill from the fumes, which were described as smelling like "rotten eggs." They were not seriously affected.

Drug Pedlar Jailed

CALGARY, Oct. 5 (CP)—Albert E. Jeeves, 54, of Calgary, was sentenced Tuesday to five years in penitentiary following conviction on two charges of unlawful possession of narcotics. Mr. Justice J. Shepherd said persons dealing illicitly in narcotics were "potential murderers" who had to be locked up.

SMALLEST BABY

At birth the smallest mammal is the baby opossum which averages 1-140th of an ounce in weight.

'Y' Campaign Enrols 187 Boys

One hundred and eighty-seven boys enrolled during the campaign last week in the YMCA in the Boys' Department. Although 250 below the final attendance figure of the 1943-44 season, Donald Duncan, Boys' Work secretary, said a large number of boys joined the YMCA through the year. By the end of October, he said, the membership should be up to 300. The other 150 boys will be taken in throughout the year.

The largest membership, 70, is in the Pioneer group, boys eight and nine years old. In the next group, the Juveniles, 64 boys joined. Thirty-three boys joined the Junior group and 15 the Intermediate. Five boys from the rural areas became members.

In the interest survey taken at the same time as the drive swimming was listed as the most popular. Gym work placed second in the boys' interests while skiing, woodworking and leatherwork followed in that order. Mr. Duncan said that he hopes to have classes in leatherwork, model building and moulding.

Public Speaking drew the interests of one boy in each group of the department. Mr. Duncan said that to encourage these boys along this line he plans to work in a couple of periods.

Swimming was the interests of the boys in the Pioneer and Juvenile groups with gym work placing second in each. Gym work exchanged places with swimming in the Junior division while the Intermediate boys gave gym work as their first choice followed by wrestling and table tennis.

Woodworking, model building, moulding and photography were the main interests of the five rural members.

Bill To Ban

"He said he had got the idea from a comic book as well as the recipe for the poison."

In the same city a 13-year-old was found hanged in a garage with a crime comic illustrating "that type of thing" at his feet.

How was Canada to cope with this evil influence, Mr. Fulton asked. He was against a press censorship during peacetime, but had the "utmost confidence" in "proper legal processes."

Judge and Jury Decide

This could be done through the amendment to the Criminal Code so that the offender could be tried. It then would be up to judge and jury to say whether a publication was likely to "influence youthful persons to commit crime."

Mr. McIvor said: "It is a curse. Sometimes a clerical gentleman is held up to ridicule and you see the effect on our youth. Sometimes a good mother and father are held up to ridicule in these obscene pictures—then it is suggested that they should break the Seventh Commandment (Thou shalt not commit adultery) and get a great thrill."

Mr. Hansell said he had a hard job "keeping my youngsters from reading crime comics."

He showed a publication to the House and said in it was an article on the life of a prostitute. The publisher could get around the law by showing that the girl paid for her crimes, "but that is not the reason some of our young people would buy this book to read."

Mr. Hansell was willing to let the members read the book—"but please, after the adjournment, do not rush me."

Norwood Fair's Large Plans For 25,000 Holiday Visitors

G. A. Brethen's estimate of the attraction values of Norwood Fair, of which he is president, is an exceedingly optimistic 25,000.

Norwood Fair publicity sketches the details of program, and insinuates the idea and measure of quality with the dignified affirmation. "With good weather we expect to entertain at least 25,000 visitors on the holiday (Monday, Oct. 10). Ten acres of smooth parking space, adjoining the Fair Grounds, have been leased to take care of the overflow."

Price list and posters are written with assurance, and the friends of Mr. Brethen and his associate directors will be delighted the day Norwood Fair attendance reaches 25,000. Anything like that crowd will thrust Fred Slade of Roseneath, Will J. Hill of Madoc, and other one-day fair managers of the district into the background of second-raters. Mr. McLean of Lindsay and Hugh Stewart and G. A. Gillespie of Peterborough could be tossed into that same company; for a crowd of 25,000 would be an amazing assembly of people anywhere outside of Toronto, Ottawa and London Exhibitions.

Mr. Brethen and the Norwood Fair board deserve a lot of credit for their bright ambitions and assumptions. Last year they were rained out. Roseneath was also drenched and was washed into the red scuppers to the amount of $1,500. Norwood was just getting back onto its feet in a revival that was largely inspired by the enthusiasm and confidence of Mr. Brethen.

To Recoup

They faced their disappointment, paid all their promised prizes, and they have drawn up a program for the Thanksgiving Day holiday that is packed with events.

Norwood preparations for the fair began this week with preliminary elimination contests for their school singing and public-speaking finals. School exhibits in social studies and craft work will be revived at the Fair grounds up to 6 p.m. Thursday with judging at night. On Saturday all exhibits will be received at the grounds to 11 a.m., excepting livestock, dairy products and poultry.

Gates open Monday at 7 a.m. (Standard Time). Some of the classes will be judged in the morning, others in the afternoon. The display cards announce that a grand parade will take place at noon from centre of the village to the grounds, and that it will be headed by a band. A massed choir of school children will sing The Maple Leaf Forever and the National Anthem.

Kennedy To Open

Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture, will formally open the Fair at 1 p.m. (DST).

The T. Green Amusement Co., "with their complete show fresh from the big fairs will be here intact." That is the midway feature. There are two horse races and a chariot race; horse drawing contest for the district championship; tractor driving competition (first in Ontario) for boys or girls 12 years to 30; tractors are provided on the grounds.

And so the program continues with a district High School beauty contest. "Trios of beautiful girls in colorful costumes, chosen by their fellow students as best representing each of the secondary schools in the Trent Valley District will display their beauty, personality and charm."

Entertainments

At the entertainment stand there will be old time fiddlers, square dance calling; step dance-ing; freckles contest; mouth organ contest, and so on. Meanwhile the main judging of livestock will be in progress, and parade of champions at 4 o'clock; concert in the evening at the town hall; and dance at the armories beginning at 10 p.m.

That is an outline of the attractions for "The Only Thanksgiving Fair Day East of Toronto."

Give the Norwood Fair a golden autumn day, and the village might be invaded by 25,000. It is difficult to visualize in the most favoring circumstances, but the Brethen directorate is ready for all of them.

Living Costs Half Point Down In Aug.

Food Prices Decline
Below Highest Peak,
First Since March

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP).—Lower food prices pushed down the cost of living index during August.

The index now totals 162.3—down a half point from the all-time high of 162.8 registered during July.

It had been increasing steadily without a drop since last March when it hit 159.3. By spurts and bounds it climbed to successive new highs, urged forward mainly by food price increases.

With food production at its height during August, price declines were registered for beef, lamb, pork, eggs, oranges and vegetables, the Bureau of Statistics said Wednesday in announcing the August cost of living index.

The index, a barometer of living costs, is calculated on the basis 1935-39 equals 100. Those costs now are estimated to be 61 per cent higher than they were in August, 1939.

Opposite Situation

While food prices helped send down the index in Canada, food prices were boosting the index in the United States.

Rents, clothing, fuel and light made slight advances but home furnishings and miscellaneous groups remained unchanged.

Rental changes in the index are made every three months when the bureau completes a quarterly survey. The sub-index advanced slightly from 123.4 to 123.9, an increase of a half point. The rental group now is at an all-time peak.

Kaiser Signs Steel Armistice

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6 (AP).—The C.I.O. United Steelworkers made peace with Henry J. Kaiser but spread their walkout to two more plants today.

And as the country-wide steel shutdown over pensions reached the sixth day, the federal government—still ignoring Philip Murray's battle with big steel—announced it would try to settle the 18-day-old strike of 400,000 soft coal miners.

The ranks of 500,000 striking steelworkers were joined Wednesday night by 1,500 at the Atlantic Steel Company in Atlanta and 2,800 at the Riverdale plant of the Acme Steel Company near Chicago.

Kaiser steel's acceptance of contract demands was announced Wednesday night by Murray, president of the steelworkers.

Kaiser did what big steel refuses to do. It signed an agreement to give four cents a man-hour for insurance and six cents an hour for pensions paid completely by the company. The plan is retroactive to Oct. 1. Some 3,500 employees at Kaiser's Fontana, Calif., plant will benefit.

Break Record, Flyers Continue On 7th Week

YUMA, Ariz., Oct. 6 (AP).—Arizona's endurance flyers, refreshed and rejuvenated by marking up a world record, hoped today to spend another week in the air.

They passed the old endurance mark of 1,008 hours at 10:15 p.m. EDT Wednesday night, and immediately announced the emotional lift of bettering the record had removed much of the fatigue they have felt in the last four days.

Their single-engine plane, "The City of Yuma," carried them past the record without a major falter during their six weeks in the air. Shattering of the old record by the two navy veteran pilots—Bob Woodhouse and Woody Jongeward—touched off a major celebration at the Yuma County airport.

One minute before the goal was reached, all lights in the city and area were turned off. Then, the lights were flashed back on, and police sirens, fire whistles and automobile horns were blown in celebration of the event.

HANDS UP, THUMBS DOWN—These delegates to the annual convention of the Canadian Congress of Labor at Ottawa may have their hands up but they are turning thumbs down on the left-wing elements in the organization. The delegates are voting to continue the suspension of five officers of the leftmost United Electrical Workers of America. The five were suspended last spring for a 'slandorous' attack on the Ontario Federation of Labor. The suspension was continued by a 10 to 1 vote.

Judge Raps Captain's Efforts

Varsity Professor Barred From Crossing US Border

BRYN MAWR, Pa., Oct. 6 (CP).—Dr. Katharine E. McBride, president of Bryn Mawr College, said Tuesday that Dr. Barker Fairley, a University of Toronto professor, has been barred from the United States by immigration officials. Dr. McBride made the announcement in a speech opening Bryn Mawr's academic year and said that as a consequence a series of lectures which Dr. Fairley had been scheduled to give at Bryn Mawr have been cancelled.

The Bryn Mawr president said United States immigration authorities gave no reason for refusing to let Dr. Fairley enter the country.

Dr. Fairley, Mrs. Fairley and John Goss, actor and theatre director from Vancouver, were detained for questioning by the immigration service last March in New York. The three then were attending the cultural and scientific congress for world peace in New York.

At that time Mrs. Fairley and Goss were ordered to leave the United States.

No Political Party

Dr. Fairley said in Toronto on Wednesday night that he is not a member of any political party and never has been.

A leading authority on Goethe, the German poet, dramatist and philosopher, he said in a written statement:

"It all arises out of my being invited to visit the United States during the Goethe year. Since early in the year I have lectured at various U. S. universities, including Yale and Princeton. I was to give the Mary Flosser lectures at Bryn Mawr this fall. But instead I find myself excluded and denied a hearing before a board of special enquiry."

Government Employee Held Charged With Bond Theft

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP).—A trail of stolen bonds, leading from a rock-smashed government safe, has landed a federal government employee in jail.

George Oscar Richer, 30, of Ottawa, an employee of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, is being held without bail today in connection with the theft six months ago of more than $1,600 from a Bureau safe.

In a brief arraignment in court Wednesday, Richer was remanded in custody until Friday. He was arrested at his home here last Friday.

Exact nature of the charges against Richer were not disclosed. However, police said they were laid in connection with a break-in and robbery at the bureau last April 9. In the robbery a 300-pound safe was smashed open and looted of $1,400 in bonds, $250 in

Wilson Gives Up Trial Attempts

PICTON, Oct. 6 (CP).—Harold Wilson today abandoned his speedboat trials, still in search of the world's record.

Final to his latest attempt came when Miss Canada IV was taken in tow this morning after breaking a propeller shaft. "That's all for the year," Wilson said as he reached the dock. "Miss Canada was running well but the pilot on one end of the propeller shaft broke off."

The mishap occurred as he hit the starting line of the mile-long Picton Bay course.

In a trial run earlier this morning he skimmed over the course at a speed estimated at close to the world mark of 141.7 miles an hour set 10 years ago by the late Sir Malcolm Campbell.

After the shaft broke Miss Canada slowed down to a walk, finished the mile and Wilson cut the motor off about one mile farther on—1½ miles from his dock. A motor boat went to bring him in.

Accept Resignation

PARIS, Oct. 6 (AP).—French Premier Henri Queuille's resignation was accepted today by President of the Republic Vincent Auriol. Queuille, who had led France's government for the last 13 months, submitted his resignation Wednesday because of a split in his coalition cabinet over wage and price controls.

Frank Wilkinson, counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, ship owners, rose at one point and protested that the witness was being "pressed too hard" by the commission counsel.

Empire Games Team Cut By Lack Of Funds

MONTREAL, Oct. 6 (CP).—Canada's team in the British Empire Games in New Zealand next year has been cut from 62 athletes and nine officials to 50 athletes and nine officials because of lack of funds, it was announced today.

George C. Machum, president of the British Empire Game Association of Canada, said the action was taken at an emergency meeting here Wednesday night.

He said the fund now stands at $70,000 but it will take $100,000 to send the whole team, as originally planned. "Cutting the team down to 50 is disastrous to the chances of Canada making its best showing at the games," Mr. Machum said.

Hearing Cut Trial May Be In November

Lawyer Asks Time
To Prepare Defence

QUEBEC, Oct. 6 (CP).—Thin-faced J. Albert Guay, looking out calmly on a packed court-room audience, was ordered today to stand trial on a charge of killing his pretty wife by blowing up an airliner with 23 persons aboard.

Guay, 32-year-old Quebec jeweller, was ordered for trial before a jury of his equals by soft-spoken Judge Laetare Roy who listened to two days' evidence in the extraordinary case.

The judge's decision at the start of the third day of Guay's preliminary hearing on a murder charge laid Sept. 23 brought a sudden end to the hearing. The evidence presented since Tuesday brought the people of Quebec to a high pitch of excitement.

Judge Roy's role in the hearing was to listen to the case established by the Crown through the testimony of two dozen witnesses and rule whether a full-fledged trial was justified.

Before a new audience today, the greying judge accepted Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion's submission that there was sufficient evidence to support the charge against Guay.

Breaks Up Noisily

The hearing broke up noisily after argument between counsel over the trial date which will be fixed definitely after the opening of the autumn term of Quebec Criminal Assize next Tuesday. The date will probably be in November.

The Crown announced that he would not call the four additional witnesses he had planned to bring into the court room. He expressed belief the Crown had established a case sufficient to bring Guay to trial.

The Crown alleges that Guay arranged to have a bomb placed aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane which crashed Sept. 9 killing 23, including Guay's wife. Defence counsel said he had no witnesses to call.

Mr. Dorion asked that the trial be fixed for Nov. 7. Defence lawyer Bertrand Marcotte submitted that in a month it would be impossible to prepare a defence. He asked for a trial at a term later than in November. Judge Roy said he could not grant the defence request. It was not within his powers.

Two Miners Trapped 70 Feet Below Earth

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP).—Rescue workers worked feverishly today in an effort to reach two miners trapped 70 feet below the earth when water broke through a mine wall.

Only faint hope was held out that the hard-coal miners, Kenneth Lunde, 39, and Lee Scoville, 39, both of Shamokin, survived the mishap Wednesday.

A heavy duty pump is being used to pump out the water in the hope that the men may have found refuge in another working that was not flooded.

Unions Fail To Change CCL Vote System

Big Guns Want Block Voting To Reduce Small Union Strength

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP).—Amid a series of noisy demonstrations, the Canadian Congress of Labor convention today defeated an attempt to change its system of convention voting.

The United Automobile Workers of America and some other big unions wanted the CCL to adopt the "block voting" method whereby the whole strength of a union may be balloted at a convention.

It was contended the present system of one vote per delegate gives smaller unions with many locals a voice in the CCL out of proportion to their size.

One of the longest and warmest fights of the week-long convention broke out over the issue as the executive's rejection of the

Dodgers Leading Yankees In Third Inning

DODGERS 0 1 0

YANKEE STADIUM: NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP).—Manager Burt Shotton lifted Carl Furillo from his Brooklyn line-up and substituted Marv Rackley shortly before Preacher Roe squared off against New York Yankees' Vic Raschi in the second game of the 46th world series.

Outfielder Furillo, still suffering from a painful groin injury although he played yesterday's opener, found he was unable to play after taking the pre-game warmup.

Rackley is a left-handed batter. A 303 hitter in 74 games, Rackley does not pack as much power as Furillo nor does he have as strong a throwing arm.

Another big crowd of some 65,000 fans was jamming into the stands, coming out late as they did for yesterday's opener.

Rackley was in Furillo's No. 6 spot in the order. However Rackley will play left field with Hermanski shifting to right.

The weatherman threatened a moist late afternoon but predicted the game would be over and done before the rain started to fall.

Field Dries Out

Overnight the field had dried out in fine style and there were no muddy spots in front of the dugouts along the foul lines as there were at Wednesday's thrilling opener, won by the Yankees 1-0 on Tommy Henrich's ninth-inning home run.

Despite the sunshine, the air was a bit chilly—no shirt sleeves were noticed in the bleachers.

It was to be Preacher Roe, the Dodgers' crafty left handed pitcher, trying to even matters for Burt Shotton's crew in this second game.

After today's battle the scene shifts to Brooklyn where the next three games, if a fifth is necessary, in this best-of-seven series, will be played Friday, Saturday and Sunday. If they need more, they'll be back at the stadium Monday and Tuesday.

Roe was a 15-6 winner in the regular season with 13 complete games and three shutouts in 27 starts.

Casey Stengel of the Yanks has his top-winning ace, Ric Raschi, (21-10), primed for duty.

U.S. Demands Punishment For Shocking Treatment Of Americans By Russians

Charge Two American College Students
Accidentally Bicycling Into Red Zone
Held Eight Weeks With No Justification

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. —(AP).—The United States today sent a strongly worded note to Russia protesting the "shocking" mistreatment of Americans who stray into the Soviet zone of Germany. "This treatment the United States Government finds to be in shocking contravention to the most elementary standards of international decency," the note said.

At the same time the United States, through Ambassador Kirk in Moscow, notified the Russian Foreign Office that "it expects that those Soviet officials who are responsible for these acts will be punished."

The American note referred specifically to the case of the two American college students who "inadvertently and innocently" entered the Russian zone while bicycling and who were detained for eight weeks.

It also cited the case of Pte. John J. Sinkowicz, an American soldier, who escaped September 16 from a prison in the Soviet sector of Berlin after 10 months of imprisonment. The note said he was held under "brutal and uncivilized conditions."

"There can be no justification for this kind of treatment of the citizens of a friendly nation, persons whose only violation of law is purely technical at most and whose innocence of criminal charges can easily be established."

The note said bluntly: "The defense group set up a military committee of top professional strategists which was called into its first session this afternoon. Heading this group is Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs-of-staff. Other members were not announced at this time."

Also established was (1) a three-man "standing group," made up of Bradley and British and French defence chiefs, which will have some of the functions of a high command; (2) a military production and supply board which will meet in London in December and (3) five regional planning groups.

The European countries for which military help is authorized are Norway, Denmark, Italy and the five countries which already have a working alliance in the Brussels pact—Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Raffles Girl Returns Deported From States

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6 (AP).—Betty Ritchie, of Fenelon Falls, 24-year-old former girl friend of Gerard Dennis, convicted society burglar, will be deported to Canada today. The former school teacher will fly to Chicago and then will go by train to Toronto, William A. Carmichael, district immigration director, announced. Her bail of $500 will be exonerated at the border.

Col. Matt Winn Dies Ran Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 6 (AP).—Col. Matt J. Winn, 88, president of Churchill Downs and impresario of the Kentucky Derby, died at St. Joseph's Infirmary at 2:45 a.m. CST today.

Col. Winn had been in serious condition for the last several weeks following two operations. The exact nature of his illness was not announced, but it was understood the operations were designed to correct a stomach disorder.

Members of his immediate family were at his bedside when he died.

Col. Winn was one of the few persons who had seen all 75 of the Kentucky Derbies. He saw the first one as a boy of 13 and last May he achieved his life's ambition when he attended the diamond jubilee of the Derby.

Dwight Storey, steel worker from St. Catharines, declared the publicity proposal was "just another manoeuvre to try to confuse delegates."

Two Collisions At Same Spot

Two traffic accidents occurred Wednesday at the junction of Reid and Stewart streets between 5 and 7 p.m. The first, at 5:15 p.m. was between Harold Hynes, 467 Downie St. and W. E. St. Thomas, Lindsay. Constable W. G. Scott, who investigated with Constable Menzies, found that Mr. St. Thomas's car had driven into the back of Mr. Hynes' car after the latter had stopped to allow a truck to pass.

Shortly afterwards, the same constables were at the same spot and found two vehicles more badly damaged.

The found that O. S. Shaw, RR 2, Omemee, had been driving north-east on Reid St. and slow-downed. Ransom H. McCarty, Port Nelson, had thought Mr. Shaw was going to make a right hand turn but he continued straight on and the two cars colli-

The front axle, left front wheel, fender and headlight of Mr. Shaw's car were damaged and the front bumper, grill, rad and fenders of Mr. McCarty's car suffered in the collision.

Cars driven by William G. Hooper, 225 McGill St. and Elwood Cannon, 536 Patterson St. were in collision Wednesday afternoon on George St. in front of Cherney's store. Constable W. G. Scott reports that the two vehicles collided as Mr. Hooper pulled into the side of the road to let a passenger off.

Judge Roy fixed Guay's trial for the Criminal Assizes term starting Oct. 11 with the exact date to be fixed later.

Guay who remained standing during discussion of the trial date made no comment.

In another chamber in the courthouse Mrs. Arthur Pitre, 41-year-old key witness in the Crown's case against Guay appeared briefly for her preliminary hearing on a charge of attempted suicide.

Her hearing was put off until Oct. 14.

Wednesday a chemistry professor demonstrated before an excited courtroom how an alarm clock could have been used to detonate dynamite and wreck an airliner.

The demonstration by Dr. Lucien Gravel of Laval University followed testimony that Guay had obtained dynamite and an alarm clock detonating device, had insured his wife for $10,000 and sought the suicide of a woman who is an important cog in the crown's case against him.

Mrs. Arthur Pitre's crippled brother, Genereux Ruest, said he rigged up an alarm-clock device with which Guay wanted to detonate dynamite "in a box."

Dr. Gravel, who put together an alarm-clock detonator during a 10-minute court recess and watched it ignite a dynamite fuse while he testified, told the court:

"Ten pounds of dynamite detonated by such a mechanism would be enough to wreck the interior of a plane and knock every-one board unconscious."

OBITUARIES

JOHN FAUX

Struck down by a car on the Warsaw Road, Tuesday night, John Faux of Douro died in Civic Hospital two hours later. He was in his 78th year.

Mr. Faux was born in Asphodel, son of the late Joseph Faux and Mary Lancaster.

Farmed All His Life

He farmed all his life. For the past three years he has been living with his daughter, Mrs. Vernon Campbell of Douro. Previously he farmed on the Warsaw Road for 29 years and before that in Otonabee.

Left are his daughter, Mrs. Campbell, and a grandson, John Robert Campbell. His wife, the former Ellen Elmhorst, died in 1946.

He was a member of St. Luke's Anglican Church, Peterborough. The body is at the Mather Funeral Home, Keene, and will remain there until Wednesday afternoon. The funeral will be from the Campbell residence in Douro at 2:30 p.m. Friday, with Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial will be in Fife's Cemetery, Otonabee.

Mr. Justice Kellock said he thought there was no reason for objection. Addressing himself to the witness, who again was visibly nervous and rushed most of his replies, the commissioner advised Capt. Taylor to answer each question as fully as possible then wait for the next one.

Hammered On Windows

Capt. Taylor said after realizing the blaze could not be controlled from the ship, he instructed a crew member to handle the hose and ran forward.

"As I went I hammered with my hands on cabin windows, and shouting."

The captain said he got no response to any of his efforts to rouse any passengers who might still have been in their cabins.

On his way forward, the witness said he passed two fire hydrants which were not in operation. He told the commissioner they should have been in operation by someone "if he could have got there."

Capt. Taylor told the commission that other than shouting and banging on cabin windows he made no other efforts to rouse passengers and assist them from the blazing ship.

"What were you thinking of?" asked Mr. Justice Kellock. "Why did you not realize, since you knew the fire was beyond control, you should do all you could to help passengers ashore?"

"There were people going over the bow . . ." the captain started to explain.

"That was not my question," said Mr. Justice Kellock.

"I tried to make as much noise as I could," the captain said.

Wields Hose

Subsequently he said he went about wielding the nozzle end of a hose and breaking windows of cabins in which there was flame. Mr. Justice Kellock observed that nothing had been done to rouse passengers in cabins back of the social hall at that stage of the holocaust.

"I can't say," said the witness. The commissioner also asked why at one stage of efforts to rouse passengers four crew members including the captain moved along in a group.

"Didn't it occur to you to send some of the others to try to rouse passengers some place else?" "It didn't occur to me," said the captain, adding he was "confused."

Capt. Taylor said he remembered telling special officer M. R. Brown "we have got to get the people out of here."

Thought Some Escaped

Under further questioning by the Commissioner the Captain said the thought occurred to him that the passengers in some of the cabins were out.

"We know now, they weren't," said Mr. Justice Kellock.

Capt. Taylor said he had no knowledge of what was done to rouse passengers on the starboard side of the Noronic, and he received no reports on this from any member of the crew.

The witness said he was restrained from entering the flaming cabin with a hose as he moved toward the stern on the port side.

He said subsequently he dropped another hose he picked up because there was little water and it was of no use.

Capt. Taylor told Mr. Justice Kellock he had never seen hose aboard the Noronic project water any more than "30-40" feet.

"Yet the inspector comes here and tells us it should be 125 feet," noted Mr. Justice Kellock.

Captain Tiring

Apparently tiring under questioning, Capt. Taylor, who when he began testifying three days ago spurned a court offer to give evidence from a sitting position, finally took a chair at the suggestion of CSL counsel.

Capt. Taylor said at no time after he returned to the ship did he see any fire extinguishers being used. He said the lights failed in several places.

The witness said he brought none of his belongings off the ship, and that at no time did he give an order to abandon ship.

"Do you know of any instructions given the crew about how to fight fire?"

"No, I don't."

Capt. Taylor told the Commissioner that when he went ashore on the night of the fire, he was satisfied the watch was adequate. He had not himself given shore leave to any of the crew.

Overtime Pay Involved

"Would there have been any overtime pay involved in keeping any of the men on board that night who were given shore leave?"

"There would have been," replied the captain.

The witness said he believed there had been a letter from the company on the subject of overtime in 1949 and that the company tried to avoid overtime pay wherever possible.

Capt. Taylor said that other than personnel on the regular ship watch, no other members of the crew were required to report back to the ship that night after going off duty.

"How do you explain that so many people died on this ship if as you say you heard the klaxon sound?" asked the Commissioner.

Capt. Taylor, recalling he once had slept through a klaxon signal on another ship, said it was "just one of those things that happen to people."

Tax Arrears On Downgrade

COBourg, Oct. 6 — (ENS). — Only $29,821.81 of the 1949 tax levy of $198,906.41 remains unpaid, and the final instalment, due November 15, is expected to reduce this amount considerably, it was revealed in a statement on collection of taxes issued by the collector, E. A. Hircock, Wednesday.

At the end of this month, rate-payers will be advised as to the amount of their 1950 assessments, based on the re-assessment of the town. While the new assessments, figured on the pattern prescribed by the Department of Municipal Affairs, will be about twice the household assessments of previous years, the tax rate will be proportionately lower. The condition of the tax arrears indicates that the town is in a sound financial condition, Mr. Hircock said.

Hospital Gets 'Oxygen' Gifts

COBourg, Oct. 6 — (ENS). — The Rotary Club of Cobourg has donated an ice-less oxygen tent for use by Cobourg General Hospital, at a cost to the club of $825. This will facilitate the administration of oxygen by means of the oxygen tent. Up until now, when a patient had to be put into the tent in such instances as a heart attack, where prolonged stay under the tent was required, the customary chilling of oxygen was required in order to prevent suffocation.

In an emergency occurring at night, it was necessary to get the supply of ice from the artificial ice plant in Port Hope. Ordinary ice could not be used as it was not pure enough and there was the resultant delay in getting the ice, bringing it to Cobourg and cutting it up before use. By means of the new Rotary equipment, immediate refrigeration of the oxygen is possible without any delay and at times when delay could perhaps have serious consequences. The new equipment will be formally presented to the hospital at a later date, but in the meantime it is ready for use.

The Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary has donated to the hospital a crib resuscitator with suction and oxygen for use by infants.

Outlaw Registration

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 6 (CP). — The United Nations Assembly's social committee approved Wednesday the outlawing of special registration of prostitutes. The 59-member group voted, 36 to 3, with 10 abstentions, in favor of adding the prohibition to a proposed world "convention on the suppression of the traffic in persons and exploitation of the prostitution of others."

EYE TOPICS

THE BIFOCAL AGE

After the age of 50, physical vigor wanes, and the aches and pains of advancing years appear. One's eyes are not excepted, and ordinarily they reflect the physical conditions existing in the rest of the body. Office workers who have forgotten how to exercise will continue to make heavy demands upon their eyes in carrying on their occupations. Eyes with neglected defects now are prone to rebel.

After 50 years, about three out of every four persons have visual defects. Nearly everyone, even those with so-called normal vision, requires correction for reading or close-focusing work, because of the stiffening of the lenses of the eyes and the inability of the eye muscles to bring about accommodation for near and far seeing.

During the 50's the lenses of the eyes tend to become more inelastic. They also grow more dense, which changes their refracting power. Frequently in the late 50's little fringed opaque areas occur on the edge of the lens. Usually these opaque fringes do not interfere with vision, as they are situated far down behind the iris. Sometimes they may rise up until they are on a line with the pupil and cause some dimming of vision. These opacities, which are fairly common do not extend deep into the lens and should not be confused with cataract.

During the sixth decade of life, the eyes' full serviceability is needed to give depth and color to the autumnal years of life.

Cow On The Highway

Early yesterday morning a Peterborough man driving a transport truck along Highway 2 near Newtonville was killed. He had swerved in a vain attempt to avoid a cow which had strayed to the highway. He is survived by his wife and three children, the eldest being ten, the youngest only a year and a half old. If the cow was the cause of the accident—and there is little doubt that it was—the cow was responsible. But since a dumb animal cannot be held criminally liable, what is the responsibility of the owner of the cow? Highways are not made for cows. Under no circumstances whatsoever should a cow have been ambling freely along Ontario's main highway in the darkness of five o'clock of the morning.

Impressions Of Britain

The people of Britain who are prepared to look at their national predicament without passion are agreed that the Labour Government cannot be considered responsible for the country's major ills. The Labour Government inherited a mess which was the outcome of war; it has tried to clear up the mess by political and economic action along socialist lines and so far it has not met with much success. There is little reason to suppose, however, that the Conservatives would have been able to do any better. It is extremely doubtful if any other government would have introduced so many irritating regulations, and it is in this respect that the people of Britain have a just complaint against the Labourites.

The British Civil Service has been greatly increased in numbers and influence since Labour came to power. The country now appears to bristle with officials, and every official has a set of forms which must be filled out at least in duplicate, and often in triplicate. The very brief experience which the present writer had with these officials was as pleasant as such experiences can be; all were polite and, so far as could be determined, efficient. The impression which a traveller receives from British businessmen and farmers is that the new Civil Servants are, upon the whole, trying to be as decent and obliging as possible, though there are exceptions. But the very system of which they are the administrators makes for delay and frustration. The liaison between government departments is often poor, and quite a simple business operation may mean dealing with three or four departments, getting one sort of permission from each. But if Department A does not understand what Department B is doing, and if the regulations of Department C are contradictory to those of Department D, and if forms from A, B, C, and D have to be cleared through Department E before any action can be taken, four or five months may be consumed in correspondence, during which time a change in Government export policy may have completely altered the situation, so that the whole weary business has to be done again. In any large business this kind of thing is an endless source of irritation and frustration.

In small business and in farming the situation is no better. Farmers are not, as a rule, interested in paper work, nor can they see any reason why they should not sell their produce to anyone who will buy it. They resent regulation intensely, and many of the evasions of regulations, and consequent black marketing, spring from this irritation, rather than from any real dishonesty. Interference between landlord and tenant, also, in a country where most farmers are tenants, makes for untold difficulties.

Understandably there is a tendency to "cut the red tape" in all sorts of business dealings. Buyer and seller get together and make their arrangements, which are essentially innocent, but because of Government regulations they have to do their business on the sly. It could be said, with justice, that the socialist love of regulation and complication has made petty crooks of thousands of honest English farmers and small business men.

In larger businesses, however, these short-cuts are impossible and business men are, in their own phrase, "browned off" with the stumbling blocks which the Government has put in their way. They think, and they may well be right, that if they get rid of the bureaucrats, and get a free hand in trade, that they could soon put British business on its feet. We shall discuss their point of view in a fourth instalment of this consideration of the British situation tomorrow.

Effect Of Devaluation On The Cost Of Living

It is to soon to say whether or not the devaluation of the pound and the Canadian dollar will have a heavy effect on the cost of living in Canada. There are some figures which give an indication. In the first seven months of this year Canada bought from Britain $192,600,000 worth of goods, and sold to Britain $408,500,000 worth, leaving a "favourable" balance of trade amounting to $215,900,000. During the same period Canada bought from the United States $1,169,000,000 in goods and services, and exported to the U.S.A. $795,300,000, leaving an unfavorable balance of trade of $373,700,000.

At first glance these figures tell a hard story to the Canadian consumer. The more than a billion dollars worth of American goods will cost at least ten per cent. more now, that is $116,900,000 in an equivalent seven months' period. The British goods at a pound rate a little less than 25 per cent. of the former rate, will theoretically cost $53,900,000 less over an equivalent seven months' period. Thus, the cost of our U.K.-U.S.A. imported goods would rise, all other things being stable, by $63,000,000, in a similar seven months' period.

But all other factors will not be stable, nor will the ten per cent increase in the cost of American goods be exactly ten per cent to the consumer, nor will the decrease in the cost of British goods be exactly 23.7 per cent. Further, the weight of trade will vary. It can be expected that there will be less Canadian buying of American goods and more of the cheaper British goods. The figures of our export-import trade with the U.S.A. for the first seven months of this year indicate a trend which may develop rapidly. Canada imported ten per cent. less from the United States during July of this year than in July, 1948. (On the other hand, our exports to the U.S.A. for the month dropped ten per cent.) The figures for Britain show that our imports during the seven months increased fourteen per cent. Our exports to the U.K. dropped slightly.

World Series

We understand that around the waters of the Luapula in the Congo the natives are now holding tribal games. It might be said that these constitute a world series, since no one can best them at these games. In fact nobody else knows or can play them. Around the waters of the Hudson River in New York another world series is being played. The African tribes have not sent a team, for they do not know the game. In fact, the only contestants in the "World Series" are American. We do not consider that there is any truth in the rumour that the World Series will in fact become a world contest when in 1955—the same year that U.N. may be invited to assemble in Moscow—a Russian team will take the field in baseball. In fact, we do not believe that there is any truth to the stories that a crack Russian team is slaying at baseball in a secret stadium near Amginskala in Siberia, on a five-year plan to win the World Series.

A school authority says that dental decay in children is now occurring six times as fast as it can be looked after. Would it not be best to face facts and supply each child with a complete set of uppers and lowers as it enters the kindergarten?

Ballet in Britain

By DYNELEY HUSSEY

FIFTY years ago Ballet in England, as in most European countries, meant an entertainment in three or more acts consisting of a number of conventional dances strung together upon the thread of a more or less allegorical plot and performed to music of the utmost triviality. There was plenty of opportunity for the display of the technique, not to mention the personal charms, of the female dancers, but little occasion for any real emotional expression, while the male dancer had been reduced to the role of a supporting partner with a set, insipid smile. Giselle, Coppelia, The Swan Lake and The Sleeping Beauty are survivors of the genre before it degenerated into the kind of "show" (to use a modern expression) represented by The Press, produced at the Empire Theatre, in 1898, in which the history of printing and the newspaper was reviewed from the days of Caxton to those of Punch and Alley Sloper.

By the end of the first decade of the century the genius of Serge de Diaghilev had effected a revolution in the Ballet, which even in Russia had become somewhat fossilized in convention. This great amateur of the arts perceived that Ballet, to deserve the name of art, must be a synthesis of dancing, music and painting, each of these elements being of equal importance. Diaghilev commissioned music from composers like Stravinsky, Debussy, Ravel and de Falla, and decor from Benois, Bakst, Derain, Picasso and many more. He was largely instrumental in inspiring Fokine in his experiments in choreography and in fashioning the style developed by Massine. With the aid of these collaborators he created a new kind of Ballet emancipated from the dead conventions of the 19th century.

When Diaghilev died in 1929, he had built up in England a large audience who were enthusiastically, if sometimes uncritically, interested in the art of Ballet. The vacuum created by the temporary dispersal of the "Ballet Russe" was filled almost at once by the foundation of the Camargo Society formed by a group of prominent supporters of the Ballet, which promptly produced a number of ballets by British composers, among them Vaughan Williams' Job, described as "a Masque for Dancing," and William Walton's Facade, both works that have secured a permanent place in the repertory.

Job had a setting based upon William Blake's designs, and is the prime example of the tendency of British composers to base their ballets upon the paintings of a particular artist. The spirit of Blake informs Vaughan Williams' beautiful score with its propulsive and sublime manner as much as it conditions the movements of the dancers arranged by Miss Ninette de Valois, the choreographer, and the scenery and costumes designed by Miss Raverat. In a similar way Gavin Gordon Jones' The Rake's Progress brought to life in the theatre the series of paintings by Hogarth that bear that title, while a ballet called "The Prospect Before Us," of which the music was arranged from symphonies by William Boyce, the 18th century composer, was based upon drawings by Thomas Rowlandson. So also Lord Berners' The Triumph of Neptune reincarnated the tinsel glories of Pollock's toy pantomimes.

FACADE, the other early ballet of the contemporary British school, had, on the other hand, a literary origin. Walton composed his music originally as the accompaniment to the declamation of a number of Edith Sitwell's poems. Later he rescored some of the pieces as a Suite, which was used by Frederick Ashton as the basis for an amusing diversion with a delightfully inconsequent setting by the painter, John Armstrong. It is hardly surprising that literature being one of the special glories of British culture, composers should have made use of specifically literary ideas. The "Gothic Revival" especially has provided themes for romantic ballets as well as suggesting the style of decor. Among them may be mentioned Geoffrey Toye's The Haunted Ball Room and Apparitions, a ballet devised by Constant Lambert to music by Liszt, both of which exploited the extravagant Gothic taste for the horrible and the supernatural. Other, and more modern, literary themes were used in Berners' Wedding Bouquet, which has a choral text sung, or rather declaimed by a choir placed on either side of the stage and Nocturne, arranged to Debussy's tone-poem, "Paris," by Edward Sackville-West with choreography by Frederick Ashton, in which, perhaps, the influence is that of the romantic French conte than any English literary form.

HUMOROUS burlesque and caricature have always had an important place in British art. The names of Ben Jonson, Hogarth, the Duke of Buckingham who wrote The Rehearsal, Rowlandson, the Sheridan of The Critic, and in our own time artists like Max Beerbohm, Rex Whistler and David Low are sufficient evidence of a genius for this kind of humour, and, in most cases, of humour rather than wit. It is not surprising, therefore, that burlesque has played a large part in the British Ballet. Facade was one of the first and most successful examples of this genre, though it has not been free from the danger, to which burlesque is particularly liable, of degenerating with repetition through the dancers' loss of restraint in "playing for laughs." Ashton has since worked this vein further in Les Pains Perdus, a delightful skating diversion, and other ballets, including his own performance with Robert Helpmann as the Ugly Sisters in Prokofiev's Cinderella. Miss de Valois, to whose direction of the Sadler's Wells Company the Ballet in Great Britain so largely owes its healthy condition, has contributed to this humorous style in Rake's Progress, though its "moral" is too grim for burlesque. The Prospect Before Us, a riotously robust theatrical satire in the manner of Rowlandson, and Promenade, a more delicate piece of humour. Anthony Tudor, now choreographer to the Ballet Theatre of New York, also displayed a mastery of the style in Gala Performance, a burlesque of the ballet itself.

MARGOT FONTEYN is Britain's foremost ballerina today, and the star of the Sadler's Wells Ballet, which will visit Canada this autumn. She is as remarkable for her beauty, as for her skill as a dancer. She is seen here in "Facade," a ballet based upon some poems by Edith Sitwell, with music by William Walton.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS was careful in Job to avoid too elaborate a symphonic development of his movements, which are for the most part cast in the simplest old dance-forms—sarabande, pavane, galliard and the like. The most extended movement is the bravura solo dance of Satan, which is conceived in true terms of modern Ballet. Characterization, which must be an important element in any dramatic music, is one of Vaughan Williams' strong points, and the evil of Satan's nature is portrayed in this sinister music as surely as is the grandeur and compassion of the Delty in the noble music associated with the scenes in Heaven. The human figures of Job and his family are no less finely drawn, while, among the minor characters, the three Comforters and their unctuous hypocrisy are exactly represented in a grotesque melody for the oily-toned saxophone.

The pictorial element in Ballet, the scenic decor and the costumes, has, despite the limitations imposed by war-time and post-war economy, maintained the vitality, originality and imagination of the standard established by Diaghilev, without degenerating into the perversity and eccentricity into which the great impresario's craving for novelty sometimes led him. The scenic designs of Rex Whistler for The Rake's Progress, of McKnight Kauffer for Checkmate (in the original form lost in Holland in 1940 when the Germans invaded), of Oliver Messel for Tchaikovsky's The Sleeping Beauty, and of Leslie Hurry for Hamlet testify to the variety and accomplishment of British scenic artists. Their work is individual and not derivative; and it need not fear comparison with the products of European and American artists, nor even with the accepted masterpieces of Benois, Derain and Picasso.

Unconsidered Trifles

A preacher was talking to his congregation about salvation. Finally his sermon was finished, and then he said: "Now, then, Brother Smith, will you, take up the collection, please?" At this point an old man got up and started for the door, saying: "Pardon, I thought you said salvation was free—free as the water we drink." "Well, brother," replied the preacher, "salvation is free and water is free, but when we pipe it to you, you have to pay for the piping."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)
I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage.
Thou shalt have none other gods before me.

Thou shalt not kill.
Neither shalt thou commit adultery.
Neither shalt thou desire thy neighbour's wife, neither shalt thou covet thy neighbour's house, his field, or his manservant, or his maid-servant, his ox, or his ass, or any thing that is thy neighbour's. (Deut. 5: 6, 7, 17, 18, 21.)

Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not commit adultery; but I say unto you, That whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart. And if thy right eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not that thy whole body should be cast into hell. (Matt. 5: 27-29.)

Then he called his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure disease. And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick. (Luke 9: 1, 2.)

Rules For Hunters

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)
Autumn ushers in the hunting season with its special hazards. It is too often the time when hunters fall victim to their own guns, or those of their companions.
The National Safety Council, in the United States, has prepared a list of time-tested safety rules, which apply to all forms of hunting. They are as follows:
1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.
2. Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your auto camp and home.
3. Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.
4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble.
5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.
6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.
7. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.
8. Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.
9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.
10. Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.
If these rules were generally followed, most of the tragedies which mar the hunting season could be avoided.

"JOB," a ballet founded upon the Biblical story, is one of the most interesting of contemporary English ballets. This is a scene from the original Sadler's Wells production. The music is by the most distinguished of living English composers, Ralph Vaughan Williams.

Two PCVS Teams To Play Under Floodlights Friday

PCVS senior footballers open their home-and-home series with Oshawa this Friday night in the first game of the Lakeshore District Football League. The juniors will meet Lindsay in their second game of the league. Both games are in the Exhibition Grounds under the lights.

The seniors have a .500 average in their exhibition games, trouncing Riverdale Collegiate of Toronto 35-5 and being trounced by East York Collegiate of Toronto 28-0.

Coach Bev Goulding has at least two players on the injured list, Bart Grainger, an inside, and Hubert Knox, a middle. These players may sit on the sidelines for the Oshawa game.

Coach Alex Landry's juniors have a .500 average, winning their first league game with St. Peter's High School last week 50-16 and losing to Riverdale 10-8 in an exhibition tilt.

Al McIlraith, who was on the injured list last game, is expected back in the lineup but not yet at the end position. He will be at snap replacing Johnson who will be playing in another position. Otherwise the PCVS juniors will line up Friday night as in last week's game.

Something new is being added to the games this week. The new group of cheerleaders are expected to make their first appearance. Candy sales have been held by the girls in the school for the past two weeks to pay for their uniforms.

Little is known of the Oshawa senior squad but the Lindsay juniors whipped the Whitby juniors 18-5 last Saturday in an exhibition contest. Whitby is in Division B of the Lakeshore Junior League with Oshawa and Bowmanville.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

Listening to the World Series, we recall the sad case of Aloysius (Wish) Regan, who manages a Class "D" club a few years back. His bunch of bums make only a fair showing midway through the schedule until he adds a guy named Wrecker Raymond. The parent club sends Raymond along to the Sox with a note to Wish: "Use Raymond rest of season. Good hit, fair field, no brains." Most of his monkeys have no brains, either, and Regan is happy to get a sticker. The Wrecker really can powder the pill and the club finally has a chance to make the playoffs. Comes the crucial game with the Bucs on the Sox diamond.

It is a pitching duel and it goes along for six heats before the Bucs squeeze over a run. In twice up, Wrecker Raymond gets a big goose egg. But things brighten in the seventh. The Sox shortstop hits a triple, but the goon is out at the plate trying to stretch it. Next guy up and does the same screwy thing for two outs—and Wish Regan forgets his anti-profanity vow. The Wrecker is up next and he bounces one off the left field wall and slides into third. Whew, three triples in a row! They yank the pitcher. Next hitter holts one back of second and in a mixup they let the ball fall safe for a cheap double, Raymond holding third after going halfway in and then tearing back in confusion.

But to shorten it and spare the grim details of Regan's cracking mind, the next guy beats out a hunt—an odd play—and the bases are filled. Then the last hitter smacks a sizzler down by short and it catches the runner on the heel for three out. Wish is crying quietly on the bench as the team takes the field, but Wrecker Raymond remarks to him in passing: "Cheer up, Wish, it is a record. Three triples, a double and two singles without a run scoring!" He manages to dodge the bat Wish hurls at him and trots out grinning to his position.

Well, it is still 1-0 for the Bucs in the last of the ninth when the Sox start to go to town again. Doc Evans slams one at third too hot to handle. Bullets. It is a hit in any league. He goes to second when Peevee Miniculouski beats out a perfect bunt. Ha, two aboard and no one away, with the Wrecker coming up. He lets a nice one go by and then one low outside. A one-one count. Next is a floater and Raymond swings from the heels. But he just gets the bottom piece of it and it goes a mile high toward second base. Wish and the bunch bolt out of the dugout to see what will happen, just as the ump yells: "Infield fly, batter's out."

And That One Did It

That puts one away, but Miniculouski is rattled when Wrecker, pounding down to first, roars: "Run, ya dope!" Peevee races madly for second and scoots a couple of steps past Doc there—the base ump immediately yelling: "You're out!" Just then the ball comes down and conks Doc on the dome as he stands a few feet off the base. So, he is out too. When the mess is unravelled, the three Sox runners amble back to the dugout. Wish looks like severe shock has set in and then the Wrecker says: "It is another record, Wish, with a triple play and no fielder touching the ball." It is then that Wish hits him over the head with a bat—but hard. Last we hear, they occupy adjoining padded cells. It is a sad story.

The baseball served up yesterday in Yankee Stadium was strictly kosher—nothing wrong with it at all. A 1-0 tilt is always a beaut, and Tommy Henrich's homer to right in the last of the ninth on a two-nothing count really thrilled the 66,224 paid customers. Allie Reynolds got as many hits as he gave throughout the game on Yanks' slab. Just two, while whiffing nine. Big colored Don Newcombe, Dodgers' ace thrower, sent a third strike whizzing by 11, while he allowed but five hits. A swell start for the diamond classic of the year. They're at it again today in Manhattan, and then move to Brooklyn for the next three.

The ring career of Enrico Bertola ended in tragedy at Buffalo Wednesday as the 27-year-old Italian boxer died of a head injury suffered in a bout Tuesday night with Lee Oma. It was the eighth boxing fatality this year in the United States.

District Attorney Gordon Steel ordered an immediate investigation and told police officials to produce all ring officials, handlers of the fighters and officials of the sponsoring organization, the Fairview Athletic Club.

"I have ordered Oma detained and held until the matter is resolved," said Steel. It was understood, however, that Oma will be permitted to remain in his hotel. Steel ordered an autopsy to determine the exact cause of death. Bertola, who took the Italian heavyweight championship only two years ago, suffered a beating about the head in dropping the 10-round decision to Oma. However, he walked from the ring. Fifteen minutes later he complained of feeling sick to his stomach. Later he lapsed into a state of unconsciousness from which he never recovered.

Argentina's Cesar Brion stopped Tami Mauriello in 2:18 of the second round of a scheduled 10-round fight Wednesday night at New York's St. Nicholas Arena, and the veteran New York heavyweight announced he was retiring from the ring. "I am through—I don't intend to fight again," the battered Mauriello said in his dressing room after the bout. Brion weighed 197½, Mauriello 201½. Mauriello, although only 26 years old, has had an active and stormy career. He fought Gus Lesnevich twice for the light-heavyweight championship in 1941, losing 15-round decisions on both occasions. He met Joe Louis for the heavyweight crown September 18, 1946, losing by a kayo in the first round.

The New York Daily News on Wednesday night quoted Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn Dodgers as saying of plate umpire Cal Hubbard: "I've never seen such bad strikes called. He actually called a pitch-out a strike. That is the payoff."

The paper continued: "Robinson was referring to the pitch on which Pee Wee Reese stole second in the eighth. Spider Jorgensen was at bat, let the serve whizz by, and was shocked to learn, an instant later, that Hubbard had called it a strike. 'It was wide,' related Jorda, 'and way up here'—and he stretched his arm out at forehead height. 'And he called it a strike.'"

A recommendation that Newfoundland be allowed entry into the Dominion curling bonspiel was passed Wednesday night at the annual meeting of the New Brunswick branch of the Royal Canadian Curling Club at Moncton, N.B. The meeting also decided to hold the annual New Brunswick senior bonspiel here next year, starting February 13.

Canadiens Begin Three-Game Exhibition Tour

By The Canadian Press

Coach Dick Irvin and his Montreal Canadiens have embarked on a three-game exhibition tour in the United States, a primer for the National Hockey League race which opens Oct. 12.

The game-hungry Canadiens left four players behind—three of them forwards.

Irvin says that in this way he will be able to work his remaining front-line combinations, paying special attention to Adjutor Cote of Sherbrooke, Que., who has postponed signing a contract until after the training season.

The Canadiens will meet American hockey league teams—Providence Thursday, Springfield Saturday and Buffalo Sunday.

Those left behind were rearguard Glen Harmon and Rip Riepelle, Neil Campeau and Bob Fillion. Harmon remained in Montreal because Irvin said he didn't need five defencemen. An ex-New York Ranger, who figures being traded to Toronto Maple Leafs was "the biggest break in my life," doesn't think much of his old club.

Says 24-year-old Cal Gardiner: "I'd have been 10 years getting on a Stanley Cup team in New York."

Gardiner, traded for Elwyn Morris and Wally Stanowski, will be filling the first-string centre-line again this season.

Yanks Take Opener 1-0 On Reynolds Two-Hitter, Raschi and Roe Go Today

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Allie Reynolds' amazing two-hit shutout of Brooklyn Dodgers boosts New York Yankees into the driver's seat in the 46th World Series. Now Manager Casey Stengel has the edge. He can gamble and lose, still confident of no worse than an even break. For "gambler" purposes he has a fit-and-ready Vic Raschi, the hero of Sunday's pennant clincher against Boston Red Sox. Burt Shotton, pilot of the Brooks, can't afford to miss with this afternoon's choice of Preacher Roe.

In many world series, the first-game winner has a tremendous jump. Often they lose, as Boston Braves did after whipping Cleveland's Bobby Feller in last year's 1-0 opener, but the odds are in their favor.

After Wednesday's 1-0 victory, made possible by Tommy Henrich's homer in the ninth, the price makers rubbed off the old 10-7 odds favoring the Yanks and made it 1 to 3. For today's pairing of Raschi vs. Roe, they quote 10 to 13 with New York favored.

Few series games have produced better duels than the battle Reynolds, the 31-year-old Oklahoman, and big Don Newcombe, the Dodgers' 235-pound Negro rookie, staged for 66,224 fans on Wednesday at Yankee Stadium.

Satisfying Triumph

It was a soul-satisfying triumph for Reynolds because "old Wahoo" has been blistered all season in the public prints. Folks point at his 17-6 record and sneer "yeah, but only four complete games. Where would he be without Joe Page?"

Reynolds supplied the answer in spades. Never was he better. His curve ball drifted past Dodge bats like the blue haze of the sultry October afternoon. Page spent the afternoon sitting, not throwing in the bullpen.

"I wouldn't have wanted to go in when a fellow was pitching like that," said fireman Joe, "even if Casey had asked me."

Page, of course, is the relief ace who followed Reynolds in 20 of the 31 regular season games he started. The Reynolds-Page corporation has been dissolved, temporarily, at least.

For 25-year-old Newcombe, making his first series appearance, it was disheartening setback. The Montreal graduate pitched well enough to win. But Brooklyn just didn't give him any runs.

As fine as Newcombe was, Reynolds had to be better. The first-inning double by Spider Jorgensen that Johnny Lindell failed to reach after a late start, might have been caught. Allie didn't allow another hit until Pee Wee Reese singled to centre with one out in the eighth.

Henrich To Rescue

They might still be out there, pitching their arms away, if "old reliable" Henrich, the Dodger hex hadn't poled a Newcombe pitch among the right-field seats. Between them they struck out 20 men, only two short of the record set in the 1944 St. Louis Cardinals-Browns series.

Roe figures to give the Yanks trouble today. He is an experienced, crafty left-hander.

The Preacher has one vital weakness—the old home-run ball or the gopher pitch. Most of the black marks on his fine 15-6 season record have come from that chink in his armor. It's the first series for the 31-year-old vet.

Raschi, a 30-year-old right-hander, saw service briefly in the 1947 series, working 1 2-3 innings on relief. He really came into his own during the last two seasons.

At the early date of June 18, Vic had rolled up an 11-1 record. Although he had 15 by July 21, he didn't make 20 until the last week of the season. Victory No. 21 was Raschi's most important, for it was a five-hitter against Boston Sunday, the pennant winner.

KITCHENER, Oct. 6 (CP)—Two departments of the Dominion Rubber Co., Ltd., were out on a sympathy strike Wednesday in support of the union executive member who was discharged by the company about a week ago. The tube room employees walked out late Tuesday and were joined Wednesday morning by the banbury department.

PCVS Entered In Tourney Of Champions

PCVS seniors, who play Oshawa here Friday night, will take part in the Red Feather football tournament of champions in Toronto. It is sponsored by the Ontario Federation of Secondary School Athletic Associations, eight top interscholastic teams in the province competing. PCVS will probably play Sarnia in the opening of next week. It is a two-day affair, opening Oct. 21. As COSSA senior champions for the past three years, PCVS had to be picked along with EOSSA, WOSSA, NOSSA, TSSA and a few other leaders. The championship will be settled by a system of point scoring by a panel of five prominent football officials under Dr. Harry C. Griffiths.

Coach Bev Goulding, who has piloted three COSSA senior winners in the five years he has been in Peterborough, has his Garnet

LAURENT DAUTHUILLE in a ten-round bout at Montreal gained the unanimous decision of the judges to win the verdict over Sonny Horne, popular New York fighter. The Frenchman, recent conqueror of rugged Kaje LaMotta and Johnny Greco, led all the way to gain a popular win.

To Close Contests In Soccer League

Confederation lost a valuable league point to Central eleven on Wednesday afternoon, on King Edward Park. It ended 1-1. Best for southenders were M. Ryan, C. Simmons; for Central, Delahay and Brooks.

Both teams settled down to close combination play. A break away by Simmons culminated in Davis scoring. In the second half, tempers and illegal tactics caused much concern as the players harassed the custodian and it finally resulted in the latter being ordered off. Then Central was awarded a questionable penalty kick that Delahay slammed against the upright but the rebound hit the substitute goalie to even the count.

Confederation—M. Bryan, goal; M. Parry and R. Brooks full backs; I. Post, E. Dunstan, B. Bryan half backs; B. Davis, S. Pearson, D. Miller, R. Holland, C. Simmons forwards. Subs.: A. Little, A. Rogers, G. Corner, P. Cheshier.

Central—D. Gray goal; C. Bert and R. Rowe full backs; D. Noble, S. Brooks, J. Heffernan half backs; B. Delahay, D. Patterson, B. Gardner, L. Mongram and J. Rowley forwards. Subs.: C. Craymer, D. Bye.

Queen Alexandra—J. Pearson goal; D. Lang and R. Woods full backs; W. Kemp, R. McKinney and R. Turnbull half backs; G. McClellan, P. Johnston, M. Weir, B. Nicholls, R. Macklin forwards. Subs.: K. Brown, H. Alton, S. Kingdon.

King George—P. McIlmoyle goal; D. Barclay and F. Johnson full backs; L. McKenzie, R. Fuller and R. McKenzie half backs; A. Backer, B. Simpson, R. Withers, B. Fairs, D. Crowder forwards. Subs.: O. Thompson, C. Butcher, D. Fell.

Referee: Mr. Lawless.

Queen Mary Lost

Prince of Wales soccer team gained a 3-1 decision over Queen Mary Wednesday on Confederation Grounds. Best for the winners were Evans and Fairs; for the losers, Merritt and Dunn.

Queen Mary opened up with a steady attack but Prince of Wales' defense was solid. Eventually Downer broke away down the wing to centre to Fairs who tallied in close. On resuming, westenders showed more activity around goal to find Evans and Barrie registering; while Dunn registered for losers.

Queen Mary—D. Houghton goal; J. Stewart and R. Brady full backs; B. Watson, B. Merritt and B. Jackson half backs; J. MacIlwain, L. Finn, T. Roberts, D. Nisbett and R. Dunn forwards. Subs.: G. White, G. Franks.

Prince of Wales—D. Colt goal; H. Bowes and B. Dummitt full backs; B. Spiers, B. Fairs and K. Lowell half backs; W. Downer, G. Pagett, P. Evans, L. Barrie and D. Livingston forwards. Subs.: J. Heron, W. Chamberlain, H. Pullybank.

NORWOOD, Oct. 6 (ENS)—R. A. Dean, Clerk of the Village of Norwood, reported at the council meeting that he had received a cheque from the Midland Securities for $960.96, $770 was premium on debentures and $210.96 accrued interest from date of sale. Contracts for construction of a steel water tank were presented from Standard Steel Corporation. After being examined by the council it was decided that the reeve and clerk be authorized to sign it and return the necessary copies to the engineer and the contractors.

Correspondence from John Marks, secretary of the United Church Board asking council to repair the cement wall at the Ridge St. end of the United Church sheds was considered. It was decided to notify the board that Ridge Street was now a section of the county road and this council was without power to act.

It had been reported that a dangerous fire hazard had been created by the cutting of trees on lot two on Ridge Street. The clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Munro that this hazard must be cleared up and brush removed within two weeks or legal action would be taken to have the work done at his expense.

It was suggested that Mrs. V. O'Brien be given $3 for the bulletin. This was moved by Mrs. L. Quackenbush and Mrs. E. Orr.

Mrs. McKerchar suggested that the tea money be used to replace cups lost at the fair. It was moved by Mrs. Quackenbush and Mrs. J. Browne that in the future paper forks and spoons be purchased to save loss.

Mrs. Quackenbush reported two boxes packed for Britain, asked for more aid to Britain and for clothing for children brought out from Europe to Ajax.

Unexpected Costs

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP)—The government may have to ask parliament for £100,000,000 ($465,000,000) more this year to cover unexpected defence and health costs. This increase would amount to about 1-20 of the national budget. Informed political sources, reporting this Wednesday, said defence measures for Hong Kong are likely to eat up nearly one-third of this amount. The sources said these measures include building up a 40,000-man garrison on the island colony just off the coast of China.

Which Baby Which, Confusion Reigns Doctor Hopes For Blood Test Solution

RAVENNA, O., Oct. 6 (AP) — Two babies were back at Robinson Memorial Hospital Wednesday while authorities attempted to determine who their parents are. An Akron pathologist was making blood tests of two sets of parents and an unidentified nurse was suspended by the hospital pending an investigation.

It all started Sept. 21. Mrs. J. P. Shanley and Mrs. Robert Strayer, both of Kent, shared the same room at the hospital and each had a baby within a few hours of the other.

After the baby boys had gone home Dr. Edward Meachem, who delivered both children, called at the Shanley home to examine the baby.

He said he found a scratch on the blonde youngster's right chin and a tiny bump on the back of his head. That indicated an in-

Manslaughter Charge Laid Against Indian

BRANTFORD, Oct. 6 (CP) — A charge of manslaughter has been laid against Arthur Burnham, 27, of the Six Nations Reservation, in connection with the death of Orville Davis 31, a friend of Burnham, who was pinned beneath a truck driven by Burnham last Saturday.

Davis died in hospital at Owen Sound, about 10 hours after he was found semi-conscious lying in bushes beside the road where the accident occurred.

Burnham has already pleaded guilty to drunken driving.

Police said that Davis was found about 100 feet from the spot where Burnham says he was placed after being removed from the truck. Police believe that an autopsy report will be such that Davis could not possibly have moved by himself because of the extent of his injuries.

Buying Peace of Mind ..

It's only when you overdo it that saving involves any great self-denial. Actually, it is when you don't save that you often deny yourself a great deal.

When you save regularly, on a definite plan, you'll find that your savings—with interest added—will grow surprisingly fast. You'll gradually acquire a substantial cash reserve. And this, in turn, will give you peace of mind, protection against unexpected things that may happen.

For nearly a hundred years The Bank of Toronto has helped generations of men and women to plan their savings so that they would not be denied the things they need when they need them most. It's an easy price to pay for security—a good habit. We suggest that you begin to cultivate that habit now, with the friendly assistance of The Bank of Toronto.

Story Of Brule Adds To Record Of Old Huronia

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Etienne Brule, first white man to discover four and possibly all five of the Great Lakes, left no written record of his exploits. But by dint of extensive research, J.

Herbert Cranston has pieced together the known events in the life of the French boy who came to Canada with Champlain and lived his life among the Huron Indians.

Mr. Cranston, retired newspaper man of Midland, not far from where Brule lived with the Hurons, picked an apt title for his book—"Etienne Brule, Immortal Scoundrel" (Ryerson). Brule, who adopted the loose moral practices of the Indians, served Champlain and the early missionary priests well as an explorer and an interpreter. But in 1629 he betrayed Champlain by helping the English Admiral Kirke take Quebec. And his reckless living made difficult the work of the Jesuit Fathers who sought to Christianize the Hurons.

The written record of Brule's life is sketchy and Mr. Cranston's book reflects the lack of information. However, the author has done a workmanlike job of weaving the recorded facts into the background of the times in which Brule lived—and died, probably a victim of torture by the Hurons.

If there is any weakness in Mr. Cranston's book, it lies in his fidelity to the written records.
For instance, he regards a sample of copper Brule brought from his trip to Lake Superior as an indication that the explorer may have reached Isle Royale, where native copper was found later in great abundance. But there is also the possibility that Brule got no farther than Coppermine Point, some 50 miles or so from Sault Ste. Marie on the north shore of Lake Superior. Native copper was found there by later

WHO WOULDN'T WIN — Grinning bicycle ace Bill Hamilton of Oshawa, is the proud recipient of a big kiss from Montreal stage and radio star Fifi D'Orsay. The vivacious Miss D'Orsay was a spectator at the Dominion championship bicycle races in Vancouver. Hamilton later won the 62-mile race in the British Empire Games bicycle trials.

explorers who set up a smelter near Sault Ste. Marie to treat the ore. A huge piece of native copper found there in later years is on display in the Royal Ontario Museum.

Fascinating Story

However, that is beside the point. It is fascinating to read, against the perspective of the early history of French Canada, the story of this young Frenchman whom Champlain sent to live among the Indians as part of a campaign to learn more of their language and their ways — and also to win their business in the lucrative fur trade.

Brule probably reached Lake Huron in 1610 and in later years he visited Lake Ontario (at the present site of Toronto), Lake Erie, Lake Superior and possibly Lake Michigan as well. He became an expert linguist and the Jesuit Relations — the written record left by the Jesuit missionary priests — tells of his valuable work as an interpreter.

Mr. Cranston accepts the theory that Brule met his death in 1635 by torture at the hands of the Hurons. Some authorities lay his death at the door of his compatriots, the French.

Former publisher of The Midland Free Press and a former editor of The Toronto Star Weekly, Mr. Cranston is the second Ontario newspaper man to dig into the scanty accounts of Brule's life. The first was James W.
Curran, who was born at Orillia on the fringe of the Huron country and later published The Sault Ste. Marie Star. Mr. Curran wrote a pamphlet on Brule in the early 1920s and in later years

Bob Hope Finally Clinches Plan To See Series

By BO THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6 — (AP) —It took some doing, but Bob Hope will get to see the World Series. Then he hops off for a brief Canadian tour.

Recently the comic lost a battle with his air sponsor over whether he could record his show. Now the sponsor is relaxing the stand and will let Hope tape-record next Tuesday's program so he can take in the baseball classic.

Here is the long of Hollywood's best traveller: He left Monday night for Duluth, Minn., to do his air show. Return to Hollywood to record monologue and music or next week's show. Leave for New York Thursday night. (He will miss two games.) Record other half of show in New York, return here after Series.

Then he plays shows in Toronto, Guelph, Montreal and Buffalo, N.Y., on successive days beginning October 12. Return to Hollywood and start thinking up new places to go.

Thursday Topics

Whether Williams and Ben Gage crossed a fancy preview to introduce their latest enterprise, the Trails Restaurant. It's a fancy place with monkey and bird cages lining the walls. Even a water tank, but Esther was not dressed for swimming.

Ellen Corby was a script girl on 42 pictures before she scored as an actress in "I Remember Mama." She has been an actress for four years (her latest is "The Gun Fighter"), but she still keeps her membership in the Script Clerks' Union. "You have got to be prepared," she says.

"The AP Story" has stalled because of story problems. Producer Tony Owen can't find a logical story that will span the 60-year history of the Association.

Jack Benny plans a return date at London's Palladium next summer. This time he will take along Rochester.

Priest Pleads Guilty To Five Drug Charges

MONTREAL, Oct. 6 (CP) — Rev. Arthur Taillefer, one of a group of men arrested here last month in connection with an alleged narcotics ring, Wednesday pleaded guilty to five charges and sentence was deferred to Oct. 28.

Father Taillefer, at the time of his arrest a Vicar in the Roman Catholic Church of St. Madeline in Montreal, pleaded guilty to three charges of possessing and selling narcotics and to two counts of obtaining and selling narcotics.

The cases of the others arrested are continuing.

Evangelistic Tour

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP) — Four teams of Baptist speakers will visit 40 Canadian centres during October, in preparation for simultaneous programs of evangelism in every Baptist Church across Canada, it was announced here Wednesday.

FIRST GERMAN TRADE DELEGATION to leave Germany since 1938 arrives in Montreal. This seven-man delegation, headed by C. Haiblen, centre, arrived "to see what can be done to increase the volume of trade between Canada and Western Germany," said Mr. Haiblen. "We shall also study market conditions and make contact with the Department of Trade and Commerce and Chambers of Commerce in Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto. The group left shortly for Ottawa for meetings with the Department of Trade and Commerce to discuss their Canadian program. Left to right are C. Post, H. Winterling, M. Kaiser, C. Haiblen, F. Wagschal, J. Koerber, and E. Werner.

Plan Greek Service

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP) — More than 500 of Ontario's Greek Catholics are expected to attend the first congress for Central and Eastern Canada here next weekend. The congress is planned as a "rededication of Canadians of Greek Catholic faith to the moral and spiritual Christian concepts of life."

Salisbury Says UN Unable To Keep Peace

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP) — The Atlantic and Western European pacts were made necessary by lack of confidence by the western powers in the ability of the United Nations to keep the peace, the Marquis of Salisbury told a University of Toronto audience Wednesday night.

"It is not so much that the United Nations is dying; it had never really been alive," said Lord Salisbury, Conservative leader of the British House of Lords, in the second of the university's 1949 Sir Robert Falconer lectures.

The lectures are given annually as a memorial to the late Sir Robert Falconer, a former president of the University of Toronto.

There were two main dangers facing democracy in its attitude toward free institutions. The first was the danger from undue centralization of government; the second was that political majorities might pay insufficient regard to the rights of minorities.

The only sure way to guard against these dangers was for the nations of the world to base their conduct on some code of moralism —a code which was not of their own creation but which followed the basic principles of inspired religion.

The retiring president, W. J. Cottrell was in the chair. The president introduced Rev. Egerton Young, field secretary of the Society who gave an interesting address in course of which he pointed out that the Society had 525 branches which had contributed $115,000 last year to world wide work. The British and Foreign Bible Society of which the Upper Canada Bible Society is an auxiliary spent two million dollars last year on its work. Six new languages were added to its translations making a total of 1,100 different languages into which the Bible or a part has been translated. There are a thousand other languages into which it has not been translated as yet but work is proceeding on 160 of these.

The canvass realized $143.53 and $154 was sent in by the branch which with $248 sent in late 1947 made the $202 to be credited to the branch for 1948.

The election of officers was carried out by Rev. E. Young and resulted as follows: president, W.

Women Advised Study The Church

BETHANY, Oct. 6 (ENS)—The sectional rally of members of the Women's Missionary Auxiliaries for this district met in Bethany on Tuesday, with Fairmount, Cavan, Bensfort, Springfield, Balleboro, Millbrook and Bethany represented.

Mrs. T. J. Jackson, president of the Bethany branch gave the address of welcome.

Mrs. H. Rehill, president of the Peterborough Presbyterial introduced Miss Olive Sparling, Toronto, secretary of young people's work of the Dominion Board of the Women's Missionary Society.

In the morning Miss Sparling gave a review of the work accomplished in the past 25 years of the United Church, which this year celebrates a quarter century of union of the early Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregationalist churches.

The afternoon lecture introduced study materials for the year. "We should study and know what the United Church stands for. Use the study book, Growing with the Years, to learn what has been accomplished and what is planned," Miss Sparling advised. She spoke of the work in China, India, Japan and the Prairie Provinces; the Aim of the United Church (Medical Missions) and conducted a brief quiz on church work in general.

Mrs. Bernard Preston, Springfield, was chairman for both sessions. Mrs. E. Downes, Fairmount gave report as the delegate to the ninth bi-annual Bay of Quinte Conference held at Smith's Falls. Miss Jean Hanbridge gave her report as a delegate to the Whitby School for Leaders. During the afternoon session, Mrs. Spicer of Millbrook sang. The Fairmount group had charge of the morning worship service, with Balleboro group leading in the afternoon session. Each society answered the roll call with a brief report of the work accomplished by its branch during the year.

Mrs. Melville Johnston, Springfield, thanked the women of Bethany Church and the speakers. The Rev. W. Crandall replied on their behalf and closed the Rally with prayer.

The women of Bethany Church served dinner.

FIRST JET LINER — Leading US and Canadian civilian and military aviation officials attended the public flight of the first jet-powered transport to be built in North America. The demonstration took place Tuesday at Toronto's suburban Malton Airport when the Canadian-designed and built Avro Jetliner was unveiled for public inspection. Following an exhibition flight, the aircraft was opened to the public. This photo shows spectators lined up to go aboard.

Mike Pearson Dodges Fan Plays Hookey From UN Meet

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 6 (CP). —The important political committee of the United Nations Assembly adjourned unexpectedly Wednesday for lack of speakers. Then its chairman, Lester B. Pearson of Canada, headed for the World Series ball game.

Before the adjournment, Chairman Pearson rapped down his gavel and said sternly: "Gentlemen, you have chosen a very bad day to decide not to work." Later he commented quietly: "I'm for the Dodgers."

But no one was too disappointed in the excitement of Series time. At the game were Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, president of the General Assembly; Hector McNeill, British Minister of State; and Sir Carl Berendsen of New Zealand.

The disconsolate minority who remained at UN headquarters were subjected to further frustration when the public address system suddenly switched from a running account of the game to the sonorous voice of Warren R. Austin, opening a meeting of the Security Council.

From early Wednesday morning Pearson had been reminded that the Series started yesterday. A woman telephoned his hotel room and asked if he could tell her where she could find Clarence Rowland "No," said Pearson. "To whom do you want to speak?"

The woman replied: "Aren't you the president of the Baseball Writers' Association?"

Fire At Prison

BOSTON, Oct. 6 (AP). — Fireboats and prisoners battled flames which swept the three-storey administration building at the Deer Island house of correction Wednesday night and brought it under control with no known injuries. Most of the 600 prisoners at the island institution were housed in separate buildings 200 yards away, although 40 in solitary confinement in the basement of the brick structure were removed. Thirty trustees in the building at the time made their way to safety.

Senator Opposes St. Laurent Home

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP). —First parliamentary opposition to a home for Canada's Prime Minister was heard Wednesday in the Senate.

Senator R. B. Horner (PC-Saskatchewan) a farmer from Blaine Lake, said he was "very much opposed." He said he thought it placed the Prime Minister in a position where he was expected to entertain. The Prime Minister "hadn't time."

During the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, Senator Horner referred to an announcement in the Commons that the government would renovate the old Edwards mansion on Sussex Street as a home for Prime Minister St. Laurent and future Canadian Prime Ministers.

The home, expropriated by the government some time ago, is almost next door to government house in the Rockcliffe district and about a mile from the Parliament Buildings.

Senator Horner said an official

Far Hills Not So Green Yugoslavs Ask To Return

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP). —The External Affairs Department said Wednesday a fairly large proportion of 2,000 to 3,000 Canadian Yugoslavs who went back to Yugoslavia in the last few years now have signified that they would like to return to Canada.

A petition was submitted by 54 of them to the Canadian Legation in Belgrade in June, a spokesman said, but the petition did not contain addresses "and the thing has never developed."

The legation had been authorized to inform them, if they apply again, that "the larger problem of obtaining permission for Canadians of Yugoslav origin to return to Canada if they wish has been the subject of negotiation between the legation and the Yugoslav authorities but there has been no tangible result and the subject still is under discussion."

residence for the Prime Minister would not give Canada's chief of Government any time to himself. The Prime Minister and Mrs. St. Laurent "should have some quiet time at home."

It is threatened with war again because of Tito's clash with Moscow and this conflict in loyalties has provoked some of the requests for a return. But in many cases, an official said, it is a case of far fields looking green.

Loggers Plagued By Shipworms

VANCOUVER, — CP) — Dynamite seems to be the only protection British Columbia marine and logging operators have against the tereid—tough little "forty-second-cousin" to the clam.

A mounting menace to the water transportation of logs, wooden ships and untreated dock pilings are billions of these little creatures—also known as shipworms—which in the past two years have caused heavy damage. Logging operators explode dynamite in areas where they plan to moor log booms and the blast kills most of the creatures in the area. But the remedy is only effective until others have had time to make their way to the scene.

Some waters are more infested than others and where the infestation is serious they can wreck and make a veritable honeycomb of a log in a few weeks.

Blow Up Seen Likely Over Navy Incidents

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP). — An historic report that could have considerable repercussions in Canada's navy is expected to be handed to the government within a week or two informed quarters said Wednesday.

It is the report of the board of investigation named months ago and given broad powers to inquire into the methods, discipline and life of the navy. Its appointment arose from a series of "incidents" aboard ships at sea.

It is not known yet whether or when the report will be made public.

Need Five Years To Establish Major Results

Five years is required to set up a definite recreational program where certain projects would defray their expenses, Jack Dane, recreation director, said today.

Mr. Dane explained that the Recreation Commission has been operating only two and a half years and that time was insufficient to produce major results. Such things as the boxing council, the community councils, the handicraft classes all take money to provide leadership and equipment at first, he explained, but after five years these groups would be coming to the Commission for little financial assistance, if any.

The handicraft groups cost the Commission approximately $1,510 in 1948 but this year have spent $500, Mr. Dane said, showing that these groups are gradually defraying their own expenses. The Administrative Boxing Council, he said, when the clubs have been firmly established, should also defray its expenses by operating boxing cards and social nights.

In all fairness to the recreation movement, Mr. Dane felt that consideration should be given to the situation before cutting the program off completely.

In Toronto he said they are expanding the recreation program to the point where they will spend $1,500,000 in a five-year plan. Hamilton spends over $100,000 annually on its recreational program in the city.

Frank Mitchell Dies At Golf, Bus Co. Head

Frank J. Mitchell, president of the Peterborough Bus Lines, died suddenly in Windsor Wednesday afternoon. He was stricken with a heart attack towards the close of a game of golf on the Windsor Beach Golf course, and succumbed immediately. Dr. S. M. Assestine, one of the four sons which included Mr. Mitchell, said he dropped to the ground while playing the 16th hole.

A former Mayor of Windsor and of the town of Riverside on the border, Mr. Mitchell was widely known in Peterborough for his development of the city's transportation system whose buses especially proved their utility as a community asset during the peak years of wartime employment and production.

Completed New Plans
Mr. Mitchell was in Peterborough last week, and it was reported in the Examiner that, on what became his last visit, he had completed arrangements for the enlargement of the bus barn in Ashburnham at the end of the Hunter St. bridge. It was estimated that the improvement would cost some $70,000 completing accommodation for the 29 buses of the Mitchell fleet.

At the same time he concluded on behalf of the bus management a new working agreement with its employees. Mr. M. McLaughlin, head of the employees' union, said several days later that he had intended to make some reference to the Mitchell visit and to the good relations which existed between the men and the company.

Frank Mitchell became interested in Peterborough's transportation problem at the time of the change from the old electric street car service to the gasoline powered buses of today. It is a familiar local story beginning in 1927 when Mr. Mitchell came to the city.

The Peterborough Radial Railway Company had been absorbed by the Hydro-Electric Commission in the expropriation of electric power resources of the Trent and Otonabee systems. It had been a subsidiary of the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

The Hydro did not want the transport responsibility. It was entirely outside their affairs. They attempted to operate it for awhile and several local men were interested in what appeared to be a doubtful opportunity of establishing a bus system.

Began Bus Service
Mr. Mitchell secured the operating rights here, and advanced the progress of his enterprise down to his latest plans for increased investment and improvement, is familiar story to the people of Peterborough. Briefly, it may be

Farmers May Be Held Liable For Livestock On Roads

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—(CP).—T. H. Phelan, Toronto lawyer who was cited by the Deputy Attorney-General of Ontario as an expert in the matter, said today farmers who allow their livestock to wander unattended on provincial highways might be held liable in civil actions for damages if accidents involving their stray stock caused personal injury or death.

Earlier, J. D. Millar, Deputy Minister of Highways, said farmers are protected against civil actions in such accidents when there is property damage only.

Mr. Millar said when a farm animal runs at large on the highway the owner can be prosecuted, but a clause in the Highway Improvement Act, revised in 1930, provides that the owners of the animals shall not be liable in any civil action or action for damages arising out of the accidents.

Frank Clark, 39, of Peterborough, was killed Tuesday when his transport overturned on the highway near Newtonville, Ont. Police said he swerved the vehicle to avoid hitting a stray cow.

It is the responsibility of the owner of the stock to keep it off the highway or to see it is attended when on the highway.

Mr. Millar said. If a motorist strikes an animal when it is attended no responsibility falls on the owner of the animal.

When the animals are tended the responsibility becomes that of the motor vehicle driver.

Put Luminous Paint On Freight Cars

G. K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) suggested Wednesday in Commons that a strip of luminous paint be put on freight cars so they might be seen by motorists when they come to a level crossing at night. He made the suggestion during study of Transport Department estimates and Transport Minister Chevrier promised to bring it to the attention of the Board of Transport Commissioners.

Intern Dies In Crash After Weiner Roast

WINDSOR, Oct. 6 (CP) — Dr. Archie H. Galbraith, 22, a 1949 graduate of the University of Western Ontario Medical School, was killed early today in a motor accident near Harrow, Ont.

Dr. Galbraith, who had attended a weiner roast at nearby Riverside earlier, was returning to Windsor from Amherstburg at the time.

Nearby residents heard the sound of a crash and notified police shortly before 4 a.m. The vehicle was found in an upside down position with Dr. Galbraith lying on the road dead.

An interne at Windsor's Hotel Dieu Hospital, he was a star middle with Western's senior football team the last few seasons.

Fire-Resistant Paints Urged For Ships

By Gordon K. Fraser In House Of Commons

Obligatory use of fire-resistant paint by all passenger vessels was urged in the Commons on Wednesday by G. K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West).

He sponsored a resolution calling for an amendment to the Canada Shipping Act to make the ships use fire-resisting paints on all interior and deck work.

Mr. Fraser withdrew the resolution after Transport Minister Chevrier suggested the matter could be better dealt with after all the facts of the recent Noronic disaster are assembled

CNR Dispatcher Lindsay Honor On Retirement

After 47 years of service as Chief Train Dispatcher with the Canadian National Railways, C. H. Dayman, of Lindsay, and Mrs. Dayman were honored at a banquet on Tuesday evening. A large gathering of employees and their wives attended.

R. W. Groves presented Mr. Dayman with a well-filled wallet and his wife received a bouquet of roses from Miss Peggy Bryant. Among well-wishers at the occasion were N. A. Walford, general superintendent, Toronto; A. M. Shea, superintendent of Belleville Division, and W. G. Graham, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen. Wallace Craighead welcomed Mr. Dayman to the ranks of railway veterans.

A very substantial career, Mr. Dayman plans to devote a great deal of time to the Roorin' Game in winter and to enjoy summer living and fishing at his Thurstonia home. Harold Giles, of Belleville, will succeed Mr. Dayman as Chief Dispatcher at Lindsay.

Total Eclipse Moon 10:20 p.m.

Peterborough residents should have a good view on an eclipse of the moon tonight for the weatherman is forecasting clear skies. M. M. Thompson, of the Dominion Observatory, describing today what local sky watchers can expect to see this evening, said:

"The moon will enter the outer shadow cast by the earth at about 7:50 p.m. DST. There will be a slight darkening of its face. This will spread over the moon until about 9:00 p.m. when it enters the dark shadow."

"During this second stage it will appear as though the moon were being bitten off by a dark shadow. The stage of total eclipse will begin at 10:20 p.m. and will last until 11:33 p.m. We shall then see the moon as a dull copper orb."

It means that only on rare occasions does the moon become invisible during an eclipse, according to Mr. Thompson. He explained the reason for this was that there was still sufficient sunlight scattered around the earth's atmosphere to illuminate the moon's disc, even when the planet passed between it and the sun.

Marmora Crash Hurts All In Two Cars

Six persons were taken to Belleville Hospital Wednesday night as a result of a head-on car crash five miles west of Marmora on Highway 7.

Two of those injured were from Marmora—Kenneth Lough, age 23, and Barbara Price, 16. They were riding in a car driven by Wilbert Moon, 22, of Madoc, and their injuries are described by hospital authorities as cuts, bruises and lacerations.

X-ray plates were taken this morning to determine if there are any bones broken.

The three occupants of the other car are believed to be more seriously injured. Peter Marsh, 36, of Toronto, has a broken leg; John Lowe, of Sudbury, may also have a fractured leg, and the injuries of Sydney Taylor, 20, of Niagara Falls, although serious, have not yet been determined.

Sidewiped Truck
Provincial Police report that the car driven by Moon sideswiped a westbound truck just past Davidson's Garage, about five miles east of the village.

Moon's vehicle went temporarily out of control and crashed head-on into the oncoming car, which like the truck, was proceeding west.

The trio in the westbound car were believed to be returning from the Madoc Fair.

Both cars involved in the smashup were badly damaged.

Provincial Constables Tom Lummiss and Jack Hatch, of Madoc, investigated the accident. An ambulance was despatched to Belleville Hospital with the six injured persons.

This photo by Malak of Ottawa shows Miss MacDiarmid planting a few of the 300,000 Dutch tulips bulbs planted each fall by the Federal District Commission. These include the 100,000 sent each year by Queen Juliana of the Netherlands as a memento of her wartime stay in the capital.

Government May Help In Shipping Problems

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 — (CP). — The government is considering ways in which it can help Canadian shipping meet the "serious" problems raised by currency devaluations, Transport Minister Chevrier said Wednesday night. He said in an interview that the Cabinet is considering all aspects of a complicated situation. Both cargo shipping and shipbuilding were affected.

The Throne Speech at the opening of the present session of Parliament forecast legislation to aid Canadian shipbuilding and Mr. Chevrier indicated this legislation will be introduced shortly.

Shipowners have said that as a result of sterling devaluation, British ships can carry cargo profitably at rates below the minimum rates Canadian owners can set. The world-wide dollar shortage has made foreign merchants steer away from Canadian ships — which must be paid in dollars — and send their goods on ships which can be paid in more available currency.

Millions Of Rabbits Destroyed Each Year

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Oct. 6 — (CP). — Rabbits have become such a pest in New Zealand that they now cause an annual loss of at least $12,000,000 in potential sheep production alone. This is only partly offset by the export value of skins and carcasses, estimated at about $4,500,000 a year.

Rabbits swarm in such numbers in some districts that they consume a large proportion of the available pasture, leaving only a fraction for stock. The rabbit population today is estimated at between 40,000,000 and 50,000,000.

Boards are established in the areas worst affected and they employ men who destroy about a third of the rabbit population each year. In 1947 the total kill was about 20,000,000, but it is not always so high. Poisoning and trapping are the methods chiefly used.

Research is being conducted by the government into more effective ways of killing off the rabbits and it is hoped eventually to increase the annual kill until the pest is reduced to negligible proportions.

Driverless Transport Crashes Freight Train

LINDSAY, Oct. 6 — Plunging over a 15-foot embankment a driverless trailer-transport crashed into a freight car in the Haliburton CNR yards Monday, and the wreckage was leaped from the tracks just as the mail train from Lindsay arrived at the bend leading to the yards. It was flagged down.

Driver Kenneth Carnochan of Haliburton had left his truck parked in low gear while he went into a house. He came out to find it careening down the hill, alighting across the highway and over the bank. The truck ripped a length of track before smashing into the standing freight car.

Workmen and police working with crowbars and a towing truck first moved the freight car, then the truck to clear the way for the train.

Damage to the truck owned by H. Bolender and Son was $700.

Senator Says One World Idea Only Peace Hope

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP)—A plea for world thinking was voiced in the Senate on Wednesday by Senator W. D. Euler (L.-Ontario).

The Senator from Kitchener urged the Upper Chamber to give some thought and discussion to the idea of a federation of the world's democracies, in the hope of an eventual world federation.

Speaking in the throne-speech debate, he said the remedy for the world's problems would have to be "much more drastic" than devaluation.

There was hope in only two ways. The first, which he did not expect, was a "great moral or religious revival" which would bring the world to a realization of peace.

The second, which he believed possible, was world union, or at least union of that half of the world which lay outside the iron curtain.

If the two "halves" of the world—the democracies and Communist countries—could come together, it would enable the development of atomic fission "for the benefit of all mankind rather than its destruction."

He traced the history of the idea of union from earliest times and cited it as a natural and major factor of civilized development.

The next step, logically was union of the world, or at least of that half of the world which lay this side of the iron curtain.

Russia itself was an example of the union of states. The United States was another. It had literally 48 different "countries" under one government.

In the first instance, world union must be a protection against iron-curtain countries. The Atlantic Pact was a first step, but if military union was a good thing, so were commercial and various other types of union.

He referred to developments in the United States Congress, where a small group of Senators were advocating an "Atlantic State."

He foresaw all the democracies in one big federation which would be open to all countries.

Finally, if the democracies and the Communist countries could come together, there would be a new era in which atomic and other development would be di-

Electricity Use To Increase Expert Believes

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canada is building vast new plants to supply electric power for her industries and homes, and she is going to need them all.

This is indicated in a statement by G. W. Lawrence, of Toronto, retiring president of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers Association now meeting at Niagara Falls, Ont.

"In the past," says Mrs. Lawrence, "surplus power has always been quickly absorbed and statistics prove the necessity of continuing power developments. Figures show that the use of electricity in Canada has nearly doubled every 10 years in the past and it is reasonable to expect that the trend will continue, accelerated by an increased residential demand caused by such things as air conditioning, higher lighting standards, and scarcity of domestic help.

"Even if a business recession should come along, power demands would still be high; for even during tight times, people conserve by deferring the purchase of a new suit, dress or car, but they do not stop using their refrigerators, electric ranges, vacuum cleaners and irons.

Considering the tremendous rural electrification program, the farm market holds a great potential for electrical equipment. The result will be a significant improvement in the efficiency and comfort of our rural community and will open up a big market for appliances, wiring materials lighting and motor-driven equipment.

"A recent survey indicates that between 1950 and 1955 inclusive something like 150,000 new rural customers will be added to utility lines. We roughly estimate that perhaps 45 per cent of those added will be farms.

"On this basis the potential market in wiring supplies, line materials and home appliances should amount to more than $25,000,000 a year for the period. This is a relatively conservative estimate on 150,000 new rural customers."

New Light Shed On Indian Culture

MACLEOD, Alta., Oct. 6 (CP)—New evidence has been uncovered near here that the North American Indian may have come through at least two widely separated cultural eras before he lost his homeland to the white man.

An expedition from the University of New Mexico which has been seeking remains of Indian life near here came up with the evidence. The party found arrowheads of two different periods.

Excavations at two former Indian campsites uncovered the arrowheads. One type was found only a few inches below the surface while the others were buried nine feet down.

Those arrowheads taken from the deeper diggings were of a more crude manufacture, Boyd Wettlaufer, head of the expedition, reported to Alberta government officials.

Evidences of Indian culture have been uncovered all the way from near the surface to the 11-foot level. They are believed to be relics of the Blackfoot tribe and date back as far as 500 years before the white man reached the plains.

There still is a lot of laboratory work to be done before conclusion can be drawn from the party's discoveries but it seems the surface is just beginning to be scratched on the past history of the North American Indian.

ROBIN HOOD POPOVERS

1 cup sifted Robin Hood Flour 1 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon salt 2 eggs
1 1/2 teaspoons melted shortening

What wonderful puffed-up popovers you make the Robin Hood way — crisp and golden outside, light as thistledown!

1. Preheat oven to 475°F. (Very hot oven.) Place approximately 9 thick muffin pans or custard cups in oven to heat while making batter.
2. Measure sifted flour into sifter, add salt. Sift together into mixing bowl. Add milk gradually, beating until smooth.
3. Beat eggs until thick and light. Add to flour and milk mixture, then add melted shortening. Beat for 2 minutes with rotary beater. Batter should be thickness of heavy cream.
4. Remove pans from oven and grease thoroughly (butter gives best flavor.) Pour batter into pans, filling half-full.
5. Bake in a very hot oven 475°F. for 20 minutes, then reduce heat to 350°F. (moderate oven) and bake 20 minutes longer.

Serve warm. Yield — approx. 9 popovers.

Hold Club Outing At Mt. Pleasant

More than 25 members of the Peterborough Nature Club under president J. L. McKeever enjoyed their first fall field outing on Saturday afternoon. In several cars the club met at PCVS and drove west as far as Mount Pleasant and back to Chemong Park via the Lindsay Highway.

A large flock of migrating bluebirds was observed near a cemetery at Mount Pleasant as well as several kinds of warblers and ruby-crowned kinglets. Besides bird life, everyone enjoyed the autumn coloring and also made a special study of large specimens of mushrooms and toadstools.

A picnic lunch was served at Mr. McKeever's Chemong cottage and a general discussion was held on the day's observations and coming illustrated Audubon Screen Tours, which the club are presenting through the winter in the city.

Trade Unions To Recognize Army Training

By WILLIAM BOSS

LONDON, Oct. 6. — (CP). — The technical training received by British servicemen is to be recognized by the trades unions as the equivalent of civilian apprenticeship in a wide variety of trades.

Long months of negotiations by the service ministries, the ministry of labor and the Trades Union Council are behind the recently-announced decision which is expected to stimulate recruiting.

Hitherto the trades union, in those crafts which require five-year apprenticeships, had not been willing to waive the requirements for men discharged from the services. If they wanted to take up a career they had to apprentice themselves in the ordinary way.

Since the war, accordingly, young men intending to enter a trade have taken it up as soon as they returned to civilian life from their national service.

Learn in Army
Service chiefs have felt that these men might be persuaded to remain in uniform, earning services rates of pay while mastering and practising their craft, if assured the unions would grant them recognition on discharge.

The new agreement covers most trades requiring five-year apprenticeships. Eighty-six are included in a list which continues to grow as the scope of the undertaking is extended. They run from blacksmiths to plumbers and saddlers, from sheet metal workers to surveyors, tinmiths and welders.

Apprenticeship taken care of, the only other requirement for union membership is employment in the craft at the time of application. The army invites men to make known their need for a job six months before they are due for discharge, enabling a placement service to find them an opening.

Announcement of similar revision in naval and air force policies is expected shortly.

Seeks Damages In Claim For Restaurant

An action brought against Desmond Hunt of Townsend St., by Mrs. Marie Ann Gordon of the same address was heard Wednesday in County Court by Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay.

Mrs. Gordon charged Hunt with assault and claimed damages for injuries received; contended she had received no profits although she was a partner in a lunch counter business, and contended further he had withdrawn about $1,600 from the business and had refused to repay that sum or account for it.

Judge McGibbon reserved judgment. He told Reginald

Chandler, counsel for Mrs. Gordon that he could not see his contention that there was a partnership.

A document indicating partnership had been prepared by Hunt, according to his own evidence, but he did not sign or approve it because of the alleged subsequent actions of Mrs. Gordon, the Judge stated.

Mrs. Gordon testified that she and her husband were running a restaurant business until he died in 1942. Then the store portion of the premises was rented to a barber and subsequently used as a residence for relatives.

It was re-opened in November 1945, after Hunt and his son had come to live in the boarding house operated back of the store.

She contended that the re-opening was her own idea and the money investment in starting up the business again was hers alone.

Hunt agreed that it had been necessary to re-open the store in the name of Gordon's Lunch Bar in order to get the candy ration. But he stated it was his money that was the capital for starting the business.

Borrowed Money
Apart from savings which he invested, Hunt said he got three loans from the Bank of Montreal, totalling about $2,400.

Improvements on the property either through loans or personal investment have amounted to as much as $3,300 he estimated.

According to Mrs. Gordon, unknown to her a lease was signed between Hunt and the landlord of the Townsend St. premises. This made her a sub-tenant. Since then an eviction notice has been served on her and has

LADIES' READY-TO-WEAR — FURS

It's Good News Worth Reporting when there's a "buy" as budget-wise as this at your favourite grocery store! Today, compared with ordinary milk, LIBBY'S EVAPORATED MILK is more economical than ever! And Libby's is so delicious — so ideal for whipping! You see, it's fine, country-fresh milk with all the original cream left in as it goes to the evaporator where half the water is removed. AND it contains all the top quality nutrients which you expect from whole milk — plus added Vitamin D — the essential "sunshine vitamin!"

Write to me — Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q. — enclosing 80c in coin or postage stamps and 2 Libby's Evaporated Milk labels — for a stainless steel carving knife worth $2.50!

Discovered A Wonderful Trick for all you mothers! ... something to put a happy stop to tiny tots' mealtime dawdling! A mother I know plays a "Cream of Wheat" game she calls "Guess What!" with her youngsters. She puts a spoonful of jelly, seedless raisins, stewed prunes or apricots in the bottom of her youngster's cereal bowl. Then she covers this completely with "CREAM OF WHEAT". The idea is to guess what's hidden underneath! And, of course, it's a well-known fact that all children love the smooth, yummies of "Cream of Wheat" ... so good — and so good for them! You see, 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" contains Iron, Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. Cooks to complete digestibility in just 5 minutes of boiling. No wonder so many thousands of mothers make "Cream of Wheat" a family habit!

This Is "Be Kind To My Budget Week!" ... just as it is every week of the year! That's why it delights me to discover that I can tell you about! HARVEST MARGARINE tops my list of budget-wise buys! So good — so daisy-fresh, it contains Vitamin "A" — the "body-building" vitamin. In fact, it gives you so much for your money! AND it's so versatile! Delicious as a spread for bread — so good on potatoes — fresh-cooked vegetables — every kind of meat! That's why I urge you to try "Harvest" for quality — for a real taste treat!

Keered To Autumn Appetites ... luscious HEINZ CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP! I'm willing to wager, it will be your favourite, flavour-rich beginning to many an October meal ... and a delicious "wonder-worker" when you cook it into stews, meat loaves, left-overs of all kinds. Ask your grocer for Heinz Tomato Soup now ... he has the NEW PACK ... fresh-packed tins of tomato soup from the Autumn — and Jell-O Puddings turn out perfect every time.

Some Youngsters just won't drink all the milk they need for strong, sturdy bodies. Here's a wonderful way of getting more milk into the diets of these finicky eaters! Serve them JELL-O PUDDINGS! They'll love the creamy smoothness, the rich deep-down flavour of all the Jell-O Puddings family, and you'll find Jell-O Puddings extremely economical to serve. Sumptuous-tasting Vanilla, Caramel, Butterscotch and Chocolate Jell-O Puddings — delicious Vanilla, Chocolate and Orange-Cocoa Jell-O Tapioca Puddings. They're so easy to make too — take just 5 minutes to prepare — and Jell-O Puddings turn out perfect every time.

It's a Wonderful Feeling to bake with confidence, as so many good cooks do! I'll bet they'll tell you they consider baking powder one of the most important ingredients contributing towards their baking success. That's why so many of them use CALUMET BAKING POWDER. For Calumet's dependable "double-action" protects your baking from start to finish. With just enough leavening in the mixing bowl ... just enough leavening in the oven. Calumet's perfectly timed and balanced actions go hand in hand giving light, tender and perfectly leavened cakes and biscuits and muffins every time.

Not Only Leaves Are Falling these days ... temperatures are steadily dropping, too! Any day now you'll want a little heat to take the chill off the house. There's nothing quite like that cozy feeling as warmth starts circulating on a bleak Fall day! So don't be caught in a last-minute rush to the fuel dealer ... get in your order now! If you haven't the cash in hand but can repay a loan in easy monthly instalments, have a word with your friendly BANK OF MONTREAL Manager. You can make sure of your fuel supply today — with a B of M Fuel Loan!

It's The Perfect Dessert For Thanksgiving Dinner! ... and so quick and easy to prepare no matter how many guests and family you have for dinner! That's why I'm going to serve SHIRIFF'S FRUIT PUDDING this Thanksgiving! It's a pudding lavishly with 18 ingredients, carefully cooked for hours and spiced to perfection in Shirriff's spotless kitchens! Shirriff's Fruit Pudding is "old-fashioned" in deep-down richness of flavour ... but wonderfully "new-fangled" to serve! Simply steam it in the tin and serve piping hot ... for the "star" of your Thanksgiving meal!

Here's My Favourite Recipe for using up sour milk ... Orange Raisin Muffins ... M-m-m-m! Delicious ... extra-good because the recipe calls for FIVE ROSES FLOUR, that famous flour "for all-purpose baking!"

3 cups sifted Five Roses Flour
3/4 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup raisins

1 egg
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup grated orange rind
2/3 cup sour milk

Sift together flour, baking soda, salt and sugar; then add the raisins. Combine the well beaten egg, orange juice, rind, sour milk and melted shortening. Turn wet ingredients into the dry ingredients. Mix only until ingredients are dampened. Fill greased muffin tins 2/3 full. Bake in hot oven 425 deg. F. for 30 minutes. Makes 12 muffins.

And, for expert answers to your baking questions, write to Pauline Harvey, Director, The Five Roses Kitchen, P.O. Box 6400, Montreal, P.Q.

I'm Always Amazed at how bright 'n' shining dishes are — even without my drying them! — when I wash them in VEL! They fairly sparkle like stars! Yes, "Vel" makes dishwashing twice as quick ... cuts the grease (even in hard water!) in a twinkling. "Vel" is marvelous too, for light laundry. Just let clothes soak in lukewarm water and "Vel" — and see how easy it is to get them clean without rubbing 'n' scrubbing! Particularly stubborn dirt around the edges of your collars and cuffs come out without a struggle when you do this: — Sprinkle a little dry "Vel" on the wet garment, then rub the soiled spot gently, just as you would bar soap. Then, you'll find, "it all comes out in the wash." Do the same when washing babies' clothes with Vel too.

The Newest News About Your Favourite Hand Lotion is this ... it's perfect for baby, too! Yes, JERGENS LOTION does a truly superior job of protecting baby's tender skin from rashes and skin irritation! Test after test, proved this amazing fact — that Jergens Lotion is 6 times better for baby-skin than usual hospital skin-care. So smooth and soothing — so "just right" for baby's skin! You see, Jergens Lotion is sterile, and simply does not support the growth of infecting germs! And so delightful to use! — After bathing baby — at diapering — smooth on Jergens Lotion all over!

Here Are Bright New Ideas For Thanksgiving Entertaining! — the food you serve — fruit cocktails to salads, cookies and candies — can be made twice as appetizing with the "magic" of SHIRIFF'S FLAVOURING EXTRACTS AND FOOD COLOURS! A favourite trick of mine is this — I "dress up" a basic recipe for plain white or golden cake by making layers of "harmonizing" colours ... or combining coloured batter with chocolate or spice to make a marbled effect. There are five pure Shirriff's Food Colours to work my "colour magic" with! Then, to the icing of the cake I add one of the delicious Shirriff's food flavours ... Peppermint is delicious in chocolate icing! — Or try Rum, Lemon, Orange or True Vanilla — and commencing food colour in a butter cream icing for real flavour excitement!

When You LOOK Well, You FEEL Well ... and there's nothing better for you ... a "beauty morale" than a glowing complexion. Most effective way I know to achieve a "beauty morale" is daily "Woodbury Facial Cocktail!" Regular use of WOODBURY FACIAL SOAP is truly a boon and blessing to tired complexions! You'll never have a "skin-burn" with this kitten-mild soap, nor will it leave you with the taut dry feeling of a skin robbed of its softening oils! You see, Woodbury Soap contains a skin-smoothing, complexion-soothing ingredient of fine face creams. No wonder results are so satisfying when you do this every day! Work up a "beauty morale" with Woodbury lather. Massage thoroughly over face to cleanse and soften. Follow with two rinses — a warm and a cold. Pat dry.

Shining, Lustrous Hair can be yours so easily! ... and as a "special offer" price! For here's a golden opportunity for you to get a 30c-bottle of KREML SHAMPOO ... for just 10c! Yes, Kreml Shampoo leaves even lifeless-looking locks radiant with natural sheen ... for it has a natural oil base ... and in addition, contains the "magic" ingredient, "Folisan" ... it cleanses your hair gently, yet thoroughly, and rinses away quickly! Since seeing is believing — why not take this opportunity to try Kreml Shampoo now? ... Simply write to me — Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q. — enclosing 10c ... and I'll send your 30c-bottle of Kreml Shampoo right away!

Happy Marriages are made of — not moonlight and roses — but the important, little, everyday things that are done and said. That's what a happy wife tells me. And she believes that every wife should pay a great deal of attention to feminine hygiene. Her favourite method — because she says "it's so dainty and effective!" — is ZONITORS. Zonitors are graceful, stainless, snow-white vaginal suppositories — powerfully germicidal, yet absolutely safe to delicate tissues! So why not take this tip from a successful wife? ... ask your druggist for Zonitors tomorrow — and write to me — Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q. — for your free copy of this helpful booklet giving frank facts on feminine hygiene. I'll send it to you in a plain wrapper.

TULIP TALK

By SORENSON

Tulip planting time is here again . . . once again it is time to think of your springtime garden . . . and how to plant this fall for the best results with your tulips. Tulips should be planted before frost hardens the ground . . . planting time usually extends to the middle of November, but in warmer climates planting should be delayed until Thanksgiving or even later. Tulips like a place in the sun in a rich, loamy well-drained soil . . . some prepared compost should be dug in deeply . . . manure should never be in contact with the bulbs . . . Best method of planting is to take out the top five inches of soil and set it aside . . . dig compost into the area below to a depth of six to eight inches . . . level surface with a rake after sprinkling bone meal or superphosphate . . . set bulbs on this surface from five to six inches apart and cover with top soil that was originally removed . . . In many regions tulips need no further protection during winter . . . but if a mulch is considered necessary it should be withheld until the surface soil is frozen solid . . . for more complete planting information . . . or special assistance on planting problems . . . Come in to Sorensen . . . we are always glad to help out.

Bernice Longmuir Weds Donald Menzies

HAVELOCK, Oct. 6.—(ENS)—Dahlias and gladioli formed a beautiful setting in St. John's Anglican Church Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Bernice Kathleen Longmuir, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Longmuir of Havelock and Donald George Menzies, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Menzies of Belmont Twp. The Rev. P. A. Rickard performed the ceremony and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Donald Kirk.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was in a gown of white slipper satin, styled with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves with points over the hands, fitted bodice and a full skirt. Her head-dress of matching material held her finger-tip length veil of embroidered silk net. She carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses.

Mrs. Douglas McLean of Havelock was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of pink taffeta with peplum, boat neckline, and cap sleeves, a matching headpiece and mittens. She carried yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Mary Ethel Longmuir, sister of the bride was junior bridesmaid in a bouffant blue taffeta gown and matching headpiece. She carried mauve chrysanthemums.

Mr. Douglas McLean was the groomsmen. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of bride's parents where Mrs. Longmuir received wearing a navy crepe, a wine hat and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore steel blue crepe and corsage of pink carnations.

The wedding was later on a motor trip, the bride travelling in a gown of navy silk with matching accessories, grey coat and corsage of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Menzies will reside in Havelock.

The bride is the third generation of her family to be married in St. John's Church. Her mother, formerly Kathleen Smith, was married there in 1926 and her grandmother, Mrs. George Smith, formerly Jane Anderson pledged her marriage vows in 1891.

Paris Creation Highlights Kinette Fashion Review

By MARGARET LANCASTER

The Kinettes have done it again! Their smoothly executed review of fall fashions, presented Wednesday evening in Club Aragon before a crowd of 900, was actually a painless lesson in ultra smart dressing, illustrated with fewer costumes than usual which gave more time for attention to detail.

Colored autumn leaves hanging from their branches above the stage were highlighted with slowly changing lights. A picture-frame entrance where models were silhouetted presented a new background interest for each group of costumes—a wagon wheel for sportswear, rustics rail fence for town and country, silver wreath and holly for the festive season and gay balloons typified the ball room. Special lighting along the raised runway enabled everyone to see splendidly, though reserved seat holders had some advantage.

The clothes were exciting! They had an entirely new and different look and represented the ultimate in Canadian design. There was much suggestion of Persian craftsmanship, and the season's innovations by famous designers that have been making headlines had been expertly copied. And, comparing more than favourably with the other gowns was a delicious confection of shimmering silk net and silver shot taffeta designed by Adeline Levine, of Peterborough. This romantic dress featured a tucked bodice, strapless, and puffed to one shoulder with another puff at the opposite hip, and the voluminous skirt in pastels was fashioned over hopped taffeta.

Complimentary hats and head-dresses looked as though they were made for the costume, and indeed many of them were—the creator Miss Olga Haskill, of Peterborough. Small, close-fitting hats predominated, with the important side—pulled look. Feather trim was elegant and lavish. The Quaker bonnet is new, and very becoming in velvet.

Enchanting Names

Dress collections go under enchanting new names this year. The dinner dress seems to have been forgotten and we have "Two-light dresses" in crisp, rich, rustling fabrics, soft velvets and smooth satins. The "Tea Hour dress" replaces the cocktail dress of last year and is equally worldly, and adventurous, and for the late evening hours we have the dreamy, hypnotic "Starlight dress."

The showing included the casual clothes in which most of our citizens live. A luxurious town ensemble of high fashion gabardine suit in this season's Maple Leaf wine featured the long lounge lapel, belted back with inverted pleat for fullness over a slim skirt, and the matching loose coat was of fine broadcloth with lavish Arctic fox collar. Autumn green accessories complimented this fall costume. The "winter suit" is extremely practical when it consists of a three-quarter coat over a straight skirt, because the coat can be used with other things. The one shown was in smart black with gathered fullness, belted in, and the wide lapels were luxuriously furled with wild mink.

An unusual untrimmed coat adapted the "bulk" silhouette and had loose wing sleeves, cuffed, body fullness set in from a yoke and caught in with a leather belt. A coat to augment the wardrobe offering the belted or loose type in one garment, was shown in grape wool with a specially designed hat of the same material, trimmed with grey persian lamb, and a barrel muff of the same fur that was not only smart but would make someone's hands very warm on wintry days. Huge silver earrings and pin worn with this were most attractive.

Two tone grey wool expressed the Paris flying panels sweeping gracefully to either side of a superbly tailored dress that was with a black satin tie, soft leather belt and touches of Paddy green in the accessories. The front floating panel was seen in a Venetian red wool dress, worn with plumed red feather hat, gold costume jewellery and rich mink furs.

Original Designs

Original designs in ski suits, combining wool and nylon very nicely were featured in part one of the show. Slacks were well cut to do things for the figure and the jackets had zippered closings and pockets and hoods for warmth. The "after ski coat," was new, made of Windak gabardine and lined with white wool pile; it is not so heavy as the station-wagon coat. A very handy item for saving the fur coat when on shopping sprees or at the hockey game, too. Several Hudson's Bay Point Blanket coats were shown with slacks and skirts and full-fashioned sweaters. Only one dressing gown shown was of Scotch plaid wool, using the Dolman sleeve to advantage and the skirt flared back and front with plenty of lap-over. Fur fashion significance is in the length this year—three-quarters ranging from 34 to 40 inches.

Beavis-Stranham

An early fall wedding took place Saturday at the Presbyterian Manse, Hastings, when the Rev. J. M. Ritchie united in marriage Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stranham, of Orillia, and Frank, son of Mrs. Francis Beavis, Hastings. The bride wore a pale blue eyelet nylon dress with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. She was attended by Miss Loretta Phillips, of Orillia, dressed in rose moire with black accessories and a corsage of cream roses. The groom was attended by his twin brother, Mr. Ford Beavis.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. J. McMillan, Albert St., who received the guests dressed in pink and white and black accessories, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Francis Beavis, in navy with matching accessories. The rooms were beautifully decorated in pink and white and baskets of flowers. The table was centred with the wedding cake and candles. Mrs. Alf Phillips, sister-in-law of the bride, poured tea. Assisting to serve was Mrs. Innes Phillips.

The couple left for a honeymoon at Niagara Falls, and on return they will reside in Peterborough.

He traced its development through the ages, mentioning some of the great names in medicine, first Hippocrates and later Pasteur, Jenner, Lister and others. Referring to the wonder drugs of the present such as sulfa, penicillin and cortisone, which all have helped to raise the life expectancy, he stated that accidents, cancer and the "stress" diseases are now the greatest killers. Health means both a sound body and a sound mind and the work of the psychiatrist is often needed in helping to make adjustments necessary to mental well-being. He also spoke of the new trends in the medical profession, away from the family physician and towards the specialist and socialized medicine, evaluating the advantages and disadvantages of each system. A discussion of medical ethics and reference to cancer and the general fear engendered by it, brought his address to a close with the words of Madame Curie "Nothing is to be feared, only understood."

Presentation of an appropriate film "Children Growing Up with Other People" was shown following with Mr. E. E. Ingall operating the projector. Miss L. Esplen introduced Dr. Magee to the audience and Mrs. L. Horning expressed their appreciation.

DOROTHY DIX

Novel Triangle Involves Three Prosperous Women

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We are three young matrons blessed with a child apiece, beautiful homes, good looks, cars of our own and generous allowances. But we are each in love with the other's husband. We have all been friends all our lives and hate to break up each other's home and though we are willing to part with our husbands we hate to hurt our children. Please advise us concerning our problem.

THREE UNHAPPY MOTHERS.

ANSWER: I should say that what's the matter with you three spoiled women is too much prosperity. What you need is a good, drastic dose of hard times and it is a pity you missed getting yours. If you had to go into a kitchen and cook and scrub and nurse your own babies and walk twenty blocks to save two cents a pound on meat, you would have something to think about besides the temperature of your affections and you would be happier women.

The old proverb about the devil finding work for idle hands to do finds its truest illustration in women. Work a woman half to death and she is happy and contented and satisfied with her husband and all is well. Give her plenty of money and nothing to do and she begins to vivisect her emotions and count her heart throbs and pull her husband to pieces to see if he really is the Fairy Prince she thought he was and she soon discovers that her idol has feet of clay.

Use Heads
So use your heads, girls. Try to realize that it is idleness and not love that ails you. Give the old bean a chance, and let it sprout a few home truths, among which will be the fact that you really have no fault to find with your husbands. They are kind, good and generous to you and the only reason you are dissatisfied with them is because the shine and glitter has worn off of your romance and you want a new one with fresh paint on it.

You know your husbands. You know their faults and peculiarities and little ways and some of them get on your nerves. And your friend's husband seems alluring to you and preferable to your own simply because you have never lived with him and don't know his little peculiarities and ways.

But if you swapped husbands you would find that you had merely exchanged one set of faults for another and that one man is as hard to live with as another and that you can get tired of one man as easily as you can of another and in the end you would not have bettered your condition at all.

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you honestly think a daughter should be judged by her mother? I'd hate to be judged by mine. We do not lead the same kind of lives. If there ever was a henpecked husband, my father is one. I could not treat a man that way. My mother and my sisters are very gay. Every night they have parties for which they could be put out of a decent neighborhood and which always winds up in an argument or fight. I never go to any of them. I live with my grandmother, and most people who know me say I am just like her and not like my mother. I have a secret dread that I may be judged by my mother. Is this fair?

A DAUGHTER.

ANSWER: Of course, it isn't fair, but it is the penalty you must pay for being your mother's daughter. A girl is the result not only of her heredity but also of her environment, and nine times out of ten she is absolutely what her mother has made her. It is her mother who forms her plastic character and fixes her pattern of life.

But it is also true that often a girl is so revolted at the way her mother does that she goes to the opposite extreme, as in your case. Because her mother was a virago she controls her own temper; because her mother ruined her father with her extravagance, she becomes a saver because her mother was loose living, it turned her into prude.

For sometimes our mothers are an example to us and sometimes an awful warning.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am in love with a married man with one child. What shall I do? LOUISE.

ANSWER: Do as you would want some other woman to do if she loved your husband. You would want her to let him alone. You would want her to refuse to see him or to think about him or to have anything to do with him. Try that.

311 McDonnell St. Declared Public; Four Convicted

A drunken party Tuesday evening at 311 McDonnell St. which was broken up by a police raid, was described in city police court today when Mrs. Annie Young, occupier of the house, was found guilty of permitting drunkenness and three others were convicted of being there and allowing drunkenness. Four others, who were also in the house at the time of the raid, were acquitted.
They all pleaded not guilty.

At the request of Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, Magistrate W. R. Philip, K.C., declared the premises "a public house." The declaration allows the police the same freedom of action as they have in public places.

Mrs. Young was fined $20 with $2.50 costs or 20 days jail and fines of $15 with $2.50 costs or 15 days were imposed on Bertha Hanson, Toronto; Roland Pike,
311 McDonnell St. and William
Marshall, 10 Saul St., Lindsay.

Detective Bud Clarke and Sgt.
Leo Murphy, testifying for the Crown, said they had observed the house from the outside before making the raid, because complaints had been received at the police station.

"We heard a row going on inside and a bottle was broken," the sergeant said. "Then we saw Mrs. Young and Mr. Pike come out onto the verandah. They were cursing and a suit case was thrown from the verandah onto the street."

When the detective and sergeant went into the house they found Mary Lindsay, Mrs. Young, Bertha Hanson, Roland Pike, Angus Lindsay, William Marshall, James Lindsay and Gerald Lindsay.

Sgt. Murphy said Mrs. Lindsay was lying on the chertierfield in a drunken condition. "Are you sure she was not lying down because she was sick?" Mrs. Young asked.
"Yes, she was drunk," the sergeant replied.

"Mrs. Lindsay does not drink wine," Mrs. Young claimed.

When Mrs. Young was in the witness box Mr. Bradshaw suggested "Mrs. Lindsay does not drink wine, but I suppose she had the micky." "No," Mrs. Young said, "she had not been drinking."

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Lindsay were both acquitted after the crown attorney said they probably did have lawful excuse for being in the house, as they rented a room there from Mrs. Young.

Bertha Hanson claimed that she was sick and not drunk but Sgt.
Murphy said she was "definitely drunk."

Neither James Lindsay nor 19-year-old Gerald Lindsay were drunk, the sergeant said. After James Lindsay said he had gone to the house to meet his son Phil, the crown attorney said that the evidence showed that he had lawful excuse for being there and he was acquitted by the magistrate.

No evidence was offered against Gerald Lindsay.

When Roland Pike was called by the magistrate he asked for a week's adjournment. He said he had started a new job and wanted to get to it. The adjournment was not granted and he was convicted.

When William Marshall refuted the sergeant's claim that he had been drunk, Magistrate Philip explained that he was not charged with being drunk but with being found in the house and permitting drunkenness to take place while there. He was convicted.

At British Conference

Mrs. C. W. McGee of Rubidge Street has received a pamphlet published by the International Union for Land Value Taxation and Free Trade of Great Britain which prints a lecture given by her sister Margaret E. Bateman in Derbyshire, England. Miss Bateman, a native of Sterling, is in England this year studying economic conditions.

Her lecture, entitled "The Need for Co-ordination and Dissemination of Information on a World Scale" was given in late August to the seventh international conference to promote land-value taxation and free trade, in Swanwick, Derbyshire. It deals with some of the theories of Henry George, American political economist (1839-1897) whose fundamental doctrine was that all men had equal right to the use of the earth. He did not originate the doctrine but devised a clear statement of a method by which it could be enforced without increasing governmental machinery. He named it the "Single Tax."

Reintroduce Rationing
CANBERRA, Oct. 6 (Reuters)
—Gasoline rationing will be re-introduced in Australia Nov. 15 of next month, Prime Minister Chifley announced today. The ration scale will be about the same as that in effect before June 6, when Australia's high court declared the commonwealth government's rationing law invalid. The earlier ration scale provided for 180 miles of pleasure driving a month.

Adaptations of the wing collar are seen and there is accent on the open at the wrist type sleeve.
The "little furs," capes, jackets, and stoles, are more popular than in years. Clever styling and gadgets ensure their proper placing.
The casual elegance of expensive mink contrasted with the youthful look of grey Chinese kid worn by the junior model. Reliable Hudson seal and blended muskrat were shown in styles for real warmth and wear. The group included one coat dubbed an "oddi-ty" but it was really lovely in grey persian paw, intricately cut and designed on graceful lines.
The model wore a red velvet teen tam that was very smart with her short coiffure.

Incidentally, important news on hair styling was received by the stylist from New York, just Wednesday morning. Hair lines for 1956 are to be shorter and closer, boyishly feminine, with light bangs and a general "up" feeling.

Brilliant Accessories
Rhinestones were most often chosen to flatter the costumes in this show, ear rings, necklaces, pins and bracelets. Many strands of pearls fitted in necklines hansomerly and gold costume pieces made flashing complements. Bags and gloves matched and contrasted according to choice.

Part four of the show came after intermission and was given over entirely to an outstanding collection of dresses and gowns in three distinct groups. Many of the tea hour dresses showed French inspiration in the face-framing stand-up collars, in the yards and yards in the skirts, and tremendous pockets, sweeping almost to the hemline. Fascinating materials and colors such as royal blue brocade taffeta, jacquard taffeta, and toast taffeta with rich cinnamon velvet forming the winged double collar and cuffs. Beaded fagotting complimented the cowl neckline of a sophisticated slim green crepe, and a simple black crepe had all-over jet beading, diagonally applied. Copper toned satin back taffeta combined with shot black satin in the full skirt surprisingly showed a skirt lining of the rich copper of the bodice.

Glamorous twilight hour creations showed honey gold Chan-trelle lace over beige slipper satin with a tiered skirt, and black lace over emerald green taffeta. The Paris bulk silhouette was reproduced here in hyacinth blue taffeta, tightly belted in at the waist the plunging neckline framed by a winged collar, and the model wore a white feather hat, white gloves and rhinestone jewelry.

Striking Model
Most striking number in this collection was swirling brown and pink ribbon taffeta, skillfully designed with a full sweeping skirt, intricately tucked and gathered to the front waist line and worn with a wide pink kid girdle. Copper shot ribbon taffeta in gathered fullness formed the skirt to a jacket dress, the jacket being of black chiffon velvet, buttoned with jet, and worn with black velvet Quaker bonnet, showing copper in the feather trim.

Highlight of the starlight hour collection, was an original creation by Jacques Fath. New and different in every line, of black silk bengaline, featuring a moulded bodice and petal top, without straps, it was the style that clings to the knees, then sweeps to a flounced hem, caught up five inches shorter in the front. White applied flowers of bugle beading, outlined with rhinestones, surrounded the flounce. Matching mittens with petal points came almost to the shoulder.

Commentator Mrs. Maurice Holt who called attention to every important detail throughout the show was wearing a handsome twilight hour gown that dramatically entered the starlight hour when she removed the jacket. It was of bronze brocade taffeta, an advance Paris fashion with sloping hemline in the wrap around skirt with symmetric folds.

The unusual bolero had the puffed picture neckline and cuffed sleeves.

Mannequins For Evening
Mannequins for the showing were Misses Melva Lee Doozee,
Ann Lewis, Audrey Oliver, Mrs.
D. A. Wilson, Mrs. J. V. Elliott,
Miss Dorothy Rose, and professional models from Toronto.

Mrs. Wm. Godson was the model for a make-up demonstration during intermission.

Mrs. Thomas Williams, president of Kinettes, opened the show with a welcome to the guests and also conducted the draws made by Mrs. J. K. Hughes. Prize winners were Miss Margaret Irwin,
Miss Evelyn McGinnis, Mrs. Wm.
Simpson and

Bread Truck Pins Man Against Wall

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP)—A. E. Neloci, 36, of Toronto, was severely injured Wednesday when he was pinned by the head against a factory wall in suburban Leaside by a bread truck which swerved off the street to avoid a collision. Several other pedestrians scattered from the path of the truck and escaped injury although one unidentified man was knocked to the ground, police said. Police said Neloci and other passengers were walking across a boulevard after alighting from a bus when the accident occurred. A bread truck, said by police to have been driven by George Carthey of Leaside swung in front of the bus, jumped the boulevard and caught Neloci.

Operating Costs Absorb Increase

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP)—Bigger operating costs—including wage boosts—absorbed all the revenue the railways obtained from the 21 per cent freight rate increase granted last year, a Bureau of Statistics report shows.

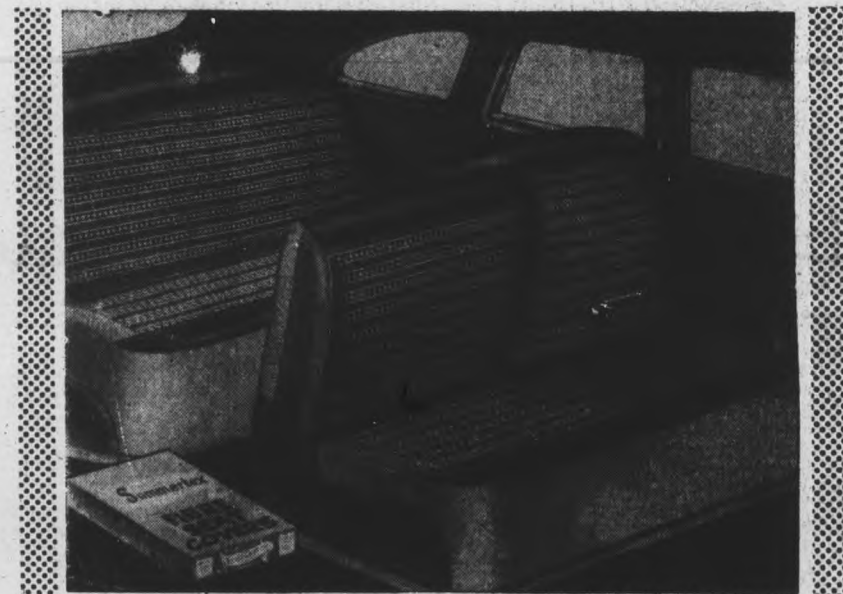

The rate increase, allowed on March 30, 1948, boosted gross operating revenues to a peak of $875,832,290, an increase of $90,654,370 or 11.5 per cent over 1947. But expenses—17 per cent or $117,305,408 higher—climbed from $690,821,047 in 1947 to a record of $808,126,455 in 1948.

As a result, net revenues in 1948 totalled $67,705,835—down $26,651,038 from the net revenues earned the previous year.

Since that time, however, the railways have applied for a new 20 per cent freight rate increase. An interim eight per cent increase was granted a few weeks ago, pending completion of Board of Transport Commissioners studies on the full 20 per cent application.

Rundown Man Surprised With Syntona Results

Got Bad Headaches, Dizzy Spells, Unable to Sleep Well. Rheumatic Pain Set In Back, Limbs and Muscles, Stomach Out of Order. Tells How Syntona Helped Him.

"Because of the grand results I got by taking Syntona I am glad to recommend this medicine to other sufferers," said Mr. Robert C. Pownall, 568 Colborne Street, London, Ontario, in a recent report.

"For a number of years I was troubled with stomach disorders. Had gas, indigestion and heartburn very bad after my meals. My entire system became rundown. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells. More recently rheumatic pains set in my limbs and muscles and I began to suffer very badly with backache. I was nervous, couldn't sleep well at night and felt completely fatigued and worn out in the mornings.

"After trying everything I knew of I went to the drug store and there they recommended that I try Syntona. I must admit I wasn't very hopeful, but soon after I began taking it I noticed that my food digested better. As I continued the gas, indigestion and heartburn cleared up and I could enjoy all my meals.

"Although that is only a few weeks ago I have since then improved so much that the aches and pains are gone away. I am free of headaches and I certainly feel fine."

Why not let this pure herbal medicine help you too? It is inexpensive, easy to use and contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Ellett's Drug Store.—(Adv.)
